ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Doing my PhD was an exciting journey in many regards. Although it was not always easy, I would definitely do it again. Thank you to everyone I have met along the way:

First of all, I would like to thank all teachers and students who put their enthusiasm into this project. Annemarie, Bas, Corinne, Dennis, Douwe, Eddie, Elbert, Eric, Erwin, Femke, Ferry, Geert, Hans, Hildert, Hugo, Jan, Jan, John, Joke, Jolien, Kitty, Lilian, Linda, Marcel, Marga, Marianne, Matthieu, Nils, Paul, Paul, Peter, Peter, Petra, Rob, Sean, Stefanie, Tako, Tom, and Zeina – I learned a lot from you!

Monique Volman, thank you for being such an inspirational and enjoyable promoter and supervisor. I hope we will continue working together in the future. Jos Beishuizen, both of us being psychologists, I felt we were on the same wavelength. Thank you for making my PhD and EARLI/JURE 2009 unforgettable.

At the VU University, where I started my PhD, I could always count on my colleagues Jeroen van Andel, Rosanne Zwart, Thea van Lankveld, Hester Radstake, Tim Favier, Saskia van der Jagt, Stipo Jelec, Mitchel Waterman and Martijn van Schaik for scholarly advice and non-scholarly activities. When I moved to the University of Amsterdam, I was warmly welcomed by my colleagues there: Louise Elffers, Suzanne Jak, Hulya Kosar-Altinyelken, Ilona de Milliano, Inge Molenaar, Jaap Schuitema, Maren Thomsen, and Roel van Steensel. Frans Oort, you never got tired of explaining statistics to me and I learned a lot. Roomies Lisa Gaikhorst and Sandra de Koster, thanks to you, the basement was an enjoyable place!

Jantien Smit, you are my ultimate scaffolding-buddy. Our travels and collaborations are precious to me and I hope we will pursue these things in the future!

Neil Mercer, as a visiting scholar in Cambridge I really enjoyed our discussions and I appreciate you showing me the world of qualitative analysis. Deborah Pino-Pasternak, if it wasn't for you, I might not have pursued developing the coding system that I had been working on for a year and is now a central part of my thesis. Thank you for your support and inspiration! Emma Charlton, Faith Rayner, Filio Constantinou, Rocio García Carrión, Mariska Okkinga, Marloes Bagijn, Bill Smith, Cris Cotobal and Gara Garcia Martin, you've made my Cambridge time extraordinary.

Rupert Wegerif and Rupert Higham, you have shown me what a real Dialogue looks and feels like and it changed the way I now (try to) communicate with others. I greatly appreciate that!

Ed Elbers, you're one of the most genuine researchers I know. I deeply appreciate and enjoy our collaboration and I hope we will keep in touch!

Julie Visser, Jenny van Beek, Ula Kraus and Eva Hengst, thanks for supporting me in finding ways to take it easy. Dirk van Baar, Sanne Barendse, Berta Conill, Annelies Mesman, Maylan Paardekooper Overman, Rolf van de Pol, Nynke Sytsema, and Tonnie van der Varst, when not working on my thesis, I've spend lots of time with you; I could not imagine my life without you. Laura van de Pol, finally it's time to switch roles: I'm so pleased that you will be supporting me at the defense. Kyra Bours, Amber Bours, and Luit Raaphorst, thank you for being the loveliest nieces/nephew in the world and for letting me practice my scaffolding-skills on you.

Mittelmeijer Family, I greatly appreciate the interest and warmth you've shown me. Joop Mittelmeijer, your enthusiasm for and interest in my research is heartwarming. Marie-Anne Mittelmeijer, without knowing, you created the artwork for this dissertation. It was the best 'Sinterklaas surprise' ever. Astrid Zuidema, thank you so much for doing the photography. I appreciate it a lot.

Dad, I know you're always there and I greatly appreciate that. Mom, right from the start of choosing a PhD-project, you pointed out the beauty of the scaffolding project and you were so right! You've always shown an infinite interest in everything I do; you're the best mom a daughter and a PhD-student can wish for.

Jasper Mittelmeijer, you've found the perfect balance between showing interest in my work and tearing me away from it; you're just perfect!
