Facing epistemic uncertainty: characteristics, possibilities, and limitations of a discursive contextualist approach to philosophy of education
van Goor, R.L.C.

Citation for published version (APA):
van Goor, R. L. C. (2012). Facing epistemic uncertainty: characteristics, possibilities, and limitations of a discursive contextualist approach to philosophy of education Amsterdam: Vossiuspers UvA
CONTENTS

I. INTRODUCTION: A BRIEF RECONSTRUCTION OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION AS AN ACADEMIC DISCIPLINE
   1. Introduction 11
   2. The continuous (re)formulation of the tasks and possibilities of an independent philosophy of education 12
   3. Research-questions 22

II. BEYOND FOUNDATIONS: SIGNS OF A NEW NORMATIVITY IN PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION
   (published in: Educational Theory, 54(2), 173-192)
   1. Introduction 29
   2. Foundationalism 31
   3. Problems of foundationalism 32
   4. The question of relevance in an antifoundationalist philosophy of education 36
   5. Contextual justification 37
   6. Benefits for the relevance of the philosophy of education 41
   7. A new normativity in philosophy of education 44

III. EPISTEMOLOGICAL INSIGHTS AND CONSEQUENCES FOR PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION I: FOUNDATIONALISM, FALLIBILISM, AND CONTEXTUALISM
   1. Introduction 53
   2. The fruitless search for infallible knowledge 54
   3. General validity without infallibility 56
   4. The search for a possible alternative 63

IV. THE FRUITS OF IRONY: GAINING INSIGHT INTO HOW WE MAKE MEANING OF THE WORLD
   1. Introduction 67
   2. Irony as a philosophical tool 68
   3. Irony and the opposition of conceptual perspective and presupposed reality 71
   4. Irony and the opposition between vocabularies and aims 74
   5. Irony and the opposition of context and renewing content 78
   6. Exemplification and comparison: an occasion for meta-irony 83

V. EPISTEMOLOGICAL INSIGHTS AND CONSEQUENCES FOR PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION II: RELATIVISM, ARBITRARINESS, AND DYNAMIC-DISCURSIVE CONTEXTS
   1. Introduction 91
   2. Contextualism: relativism or arbitrariness? 91
   3. A discursive approach to epistemology 95
   4. Provisional remarks about the tasks of the philosophy of education 97
VI. NEGOTIATING THE WORLD. SOME PHILOSOPHICAL CONSIDERATIONS ON DEALING WITH DIFFERENTIAL ACADEMIC LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY IN SCHOOLS
(published in: Educational Philosophy and Theory, 40(5), 652-665)
1. Introduction 101
2. Language acquisition as initiation 102
3. Language acquisition as development of judgment 105
4. Linguistic development as participative negotiation 109
5. Conclusions and comments 113

VII. EPISTEMOLOGICAL INSIGHTS AND CONSEQUENCES FOR PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION III: DISCURSIVE EPISTEMOLOGY AND THE GROWTH OF KNOWLEDGE
1. Introduction 119
2. The practice-based discursive (re)construction of knowledge 120
3. Discursive epistemology and progress in (scientific) knowledge 123
4. Consequences of a discursive-epistemological approach for philosophy of education 124

VIII. THE PRIMACY OF COMMITMENT IN PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION
1. Introduction 127
2. The concept of commitment 128
3. The primacy of commitment (I) 132
4. How to escape from conventional restrictions 135
5. Restrictions versus conditions of possibility 139
6. The primacy of commitment (II) 143
7. Discussion 145

IX. SUMMARISING AND CONCLUDING REMARKS: COMMITMENT AND ACADEMIC RIGOR IN PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION 153

NEDERLANDSE SAMENVATTING (DUTCH SUMMARY) 169

DANKWOORD (ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS IN DUTCH) 181