

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

A postcolonial museum?

Legacies of colonial histories in museum exhibitions in Europe, Africa, North America, and the Caribbean

van Slooten, S.

Publication date
2023

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

van Slooten, S. (2023). A postcolonial museum? Legacies of colonial histories in museum exhibitions in Europe, Africa, North America, and the Caribbean. [Thesis, externally prepared, Universiteit van Amsterdam].

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

- ABUNGU, G.O. (2018). Connected by History, Divided by Reality. Eliminating Suspicion and Promoting Cooperation between African and European Museums. In Laely, T., Meyer, M. and Schwere, R. (eds.) Museum Cooperation Between Africa and Europe. A New Field for Museum Studies. Germany: Transcript Verlag.
- ALDERMAN, D. H. (2010). Surrogating and the Politics of Remembering Slavery in Savannah, Georgia (USA). Journal of Historical Geography, 36, 90-101.
- ALLEN, R.B. (2015). European Slave Trading in the Indian Ocean, 1500-1850. Ohio, USA: Ohio University Press.
- ARCHEOLOGISCH MUSEUM HAARLEM. (n.d.). Retrieved from <http://www.archeologischmuseumhaarlem.nl/museum.html>.
- AMSTERDAM MUSEUM. (September 2019). Amsterdam Museum Gebruikt Term 'Gouden Eeuw' Niet Meer. Retrieved from https://www.amsterdammuseum.nl/nieuws/gouden\_eeuw.
- ANDERMANN, J., AND ARNOLD-DE SIMINE, S. (2012). Introduction. Memory, Community and the New Museum. Theory, Culture and Society, 29(1), 3-13.
- ANDERSON, B. (1991; 2016). Imagined Communities. Reflections on the Origin and Spread of Nationalism. London: Verso/ New Left Books.
- ANDERSSON, T.D. (2007). The Tourist in the Experience Economy. Scandinavian Journal of Hospitality And Tourism, 7(1), 46-58.
- ANTÓN, C., CAMARERO, C. & GARRIDO, M.J. (2018). Exploring the Experience Value of Museum Visitors as a Co-Creation Process. Current Issues in Tourism, 21(12), 1406-1425.
- ARAUJO, A.L. (2010). Welcome to the Diaspora: Slave Trade Heritage Tourism and the Public Memory of Slavery. Ethnologies, 32(2), 145-178.
- ARCHANGEL, S. (2021). Joã. Tussen Twee Vuren in Nederlands Brazilië. In: Archangel, S., Fata-Black, K., Gosselink, M., Holtrop, M., Lambrechts, L.,

- Sint Nicolaas, E. and Smeulders, V. (Eds.) Slavernij. Amsterdam, Nederland: Atlas Contact.
- ARNOLD-DE SIMINE, S. (2012). Memory Museum and Museum Text. Intermediality in Daniel Lineskind's Jewish Museum and W. G. Sebald's Austerlitz. Theory, Culture & Society, 29(1), 14-35.
- ARTIZI, B. (2017). Self-Representation and the (Im)Possibility of Remembering in Jamaica Kincaid's The Autobiography of My Mother and Mr. Potter. In Onega, S., Del Río, C. and Escudero-Álias, M. (Ed.), Traumatic Memory and the Ethical, Political and Transhistorical Functions of Literature, Palgrave Studies in Cultural Heritage and Conflict, DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-55278-1_1.
- ARONSSON, P. (2013). EUNAMUS. European National Museums: Identity Politics, the Uses of the Past and the European Citizen. EUNAMUS Open Access Report.
- ASHCROFT, B., GRIFFITHS, G. AND TIFFIN, H. (1989). The Empire Writes Back. Theory and Practice in Post-Colonial Literature. UK: Routledge.
- ASHCROFT, B., GRIFFITHS, G. AND TIFFIN, H. (2007). Post-Colonial Studies. The Key Concepts Second Edition. Oxfordshire, UK: Taylor & Francis Group.
- ASHWORTH, G., GRAHAM, B. AND TURNBRIDGE, J.E. (2007). Pluralising Pasts. Heritage, Identity and Place in Multicultural Societies. London: Pluto Press.
- ASSMANN, A. (2008). Canon and Archive. In Erll, A. & Nünning, A. (Ed.), Cultural Memory Studies. An Interdisciplinary Handbook. Berlin, Germany: Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co.
- ASSMANN, A. (2010). Re-Framing Memory. Between Individual and Collective Forms of Constructing the Past. In Tilmans, K., Van Vree, F. and Winter, J. (Ed.), Performing the Past. Memory, History, and Identity in Modern Europe. Amsterdam, The Netherlands: Amsterdam University Press.
- ASSMANN, J. (2008). Communicative and Cultural Memory. In Erll, A. & Nünning, A. (Ed.), Cultural Memory Studies. An Interdisciplinary Handbook. Berlin, Germany: Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co.
- AUTRY, R. (2013). The Political Economy of Memory: the Challenges of Representing National Conflict at 'Identity-Driven' Museums. Theory Society, 42, 57-80.
- BAAY, R. (2015). Daar Werd Wat Gruwelijks Verricht. Slavernij in Nederlands-Indië. Amsterdam: Uitgeverij Athenaeum.
- BAGNALL, G. (2003). Performance and Performativity at Heritage Sites. Museum and Society, 1(2), 87-103.
- BAKSHI, A. (2017). Topographies of Memories. A New Poetics of Commemoration. Cham, Switzerland: Springer International Publishing Ag. for new ideas to connect with contemporary societies. The Museum Journal, 54(1), 85-92.
- BALLANTYNE, R. AND UZZELL, D. (2011). Looking Back and Looking Forward: The Rise of the Visitor Centred Museum. Curator the Museum Journal, 54(1), 85-92.

- BASSIL, N. (2005). The Legacy of Colonial Racism in Africa. Australian Quarterly, 77(4), 27-32.
- BAUMANN, G. (2004). Grammars of Identity/Alterity. A Structural Approach. In Baumann, G. & Gingrich, A. Grammars of Identity/Alterity. A Structural Approach. Oxford, UK: Berghahn Books.
- BBC. (March 2021). Viewpoint: France's President Macron doesn't get the impact of colonialism on Algeria. Retrieved from <https://www.bbc.com/news/world-africa-56360817>.
- BENETT, D. AND DE WILDT, A. (2020) Museale Meerstemmigheid op Curaçao. In Oostindie, G. and Van Stipriaan, A. (eds.). Traveling Caribbean Heritage. (First edition). Forthcoming, September 2020.
- BENNETT, T. (1995). The Birth of the Museum: History, Theory, Politics. London, UK: Routledge.
- BHAMBRA, G.K. & HOLMWOOD, J. (2021). Colonialism and Modern Social Theory. Cambridge, UK: Polity Press.
- BHATIA, S. (2009). Postcolonial Diasporas and Globalization: Reconstructing Culture, Identity and the Practice of Psychology. Paper presented at Implications For Psychology conference, Clark University, Massachusetts, USA. Abstract retrieved from <https://www.clarku.edu/micro/freudcentennial/pdfs/Bhatia.pdf>.
- BLACK, G. (2011). Museums, Memory and History. Cultural and Social History, 8(3), 412-427.
- BOATENG, H., FEEHI OKOE, A. AND HINSON, R.E. (2018). Dark Tourism: Exploring Tourist's Experience at the Cape Coast Castle, Ghana. Tourism Management Perspectives, 27, 104-110.
- BOEIJJE, H. (2010). Analysis in Qualitative Research. New York, USA: Sage Publications Ltd.
- BOTTICI, C. (2013). European Identity and the Politics of Remembrance. In Tilman, K., Van Vree, F. and Winter, J. M. Performing the Past. Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press.
- BOSMA, U. & RABEN, R. (2004). De Oude Indische Wereld, 1500 – 1920. Amsterdam: Uitgeverij Prometheus.
- BOYM, S. (2001). The Future of Nostalgia. New York (USA): Basic Books.
- BRANDON, P., JONES, G., JOUWE, N. AND VAN ROSSUM, M. (2020). De Slavernij in Oost en West: het Amsterdam-Onderzoek. Utrecht: Het Spectrum.
- BRASSEM, E. (February 2021). 'Vijf Experts over de Zin en Onzin van Excuses over de Slavernij'. Retrieved from <https://www.trouw.nl/binnenland/vijf-experts-over-de-zin-en-onzin-vanexcuses-voor-de-slavernij~b2a14fcc/>.
- BROWN, T.P. (2004). Trauma, Museums and the Future of Pedagogy. Third Text, 18(4), 247-259.

- BROWNING-MULLIS, S. (May 2020). Why we Use 'Enslaved.' Retrieved from <https://www.telfair.org/article/why-we-use-enslaved/>
- BURKE, P. (2010). Co-Memorations. Performing the Past. In Tilmans, K., Van Vree, F. and Winter, J. (Ed.), Performing the Past. Memory, History, and Identity in Modern Europe. Amsterdam, The Netherlands: Amsterdam University Press.
- CAIN, A. (2011). Representations of Africa and the Diaspora in European Museums. Human Architecture: Journal of the Sociology of Self-Knowledge, 9(4), 105-115.
- CANDLIN, F. (2012). Independent Museums, Heritage, and the Shape of Museum Studies. Museum And Society, 10(1), 28-41.
- CANON VAN NEDERLAND. (n.d.) De Canon is Vernieuwd. Retrieved from <https://www.canonvannederland.nl/nl/page/141750/de-canon-is-vernieuwd-and-implementing-inclusion-in-museums>. Lanham, USA: Rowman & Littlefield Publishers.
- CARNEIRO, I. AND JOHNSON, M.A. (2015). Ethnic Past and Ethnic Now: The Representation of Memory in Ethnic Museum Websites. Public Relations Inquiry, 4(2), 163-179.
- CARUTH, C. (1996). Unclaimed experience: Trauma, narrative, and history. Johns Hopkins University Press.
- CBI and ETFI. (July 2020). How to get Started Developing Your Tourism Product. Retrieved from <https://www.cbi.eu/market-information/tourism/how-get-started-developing-your-tourism-product>
- CÉSAIRE, A. (1955). Discourse on Colonialism. In Hord, F. & Lee, J. (eds.) I am Because we Are: Readings in Black Philosophy. USA: University of Massachusetts Press.
- CHANG, S. (2018a). Experience Economy in Hospitality and Tourism: Gain and Loss Values for Service And Experience. Tourism Management, 64, 55-63.
- CHANG, S. (2018b). Experience Economy in the Hospitality and Tourism Context. Tourism Management Perspectives, 27, 83-90.
- CHARLES, N. (2004). Ghana's Door of no Return. Space and Culture, 7(2), 142-144.
- CHEN, L. (2017). The Performative Space for City Identity Narrative: A Case Study of Suzhou Museum. Communication and the Public, 2(1), p. 25-66.
- CHIEH-WEN, S. AND MING-CHIA, C. (2012). A Study of Experience Expectations of Museum Visitors. Tourism Management, 33, 53-60.
- CHILDS, P. AND WILLIAMS, P. (1997). An Introduction to Postcolonial Theory. London: Routledge.
- CHOUDARAJU, N. (2014). The Place of Nostalgia in Diaspora Writing: Home and Belonging in the Fiction of Bharati Mukherjee. International Journal of English Studies and Literature, 4(6), 33-40.
- CLIFFORD, J. (1994). Diasporas. Cultural Anthropology, 9(3), 302-338.

- COFFEE, K. (2007). Audience Research and the Museum Experience as Social Practice. Museum Management and Curatorship, 22(4), 377-389.
- COLEMAN, L.E. (2018a). Creating Cultural Inclusion. Partnerships with People. In Coleman, L.E. (ed). Understanding and Implementing Inclusion in Museums. New York: Rowman & Littlefield.
- COLEMAN, L.E. (2018b). Understanding and Implementing Inclusion in Museums. New York: Rowman & Littlefield.
- CONFINO, A. (2008). Memory and the History of Mentalities. In Erll, A. & Nünning, A. (Ed.), Cultural Memory Studies. An Interdisciplinary Handbook. Berlin, Germany: Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co.
- CONTINENZA, R., REDI, F. AND TRIZIO, I. (2017). Heritage Interpretation: A Tool for Conservation, Protection and Management of Environmental and Cultural Heritage. Scientific Research and Information Technology, 7(1), 39-44.
- COOPER, F. (2005). Colonialism in Question. Theory, Knowledge, History. USA: University of California Press.
- CORNESLIUS, B.J. (2019). Postcolonial Nostalgia and Meaning: New Perspectives on Contemporary South African Writings. [Unpublished Doctoral Dissertation]. University of Kwazulu-Natal.
- CRANE, S. (1997). Writing the Individual Back Into Collective Memory. American Historical Review (December 1997), 1372-1385.
- CRANE, S. (2006). The Conundrum of Ephemerality: Time, Memory and Museums. In Macdonald, S. (Ed.) A Companion in Memory Studies. Oxford, UK: Blackwell Publishing Ltd.
- CRISS, D. (June 2019). All but Four us States Celebrate Juneteenth as a Holiday. CNN. Retrieved From <https://edition.cnn.com/2019/06/19/us/juneteenth-state-holidays-trnd/index.html>.
- CROOKE, E. (2017). Memory Politics and Material Culture: Display in the Memorial Museum. Memory Studies, 00(0), 1-13.
- DAL FAICO, F. & VASSOS, S. (2017). Museum Experience Design: A Modern Storytelling Methodology. The Design Journal, 20(1), 3975-3983.
- DASGUPTA, S. (2018). Subaltern Studies. Krisis, 2, 156-158.
- DECOLONIAL SUMMERSCHOOL. (n.d.). Decolonial Summer School Middelburg. Opening new perspectives for understanding global (un) justice. Retrieved from <https://decolonialsummerschool.wordpress.com/>.
- DE JONG, M. (2010). Understanding Visitor's Perception of Attractions. In De Jong, M. (ed). Fundamentals in Services. Digital Edition. Leeuwarden, The Netherlands: Stenden UAS. P. 1-8.
- DE JONG, M. & GRITT, A. (2016). Native American Objects, Tourism and Museums. A De reterritorialized View. In Hovens P. & Van Der Hooft, M. (eds.), Indian Detours. Tourism in Native North America. Leiden, Sidestone Press.

- DE VRIJER VAN DONGEN. (2021). Tropenmuseum. Heden van het Slavernijverleden. Retrieved from <https://www.devrijervandongen.nl/tentoonstelling-sontwerp-heden-van-het-slavernijverleden-tropenmuseum-1>.
- DENZIN, N.K. & LINCOLN, Y.S. (2011). The Discipline and Practice of Qualitative Research. In: Denzin, N.K. & Lincoln, Y.S (Eds.). The Sage Handbook of Qualitative Research. Los Angeles, SAGE Publications Ltd.
- DESAI, D. (2000). Imaging Difference: The Politics of Representation in Multicultural Art Education. Studies in Art Education. A Journal of Issues and Research, 41(2), 114-129.
- DIBBITS, T. (2021). Samen Schrijven we Geschiedenis. In: Archangel, S., Fata-Black, K., Gosselink, M., Holtrop, M., Lambrechts, L., Sint Nicolaas, E. and Smeulders, V. (Eds.) Slavernij. Amsterdam, Nederland: Atlas Contact.
- DIRKS, N.B. (1992). Colonialism and Culture. The Comparative Studies in Society and History Books Series. USA: University of Michigan Press.
- DIXON, C.A. (2012). Decolonising the Museum: Cité Nationale de l'Histoire de l'Immigration. Race & Class, 53(4), 78-86.
- DOANE, A. (2006). What is Racism? Racial Discourse and Racial Politics. Critical Sociology, 32(2-3), 255-274.
- DOMACASSÉ, P. (2010). Naamsverandering Peter Stuyvestant College. Retrieved from <https://antilliaansdagblad.com/nieuws-menu/lezers/2306-naamsverandering-peter-stuyvesant-college>.
- DORFSMAN, M.I. AND HORENCZYK, G. (2018). Educational Approaches and Contexts in the Development of a Heritage Museum. Journal of Experiential Education, 41(2), 170-186.
- DOUGLAS, M. (1966). Purity and Danger: An Analysis of the Concepts of Pollution and Taboo. London: Routledge.
- DOUGLAS, M. (1970). Natural Symbols. Explorations in Cosmology. London: Routledge.
- DUDLEY, S. (2009). Museum Materialities: Objects, Sense and Feeling. Ed. Dudley, S. In Museum Materialities: Objects, Engagements, Interpretations. UK: Routledge, Taylor & Francis Group.
- DUMONT, L. (1980). Homo Hierarchicus: The Caste System and its Implications. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.
- DUSSEL, E.D., KRAUEL, J., & TUMA, V. C. (2000). Europe, Modernity, and Eurocentrism. Nepantla: Views from South 1(3), 465-478. <https://www.muse.jhu.edu/article/23901>.
- ELLEMERS, N., SPEARS, R. AND DOOSJE, B. (2002). Self and Social Identity. Annual Review Psychology, 53, 161 – 168.
- ELTIS, D. (2001). The Volume and Structure of the Transatlantic Slave Trade: A Reassessment. William and Mary Quarterly, 58(1), 17-46.

- ERLL, A. (2008). Cultural Memory Studies: An Introduction. In Erll, A. & Nünning, A. (Ed.), Cultural Memory Studies. An Interdisciplinary Handbook. Berlin, Germany: Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co.
- EVANS-PRITCHARD, E.E. (1937). Witchcraft, Oracles and Magic Among the Azande. Oxford: Clarendon Press.
- EVANS, M. AND WILKINS, D. (2017). Transformative Justice, Reparations and Transatlantic Slavery. Social & Legal Studies 28(2), 137-157.
- EVRRARD, Y. AND KREBS, A. (2018). The authenticity of the museum experience in the digital age: the case of the Louvre. Journal of Cultural Economics, 42(2), 353-363.
- FANON, F. (1986). Black Skin, White Masks. London, UK: Pluto Press
- FATAH-BLACK, K. (2021). Slavernij en Beschaving. Geschiedenis van een Paradox. Amsterdam: \Ambo|Anthos Uitgeverij.
- FATAH-BLACK, K. AND VAN ROSSUM, M. (2015). Beyond Profitability: The Dutch Transatlantic Slave Trade and its Economic Impact. Slavery & Abolition, 36(1), 63-83.
- FALK, J. H. (2016). Identity and the Museum Visitor Experience. New York, USA: Routledge.
- FALK, J.H. & DIERKING, L.D. (2013). The Museum Experience Revisited. New York, USA: Routledge.
- FALOLA, T. AND WARNOCK, A. (eds.) (2007). Encyclopedia of the Middle Passage. Greenwood Milestones in African-American History. Westport, USA: Greenwood Press.
- FELD, L. (2021). Museum Hegemony, Postcolonial Collections and the Scars of the Colonial Process. Academia Letters (4), 1-7.
- FORTUNATI, V. AND LAMBERTI, EL. (2008). Cultural Memory: A European Perspective. In Erll, A. & Nünning, A. (Ed.), Cultural Memory Studies. An Interdisciplinary Handbook. Berlin, Germany: Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co.
- FRANCE24. (February 2017). French presidential hopeful Macron calls colonisation a 'crime against humanity.' Retrieved from <https://www.france24.com/en/20170216-france-presidential-hopeful-macron-describes-colonisation-algeria-crime-against-humanity>.
- FREIBURG, R. (2017). "Fighting Trauma": Silencing the Past in Alan Scott Haft's Harry Haft: Survivor of Auschwitz, Challenger of Rocky Marciano. In Onega, S., Del Río, C. and Escudero-Alías, M. (Ed.), Traumatic Memory and the Ethical, Political and Transhistorical Functions of Literature, Palgrave Studies in Cultural Heritage and Conflict, DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-55278-1_1.
- GAROIAN, C.R. (2001). Performing the Museum. Studies in Art Education, 42(3), 234-248.
- GHANA MUSEUMS & MONUMENTS BOARD. (n.d.) The Cape Coast Castle Museum (1974). Retrieved from <https://www.ghanamuseums.org/cape-coast-museum.php>.

- GIESLING, J. & ONG, C.E. (2016). Warfare Tourism Experiences and National Identity: The Case of Airborne Museum 'Hartenstein' in Oosterbeek, The Netherlands. Tourism Management, 57, 45-55.
- GORDON, C. (1980). Power/Knowledge: Selected Interviews & Other Writings 1972-1977. New York: Pantheon Books.
- GÖTTSCHE, D. (2017). Post-imperialism, postcolonialism and beyond: Towards a periodization of cultural discourse about colonial legacies. Journal of European Studies, 27(2), 111-128.
- GRAHAM, B., ASHWORTH, G.J. AND TUNBRIDGE, J.E. (2000). A Geography of Heritage. Power, Culture & Economy. New York: Oxford University Press.
- GRAVARI-BARBAS, M. (2018). Tourism as a Heritage Producing Machine. Tourism Management Perspectives, 25, 173-176.
- GUILLEN, A.L.Z. (2022). Maroon Socioterritorial Movements. Annals of the American Association of Geographers, 112(4): 1123-1138.
- GUTOROW, J., JARNIEWICZ, J. AND KENNEDY, D. (2010). 'Beyond Trauma.' The Uses of the Past in Twenty First Century Europe. European Journal of English Studies, 14(1), 1-9.
- HADDERS, R. (July 2018). Excuses voor Slavernijverleden: al Twintig Jaar Onderwerp van Discussie. Retrieved from <https://eenvandaag.avrotros.nl/amp/excuses-voor-slavernijverleden-al-twintig-jaar-onderwerp-van-discussie/>.
- HALBWACHS, M. AND COSER, L.A. (1992). On Collective Memory. Chicago, Chicago University Press.
- HALL, C.M. & TUCKER, H. (2004). Tourism and Postcolonialism. Contested Discourses, Identities and Representations. UK: Routledge.
- HALL, S. (1992). The Question of Cultural Identity. In Hall, S., Held, D. and McGrew, T. (Eds.) Modernity and its Futures. Understanding Modern Societies, p. 273-280. Cambridge: Blackwell Publishing Ltd.
- HALL, S. (1994). Cultural identity and Diaspora. In: Williams, P. & Chrisman, L. (Eds.) Colonial Discourse and Post-Colonial Theory: a reader. New York: Columbia University Press.
- HALL, S. (1997). The Work of Representation. In Representation: Cultural Representations and Signifying Practices (pp.15-69). London, UK: Sage Publications Ltd.
- HAMILTON, D., HODGSON, K. AND QUIRK, J. (2012). Introduction: Slavery, Memory and Identity: National representations and Global Legacies. In Hamilton, D., Hodgson, K. and Quirk, J. (Eds.) Slavery, Memory and Identity. NY, USA, Routledge.
- HARACK, K. & IBARROLA-ARMENDARIZ, A. (2017). Trauma, Screen Memories, Safe Spaces and Productive Melancholia in Toni Morrison's Home. In Onega, S., Del Río, C. and Escudero-Alfás, M. (Ed.), Traumatic Memory and the Ethical, Political and Transhistorical Functions of Literature,

- Palgrave Studies in Cultural Heritage and Conflict, DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-55278-1_1.
- HARRISON, R. AND HUGHES, L. (2010). Heritage, Colonialism and Postcolonialism. In Harrison, R. (ed.), Understanding the Politics of Heritage. Manchester: Manchester University Press.
- HEDE, A.M., GARMA, R., JOSIASSEN, A. & THYNE, M. (2013). Perceived Authenticity of the Visitor Experience in Museums. Conceptualization and Initial Empirical Findings. European Journal of Marketing, 48(7), 1395-1412.
- HENNINK, M., HUTTER, I. & BAILEY, A. (2020). Qualitative Research Methods. New York, USA: Sage Publications Ltd.
- HERLE, A. (1997). Museum, Politics and Representation. Journal of Museum Ethnography, (9), 65-78.
- HICKS, D. (2020). The British Museums. The Benin Bronzes, Colonial Violence and Cultural Restitution. United Kingdom: London. Pluto Press.
- HODGKIN, K. & RADSTONE, S. (2003). Introduction: Contested Pasts. In: Hodgkin, K. & Radstone, S. (Eds.) Contested Pasts. The Politics of Memory. London, UK, Routledge.
- HOLTROP, M. (2021). Surapati. In: Archangel, S., Fata-Black, K., Gosselink, M., Holtrop, M., Lambrechts, L., Sint Nicolaas, E. and Smeulders, V. (Eds.) Slavernij. Amsterdam, Nederland: Atlas Contact.
- HOOPER-GREENHILL, E. (2000). Museums and the Interpretation of Visual Culture. London, UK, Routledge.
- HOOPER-GREENHILL, E. (2006). Studying Visitors. In Macdonald, S. (2011). A Companion in Museum Studies. West Sussex, United Kingdom: Blackwell Publishing.
- HORVATH, R. (1972). A Definition of Colonialism. Current Anthropology, 13(1), 45-57.
- HOWARD, P. (2005). Heritage. Management, Interpretation, Identity. London: Continuum.
- HUGHES, L. (1951). Harlem. In Hughes, L. Montage of a Dream Deferred. New York, USA: Holt.
- HUPPERETZ, W. (2022). Museums, Heritage and Digital Curation. Theory and Practice at the Allard Pierson. Leiden: Sidestone Press.
- ICOM. (2020). Museum Definition. Retrieved from <https://icom.museum/en/resources/standards-guidelines/museum-definition/>.
- ICOM. (September 2020). Follow-Up Survey: The Impact of COVID-19 on the Museum Sector. Retrieved from <https://icom.museum/en/news/follow-up-survey-the-impact-of-covid-19-on-the-museum-sector/>.
- INSTITUTE FOR LEARNING INNOVATION. (2021). Retrieved from <https://www.instituteforlearninginnovation.org/person/lynn-dierking-ph-d/>
- INTERNATIONAL SLAVERY MUSEUM. (n.d.). Retrieved from <https://www.slaverymonuments.org/items/show/1155> Ironbridge George Museums. (2019).

- Coalbrookdale Museum of Iron. Retrieved from <https://www.ironbridge.org.uk/explore/coalbrookdale-museum-of-iron/>.
- JANSEN, H. (2010). The Logic of Qualitative Survey Research and its Position in the Field of Social Research Methods. Forum Qualitative Sozialforschung, 11(2), May 2010.
- JANSEN, L.A., ARNETT, J.J. AND MCKENZIE, J. (2011). Globalization and Cultural Identity. In: Schwartz, S.J. et al. (Eds.). Handbook of Identity Theory and Research. Berlin: Springer Science + Business Media.
- JEURGENS, C. (2010). De Herinnering Voorbij. In Balkestein, E., Van Damme, L., Scherer, M., Verbrugge, K., De Visser, D (Eds.) Oorlogsgetroffenen wo2. Terugkeer, Opvang, Nasleep. NIOD.
- JOHNSON, E. (2013) "ENVIE ET SURVIE": The Paradox of Postcolonial Nostalgia in Patrick Chamoisea's Chemin-D'École. Contemporary French and Francophone Studies, 17(4), 396-404.
- JORRITSM, A. (November 2021). Advies: er moet een nationaal slavernijmuseum komen in Amsterdam. Retrieved from <https://www.nrc.nl/nieuws/2021/11/01/advies-er-moet-een-nationaal-slavernijmuseum-komen-in-amsterdam-a4063798>.
- JOSIPOVIC, I. AND VUJEVA, M. (2021). Economic Aspects of Slavery in the Triangular trading in the Early Modern Period. Akademic Bakis, 14(28), 179-197.
- KALBACH, J. (2016). Mapping Experiences: A Complete Guide to Creating Value Through Journeys. Massachusetts, USA: O'Reilly Media, Inc.
- KALLE-DEN OUDSTEN, I. (2020). A Chance for Change? New media and visitor meanings in the transforming museum (unpublished doctoral study). University of Amsterdam, Amsterdam.
- KAMALI, L. (2016). The Cultural Memory of Africa in African-American and Black British Fiction, 1970-2000. New York, USA: Springer Nature.
- KANSTEINER, W. (2002). Finding Meaning in Memory. A Methodological Critique of Collective Memory Studies. History and Theory, 41, 179-197.
- KARJALAINEN, H. (2020). Cultural Identity and its Impact on Today's Multicultural Organisations. Cross Cultural Management, 20(2), 249 – 262.
- KARAYILANOĞLU, G. & ARABACIOĞLU, B.C. (April 2016). The 'New' Museum Comprehension: "Inclusive Museum." International Conference on New Trends in Architecture and Interior Design, Zagreb. Retrieved from https://www.researchgate.net/publication/304248727\_The\_'new'\_museum\_comprehension\_Inclusive\_museum.
- KARK, R. & PERRY, N. (2012). Museums and Multiculturalism in Israel. Themes in Israeli Geography, 79-80, p. 88-99.
- KARP, I. (1991). Culture and Representation. In Karp, I. & Lavine, S. D. Exhibiting Cultures. The Poetics and Politics of Museum Display. Washington, United States: Smithsonian Institution.

- KARP, I. & LAVINE, S.D. (1991). Exhibiting Cultures. The Poetics and Politics of Museum Display. Washington, United States: Smithsonian Institution.
- KETI KOTI AMSTERDAM. (n.d.). Retrieved from <http://ketikotiamsterdam.nl/festival/>.
- KIRCHBERG, V. AND TRÖNDLE, M. (2012). Experiencing Exhibitions: A Review of Studies on Visitor Experiences in Museums. Curator the Museum Journal, 55(2), 435-452.
- KIRMAYER, L.J. (1996). Landscapes of Memory: Trauma, Narrative and Dissociation. In Antze, P. & Lambek, M. (Eds.). Tense Past: Cultural Essays on Memory and Trauma. London, UK, Routledge.
- KIAPWIJK, P. (September 2021). Tweederde is Voorstander van de Komst van een Nationaal Museum of Slavernijverleden. Retrieved from <https://eenvandaag.avrotros.nl/panels/opiniepanel/alle-uitslagen/item/tweederde-is-voorstander-van-de-komst-van-een-nationaal-museum-over-slavernijverleden/>.
- KLINK, R., ZHANG, J.Q. & ATHAIDE, G.A. (2020). Designing a Customer Experience Management Course. Journal of Marketing Education, 42(2), 157-169.
- KONING, E. (2018). Zwarte Piet, een Blackfacepersonage. Een Eeuw aan Blackfacevermaak in Nederland. Tijdschrift voor Geschiedenis, 131(4), 551-575.
- KOTLER, N. G., KOTLER, P AND KOTLER, W.I. (2008). Museum Marketing and Strategy: Designing Missions, Building Audiences, Generating Revenue and Resources. New Jersey, USA: John Wiley & Sons.
- KURA HULANDA. (n.d.). Mission. Retrieved from <http://www.kurahulanda.com/mission>.
- LABADI, S. (2013). The National Museum of Immigration History (Paris, France), Neo Colonialist Representations, Silencing and Re-Appropriation. Journal of Social Archaeology, 13(3), 310-330.
- LACAPRA, D. (1994). Representing the Holocaust: History, Theory, Trauma. New York: Cornell University Press.
- LACAPRA, D. (1998). History and Memory after Auschwitz. New York: Cornell University Press.
- LACAPRA, D. (1999). Trauma, Absence, Loss. Critical Inquiry, 25(4), 696-727.
- LACAPRA, D. (2014). Writing History, Writing Trauma. With a New Preface. Baltimore: John Hopkins University Press.
- LACAPRA, D. (2016). Trauma, History, Memory, Identity: What Remains? History and Theory, 55, 375-400.
- LARSEN, J. AND SVABO, C. (2014). The Tourist Gaze and "Family Treasure Trails" in Museums. Tourist Studies, 14(2), 105-125.
- LATHAM, K.F. (2012). Museum Object as Document. Using Buckland's Information Concepts to Understand Museum Experiences. Journal of Documentation, 68(1), 45-71.

- LECKIE, G.J., GIVEN, L.M. AND BUSCHMAN, J.E. (2010). Critical Theory for Library and Information Science. Exploring the Social from Across Disciplines. California, USA: ABC-CLIO, LLC.
- LEVITT, P. (2015). Artifacts and Allegiances: How Museums Put the Nation and the World on Display. California: University of California Press.
- LIGHT, D. (2017). Progress in Dark Tourism and Thanatourism Research: an Uneasy Relationship with Heritage Tourism. Tourism Management, 61, 275-301.
- LIGHT, B., BAGNALL, G., CRAWFORD, G. AND GOSLING, V. (2018). The Material Role of Digital Media in Connecting With, Within and Beyond the Museum. Convergence: The International Journal of Research Into New Media Technologies, 24(4), 407-423.
- LERAS, C. (2017). National Museums, National Narratives, and Identity Politics. In Hamilton, P. & Gardner, J. B. The Oxford Handbook of Public History. UK: Oxford University Press.
- LOYD, K. (2014). Beyond the Rhetoric of an “Inclusive National Identity”: Understanding The Potential Impact of Scottish Museums on Public Attitudes to issues of identity, citizenship and belonging in an age of migrations. Cultural Trends, 23(3), 148 – 158.
- LOCKEY, T.J. (2009). Maroon Communities in South Carolina, A Documentary Record. South Carolina: University of South Carolina.
- LONGXI, Z. (2018). The Hermeneutic Circle, Textual Integrity, and the Validity of Interpretation. Christianity & Literature, 68(1), 117-130.
- LOOMBA, A. (2015). Colonialism/Postcolonialism. The New Critical Ideom. Oxfordshire, UK: Routledge.
- LORD, B. (2006). Foucault’s museum: difference, representation, and genealogy. Museum and Society, 4(1), 11-14.
- LUEPKEN, A. (2011). Politics of Representation – Normativity in Museum Practice. Journal of Religion in Europe, 4, 157-183.
- MACCANNELL, D. (1999). The Tourist: A New Theory of the Leisure Class. California, University of California Press.
- MACDONALD, S. (2003). Museums, National, Postnational and transcultural identities. Museum and Society, 1(1), 1-16.
- MACDONALD, S. (2006). Expanding Museum Studies: An Introduction. In Macdonald, S. (ed). A Companion to Museum Studies. UK: Blackwell Publishing.
- MACDONALD, S. (2013). Memorylands: Heritage and Identity in Europe Today. New York, USA: Routledge.
- MALEUVRE, D. (2012). Must Museums be Inclusive? Journal of Educational Media, Memory and Society, 4(2), 112-115.

- MARTIN, W. (1972). The Hermeneutic Circle and the Art of Interpretation. Comparative Literature, 24(2), 97-117.
- MAUNIER, C. AND CAMELIS, C. (2013). Toward an Identification of Elements Contributing to Satisfaction with the Tourism Experience. Journal of Vacation Marketing, 19(1), 19-39.
- MCCALL, V AND GRAY, C. (2014). Museums and the 'New Museology': Theory, Practice and Organisational Change. Museum, Management and Curatorship, 29(1), 19-35.
- MCCARTHY, J. AND CIOLFI, L. (2008). Place as Dialogue: Understanding and Supporting the Museum Experience. International Journal of Heritage Studies, 14(3), 247-267.
- MCLEAN, F. (2005). Museums and National Identity. Museum and Society, 3(1), 1-4.
- MCLEOD, J. (2010). Beginning Postcolonialism. United Kingdom: Manchester. Manchester University Press.
- MEERSHOEK, P. (2014). Rutte Raakt Gevoelige Snaar met Opmerking Over Zwarte Piet. Het Parool. Retrieved from <https://www.parool.nl/nieuws/rutte-raakt-gevoelige-snaar-met-opmerking-over-zwarte-piet-bua5962/..>
- MEERSHOEK, P. (March 2020). Ook de Witte Held Krijgt Straks Nog Straten Naar Zich Vernoemd. Het Parool. Retrieved from <https://www.parool.nl/amsterdam/ook-de-witte-held-krijgt-straks-nog-straten-naar-zich-vernoemd-bf8daf88/>.
- MELA. (March 2015). MeLa European Museums in an Age of Migration. Final Brochure. MeLa Research Field 06 – Envisioning 21st Century Museums. Retrieved from http://www.mela-project.polimi.it/upl/cms/attach/20150916/164249296\_8862.pdf
- MEYER, E. (2008). Memory and Politics. In Erll, A. & Nünning, A. (Ed.), Cultural Memory Studies. An Interdisciplinary Handbook. Berlin, Germany: Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co.
- MEZZADRA, S. AND RAHOLA, F. (2006) The Postcolonial Condition: A Few Notes on the Quality of Historical Time in the Global Present. Postcolonial Text 2(1), 1-13.
- MIGNOLO, W.D. (2011). The Darker Side of Western Modernity. USA, Duke University Press.
- MIGUÉNS, J., BAGGIO, R., & COSTA, C. (2008). Social media and Tourism Destination: TripAdvisor Case Study. Proceedings of the IASK Advances in Tourism Research 2008 (ATR2008), Aveiro, Portugal, 26-28 May, 194-199.
- MILES, R. & BROWN, M. (2003). Racism. UK: Routledge.
- MODEST, W. (2018). Het Belang van Woorden. In: Modest, W. & Lelijveld, R. (eds.) Words Matter, Work in Progress I. Amsterdam, The Netherlands: National Museum of World Cultures.

- MONDRIAANFONDS. (2020). Samenwerkingsprojecten. Retrieved from <https://www.mondriaanfonds.nl/en/samenwerking/musea-bekennen-keur/>.
- MORO-ABADÍA, O. (2006). The History of Archaeology as a ‘Colonial Discourse.’ Bulletin of the History of Archaeology, 16(2), pp.4–17. Mosse, G.L. (2020). Toward the Final Solution: A History of European Racism. USA: University of Wisconsin Press.
- MUSEA BEKENNEN KLEUR. (n.d.). Retrieved from <https://museabekennen-keur.nl/>.
- MUSEUMS ASSOCIATION. (2013). Museum Change Lives: The MA’s Vision for the Impact of Museums. Retrieved from <http://www.museumsassociation.org/download?id=1001738>.
- MUSEUM ZONDER MUREN (2021). Verkenning Nationaal Trans-Atlantisch Slavernijmuseum. Retrieved from http://museumzondereuren.com/data/files/Volledig\_Rapport\_Werkgroep\_2\_MzM\_28mei2021.pdf
- MUSEUM OF LONDON. (n.d.). About Us. Retrieved from <http://www.museumoflondon.org.uk/corporate/about-us/who-are-we/>.
- NAGUIB, S.A. (2013a). Museums, Diaspora and the Sustainability of Intangible Cultural Heritage. Sustainability, 5, 2178–2190.
- NAGUIB, S.A. (2013b). Collecting Moments of Life. Museums and the Intangible Heritage of Migration. Museum International, 65(1-4), 77–86.
- NEBBOU, A. (2018). The Colonial Discourse Versus the Anti-Colonial. Scholars World Net, 1(3).
- NETTLEBACK, A. (2012). Remembering Indigenous Dispossession in the National Museum: The National Museum of Australia and the Canadian Museum of Civilization. Time and Society, 21(1), 39–54.
- NEDERVEEN PIETERSEN, J. (1988). Slavery and the Triangle of Emancipation. Race & Class, 30(2), 1–21.
- NICOLESCU, G. (2016). The Museum’s Lexis: Driving Objects into Ideas. Journal of Material Culture, 21(4), 465–489.
- NMAAHC. (n.d.). About the Museum. Retrieved from <https://nmaahc.si.edu/about/museum>.
- NMAAHC. (2017). Official Guide to the Smithsonian National Museum of African-American History & Culture. Washington, USA: Smithsonian Books.
- NOBLE, H., SMITH, J. (2015) Issues of Validity and Reliability in Qualitative Research. Evidence Based Nursing, 18, (2): 34–35.
- NOS. (September 2019). Amsterdam Museum Neemt Afscheid van ‘Gouden Eeuw.’ nos. Retrieved from <https://nos.nl/artikel/2301454-amsterdam-museum-neemt-afschied-van-gouden-eeuw.html>.
- NOS. (July 2020a). Nationaal Herdenking Slavernij Verleden. Retrieved from <https://www.npostart.nl/nos-herdenking-slavernijverleden/nosslavernij>.

- NOS. (July 2020b). Geen Excuses voor Slavernijverleden. Wel herdenkingsjaar in 2023. Retrieved from <https://amp.nos.nl/artikel/2339240-geen-excuses-voor-slavernijverleden-wel-herdenkingsjaar-in-2023.html>.
- NOS. (February 2021a). Peiling: Ruim Helft Vindt Excuses Slavernijverleden Niet Nodig. Retrieved from <https://amp.nos.nl/artikel/2368349-peiling-ruim-helft-vindt-excuses-slavernijverleden-niet-nodig.html>.
- NOS. (May 2021b). NOS Opening Slavernij Tentoonstelling Rijksmuseum. Retrieved from https://www.npostart.nl/nos-opening-slavernijtentoonstelling-rijksmuseum/18-05-2021/pow\_04900767.
- ONEGA, S., DEL RÍO, C. AND ESCUDERO-ALÍAS, M. (2017). Introduction. In Onega, S., Del Río, C. and Escudero-Alías, M. (Ed.), Traumatic Memory and the Ethical, Political and Transhistorical Functions of Literature, Palgrave Studies in Cultural Heritage and Conflict, DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-55278-1_1.
- OOSTINDIE, G.J. (2007). Slavernij, canon en trauma. Faculty of Arts, Leiden University, Leiden. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/12645>.
- OTELE, O. (2012). Bristol, slavery and the politics of representation: the Slave Trade Gallery in the Bristol Museum. Social Semiotics, 22(2), 155-172.
- PALESE, M. (2018). The Museum Experience in the 21st Century. The Expectations of the Potential Audience and the Experiences Designed by Museum Professionals: The Case of Boijmans van Beuningen Depot. Unpublished Master's Study. Erasmus University, Rotterdam.
- PEARCE, S. (2003). Objects as Meaning; or Narrating the Past. In S. M. Pearce (ed). Interpreting Objects and Collections. London, UK: Routledge.
- PHILLIPS, R. (2005). Re-Placing Objects: Historical Practices for the Second Museum Age. The Canadian Historical Review, 86(1), 83-110.
- PINE, J. & GILMORE, J. (1998). Welcome to the Experience Economy. Harvard Business Review, July August, 97-105.
- PINE, J. AND GILMORE, J.H. (2007). Museums and Authenticity. Museum News. Retrieved from <https://northernlight.nl/wp-content/uploads/Pine-and-Gilmore-Museums-and-Authenticity.pdf>.
- PINE, J. AND GILMORE, J.H. (2011). The Experience Economy. Updated Version. Boston, USA: Harvard Business Review Press.
- PINE, J.B. AND GILMORE, J.H. (2013). The Experience Economy: Past, Present and Future. In: Sundbo, J. and Sorensen, F. (eds.). Handbook on the Experience Economy. Cheltenham, UK: Edward Publishing.
- PULLAGURA, A. (2010). Performing the Museum: Memory, Meaning-Making and Identity Production at the National Museum of the American Indian. (Unpublished study). Emory University, Atlanta, USA.
- RAAD VOOR CULTUUR. (n.d.). Doelstellingen Cultuurbeleid. Retrieved from <https://toekomstcultuurbeleid.cultuur.nl/verkenning/doelstellingencultuurbeleid>.

- RADEL, K. (2018). Participant Observation in Cross-Cultural Tourism Research. In: Hillman, W. and Radel, K. (eds.) Qualitative Methods in Tourism Research: Theory and Practice. Bristol, UK: Channel View Publications.
- RADDER, L. AND HAN, X. (2015). An Examination of the Museum Experience Based on Pine and Gilmore's Experience Economy Reals. The Journal of Applied Business Research, 31(2), 455-470.
- RASH, A. (2018). Postcolonial Nostalgia: The Ambiguities of White Memoirs of Zimbabwe. History & Memory, 30(2), 147-180.
- RASMUSSEN, S. (2002). The Uses of Memory. Culture and Psychology, 8(1), 113-129.
- RASSOOL, C. (2018). Museumlabels en Kolonialisme. In: Modest, W. & Lelijveld, R. (eds.) Words Matter, Work in Progress I. Amsterdam, The Netherlands: National Museum of World Cultures.
- RAWLEY, J.A. AND BEHRENDT, S.D. (2005). The Transatlantic Slave Trade. A History, Revised Edition. USA: University of Nebraska Press.
- REGEERAKKOORD 2017-2021. (October 2017). Vetrouwen in de toekomst (p.19). Den Haag. Retrieved from <https://www.kabinetsformatie2017.nl/documenten/publicaties/2017/10/10/regeerakkoord-vertrouwen-in-de-toekomst>.
- REID, P., CORMACK, D. AND PAINE, S.J. (2019). Colonial histories, racism and health. The experience of Maori and Indigenous peoples. Public Health, 172, 119-124.
- RICHARDS, I. (2015). Handling Qualitative Data. A Practical Guide (3rd ed.) London, UK: Sage Publications Ltd.
- RICHES. (October 2015). D4.1 European Identity, Belonging and the Role for Digital CH. The EUROIDENTITIES Project 2008 – 2011. Retrieved from https://www.digitalmeetsculture.net/wp-content/uploads/2015/09/RICHES/D4.1-European-identity-belonging-and-the-role-for-digital-CH\_public.pdf.
- RIEGER, J., KESSLER, C. AND STRICKFADEN, M. (2019). Doing Dis/Ordered Mappings: Shapes Of Inclusive Spaces in Museums. Space and Culture, 1-16.
- RIJKSMUSEUM (n.d.). Vision and Mission of the Rijksmuseum. Retrieved from <https://www.rijksmuseum.nl/en/organisation/vision-and-mission>.
- RIJKSMUSEUM MULTIMEDIA TOUR (n.d.). Audio Clip NG-MC-651. Retrieved from <https://www.rijksmuseum.nl/nl/collectie/NG-MC-651>.
- RODENBERG, J. & WAGENAAR, P. (2016). Essentializing 'Black Pete': competing narratives surrounding the Sinterklaas tradition in the Netherlands. International Journal of Heritage Studies, 22(9): 716-728.
- RODI-RISBERG, M. (2018). Problems in Representing Trauma. In Kurtz, R. (Ed.), Trauma and Literature (pp. 110-123). Cambridge, UK: Cambridge University Press. doi:10.1017/9781316817155.009.
- ROEDERER, C. AND FILSER, M. (2018). Revisiting the Museum Experience. Qualitative Market Research: An International Journal, 21(4), 567-587.

- ROSS, M. (2004). Interpreting the New Museology. Museum and Society, 2(2), 84-103.
- RÖSSNER, M. (2014). Mestizaje and Hybrid Culture. Toward a Transnational Cultural Memory of Europe and the Development of Cultural Theories in Latin America. In: Feichtinger, J. and Cohen, G.B. (Eds.) Understanding Multiculturalism. The Habsburg Central European Experience. New York: Berghahn.
- RTL NIEUWS. (July 2020). GroenLinks en D66: maak van 2023 herdenkingsjaar slavernij. Retrieved from <https://www.rtlnieuws.nl/nieuws/nederland/artikel/5168708/groenlinks-d66-slavernij-afschaffing-keti-koti-herdenkingsjaar>.
- SABIESCU, A. (2018). A Critical Reflection on Three Paradigms in Museum Experience Design. In: Vermeeren, A., Calvi, L. and Sabiescu, A. (eds.) Museum Experience Design. Crowds, Ecosystems and Novel Technologies. Cham, Switzerland: Springer Nature.
- SABIESCU, A. AND CHARATZOPOULOU, K. (2018). The Museum as Ecosystem and Museums in Learning Ecosystems. In: Vermeeren, A., Calvi, L. and Sabiescu, A. (eds.) Museum Experience Design. Crowds, Ecosystems and Novel Technologies. Cham, Switzerland: Springer Nature
- SAID, E.W. (1978). Orientalism. London, UK: Routledge & Kegan Paul Ltd.
- SAID, E.W. (1993). Culture and Imperialism. UK: Random House UK Ltd.
- SALOUL, I.A.M. (2009). Telling memories: Al-Nakba in Palestinian exilic narratives (unpublished doctoral study). University of Amsterdam, Amsterdam.
- SALOUL, I.A.M. (2012). Catastrophe and Exile in the Modern Palestinian Imagination. New York, USA: Palgrave.
- SALOUL, I.A.M. (2021, June 21). "A Post-colonial Museum?". [Lecture at University of Amsterdam].
- SANDELL, R. (1998). Museum as Agents of Social Inclusion. Museum Management and Curatorship, 17(4), 401-418.
- SANDELL, R. (2003). Social Inclusion, the Museum and the Dynamics of Sectoral Change. Museum and Society, 1(1), 45-62.
- SANDELL, R. (2007). Museums, Prejudice and the Reframing of Difference. New York, USA, Routledge.
- SAHADAT, I. (September 2019). Heleen Schols bestudeerde vier jaar het Zwarte Pieten-debat: 'De vraag zou moeten zijn: als dit een kinderfeest is, voor welke kinderen is het dan een feest?'. De Volkskrant. Retrieved from <https://www.volkskrant.nl>.
- SCANLON, L.A. & KUMAR, M.S. (2019). Ireland and Irishness: The Contextuality of Postcolonial Identity. Annals of American Association of Geographers, 109(1), 202-222.
- SCHMIDT S. J. (2008). Memory and remembrance: A constructivist approach. In: Erll A. & Nünning A. (eds.) Cultural memory studies: An international and interdisciplinary handbook. Berlin, Germany: Walter de Gruyter GmbH & Co. Schoenberger, E. (June 2020). What does it Mean to Decolonize a Museum? Retrieved from <http://www.museumnext.com/article/what-does-it-mean-to-decolonize-a-museum>.

- SCHOONDERWOERD, S. (2018). Voorwoord. In: Modest, W. & Lelijveld, R. (eds.) Words Matter, Work in Progress I. Amsterdam, The Netherlands: National Museum of World Cultures.
- SCHWEIGER, I. (2015). From Representing Trauma to Traumatized Representation: Experiential and Reflective Modes of Narrating the Past. Front. Lit. Stud. China, 9(3), 345-368.
- SCOTT, J. AND MARSHALL, G. (2009). A Dictionary of Sociology (rev.ed.). Oxford, UK: Oxford University Press.
- SHEHADE, M. AND STYLIANOU-LAMBERT, T. (2020). Virtual Reality in Museums: Exploring the Experiences of Museum Professionals. Applied Science, 10, 4031.
- SHEPHERD, H. (2009). Inclusion and Museums: Developing Inclusive Practice. British Journal of Special Education, 36(3), 140-145.
- SILVERSTONE, R. (1994). The Medium is the Museum: on Objects and Logics in Times and Spaces. In Miles, R. and Zavalo, L., Towards the Museum of the Future. New European Perspectives. New York (NY), USA: Routledge.
- SINT NICOLAAS, E. (2021a) Wally. In: Archangel, S., Fata-Black, K., Gosselink, M., Holtrop, M., Lambrechts, L., Sint Nicolaas, E. and Smeulders, V. (Eds.) Slavernij. Amsterdam, Nederland: Atlas Contact.
- SINT NICOLAAS, E. (2021b) Oopjen. In: Archangel, S., Fata-Black, K., Gosselink, M., Holtrop, M., Lambrechts, L., Sint Nicolaas, E. and Smeulders, V. (Eds.) Slavernij. Amsterdam, Nederland: Atlas Contact.
- SINT NICOLAAS, E. AND SMEULDERS, V. (2021). Slavernij een Meerstemmig Tentoonstelling. In: Archangel, S., Fata-Black, K., Gosselink, M., Holtrop, M., Lambrechts, L., Sint Nicolaas, E. and Smeulders, V. (Eds.) Slavernij. Amsterdam, Nederland: Atlas Contact.
- SMEULDERS, V. (2021). Tula. In: Archangel, S., Fata-Black, K., Gosselink, M., Holtrop, M., Lambrechts, L., Sint Nicolaas, E. and Smeulders, V. (Eds.) Slavernij. Amsterdam, Nederland: Atlas Contact.
- SMITH, L.J. (2010). 'Man's inhumanity to man' and other platitudes of avoidance and misrecognition: an analysis of visitor responses to exhibitions marking the 1807 bicentenary. Museum & Society, 8(3), 193-214.
- SMITHSONIAN. (n.d.). Visitor Stats. Newsroom of the Smithsonian. Retrieved from <https://www.si.edu/newsdesk/about/stats>.
- SMITHSONIAN MAGAZINE. (October 2011). The Carving Process. Smithsonian Magazine. Retrieved from <https://www.smithsonianmag.com/history/the-making-of-mount-rushmore-121886182/?c=y&navigation=thumb&page=4>.

- SMITHSONIAN MAGAZINE. (February 2017). What the Director of the African-American History Museum Says About the New Emmett Till Revelations. Smithsonian Magazine. Retrieved from https://www.smithsonianmag.com/smithsonian-institution/what-director-african-american-history-museum-says-about-new-emmett-till-revelations-180962025/?utm\_source=twitter.com&utm\_medium=socialmedia.
- SIMON, N. (2010). The Participatory Museum. Santa Cruz: Museum 2.0.
- SIMPSON, M. (1996). Making Representations. Museum in the Post-Colonial Era. New York: Routledge.
- SPIVAK, G.C. (1985). Can the Subaltern Speak? In Spivak, G.C. & Loiza, E.P. (eds). Can the Subalterns Speak? Germany: Verlag der Buchhandlung Walther Konig, Germany.
- ST. CLAIR, W. (2009). The Door of No Return: The History of Cape Coast Castle and the Atlantic Slave Stam, D. (1993). The Informed Muse: The Implications of 'The New Museology' for Museum Practice. Museum, Management and Curatorship, 12, 267-283.
- STASZAK, J.F. (2009). Other/Otherness. In: Kitchin & Thrift (Ed.). International Encyclopedia of Human Geography: A 12-Volume Set. Oxford: Elsevier Science.
- STEIN, A. (2009). Trauma and Origins: Post-Holocaust Genealogists and the Work of Memory. Qual Social, 32, 293-309.
- STETS, J.E. AND BURKE, P.J. (2000). Identity Theory and Social Identity Theory. Social Psychology Theory, 63(3), 224 – 237.
- STIEM, T. (September 2018). Statue Wars: What Should We Do With Troublesome Monuments? The Guardian. Retrieved from <https://www.theguardian.com/cities/2018/sep/26/statue-wars-what-should-we-do-with-troublesome-monuments>.
- STOLER, A.L. (2002). Colonial Archives and the Arts of Governance. Archival Science, 2, 87-109.
- STOLER, A.L. (2007). The Pulse of the Archive. Ab Imperio, 2007(3), 225-264. doi:10.1353/imp.2007.0050.
- STYLIANOU, E. (2019). Affect and Trauma in Museums: an Interpretive Framework for Understanding the Real Thing and its Political Potential. Museum Management and Curatorship, 34(4), 306-322.
- SUNDERSON, S. (2020). "Trans-Imaginations of Decolonization: Three Frames of the Art of Locus: Afro-Asian Writings". In Amanshauser, H. and Bradley, K. (Eds.), Navigating the Planetary, (pp.131-147). Vienna: Verlag für moderne Kunst.
- SUSSMAN, N.M. (2000). The Dynamic Nature of Cultural Identity Throughout Cultural Transitions: Why Home is not so Sweet. Personality and Social Psychology, 4(4), The American Association of Museums. (1992). Excellence and Equity: Educating and the Public Dimension of Museums. Retrieved from http://www.depts.ttu.edu/museumttu/cfaswebsite/5333/Required%20Readings%2011/irzy\_Excurrence%20&%20Equity.pdf.

- THOMAS, D. (2009). Museums in Postcolonial Europe: an introduction. African and Black Diaspora: An International Journal, 2(2), 125-135.
- THOMPSON, P. (1978). The Voice of the Past. Oxford: Oxford University Press
- TIMOTHY, D. (2011). Cultural Heritage and Tourism: An Introduction. Bristol, UK: Channel View Tlili, A. (2008). Behind the Policy Mantra of the Inclusive Museum: Receptions of Social Exclusion and Inclusion in Museums and Science Centres. Cultural Sociology, 2(1), 123-147.
- TLOSTANOVA, M. (2019). The postcolonial condition, the decolonial option and the postsocialist intervention, In Albrecht, M. (ed.), Postcolonialism Cross-Examined: Multidirectional Perspectives on Imperial and Colonial Pasts and the Newcolonial Present. London, UK: Routledge, Taylor & Francis Group.
- TOLIA-KELLY, D. (2016). Feeling and Being at the (Postcolonial) Museum: Presenting the Affective Politics of 'Race' and Culture. Sociology, 50(5), 896-912.
- TOTH, E.R., GUTTMAN, S., KIMURA, A. & QUINN, T. (2016). Expanding the Boundaries of Museum Studies: Popular Education Through Engagement With Hidden Histories of Organising and Activism. Journal of Adult and Continuing Education, 22(2), 199-215.
- TROVÃO, S. (2012). Comparing Postcolonial Identity Formations: Legacies of Portuguese And British Colonialism in East Africa. Social Identities, 18(3), 261-280.
- TREPTE, S. (2006). Self-Identity Theory. In Bryant, J. and Vorderer, P. Psychology of Entertainment. New York: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates.
- TRIESSCHEIJN, C. (December 2016). Wat worden de maatschappelijke thema's en trends van 2017? Retrieved from <https://www.kis.nl/artikel/wat-worden-de-maatschappelijkethemas-en-trends-van-2017>.
- TROPENMUSEUM. (n.d.a). Netherlands East Indies. Retrieved from <https://tropenmuseum.nl/en/node/213>.
- TROPENMUSEUM. (n.d.b). Afterlives of Slavery. Retrieved from <https://www.tropenmuseum.nl/en/whats-on/exhibitions/afterlives-slavery>.
- TROTTER, R. (1998). The Changing Face and Function of Museums. Media International Australia Incorporating Culture and Policy, 89, 47-61.
- TURNER, H. (2020). Cataloguing Culture. Legacies of Colonialism in the Museum Documentation. Vancouver: UBC Press.
- UM, J. (2015). Cultural Identity in the Age of Transculturation. Diogenes, 62(2), 48-53.
- UNESCO. (May 2020). UNESCO Report on Museums Around the World in the Face of COVID-19 available online. Retrieved from <https://en.unesco.org/news/launch-unesco-report-museums-around-world-face-covid-19>.

- URRY, J. (1990). The Tourist Gaze: Leisure and Travel in Contemporary Societies. Sage Publications ltd.
- URRY, J. AND LARSON, J. (2011). The Tourist Gaze 3.0. Los Angeles, USA: Sage Publishing.
- US CENSUS BUREAU. (n.d.). Quick Facts United States. Retrieved from <https://www.census.gov/quickfacts/fact/table/US/IPF120218>.
- VAN ALPHEN, E. (1999). Symptoms of Discursivity: Experience, Memory and Trauma. In: Bal, M., Crewe, J. & Spitzer, L. (eds.) Acts of Memory. Cultural Recall in the Present. USA: University Press of New England.
- VAN DER GRINTEN, J. (2010). Mind de Gap. Stappenplan Identiteit en Imago. The Hague, The Netherlands: Boom Lemma Uitgevers.
- VAN DER LAARSE, R. (2005). Bezeten van Vroeger. Erfgoed, Identiteit en Musealisering. Amsterdam: Het Spinhuis.
- VAN DER LAARSE, R. (2013). Beyond Auschwitz. Europe's Terrorspaces in the age of Postmemory. In Silberman, M. & Florence, V. (Eds.) Memory and Postwar Memorials. Confronting the Violence of the Past. NY, USA, Palgrave Macmillan.
- VAN DER LAARSE, R., MAZZUCHELLI, F., AND REIJNEN, C. (2014). Traces of Terror, Signs of Trauma: Practices of (re)presentation of collective memories in Space in Contemporary Europe. vs – Quaderni di Studi Semiotica, 119, 3-19.
- VAN LEEUWEN, L. (June 2019). Het Slavernijmuseum Komt Er, Maar Wiens Verhaal Gaat Het Vertellen? Retrieved from <https://www.vn.nl/nationaal-slavernijmuseum/>.
- VAN MENSCH, P. (1992). Towards a Methodology of Museology. [Unpublished Doctoral Dissertation]. University of Zagreb.
- VAN MENSCH, P. (2005). Nieuwe Museologie. Identiteit of Erfgoed? In Van der Laarse, R. (ed.) Bezeten van Vroeger. Erfgoed, Identiteit en Musealisering. Amsterdam: Het Spinhuis.
- VAN ROSSUM, M. & FATAH-BLACK, K. (2014). Amok in Batavia. Over Amok in Nederlands-Indische Rechtzaken. Acta Historica, 3(4).
- VAN ROSSUM, M. (2015). 'Vervloekte Goudzugt.' De voc, Slavenhandel en Slavernij in Azië. TSEG, 12(4), 29-57.
- VAN SLOOTEN, S. (2018). Old Territories, New Societies. An Exploration on Inclusiveness within Dutch National Museum Representation. The International Journal of the Inclusive Museum, 11(4), 37-51.
- VERMEEREN, A.P.O.S., CALVI, L., SABIESCU, A., TROCCHIANESI, R., STUEDAHL, S., GIACCARDI, E. AND RADICE, S. (2018). Future Museum Experience Design: Crowds, Ecosystems and Novel Technologies. In: Vermeeren, A., Calvi, L. and Sabiescu, A. (eds.) Museum Experience Design. Crowds, Ecosystems and Novel Technologies. Cham, Switzerland: Springer Nature.

- VERTZBERGER, Y.Y.I. (2005). The Practice and Power of Collective Memory. International Studies Review, 7(1), 117-121.
- VIOLI, P. (2012). Trauma Site Museums and Politics of Memory. Theory, Culture & Society. 29(1), 36-75.
- VISIT GHANA. (n.d.). Retrieved from https://visitghana.com/attractions/cape-coastcastle/#google\_vignette.
- WALCOTT, R. (2000). Pedagogy and Trauma: The Middle Passage, Slavery, and the Problem of Creolization. In Simon, et al. (eds.) Between Hope and Despair: Pedagogy and the Remembrance of Historical Trauma. Lanham, USA, Rowman & Littlefield Publishers Inc.
- WALDLER, D. (2011). Postcolonial Nostalgias: Writing, Representation, and Memory. USA: Routledge.
- WEKKER, G. (2016). White Innocence. Paradoxes of Colonialism and Race. London, UK: Duke University Press.
- WHITEHEAD, C., ECKERSLEY, S. AND MASON, R. (2012). Placing Migration in European Museums. Milan: Politecnico di Milano.
- WHITEHEAD, C., LLOYD, K., ECKERSLEY, S. AND MASON, R. (2015). Museums, Migration and Identity in Europe. In Whitehead, C., Lloyd, K., Eckersley, S. and Mason, R (Eds.). Museum, Migration and Identity in Europe. Peoples, Place and Identities. (p.1-4). Surrey, England: Ashgate Publishing Limited.
- WIEVIORKA, A. (1998). L'Ère du Témoin. Paris: Plon.
- WILLIAMS, P. AND CHRISMAN, L. (1994). Colonial Discourse and Postcolonial Theory. A Reader. London: Routledge.
- WILSON, R. (2008). Representing the Diaspora: Performances of 'Origin' and 'Becoming' in Museums. The African Diaspora Archeology Network, 11, 1-10.
- WINTER, J. (2010). The Performance of the Past: Memory, History, Identity. In Tilmans, K., Van Vree, F. and Winter, J. (Ed.), Performing the Past. Memory, History, and Identity in Modern Europe. Amsterdam, The Netherlands: Amsterdam University Press.
- WOOD, M. (2008). Atlantic Slavery and Traumatic Representation in Museums: The National Great Blacks in Wax Museum as a Test Case. Slavery and Abolition, 29(2), 151-171.
- YACHIN, J.M. (2018). The 'Customer Journey': Learning from Customers in Tourism Experience Encounters. Tourism Management Perspectives, 28, 201-210.
- YEOH, B.S.A. (2001). Postcolonial Cities. Progress in Human Geography, 25(3), 456-468.
- ZHANG, C. X., XIAO, H., MORGAN, N. AND PHONG LY, T. (2018). Politics of Memory: Identity Construction in Museums. Annals of Tourism Research, 73, 116-130.

A Postcolonial Museum? Legacies of Colonial Histories in Museum Exhibitions in Europe, Africa, North America and the Caribbean

The past two decades have seen a notable awareness and an outburst of public and academic debates of the legacies of colonial histories. Douglas Hamilton, Kate Hodgson and Joel Quirk describe this outburst in their book Slavery, Memory and Identity: National Representations and Global Legacies (2012: 1-4) as a ‘transnational phenomenon’, which stirs debates around how narratives of colonisation should be represented. This outburst aligns with a worldwide fixation to become aware and to commemorate our national pasts in narratives of colonisation. Particularly in Western societies, narratives on colonisation unswervingly include prevailing notions of civilisation and citizenship, whilst narratives of slavery and less victorious aspects of colonisation are silenced (Hamilton, Hodgson and Quirk, 2012: 1-4). The sentiment coming from this outburst of public and academic debates is predominantly geared towards acknowledgement for, and accountability of, the enduring impacts of colonisation within public representations, which increasingly challenges museums to rethink colonial histories from “social justice-oriented and anti-racist educational programming and exhibitions” (Feld, 2021: 1).

This study answers to Feld’s call for research that better connects museums that deal with legacies of colonial histories with contemporary debates of colonialism. Feld’s claim and call for more research compelled me to commit to this subject and led me to define the leading question: how are colonial histories represented in museum exhibitions in Europe, Africa, North America, and the Caribbean? This question directs my research exploration and imagination of the (im-)possibility of the construction of a postcolonial museum, for which I explore concepts pertinent to museum exhibitions – ‘representation’, ‘meaning-making’ and ‘visitor experience’ – in relation to inclusiveness, identity formation, trauma and diasporic memory. These concepts are explored within museums variously situated along the colonial geography of the triangular trading route in the trans-Atlantic geography including The Netherlands, Curaçao, England, Ghana and the United States of America. This study seeks to generate new insights that contribute to the current academic debate about museums and colonialism through a tripartite approach by examining the relationship between the institution of the museum, the displayed objects, and the visitors’ experiences and perspectives. I aim to create a reflective understanding of how inclusiveness, identity, trauma, memory and diaspora can be represented, understood and experienced in museum exhibitions, and I seek to provide input for museums in distinct colonial geographies to booster their connection with contemporary debates of colonialism.

CHAPTER ONE compares the representation, meaning-making and visitor experience of inclusiveness and identity at the Rijksmuseum’s permanent collection (2017) and ‘Slavery’ exhibition (2021), and the Tropenmuseum’s ‘Netherlands East Indies’ (2017) and ‘Afterlives of Slavery’ (2020) exhibitions. In relation to representation, both exhibitions contain a comparable collection-based, top-down approach in a traditional system of representation explored in 2017, which is created of existing and available collections designed by a team of curators. This has resulted in a perceived biased and exclusive representation of Dutch colonial history through art and objects, and justifies an understanding of history as remembered by the official narrative. In terms of meaning-making and visitor experience, these representations triggered a sense of nationalism and citizenship among visitors who identify with the exhibition and a sense of not-belonging to those who do not identify with the exhibition. They suggested that the exhibition and collection in 2017 steer their feeling of nationalism and sense of belonging to the Dutch culture through, particularly at the Rijksmuseum, ‘heavy weights’ objects, masterpieces of Rembrandt van Rijn and other Dutch painters for which a strong sense of place was experienced. Regardless of these feelings experienced as positive, a clear bias was confirmed by visitors that seemingly propagated nationhood and a desirable place identity. Whereas both museums’ exhibition in 2017 were approached from an apparent traditional museology, a stronger sense of multiperspectivity within their newest exhibitions in 2020 and 2021 seemed to be reflected in the representation through new museological values. These new museological values include the usage of multiple interpretation methods such as arts, objects and personal storytelling, and mostly people-oriented and narrative-based exhibitions from a bottom-up system of representation. This bottom-up system of representation is based on collaborations and discussions with local community, representatives of the counter-perspective in the Dutch official narrative and various practitioners from various backgrounds. The new museological values signify a clear transition between a traditional museology embedded in the 2017 exhibition and collection, and new museology embedded in the 2020-2021 exhibitions resulting in a strengthened representation, meaning-making and experience of inclusiveness and a blended representation of identity.

CHAPTER TWO compares the representation, meaning-making and experience of trauma at Cape Coast Castle and the International Slavery Museum. The research shows that despite the contrasting colonial geographies of the museums, trauma was similarly represented at Cape Coast Castle and the International Slavery Museum, but narrated from a different perspective. As to the representation of both museums, trauma was evidently focused on the events and brutalities of slavery at the trans-Atlantic geography, as well as the impacts of slavery on society today. The representations were supported by a material display about African culture before European arrival, the events and brutalities of the triangular trading route in the trans-Atlantic geography and impacts of slavery and resistance on today’s societies. As to the narrative, Cape Coast Castle largely focuses on the events of slavery in Ghana and Western Africa with an emphasis on the memory and experience by the Afro-American community. The narrative of the International Slavery Museum is focused on local, national, and international impacts of the events of slavery. Remarkable is that both exhibitions include a significant contribution of resistance and human rights as part of the trauma, and draw connections between the impacts of slavery and the makeup of both societies today through textual or material interpretation methods. Both exhibitions are evidently represented by a narrative of trauma, which incorporates a counter-narrative that generates a mostly emotional understanding. In terms of the material display, Cape Coast Castle typically includes authentic and replicated objects, and simulated social environments, whereas the International Slavery Museum employs more interactive techniques such as storytelling, audio clips and interactive displays. Regardless of the different perspective from which the representation is narrated, both material displays seem clearly based on a trauma paradigm, as they are particularly characterised by (audio)visuals, personal, powerful, symbolic and authentic objects related to the trauma of colonisation and personal storytelling. The combination of these objects connected to personal storytelling leads to a cognitive and emotional understanding among visitors. With respect to meaning-making and the visitor experience, both museums are experienced as emotional, educational, confronting and significant for today's society, however different contributors to this experience are identified. Visitors at the International Slavery Museum experienced an overall feeling of cruelty of slavery and its implications for today's society through personal stories and experiences, and through diverse interactive interpretation methods. The experience at Cape Coast was predominantly constructed by a blended material and textual display, supported by the guided tour and the perceived authenticity of the site.

CHAPTER THREE studies the representation, meaning-making and experience of diasporic memory at the National Museum of African-American History and Culture [NMAAHC]. The research indicates that the NMAAHC is clearly characterised by new politics of memory that contains a unique showcase of American history filtered through the African-American experience. The representation reflects an active remembering of a counter-perspective, which leaves an educational and emotional visitor experience through a combination of interactive, digital and audio-visual interpretation methods, personal storytelling, and a wide display of authentic, personal, trauma and symbolic objects and artefacts. The representation of the African-American experience evidently depicts the diasporic memory from the African-American community, supported by personal objects and individual storytelling and memories integrating elements of social recovery and justice. A paradigm of memory is embedded in the exhibition, as it visibly represents the African-American memory through a representation of individual and collective experiences of the Afro-American community, which is mainly supported by personal and individual storytelling, textual interpretation, photographs, archive-film footage, audio-visual performances, testimonies and oral history. With respect to meaning-making and the visitor experience, the NMAAHC is compared with the Museum of London. Whereas the Museum of London has mostly designed its experience around the official memory with limited references to contemporary British society, the NMAAHC has designed its experience around the diasporic memory of the African-American community that variously links to contemporary American society. The representation at the Museum of London was mostly perceived as traditional and lacks cohesion between the represented narrative of slavery in the museum and current understanding of slavery among visitors, which signifies an absent reflection of the new politics of memory. Although this absence was less experienced at the NMAAHC, as the multitude of interpretation methods contributed to a clear reflection of it, the overall representation was perceived as emotionally overwhelming here. The latter was experienced due to a wide scale of material display, narratives and interpretation methods that focus on individual and collective experiences of trauma, struggle, resiliency and personal achievement. Based on the outcomes of the Gap Analysis, the overall visitor experience at museums can be improved when carefully considering interpretation methods as part of the system of representation, especially when methods, such as lighting at the NMAAHC, is intentionally used to evoke an emotional understanding. When museum buildings are grand and welcome a great number of visitors per day, intensive expectation management before and upon arrival, and the provision of audio-guides and guided tours, are essential for the achievement of relational meaning-making and potentially reduces incomprehension of the exhibition in its totality.

CHAPTER FOUR contrasts the envisaged visitor experience at the Rijksmuseum's 'Slavery' exhibition and Kura Hulanda Museum.<sup>520</sup> The research identifies several discrepancies and similarities between both museums, starting with the system of representation and the perspective from which the exhibition is narrated. The 'Slavery' exhibition at the Rijksmuseum moves away from a perspective embedded in the official narrative and a traditional pedagogy, as represented in their permanent collection in 2017. Through a combination of source data ranging from oral, written and archival history, and a variety of interpretation methods, the 'Slavery' exhibition enables the counter-perspective to be brought forward more prominently through personal, individual experiences. This counter-perspective and these experiences are unlocked through a popular education pedagogy and the implementation of a multicultural museum education model in the process of development, as well as in the system of representation. The envisaged experience at the 'Slavery' exhibition is perceived as emotional, personal, co-creational, participatory and inclusive due to the employment of various types of sources and data and a revised system of representation that includes multiple and multisensory interpretation methods. Up until Kura Hulanda Museum closed its doors, it narrated the Dutch colonial experience from a traditional pedagogy and system of representation, which provided a slight immersive and emotional experience. Although new museological values were noticeable in the system of representation, it did not reflect an inclusive, interactive or co-creational visitor experience. It is striking that, despite the contemporary visitors' need to experience authenticity, the perceived authentic location of the museum was neither represented nor experienced. The research further implies an absence of the Afro-Curaçaoen perspective in the narratives of the transatlantic slave trade, the impacts of Dutch colonisation, slavery and slave trade on the island, and how this history resonates with the construction of the Curaçaoen society today. This potentially ties in with a seeming lack of intrinsic motivation such as self-awareness, identity-formation, contextual education and personal reflection by the local community to visit the museum, who seem to be driven by mostly extrinsic motivation.

---

<sup>520</sup> Since I was not able to generate an understanding of the visitor experience from the visitors' perspective directly due to the enduring measures of Covid-19, the visitor experience in this chapter is envisaged reflected by the museums' perspective.

The concluding chapter yields an overall understanding of museum exhibitions in relation to the representation, meaning-making and visitor experience of colonial histories in various geographies. It reflects how this understanding can connect museums better with contemporary debates of colonialism through the imagination of the (im-)possibility to construct of a postcolonial museum. This study shows that this imagination reflects new museological values, a maximisation of multiple meaning-making or a construction of meaning from a local perspective, a consideration of suitable museum pedagogy, a facilitation of a contemporary museum experience and a representation of a postcolonial identity in the museum is essential. Museums are tasked to reflect new museological values in the development of people oriented and narrative-based exhibitions, and through a bottom-up system of representation that allows communities and visitors to co-create exhibitions. For museums in former colonising geographies, representations typically reflect concepts of trauma and migration as a counter-narrative in the official narrative to create a shared notion of history. For museums in former colonised geographies, narratives typically include concepts of emancipation, dignity, cultural respect, creativity and self-awareness to enrich the official narrative, which brings a local perspective forward based on a new type of knowledge that is created from a local or regional, non-Eurocentric perspective. As new museology requires museums to produce multivocal, inclusive representations for a wider audience, the team of curators is tasked to introduce a diversity of perspectives and expertise to the team from various communities and backgrounds. Furthermore, museums typically focus on the popular education pedagogy in the development of exhibitions to stimulate a co-creational process that upholds the new politics of memory and accepts (counter) memories as history. For museums in former colonised geographies, a popular education pedagogy invites (local) visitors to bring in personal memories, memoirs and experiences to the exhibition, and invites visitors from various cultural backgrounds, minorities and the diaspora, to bring in their personal experience. For museums in former colonising geographies, this pedagogy is typically accompanied by the multicultural museum education model as this ensures a stronger reflection of cultural pluralism in an official narrative. For both geographies, a combination of authentic, personal, trauma and symbolic objects, a combination of oral and written history and individual and personal storytelling and through multiple and multisensory interpretation methods that stir a cognitive, emotional and relational meaning-making are embedded in exhibitions of colonial histories. Narrating colonial history from a trauma paradigm and paradigm of memory through individual and personal storytelling serves here as a starting point, in which trauma becomes encircled and a new politics of memory reflected in the representation. A combination of (re)sources and data inputting the narrative assures critical questioning of history through different perspectives and promotes multiple meaning-making. For museums in societies with multicultural communities, exhibitions characteristically narrate colonial history from a transculturation paradigm, as this enables a blended representation of identity to which a diversity of groups can identify with and elevates a perceived inclusiveness among visitors.

SAMENVATTING (DUTCH SUMMARY)

Een Postkoloniaal Museum? Erfenissen van Koloniale Geschiedenissen in Museum Tentoonstellingen in Europa, Afrika, Noord Amerika en de Cariben.

De afgelopen twintig jaar kenmerkt een opmerkelijke bewustwording en uitbarsting in het maatschappelijk en academisch debat van de erfenissen van kolonialisme en slavernij. Douglas Hamilton, Kate Hodgson en Joel Quirk beschrijven deze uitbarsting in hun boek 'Slavery, Memory and Identity: National Representations and Global Legacies' (2012: 1-4) als een transnationaal fenomeen, dat discussies oproept over hoe verhalen over kolonialisme en slavernij vertegenwoordigd zouden moeten worden. Deze uitbarsting sluit aan bij een wereldwijde fixatie op collectief bewustwording en het herdenken van het nationale verleden rondom Europees kolonialisme en slavernij. Vooral westerse samenlevingen bevatten verhalen over kolonialisme die onwankelbaar zijn en worden verteld vanuit het perspectief van de heersende burgerschap, terwijl verhalen over slavernij en minder zegevierende aspecten van kolonialisme het zwijgen wordt opgelegd (Hamilton, Hodgson en Quirk, 2012: 1-4). Het sentiment dat voortkomt uit deze uitbarsting is voornamelijk gericht op een erkenning voor, en verantwoordelijkheid van, de blijvende gevolgen van kolonialisme en slavernij in ons bewustzijn. Dit daagt musea in postkoloniale samenlevingen steeds meer uit om representaties over kolonialisme en slavernij te heroverwegen en hierbij te focussen op sociale gerechtigheid-gerichte en antiracistische, educatieve programma's en tentoonstellingen (Feld, 2021: 1).

Deze studie beantwoordt Feld's oproep tot onderzoek dat musea die zich bezighouden met de erfenissen van koloniale geschiedenissen beter verbindt met hedendaagse debatten over kolonialisme. Deze oproep tot onderzoek moedigde mij aan om me aan dit onderwerp te binden en bracht me ertoe de leidende vraag te definiëren: hoe worden koloniale geschiedenissen weergegeven in museumtentoonstellingen in Europa, Afrika, Noord-Amerika en het Caribisch gebied? Deze vraag stuurt mijn onderzoek en mijn inbeelding van de (on)mogelijkheid van de bouw van een postkoloniaal museum. Hiervoor verken ik concepten die relevant zijn voor museale tentoonstellingen – ‘representatie’, ‘betekenisgeving’ en ‘bezoekersbeleving’ – in relatie tot inclusiviteit, identiteitsvorming, trauma en de herinnering van de diaspora. Deze concepten worden onderzocht in musea die zich bevinden aan de route van de driehoekshandel in het trans-Atlantisch gebied, waaronder Nederland, Curaçao, Engeland, Ghana en de Verenigde Staten van Amerika. Dit onderzoek genereert nieuwe inzichten die bijdragen aan het huidige academische debat over musea en kolonialisme vanuit een tripartiete benadering die de relatie tussen de instelling van het museum, de tentoongestelde objecten en de belevenissen en perspectieven van de bezoekers onderzoekt. Ik wil hierbij een reflectief begrip creëren van hoe inclusiviteit, identiteitsvorming, trauma en de herinnering van de diaspora kunnen worden weergegeven, begrepen en beleefd in museumtentoonstellingen. Hiervoor levert dit onderzoek praktische input voor musea in verschillende koloniale gebieden om hun verbinding met hedendaagse debatten over kolonialisme te versterken.

HET EERSTE HOOFDSTUK vergelijkt de representatie, betekenisgeving en bezoekersbeleving van inclusiviteit en identiteitsvorming in de vaste collectie van het Rijksmuseum (2017) en de tentoonstelling ‘Slavernij’ (2021), en de ‘Nederlands-Indië’ (2017) en ‘Afterlives of Slavery’ (2020) tentoonstellingen van het Tropenmuseum. Met betrekking tot representatie bevatten beide tentoonstellingen een op een collectie-gebaseerde, top-down benadering in een traditioneel representatiesysteem die in 2017 werden verkend. Deze tentoonstellingen zijn gecreëerd rond bestaande en beschikbare collecties en ontworpen door een team curatoren. Dit heeft geresulteerd in een vermeend bevooroordeelde en exclusieve weergave van de Nederlandse koloniale geschiedenis met kunst en objecten, en rechtvaardigt deze geschiedenis zoals herinnerd wordt door het officiële verhaal. In termen van betekenisgeving en bezoekersbeleving leidden deze voorstellingen een gevoel van nationalisme en burgerschap bij bezoekers die zich identificeren met de tentoonstelling, maar ook een gevoel van niet-behoren tot degenen die zich niet identificeren met de tentoonstelling. Hierbij werd gesuggereerd dat de tentoonstelling en collectie in 2017 het gevoel van nationalisme en van verbondenheid met de Nederlandse cultuur wordt gestuurd door, met name in het Rijksmuseum, 'zware gewichten' objecten, meesterwerken van Rembrandt van Rijn en andere Nederlandse schilders. Ondanks dat deze gevoelens als positief werden ervaren, werd een duidelijke vooringenomenheid bevestigd door bezoekers die een natie en een wenselijke identiteit propageerden. Waar de tentoonstelling van beide musea in 2017 werd benaderd vanuit een ogenschijnlijk traditionele museologie, leek een sterker gevoel van multiperspectiviteit binnen hun nieuwste tentoonstellingen in 2020 en 2021 tot uiting te komen in de representatie, door middel van nieuwe museale waarden. Deze nieuwe museale waarden omvatten het gebruik van meerdere interpretatiemethoden zoals kunst, objecten en persoonlijke verhalen, en meestal mensgerichte tentoonstellingen vanuit een 'bottom-up' representatiesysteem. Dit bottom-up representatiesysteem is gebaseerd op samenwerkingen en discussies met de lokale gemeenschap, vertegenwoordigers van het tegenperspectief in het Nederlandse officiële verhaal en praktijkmensen met verschillende achtergronden. De nieuwe museale waarden betekenen een duidelijke overgang tussen een traditionele museologie ingebed in de tentoonstelling en collectie van 2017, en nieuwe museologie ingebed in de tentoonstellingen van 2020-2021. Deze transitie resulteert in een versterkte representatie, betekenisgeving en bezoekersbeleving van inclusiviteit en een gemengde identiteit.

HET TWEEDE HOOFDSTUK vergelijkt de representatie, betekenisgeving en bezoekersbeleving van trauma in Cape Coast Castle en het International Slavery Museum. Het onderzoek toont aan dat ondanks de contrasterende koloniale geografie, trauma op dezelfde manier wordt vertegenwoordigd in Cape Coast Castle en het International Slavery Museum, maar vanuit een ander perspectief wordt verteld. In de tentoonstelling is trauma duidelijk gericht op de gebeurtenissen en wreedheden van de slavernij in het trans-Atlantisch gebied, evenals de impact van slavernij op de hedendaagse samenleving. De voorstellingen werden ondersteund door een materiële vertoning over de Afrikaanse cultuur vóór de komst van Europa, de gebeurtenissen en wreedheden van de driekhoekshandel in het trans-Atlantisch gebied, de impact en verzet van slavernij op de hedendaagse samenlevingen. Wat het verhaal betreft richt Cape Coast Castle zich grotendeels op de gebeurtenissen van de slavernij in Ghana en West-Afrika, met de nadruk op de herinnering en beleving van de Afro-Amerikaanse gemeenschap. Het verhaal in het International Slavery Museum is gericht op de lokale, nationale en internationale impact van de gebeurtenissen rondom slavernij. Opmerkelijk is dat beide tentoonstellingen een belangrijke bijdrage van verzet en mensenrechten als onderdeel van het trauma bevatten. Hierbij worden verbanden gelegd tussen de gevolgen van slavernij en de samenstelling van beide hedendaagse samenlevingen door middel van tekstuele en materiële interpretatiemethoden. Beide tentoonstellingen worden duidelijk vertegenwoordigd door een verhaal van trauma vanuit een tegenperspectief dat een overwegend emotioneel betekeningeving genereert. Wat de materiële weergave betreft omvat Cape Coast Castle typisch authentieke en gerepliceerde objecten en gesimuleerde sociale omgevingen, terwijl het International Slavery Museum meer interactieve technieken gebruikt zoals storytelling, audioclips en interactieve displays. Ongeacht het verschillende perspectief van waaruit de tentoonstelling wordt verteld lijken beide materiële weergaves duidelijk gebaseerd op een traumaparadigma. Dit paradigma wordt vooral wordt gekenmerkt door (audio)visuele, persoonlijke, krachtige, symbolische en authentieke objecten die verband houden met het trauma van kolonisatie en slavernij vanuit persoonlijke verhalen. De combinatie van deze objecten gekoppeld aan storytelling leidt tot een cognitief en emotioneel betekenisgeving bij bezoekers. Met betrekking tot de bezoekersbeleving worden beide musea ervaren als emotioneel, educatief, confronterend en betekenisvol voor de huidige samenleving, waarvoor verschillende bijdragen aan deze ervaring zijn geïdentificeerd. Bezoekers van het International Slavery Museum ervoeren een algemeen gevoel van wreedheid van slavernij en de implicaties ervan voor de huidige samenleving door persoonlijke verhalen en ervaringen, en door middel van diverse interactieve interpretatiemethoden. De ervaring bij Cape Coast werd voornamelijk opgebouwd door een gemengd materiaal en tekstuele weergave, ondersteund door de rondleiding en de waargenomen authenticiteit van de site direct gelinkt aan de trauma.

HET DERDE HOOFDSTUK bestudeert de representatie, betekenisgeving en bezoekersbeleving van de herinnering vanuit de diaspora in het National Museum of African American History and Culture [NMAAHC]. Het onderzoek geeft aan dat de NMAAHC duidelijk wordt gekenmerkt door een ‘new politics of memory’ die een unieke showcase van de Amerikaanse geschiedenis bevat, gefilterd door de Afro-Amerikaanse beleving. De representatie weerspiegelt een actieve herinnering van een tegenperspectief wat een educatieve en emotionele bezoekersbeleving achterlaat, door een combinatie van interactieve, digitale en audiovisuele interpretatiemethoden met persoonlijke verhalen en een brede weergave van authentieke, persoonlijke, traumatische en symbolische objecten en artefacten. De representatie van de Afro-Amerikaanse beleving toont duidelijk de ‘diaspora-herinnering’ vanuit de Afro-Amerikaanse gemeenschap, ondersteund door persoonlijke objecten en individuele verhalen en herinneringen die elementen van sociaal herstel en rechtvaardigheid bevatten. Een herinneringsparadigma is helder ingebed in de tentoonstelling aangezien de Afro-Amerikaanse herinnering zichtbaar vertegenwoordigt wordt door individuele en collectieve ervaringen van de Afro-Amerikaanse gemeenschap. Deze ervaringen worden voornamelijk weergegeven door persoonlijke en individuele verhalen, tekstinterpretatie, foto’s, archief- en- filmbeelden, audiovisuele uitvoeringen, getuigenissen en mondelinge geschiedenis. Wat betreft betekenisgeving en de bezoekersbeleving wordt de NMAAHC vergeleken met het Museum of London. Terwijl de beleving in Museum of London grotendeels bestaat vanuit de officiële herinnering met beperkte verwijzingen naar de hedendaagse Britse samenleving, is de bezoekersbeleving in NMAAHC vooral gebaseerd op de herinnering vanuit de Afro-Amerikaanse gemeenschap die op verschillende manieren verband houdt met de hedendaagse Amerikaanse samenleving. De representatie in het Museum of London wordt voornamelijk als traditioneel ervaren en mist samenhang tussen het weergegeven verhaal van slavernij in het museum en het huidige begrip van slavernij onder bezoekers, wat duidt op een afwezige weerspiegeling van ‘new politics of memory.’ Hoewel deze afwezigheid minder werd ervaren bij de NMAAHC, mede doordat de verscheidenheid aan interpretatiemethoden bijdroeg aan een duidelijke weerspiegeling van de ‘new politics of memory,’ werd de algehele representatie hier wel als emotioneel overweldigend ervaren. Dit laatste heeft te maken met een breed scala aan materiële weergaven, verhalen en interpretatiemethoden die zich richten op individuele en collectieve ervaringen van trauma, strijd, veerkracht en persoonlijke prestaties. Op basis van de uitkomsten van de Gap-analyse kan de algehele bezoekersbeleving in musea worden verbeterd wanneer interpretatiemethoden zorgvuldig worden overwogen als onderdeel van het representatiesysteem, vooral wanneer methoden zoals verlichting bij de NMAAHC opzettelijk worden gebruikt om een emotioneel betekenisgeving op te roepen. Wanneer museumgebouwen groot zijn en een groot aantal bezoekers per dag verwelkomen zijn intensief verwachtingsmanagement voor en bij aankomst, en het aanbieden van audiogidsen en rondleidingen, essentieel voor het bereiken van een relationele betekenisgeving en voor het verminderen van mogelijk onbegrip van de tentoonstelling in zijn totaliteit.

HET VIERDE HOOFDSTUK contrasteert de beoogde bezoekersbeleving van de tentoonstelling ‘Slavernij’ van het Rijksmuseum en Kura Hulanda Museum.<sup>521</sup> Het onderzoek identificeert verschillende discrepanties en overeenkomsten tussen beide musea, te beginnen met het representatiesysteem en het perspectief van waaruit de tentoonstelling wordt verteld. De tentoonstelling ‘Slavernij’ in het Rijksmuseum wijkt af van een perspectief dat is ingebed in het officiële verhaal en een traditionele pedagogiek, zoals vertegenwoordigd in hun vaste collectie in 2017. Door een combinatie van brongegevens variërend van mondelinge, tekstuele en archiefgeschiedenis en een verscheidenheid aan interpretatiemethoden, maakt de tentoonstelling ‘Slavernij’ het mogelijk om het tegenperspectief prominenter naar voren te brengen door persoonlijke, individuele ervaringen. Dit tegenperspectief en deze ervaringen worden ontsloten door een populaire educatieve pedagogie en de implementatie van een multicultureel museumeducatiemodel in het ontwikkelingsproces, evenals in het representatiesysteem. De beoogde beleving voor de tentoonstelling ‘Slavernij’ wordt gezien als emotioneel, persoonlijk, co-creatief, participatief en inclusief vanwege het gebruik van verschillende soorten bronnen en gegevens en een herzien representatiesysteem dat uit meerdere en multisensorisch interpretatiemethoden bestaat. Totdat Kura Hulanda Museum zijn deuren sloot vertelde het de Nederlandse koloniale ervaring vanuit een traditionele pedagogie en representatiesysteem wat een licht meeslepende en emotionele beleving creëerde. Hoewel nieuwe museale waarden merkbaar waren in het representatiesysteem van Kura Hulanda Museum weerspiegelde het geen inclusieve, interactieve of co-creatieve bezoekersbeleving. Opvallend is dat, ondanks de behoefte van de hedendaagse bezoeker om authenticiteit te ervaren, de ogenschijnlijke authentieke locatie van het museum niet vertegenwoordigd of beleefd werd. Verder impliceert dit onderzoek een afwezigheid van het Afro-Curaçaose perspectief in de verhalen van de trans-Atlantische slavenhandel, de gevolgen van het Nederlandse kolonialisme, slavernij en slavenhandel op het eiland, en hoe deze geschiedenis resoneert met de Curaçaose samenleving van vandaag. Dit sluit mogelijk aan bij een schijnbaar gebrek aan intrinsieke motivatie zoals zelfbewustzijn, identiteitsvorming, contextuele educatie en persoonlijke reflectie, maar enkel lijkt te worden gedreven door extrinsieke motivatie.

---

<sup>521</sup> Omdat ik vanwege de aanhoudende maatregelen van Covid-19 niet rechtstreeks inzicht kon krijgen in de bezoekersbeleving vanuit het perspectief van de bezoeker, wordt de bezoekersbeleving in dit hoofdstuk gereflecteerd door het perspectief van de musea.

Het afsluitende hoofdstuk geeft een beeld van museumtentoonstellingen in relatie tot de representatie, betekenisgeving en bezoekersbeleving van koloniale geschiedenissen in diverse koloniale gebieden. Verder verschaft dit hoofdstuk inzichten in hoe musea beter kunnen aansluiten aan de hedendaagse debatten over kolonialisme door de inbeelding van de (on)mogelijkheid om een postkoloniaal museum te bouwen. De studie laat zien dat voor deze inbeelding, een weerspiegeling van nieuwe museale waarden, een maximalisatie van meervoudige betekenisgeving of een betekenisgeving vanuit een lokaal perspectief, een afweging van passende museum pedagogiek, een facilitering van een hedendaagse museumbeleving en een weergave van een postkoloniale identiteit in het museum essentieel is. De verbeelding van een postkoloniaal museum suggereert dat musea de taak hebben om nieuwe museale waarden aan te nemen bij de ontwikkeling van mens – en verhaalgeoriënteerde tentoonstellingen, en door middel van een ‘bottom-up’ representatiesysteem dat gemeenschappen en bezoekers in staat stelt om samen tentoonstellingen te creëren. Voor musea in voormalige koloniserende gebieden worden de concepten trauma en migratie gereflecteerd in de tentoonstellingen vanuit een tegenperspectief in het officiële verhaal om de notie van een gedeeld geschiedenis te stimuleren. Voor musea in voormalige gekoloniseerde gebieden weerspiegelen concepten als emancipatie, waardigheid, cultureel respect, creativiteit en zelfbewustzijn doorgaans in de tentoonstellingen om het officiële perspectief te verrijken ent een lokaal perspectief naar voren te brengen. Het lokaal perspectief wordt naar voren gebracht door een nieuw type kennis dat is gecreëerd vanuit een lokale of regionaal, niet-eurocentrisch perspectief. De nieuwe museologie vereist van musea dat ze meerstemmig, inclusieve voorstellingen maken voor een breder publiek, waarbij curatoren de taak hebben om een diversiteit aan perspectieven en expertises verschillende gemeenschappen en achtergronden te introduceren. Daarnaast richten musea in postkoloniale samenlevingen zich doorgaans op de populaire educatiepedagogiek bij de ontwikkeling van tentoonstellingen om een co-creatieproces te stimuleren dat de ‘new politics of memory’ hooghoudt en (tegen)herinneringen als geschiedenis accepteert. Voor musea in voormalige gekoloniseerde gebieden nodigt een populaire educatieve pedagogie lokale bezoekers en bezoekers vanuit verschillende culturele achtergronden en de diaspora uit om persoonlijke herinneringen, memoires en ervaringen in de tentoonstelling te brengen. Voor musea in voormalige koloniserende gebieden gaat deze pedagogie meestal gepaard met het multiculturele museumeducatiemodel, omdat dit zorgt voor een versterkende weerspiegeling van cultureel pluralisme.

I am thrilled to have reached, what I perceive as, one of the most important chapters of this study. After so many years, I can finally express my gratitude for the unprecedented support that I was lucky to receive from so many people who walked along with me during my journey. My fingers wrote this study, but many minds contributed to this writing. The endless support, feedback, advice, chats, cheer, drinks, warmth and listening ear from numerous people kept me motivated in good and bad times, and provided a sense of direction in this, sometimes, rudderless adventure called PhD writing. I would like to take the time now to acknowledge them, as I am fully aware that if it were not for them, I would have not been able to start, continue and finish my journey.

I would not be writing this chapter if it were not for my supervisor and head promotor Ihab Saloul. After submitting my research proposal in 2014, he instantly saw a significance and urgency of this subject and kept on expressing this throughout the years, which stimulated my academic confidence. In the initial stages of the trajectory, his reflection of trust encouraged my appetite for change. During later stages, his reflection of confidence steered a sense of ownership of the subject, which increased my devotion to the research whilst relying on his expertise, knowledge and experience. As my academic background was limited when I started, Ihab recurrently encouraged me to expose my research to a wider public and welcomed me to his academic network.

Although I have not always been able to follow this up, I appreciate the various efforts and invitations I received from him through the years. I am most grateful for having given the space and time to explore and develop myself academically during my pilot year by Ihab and my second promotor Rob van der Laarse. Through the years, their critical view and provocative questioning, ambitious academic mindset, reassuring confirmations, occasional mini-lectures and regular expressions of trust in the subject guided our meetings and made me grow as an academia. Thank you Ihab and Rob.

There are two other persons who I owe this academic opportunity to, and who deserve a word of thanks. Diana Leigh, my former superior at NHL Stenden University, reached out to me in 2014 with this PhD position for which she voiced a connection between the vacancy and my field of interest. Though initially holding off, she convinced me that it might be a match. Given where I am now, I greatly thank you Diana for your confidence and push. Dr. Inge Hermann, an external colleague and fellow heritage enthusiast, contributed to the shaping and framing of my research subject. She took the time to discuss my ideas as what I envisaged to submit for my research proposal. She made me think big and convinced me that there was space for my subject in an overwhelming world of research. Thank you for your time and support Inge!

I feel privileged to have been able to travel to several fascinating destinations and places around the world for my case studies, where I met inspiring people who participated in my research and who enriched my network. For the Rijksmuseum, I want to thank the (former) head of exhibitions, conservator of history and the head of history, who invited me to come over for my first interviews of this research and made me at ease on moments where I was extremely nervous. Where it was not possible to conduct interviews during Covid-19, I would like to thank them for responding to my emails promptly with valuable advice on how to continue, which enabled me to finish my research. Furthermore, I appreciate the time that the head of exhibitions took to talk to me about the older and newest exhibitions in the Tropenmuseum.

Our interview took place in the beautiful, serene garden behind the Tropenmuseum, which made the interview a very pleasant experience. I also want to thank the curator of the International Slavery Museum and the curator of the International Slavery Museum, for the guided tour through the museum and for his time to talk to me about Afro-Caribbean perspective in relation to the representation of colonial history in the United Kingdom. Another exciting person I was lucky to meet was the museum and site director of Cape Coast Castle. He replied to my phone call with enthusiasm and excitement and took the time to sit down with me for an interview where he provided an extensive overview of the history of slavery in Ghana and Western Africa, and conveyed his personal perception of, and experiences with, its legacy today. I was astonished by how he explained some of the most painful moments in Ghana's history in relation to slavery without judgements and full of respect to all cultures and nations. I presume that my astonishment says more about my expectation to experience judgement towards me as a European, but I quickly learned that his perception seemed to be the standard in Ghana instead of an exception. I have rarely felt more welcome in any other country and sites as Ghana, by the director and the staff of Cape Coast Castle. It was an experience I will cherish for the rest of my life. An experience alike was my visit at NMAAHC and my interviews with the deputy director and a curator. Both were involved in many projects and initiatives, so I especially like to express my appreciation for taking the time to welcome me for an interview. They were both approachable, open-minded yet critical towards the museum's capabilities and exhibitions, and supported out chat with personal experiences and memories. I learned from them that, regardless of how grand, unique or successful a museum is, it is vital to keep on asking questions, to remain open-minded and transparent to the wider public to remain relevant and meaningful in society today. Another big, and special, thank you goes to the former director of Kura Hulanda Museum, the historian and the museum director of Kas Di Pal'i Maishi, who were willing and available to talk to be over Zoom in relation to Kura Hulanda Museum and the representation of Dutch colonisation on Curacao. Since my research at Kura Hulanda Museum took place amid the Covid-19 pandemic, I was not able to visit the museum and conduct my interviews and observation onsite. If it were not for their willingness to talk to me online, I would have not been able to finish this case study. Some of their remarks and stories were intriguing and emotional but, above all, informative, enlightening and inspiring. I herewith would like to express my gratitude to each of the representatives of the museums, for responding to my query, taking the time to have me over and discuss my research, for sharing their professional and personal view and experiences with me, for their hospitality and additional advice that inspired me in the continuation of the research. Without them, I was not able to realise a reliable and consistent triangulation of my research, so thank you, dank je wel, merci, medaasi, masha danki!

In relation to the museums, there is another group of individuals to whom I owe I word of thank you. This regards a group of (former) students of the BA International Tourism Management and the MA International Leisure & Tourism Studies at NHL Stenden University. They supported me in the collection of data at the Rijksmuseum, Tropenmuseum, Museum of London and International Slavery Museum in relation to the visitors' perspective. Without their commitment and enthusiasm, the road towards completion would have taken longer and with more hazards to overcome. I mentioned it a few times to them personally, but I would like to do it again en plain public; thank you Caren Appel, Pia Jödecke, Nina Bittner, Helena Frieling, Fenna van Slooten, Iris Spaan, Anne Wessels, Dina Visser, Rattanaporn Trairong, Bram Wessels, Kimberley Jongeling, Maysun Bega and Kirsten Veenstra for your help and commitment!

Next to being a part-time PhD student, I worked as a lecturer at NHL Stenden of Applied Sciences throughout my trajectory. I would like to thank a few persons at NHL Stenden University of Applied Sciences for their time, support, feedback, advice and for being a sounding board throughout the process. First, I would like to thank Akke Folmer, Leanne Janssen-Scheurs, Jasper Heslinga, Stefan Hartman, Albert Postma and Hanny Kadijk for their view(s) and feedback whenever I reached out for help. Although I reached out quite frequently, you never gave me the feeling that it was too often or too much and continued to be very responsive. Thank you. I would like to thank Lina Dafesh and Victoria Naisola for being my 'critical friend' towards the end of the process. I experienced our meetings as a revelation. Your continuous questioning and critical feedback helped me to become more critical, to understand my research better and motivated me to keep on going. Especially during the final stage of my research, I appreciated that you were willing to be my sounding board and listening ear. I would like to thank Kenneth Miller for his time and effort to proof-read my study, which helped me improving my academic writing and supported the pace in which I was able to finish the process. As a history enthusiast, a storyteller and a critic in the field of heritage and tourism, I value your perception and thank you for sharing this with me. Finally, I would like to express my gratefulness to Prof. Gregory Ashworth and Bill Cameron, who are not among us anymore. As a person, they both inspired me to continue to commit myself to the world of heritage. Their confirming expressions to my explanation of the research and their personal guidance at the start of the trajectory supported me more than they realised. I hope you both are well, wherever you are! Finally, I would like to thank all my colleagues who were directly or indirectly involved in my research, who enabled me to continue through reassuring and comforting chats, who expressed their trust in me or simply did not ask anything about my research during these stages ( – also very much appreciated!)

With respect to the final episode of my journey, much gratitude goes to my paranymphs Iris Bekius and Lina Dafesh, and to the designer of the cover of my research, Paksha van Slooten. As to my paranymphs, I feel lucky and humbled that you both said yes to my request to become part of this research as my friend and paranymph. I appreciate that you were willing to accompany me in the final stage of my journey where I experienced your support, our chats and your devotion as indispensable, pleasant and reassuring. As to Paksha, I was excited when you agreed to design the cover of my study. Your views and devotion as a visual artist and an arts critic combined with your love for museums, convinced me to invite you for the creation of my cover image. Your visual interpretation of my research matches with my ideas, even more than I expected. Additionally, I would like to thank Christien Franken for editing my thesis and for the lovely chats we had in between, and Marta Kochanowska for your hospitality and support during our meetings in the printing-stage of my research.

My final thanks goes to my family, friends and my partner and father of our son, Robert. As to my family and friends, I thank you for believing in me, for putting up with me when my skies were grey and for babysitting repeatedly as I was working on my study. Your positivity, listening ear, practical solutions and your shoulder to cry on helped me to endure – many thanks! As to Robert, I am grateful for all your efforts in trying to understand my research, my isolation, for accepting my mood swings and frustrations that I sometimes could project on my family, for your pep-talks and for trying to be a continuous, positive spirit around me. If this journey was, at times, difficult for someone I realise that it was for you. From the bottom of my heart, thank you for staying by my side and your support throughout the process, for being there for our son and giving him the love and attention that he needed in my absences. This brings me to the most important person in my life, my son Glenn. I am so grateful that you travelled with me from halfway my journey. You enriched my life and showed me that I could do much more than I thought I could. I want to dedicate this research to you, as I hope that with this research I can be an example for you and show you that nothing is impossible if you focus on your goal with a flexible, critical, open-mind and a good dose of perseverance and humour. Now, I can finally sing ‘The Big Rock Candy Mountain’ for you every evening before you go to sleep...