Ghanaian nurses at a crossroads: Managing expectations on a medical ward

Böhmig, C.

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: http://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
Table of contents

Preface and Acknowledgements  xiii

Part I: Introduction

1. Setting the scene and theoretical considerations  19
   Setting the scene  19
   Anthropology of nursing  21
   Hospital Ethnography  23
   Theoretical considerations: Assigning power and transferring knowledge  24
   Objective of the study  27

2. ‘Who are you and what is your mission?’ Methodology and roles  29
   Preparation  30
   Entry strategies  31
   Doing fieldwork  32
   Reactions  34
   Leaving the field and writing the story  35
   Ethics and the role of the researcher  36
   My presence on the ward: Perception and reciprocity  38
   Be a person  39

Part II: Nursing in Ghana: History and training

3. Respect and balance: Ghana’s society and culture  43
   Traditional society  43
   Today’s Ghana: Urbanisation and migration  45
   The role of religion  47
   Balance and respect: Being a mature person  48
   Women’s life  49

4. Tradition and modernity: Concepts of health in Ghana  53
   Traditional medicine in Ghana  53
   The beginning of scientific medicine in Ghana  54
   Health delivery in post-colonial Ghana  57
   Health delivery in modern Ghana  58
Health problems 60
Ghana’s Health Insurance Scheme 61

5. From impropriety to acceptance: The history of nursing in Ghana 65
   Nursing as female profession 65
   Nursing in Ghana 68
   Conclusion 71

6. “We all have a role to play.” Training and work of nurses since 1945 73
   The early beginnings 73
   The contemporary concept of nursing 79
   The working reality today 80
   Professional associations 83
   Conclusion 85

7. Attrition and attraction: Motivation to become a nurse 87
   The first generation of Ghanaian nurses 88
   Today’s motives 90
   Shared ideas 93
   Conclusion 94

8. Being green on the ward: Nursing training experienced 97
   The theory-practice gap 99
   Limited supervision and the lack of preceptors on the wards 101
   Managing dreams and expectations 103
   Conclusion 105

Part III: Nursing in the hospital

9. MīnYa Korle Bu: Korle-Bu Teaching Hospital, Accra 111
   History 111
   The hospital today 113
   The department of medicine 114
   The hospital staff and patients 115
   Perception of the hospital by health workers 119
   Perception of the hospital by patients 120

10. Tidy and touch! The working routine of nurses on the medical ward 123
   Taking up and starting the shift 124
   Tidy the ward 126
   Admitting and discharging patients 127
   Medication 132
   Writing and documentation 133
Routine work 135
Being there in the night 141
Conclusion 142

11. “We are a decent profession.” Hierarchy and differentiation 147
   The nurses’ uniform: Green girls turning into white women 148
   The Directors of Nursing Services: Supervising and motivating 150
   The matron: ‘Our mother on the ward’ 153
   Nurses: Present day and night 156
   Students: Exposure to reality 159
   Health Care Assistants: The blue helpers 160
   Conclusion 162

12. “You are not supposed to cry, it does not help.”
   Death as a daily companion on the ward 165
   Nurses’ work 167
   Patients and their relatives 171
   Nurses’ emotions 173
   Conclusion 175

13. “By the grace of God, we are fine.” Religion on the ward 179
   The omnipresence of religion 180
   Religion as an exclusive factor 182
   Religious patients 183
   Conclusion 186

14. Pride and prejudice: Doctors, orderlies and patients 189
   Medical doctors: Ward rounds and paper work 189
   Cleaners and orderlies: Support and disassociation 196
   Patients: Obedience and support 200
   Conclusion 211

15. “We are managing.” Challenges in nursing 215
   Working on the ward: Dealing with expectations 215
   Working in the health sector: Forming alliances 220
   Being a person: Combining the professional and private life 225
   Conclusion 229

16: “We have to protect our dignity.” Perceptions of a good nurse 231

Part IV: Summary and conclusion

17: Nurses in Ghana: Between tradition and change 239
Power and hierarchy in nursing  241
The future of Ghanaian nursing as a profession  246

Epilogue  249

References  251

Appendices  263
  A: Abbreviations and terminologies  263
  B: List of Tables  265
  C: Statistics on Ghana  266
  D: The ward setting  268
  E: List of nurses and patients  270
  F: Aboyoo, poem by A.A. Amartey  273

Summary  275

Samenvatting (Dutch summary)  279

Zusammenfassung (German summary)  284

Curriculum Vitae  289