Thanks

First and foremost, my supervisors, Shelley Godsland and Hanneke Stuit, for their unwavering support throughout the entire PhD process. Their comments and guidance have encouraged me, pushed me into new areas, and invariably shaped my work. Without them, this project would not have been possible.

My parents, for always being there, for giving me roots and giving me wings; Joey, for being brave for both of us; Tess, for following your instincts, for cooking for me; Scott, for agreeing to be my brother; and Jack, for coaxing me out of my certainties.

My Madrid friends – Adam; Beth; Aoife; Tom; Alex; Maddie; Zubin ('all roads lead to Borges'); Katie; and Painter.

Flora, for all the breaktime discussions about life, labyrinths, and neoliberalism.

The team at Coffee #1 Chepstow – especially Jon and Rama – for keeping me caffeinated and giving me a second home.

ASCA, for inviting me to be part of such a wonderful research community. I am especially thankful to Eloe Kingma and those on the 2022 Finishing Fellowship selection committee for granting me funding for the final year of my project. Also, to the organisers and participants of the 2018-19 Theory Seminar, which made for lively discussion, invaluable feedback, and newly formed friendships.

And finally, Grace, for being you, for gracing my life.
