Widen the market, narrow the competition: the emergence of supranational governance in EU capital markets

Mügge, D.K.

Citation for published version (APA):
Table of Contents

Acknowledgements ..................................................................................................................... v
Chapter 1: Introduction ................................................................................................................ 1
Chapter 2: Competition politics and supranational integration: a structurational approach.........42
Chapter 3: Banks’ institutional power and domestic financial market reform in the 1980s ..........69
Chapter 4: Negotiating the single market: interests and institutions around 1990 .......................98
Chapter 5: Revisiting the 1990s capital market revolution in Europe ........................................124
Chapter 6: Shifting preferences and the re-launch of financial market integration .................159
Chapter 7: EU capital market integration and the emergence of supranational governance ......185
Chapter 8: Renegotiating the ISD in the supranational constellation ........................................208
Chapter 9: Conclusion ................................................................................................................ 233
Bibliography and list of sources ................................................................................................. 249
Appendix: Overview of the international expansion of European banks ..................................273
Summary .................................................................................................................................... 275
Samenvatting .............................................................................................................................. 279