Transnational migrant politics in the Netherlands: historical structures and current events
Mügge, L.M.

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: http://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

UvA-DARE is a service provided by the library of the University of Amsterdam (http://dare.uva.nl)

Download date: 02 Apr 2019
LIST OF TABLES

Table 1.1 Ethnic self-identification in Suriname, 2004................................................................. 3
Table 1.2 Largest immigrant groups by country of origin and generation, 2008 ..................... 7
Table 2.1 Transnational activities and their degree of institutionalisation................................. 24
Table 2.2 Typology of transnational political activities ............................................................. 25
Table 2.3 Differentiation between ties ......................................................................................... 28
Table 2.4 Types of transnational ties studied ................................................................................. 28
Table 3.1 Ethnic self-identification of Surinamese................................................................. 38
Table 3.2 Religion by country of origin/ethnicity ................................................................. 39
Table 3.3 Characteristics by country of origin/ethnicity ................................................................. 40
Table 3.4 Migration motives by generation ......................................................................................... 40
Table 3.5 Transnational media usage .......................................................................................... 42
Table 3.6 Transnational contacts and discussing politics ................................................................. 44
Table 3.7 Attachment to ancestral country/ethnic group ................................................................. 46
Table 3.8 Organisational membership and homeland directed activities ........................................ 47
Table 3.9 (Trans)national electoral activities: political parties ......................................................... 56
Table 3.10 Possible voting in elections and homeland voting advice .................................................. 64
Table 3.11 Political party preferences ............................................................................................ 66
Table 3.12 Reproduction of transnational political activities ................................................................. 69
Table 3.13 Consultation of ethnic/national group ............................................................................. 72
Table 3.14 Presumed electoral chances per population group, scores 1-10 (average)............... 74
Table 4.1 Voting percentages of Surinamese/Antilleans and Turks in municipal elections .... 77
Table 4.2 Number of Surinamese and Turkish municipal councillors, 1998 and 2002 ........... 77
Table 4.3 Number and density of Surinamese and Turkish organisations ........................................ 78
Table 4.4 Isolated and connected Surinamese and Turkish organisations ........................................ 78
Table 4.5 Types of Surinamese organisations included in the network analysis .......................... 81
Table 4.6 Types of Turkish organisations included in the network analysis .................................. 81
Table 4.7 Relevance of specific types of ties ..................................................................................... 119
Table 8.1  Dominant directions of transnational politics .................................................................192
Table A.1  Conducted interviews ..................................................................................................208
Table B.1  SPVA sample provided by ISEO .................................................................................212
Table B.2  Non-response/drop out of approached ‘SPVA’ respondents ........................................213
Table B.3  Relation between the ‘pairs’ .........................................................................................214
Table B.4  Interviewed respondents by country of origin/ethnicity, 2004 ......................................215
Table B.5  Sample by sex and country of origin/ethnicity ............................................................215
Table B.6  Issues discussed during the interviews ........................................................................216
Table B.7  Surinamese Dutch political party preference by generation .......................................217
Table B.8  Surinamese homeland political party preference by generation ....................................218
Table B.9  Turkish Dutch political party preference by generation .............................................219
Table B.10 Turkish homeland political party preference by generation .......................................219
Table B.11 Kurdish Dutch political party preference by generation ...........................................220
Table B.12 Kurdish homeland political party preference by generation .......................................220
Table D.1  Surinamese organisations in the Netherlands in figure 4.1 ...........................................263
Table D.2  Organisations in Suriname in figure 4.1 ......................................................................270
Table D.3  Turkish and Kurdish organisations in NL and Europe (figures 4.3 and 4.5) ...............274
Table D.4  Organisations in Turkey ..............................................................................................278