AKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Writing this dissertation has been a personal adventure. I would like to cordially thank various companions along the way.

I am grateful to my first supervisor Wanda Strauven who trusted me and intuitively guided me through the emergent process of writing. Her wise judgement and passion for detail gave the dissertation its form and dynamics. I am equally thankful to my second supervisor Jan Teurlings, who opened up new theoretical directions to me. My dissertation benefitted greatly from his wide knowledge and insistence upon sound argumentation. Last but not least, I thank the promoter of this dissertation Thomas Elsaesser, who provided me with invaluable feedback and helped the organization of my argument vis à vis the complex world of cinema.

In the four years that my PhD research lasted I had the chance to be part of the research community of the Imagined Futures project, with all members of which I discussed ideas reflected in various parts of my thesis. Special thanks, not least for their support and friendship, to the core group of ‘iFut nanos’: Tina Bastajian, Zeynep Gunduz, Pepita Hesselberth, Laura Schuster, Jennifer Steetskamp, and Martine Huvenne.

For helping me in the early and most difficult period of my PhD I thank Susan Stocker, whose love for English language and open spirit helped me to develop my ideas at the initial stage of my thesis, and Josef Fruchtl for reading some convoluted initial drafts and giving me valuable feedback. For doing the final proofreading of the thesis I thank Bronwyn Birdsall.

For making my academic life easier and always being there to solve various bureaucratic issues, I warmly thank the ASCA managing director Eloe Kingma, as well as Ania Dalecki and Jantine van Gogh.

This dissertation would not be possible without the financial support of IKY, the State Scholarships Foundation of Greece, to which I am very grateful.

Most of all, of course, I am grateful to those who do not need thanks, my family and my friends in Athens and Amsterdam, who have always been there for me, before, during and after the PhD adventure.
