ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost I wish to thank my promotors, Harmen van der Wilt en Simon Stolwijk. Harmen wrote the initial research proposal for this study and he has been a source of inspiration in every conceivable way. Our conversations about the research always enlightened me, although I must admit that the implications of his sharp comments would sometimes only dawn upon me days later. Simon I wish to thank for continually making time to talk about issues at hand, for his keen and lucid observations and for time and again reassuring me that the end of the writing process would one day come. I could not have wished for more dedicated promotors.

I am grateful to the members of the doctorate committee, Professor George P. Fletcher, Professor Terry Gill, Dr. Jann Kleffner, Professor Hectór Olásolo and Professor Thomas Weigend. I am greatly indebted to Professor Weigend for his profound and thorough assessment of the thesis and to Professor Gill for his elaborate comments, particularly on Chapter 6. Jann Kleffner I wish to thank for being prepared to take part in the doctorate committee on such short notice. I owe much gratitude to Professor Fletcher, whose thought-provoking work continues to stimulate me infinitely. To have had the opportunity to participate in his seminars on criminal law at Columbia University in New York City is a great privilege. I would also like to express my thankfulness to Professor Antonio Cassese who found the time to discuss my research with me during my time there. I am indebted to the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) for granting me a scholarship that made my stay at Columbia University possible. For its financial support I also wish to thank the Amsterdam Center for International Law.

Colonel Dr. Paul Ducheine and Major Eric Pouw I would like to thank for their insightful comments from a military perspective on earlier drafts of Chapter 6. Judge Howard Morrison I am incredibly grateful for making language corrections to the manuscript and for giving me an excuse to discuss these with him over a most enjoyable Japanese lunch.

Much gratitude I am due to all my colleagues at the criminal law department of the University of Amsterdam. I owe a special word of thanks to the following colleagues. Tom Blom, our head of the department, thank you for backing me up in the final stages of the thesis; Henna Redan and Maike Steen, you have been true lifesavers, nothing less; my dearest neighbours, Denis Abels, Karel De Meester and Sergey Vasiliev, I always enjoy our daily conversations about everything under the sun (Denis), approaching deadlines, renovating homes, odds and ends (Karel), our little princesses (Sergey); Göran Sluiter, dim sum lunches with you proved to be not only a gastronomical delight but also an intellectual stimulus; Asmaa Ghonedale, Kelly Pitcher and Koen Vriend, I much appreciated your material support; Geranne Lautenbach, we share so much more than the same workplace, thank you for being a good friend.

I wish I could have expressed my gratitude to Bert Swart for his unremitting interest in my thesis. I will remember him as a colleague of rare kindness and wisdom, his presence will be deeply missed.

Melanie Jansen and Jarinde Temminck Tuinstra I wish to thank for being my paranimfen. Lieve Mel, thank you so much for being my friend for almost 30 years in which you have always been there for me. Jarinde, lieve buuv, although our joint Pilates lessons suffered severely from accomplishing this book - and the Open Leg Rocker will probably never be mastered - our friendship did not and will last even though one day we might no longer be neighbours.

Lieve Joke Bulte, thank you for always showing an interest and encouraging me. Lieve Eefie, thank you for being so thoughtful and always wishing me luck, your business trips take you to the other side of the world but you will always be my little sister. Lieve pap en mam, I cannot thank you enough for your infinite love and support. This book is dedicated to you. Hendrik Jan, m’n allerliefste, without you, your love, creative mind, patience and passions, I would be nowhere. Mia, m’n schatje, wat ben jij lief, jij bent alles. Emu!
