Since this portion of the thesis is most likely to be read first by all recipients, I have spent some time trying to make sure I do not leave anyone out. This is no small task, as there have been many people over the years who have contributed to my academic, social and mental well-being. If, however, I have omitted someone, please accept my apologies!

Firstly, I must sincerely thank my supervisors Kostas Skenderis and Marika Taylor for their endless patience, valuable advice and guidance. This work would certainly not have been possible without your help. You taught me the true meaning of the words "work ethic". No email or question, however trivial, went unanswered.

To all my (past and present) colleagues and dear friends at the Institute of Physics and further afield, Kris, Paul, Borun, Bram, Goffredo, Juan, Keun-Young, Michal, Marco, Yegor, Ricardo, Adam, Daniel, Benjamin, Natalia, Shanna, Lisa, Milosz, Jesper, Richard, Maria, György, Michael, Giota, Thomas, Joao, Kyriakos, Ardian, Joost, Balt, Ingmar, Sheer, Xerxes, Paul and Goeffrey: thank you for the brotherhood! An extra mention must be made of Kris, who kindly helped me with the Dutch translation of my summary. Many thanks also to Yocklang, Anne-Marieke, Joost and Inneke, for their administrative help and words of wisdom. For fun times at the coffee machine I must mention the experimentalists "around the corner". I often returned to work energized from the coffee and the laughs.

I extend a special thank you to Roel, Benoit, Francesco, Michele and my close friends from South Africa, Stephanie, Michelle and Ronny. To Johannes and Bianca, I hope you both know exactly how much you meant to me throughout this whole process. It is really true that the support of friends can help you overcome any obstacle.

To my dear Chiron, thank you for being the bright spot in my life which puts everything else in perspective. Also to Arda, Merlijn and Frans, my Dutch adoptive family, you always made me feel at home.
Most of all I would like to thank my parents and my sister. Words are not enough, and I know you’ll even say they’re unnecessary, but I truly could not have come this far without your support! Mama and Pale, I always felt like you were there with me even though you were thousands of miles away. And J, you are the only person who really was there with me from the very beginning, through thick and thin, and I am so glad we reached the end together!
