Cannabis control: consequences for consumption and cultivation
Wouters, M.

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: http://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
Contents

Chapter 1: Introduction .................................................................................................................. 9
  1.1 Recent developments in cannabis policy ................................................................. 11
  1.2 Towards a century of Dutch drug control ............................................................. 12
  1.3 Separation of markets policy ............................................................................... 14
  1.4 Cannabis use in the Netherlands ........................................................................... 15
  1.5 International perspective ....................................................................................... 16
  1.6 Cannabis policy and criminology ......................................................................... 16
  1.7 Aim, research themes and outline ....................................................................... 17

Chapter 2: Local politics and retail cannabis markets: The case of the Dutch coffee shops ........ 19
  2.1 Introduction ............................................................................................................... 21
  2.2 Local coffee shop policy and local demand ......................................................... 22
  2.3 Power and policy ..................................................................................................... 23
  2.4 Political parties and coffee shops: two perspectives .......................................... 23
  2.5 Data and methods .................................................................................................. 24
  2.6 Results ..................................................................................................................... 25
  2.7 Conclusions and discussion ............................................................................... 28

Chapter 3: Access to Licensed Cannabis supply and the separation of markets policy in the Netherlands .......................................................................................................................... 31
  3.1 Introduction ............................................................................................................... 33
  3.2 Decriminalisation and the role of coffee shops .................................................. 34
  3.3 Availability through coffee shops and prevalence of cannabis use ....................... 35
  3.4 A field survey in communities that vary in coffee shop availability ....................... 37
  3.5 Methods .................................................................................................................. 38
  3.6 Results ..................................................................................................................... 41
  3.7 Discussion ................................................................................................................. 48

Chapter 4: Cannabis use and proximity to coffee shops in the Netherlands .................................. 53
  4.1 Introduction ............................................................................................................... 55
  4.2 Methods .................................................................................................................. 57
  4.3 Results ..................................................................................................................... 60
  4.5 Discussion ................................................................................................................. 67

Chapter 5: Effects of raising the minimum age for coffee shops on cannabis use and cannabis buying behaviour among minors .......................................................... 71
  5.1 Introduction ............................................................................................................... 73
  5.2 Method ..................................................................................................................... 74
Chapter 6: Controlling cannabis cultivation in the Netherlands

6.1 Introduction

6.2 Policy

6.3 Seedlings and plants, small and large sites

6.4 Number of sites dismantled

6.5 ‘Small’ cultivation sites

6.6 Number of plants and seedlings

6.7 Trends and policy

6.8 Possible criticisms of the Dutch approach to controlling marijuana cultivation

6.9 Conclusions

Chapter 7: Conclusion & Discussion

7.1 Availability and local politics

7.2 Availability, cannabis use and cannabis buying behaviour

7.3 Coffee shops and minors

7.4 Separation of markets

7.5 Dismantling cannabis cultivation sites

7.6 Methodological reflections

7.7 Future studies

7.8 Policy reflections

Chapter 8: Summary

8.1 General introduction

8.2 Local politics and retail cannabis markets

8.3 Access to licensed cannabis supply

8.4 Cannabis use and proximity to coffee shops

8.5 Raising the minimum age for coffee shops

8.6 Controlling cannabis cultivation

8.7 Conclusions

Hoofdstuk 9: Samenvatting
9.5 Het verhogen van de minimum leeftijd voor coffeeshops ........................................................ 128
9.6 De bestrijding van de hennepteelt ............................................................................................ 129
9.7 Conclusie ................................................................................................................................... 130
References ........................................................................................................................................ 133
Dankwoord ....................................................................................................................................... 145