

UNIVERSITY OF AMSTERDAM

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

Style and structure of the Historia Augusta

Burgersdijk, D.W.P.

Publication date
2010

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Burgersdijk, D. W. P. (2010). Style and structure of the Historia Augusta. Eigen Beheer.

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

Acknowledgement

Before presenting my findings on the Historia Augusta, I should like to express my gratitude to some people and institutions without whose aid this study would never have come to fruition. The Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) donated a triple grant for stays in the hospitable and studious atmosphere of the Fondation Hardt in Vandoeuvres, Switzerland, in the summer months of 2004, 2005 and 2006. NWO also made it possible for me to pay full attention to my research in the academic year of 2008-09. In the past two years I have profited from a visiting scholarship at the University of Amsterdam (UvA). I thank the staff of the Royal Netherlands Institute in Rome (KNIR) for a hospitable stay in January and February 2009 during the final stages of work on this study. During these years I was given full support by colleagues and staff of the Hilversum Gemeentelijk Gymnasium.

Parts of this study were produced as papers at conferences: the paragraphs on Nepos (partly integrated into Chapters 3 and 4) at the Bamberg conference on the Historia Augusta (2005), the final part of Chapter 6 on documents in Macrinus' and Diadumenian's biographies at the Katwijk Conference of Greek and Latin linguistics (2007), chapter 7 on Hadrian's Animula at the Amsterdam Hobby Club of Latinists (2008) and the relationships with Pliny the Younger (§ 5.5.2) at the Conference on Pliny in Late Antiquity at the University of St Andrews (2009). I thank the participants for their useful comments and suggestions.

This study could not have been completed without the invaluable help of my senior colleague dr. Wim Lindeboom, who corrected the text intensively, going far beyond my moderate request to have a look at my English. Secondly, I wish to thank Alexander van Trigt, who helped me unwearyingly with technical problems and encouraged me to continue work in hard times. My father Peter Burgersdijk edited an electronic version of the HA, thereby providing precious groundwork for narratological analysis. With Johan Weststeijn I discussed narratological aspects of this study, especially those figuring in the introduction. Professor Daan den Hengst led me to the path of late antiquity and guided me through the unfathomable corridors of the labyrinth known as the Historia Augusta. His approach to classical texts will remain a guideline in my further studies. Other friends and colleagues know that I am grateful for discussions about details of this study and support during my research, not least among them the members of the board of the Zenobia Foundation, Willemijn Waal and Floris van den Eijnde in particular. The sole responsibility for any mistakes remains, of course, mine.

This study is dedicated, for reasons that I cannot explain in a nutshell, to my parents and to my wife Astrid – quia vos cupidos veterum imperatorum perspexi.

Amsterdam, January 2010