Appendix III: Christ Temple membership statistics

As described in chapter 3, the International Central Gospel Church collects and keeps various kinds of data about its members and visitors. The data given here are taken from 1) membership forms, 2) visitors’ forms, and 3) new convert forms kept in the files of the Christ Temple.

Note on employment: As there is no case ‘self-employed’ on the membership form, many traders and businesspeople ticked ‘unemployed,’ which also explains the high number of unemployed in the church.

Note on occupation:
‘Office worker’ includes civil servant, accountant, administrator, and secretary. ‘Skilled trade’ includes carpenter, mason, electrician, mechanic, caterer, seamstress, hairdresser, and beautician. ‘Law enforcement’ includes police, military, prison personnel. The difference between businesswoman/woman and trader, if any, is not clear.

Note on marriage type: marriage under ordinance implies customary marriage (often rendered as ‘engagement’); church marriage implies both ‘engagement’/customary marriage and marriage under ordinance. I have therefore counted the answer ‘all three’ all under ‘church marriage’.

Note on religion: ‘born-again,’ ‘church goer,’ and ‘non-believer’ are the categories stated on the membership forms. Church or religion are not specified. The important distinctions for the church are clearly between born-agains and non-born-agains, in whatever church, and of the non-born-agains, between Christians who are not born again, but go to church (also called ‘nominal Christians’), and non-Christians, whether Muslim, traditionalist or other.

Note on children: suspiciously few (2) of the persons stating to be single states having children. (Interestingly, the one person stating having 10 children is a woman who works as a head of family planning.)

Date born again (BA) : date of first attendance (FA) (Nr. %)

| BA > 10 years before FA | 17 | 7,1 |
| BA 6 - 10 years before FA | 29 | 12,1 |
| BA 3 - 5 years before FA | 28 | 11,7 |
| BA 0 - 2 years before FA | 55 | 22,9 |
| BA is FA | 46 | 19,2 |
| BA 0 - 2 years after FA | 37 | 15,4 |
| BA 3 - 5 years after FA | 4 | 1,7 |
| BA > 5 years after FA | 1 | 0,4 |
| No BA reported | 13 | 5,4 |

Note: Most people state an exact date of being born again. This points to the conversion experience as a sudden change. Some people only specify the month or the year, especially when it was longer ago. When no date of being born again is given, this can mean that either the person is not born again (which is remarkable) or the person does not remember the date.

Date Holy Ghost baptism (HGB) : date born again (BA) (Nr. %)

| HGB is BA | 16 | 6,7 |
| HGB 0 -3 months after BA | 31 | 12,9 |
| HGB 3 - 12 months after BA | 38 | 15,8 |
| HGB 1 - 2 years after BA | 45 | 18,8 |
| HGB 3 - 5 years after BA | 24 | 10,0 |
| HGB 6 - 10 years after BA | 11 | 4,6 |
| HGB > 10 years after BA | 3 | 1,3 |
| HGB before BA | 4 | 1,7 |
| No HGB reported | 53 | 22,1 |

Note: When no date of Holy Ghost baptism is given, this can mean that either the person has not (yet) experienced this or the person does not remember the date.

Date finish discipleship classes (DC) : date of first attendance (FA) (Nr. %)

| DC 3 - 6 months after FA | 57 | 23,8 |

| DC 6 - 10 years after FA | 11 | 4,6 |

Note: When the date of being born again lies in the three months before the date of finishing the discipleship classes, this is interpreted as having occurred in the period of following the classes. It does not necessarily mean that it actually happened during a class. Neither does it necessarily indicate a causal relation.

3. New convert forms

Sample: 100 forms of new converts in August and September and 2002. Almost all (81) new converts are between 20 and 30, some (7) younger, some (9) in their thirties, very few (3) above forty. On the forms new converts have to state issues for prayer and counselling under specified categories. These open answers provide insight into what new converts (say they) need or want.

Appendix IV: Afrikania Mission membership statistics

In contrast to the International Central Gospel Church, which keeps an elaborate membership administration at the church offices, the Afrikania Mission does not keep a membership administration. Some membership data are available on the membership cards, but these cards are in principle in the possession of the members themselves and thus not easily accessible. 63 membership cards of a total of more than 150 registered members of the Sakaman (Headquarters) branch were present in the Mission office, because a passport picture and/or Osofo Ameve’s signature was still missing. From this sample I obtained the following data.

Appendix V: Biographical text about Juliana Dogbadzi

The following biographical text about former trokosi Juliana Dogbadzi, referred to in chapter 7 and given in its entirety here, was written by Kerry Cuomo and published in the Human Rights heroes coffee table book Speak Truth to Power (Cuomo and Adams 2000). Juliana Dogbadzi’s life story was adopted by various actors in the globalised anti-trokosi campaign and Kerry Cuomo’s text, or parts of it, started circulating on the Internet.

SEX SLAVERY

“I was a kid, seven years old, when my parents took me from our home to captivity in a shrine where I was a sex slave to a fetish priest.”

Juliana Dogbadzi, enslaved in a shrine in her native Ghana as a young child under a custom known as Trokosi, was forced to work without pay, without food or clothing, and to perform sexual services for the holy man. She was able to escape seventeen years later, after several failed attempts, at the age of twenty-three. Trokosi comes from an Ewe word meaning “slave of the gods,” and is understood as a religious and cultural practice in which young girls, mostly virgins, are sent into lifelong servitude to atone for the alleged crimes of their relatives. In 1997, it was estimated that approximately five thousand young girls and women were being kept in 345 shrines in the southeastern part of Ghana. Through Juliana Dogbadzi’s daring escape and her subsequent efforts to denounce the system, the Trokosi practice was banned in Ghana; however, law enforcement against Trokosi is still lax. Dogbadzi speaks out against Trokosi, traveling the country, meeting with slaves and trying to win their emancipation; and increasingly, she is not alone in her courageous stance.

“I have never been in a classroom. I have never been to school. When I was seven years old, my parents took me from our home and sent me to a shrine where I was a slave to a fetish priest for seventeen years. My grandfather, they said, had stolen two dollars. When he was suspected of the crime and asked to return the money, he defended his innocence. The woman who had accused him of the crime went to the shrine and cursed my grandfather’s family, at which point members of my family began to die. In order to stop the deaths, a soothsayer told us that my grandfather would have to report to the Trokosi shrine. The priest told my family that it must bring a young girl to the shrine to appease the gods. A sister was sent to the shrine at Kebenu some six hundred miles away, but she died a few years later. Since I had been born just after my grandfather’s death, I became her replacement.

“I lived and worked in the priest’s fields and kept the compound clean. While doing so, I was raped repeatedly by the priest on torn mats on the cold floor of windowless huts. The other female slaves and I received neither food nor medical care. We had to find time after working on the priest’s farm to burn charcoal or to sell firewood in the nearest town in order to make enough money to buy food. There were times we lived on raw peppers or palm kernel nuts to stay alive.

"Because I was just a kid, I didn’t know what to do. There was an elder woman who was a slave and took care of me. She couldn’t help me much because she had so many kids as a consequence of being raped by the priest. She said, “Look, little girl, take care of yourself or you will die.” There used to be a hundred women slaves in my shrine, but the priest sent about ninety of them to work on his farms in other villages. Collectively, they had about sixty-five children and would have to work to look after the children.

"Twelve of us, four women and eight children, lived in a one-room, thatched-roof house.
It was built of mud and lacked both windows and doors. The rain got in. The snakes got in. The room was twenty feet long and twelve feet wide. The ceiling was low, just shy of our heads, and we all slept together on a mat on the floor ...

"A typical day in the shrine was as follows: you wake up at five o’clock in the morning, go to the stream about five kilometers away to get water for the compound, sweep, prepare meals for the priest (not eating any yourself), go to the farm, work until six o’clock, and return to sleep without food or to scrounge for leftovers. At night, the priest would call one of us to his room and would rape us. I was about twelve when I was first raped.

"There was favoritism even in slavery. The priest liked girls who would readily give in to his sexual demands and hated those who would always put up a fight. Consequently, these girls were beaten. The ones he liked always said they were being wise because they wanted to avoid being beaten, while some of us maintained that they were foolish and were enjoying sex with a man they didn’t love....

"I had to do something that would change my life. I escaped several times. The first time I escaped, I went to my parents. I told them I was suffering in the shrine, but they were scared to keep me. They said that if they did, the gods would strike them dead.
They brought me back to the priest to suffer the same pain again. I thought, no. This is not going to happen again. I had to find a way to free myself and free the other women, too....

"The third time I escaped, I resolved that I would never again go back to the shrine. By this time, I was three months pregnant as a result of another rape that I had suffered from the priest. I was not feeling very well. For a number of days I had starved. I was pregnant and needed to get some food. Otherwise, I was going to die. I decided to go to a nearby farm owned by the priest to get an ear of corn from the crop which the other slaves in the shrine and I had planted. I was caught stealing the corn and the priest ordered the young men around the village to beat me until I fell unconscious. When I came to, I saw all the bruises and wounds on my body and nearly lost the baby I was carrying. I decided I had to leave or I would be killed. But it was not to be. I was scared and I went back to the shrine again. Yet, that was the turning point. I was about seventeen or eighteen at the time and resolved that I was going to do something to help other people in the shrine.
“One day, a man representing a nonprofit organization called International Needs-Ghana came to the shrine to talk to the priest. This was my chance. I don’t know where my sudden confidence came from, but all my fear had disappeared. I was no longer afraid of death and was prepared to die for others. Thank God I had that feeling! I did not escape immediately because I was very weak, my pregnancy was well advanced and I could not walk a long distance. Luckily, I had the baby a few weeks later. With the baby strapped to my back and the first child, Wonder, in my hands, I escaped through the bush to the major street where I was given a lift to Adidome and to the site of International Needs-Ghana.

“The members of the organization taught me a lot of skills and kept me away from the priest. They trained me in bread baking and other vocations. Nonetheless, I thought, ‘There are more women who remain in the shrine who need help. No one is going to represent them better than someone who has been in the shrine and who has gone through the pain, someone who can tell the world what happens in the shrine. If no one stops this practice, we will all have to die in pain.’ Against all odds, I decided to take the responsibility of addressing the issue and have been doing so ever since. I went to the shrines and spoke to the inmates. I told them that they needed to gather courage like I had and to get out.

“The shrine claims powers it does not have in order to instill fear in the slaves and to stop them from escaping. The practice is a deliberate attempt by men to subjugate women. A man commits a crime and a woman has to pay for it. That is unacceptable. Likewise, the shrine is a crime against children. The child of a slave shares his mother’s plight. When the mother has food to eat, the child eats. If she has no food, the child will starve. If she has clothing, the child will likewise have some. If not, that is it. If she goes to the farm, the child goes along. There are thousands of women Trokosi slaves with children who need to be helped. Those who have been liberated also require help in order to recover from the suffering endured in the shrines.”
