

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

Female religious agents in Morocco: Old practices and new perspectives Ouguir, A.A.

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Ouguir, A. (2013). Female religious agents in Morocco: Old practices and new perspectives.

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <http://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

Acknowledgements

This research has been made possible thanks to a grant of the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research. First and foremost, my thanks and gratitude go to my supervisors, Professor Fāṭima Sadiqi and Professor Ruud Peters, for their invaluable advice, insightful comments on the subject of this thesis and scholarly supervision. My thanks are also due to Dr. Karen Vintges for her pertinent supervision, advice, help and support. I deeply thank her for her friendship as well as her generous hospitality over the years. I would also like to express my deepest gratitude to Dr. Margaret Rausch for her encouragement and help. I am also grateful to Dr. Mariette Van Beek, Dr. Marjo Buitelaar and Dr. Edien Bartels for their advice. I would like to thank the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research for making this research possible. Many thanks also to the Universiteit van Amsterdam, especially to the staff members of the Faculty of Humanities and the Department of Philosophy; and to the Faculty of Letters and Human Sciences Dhar Mehraz Fes for support and help during the years of my research. I am thankful to Dr. Jan Hoogland, who is the director of the Dutch Institute in Morocco, and to its coordinator Cynthia Plette for their assistance and encouragement.

I am also thankful to many family members and friends for their help and support throughout my work on this thesis. I would as well like to thank my parents who taught me how to read and write and for whose souls I ask God for mercy and blessings. I am indebted to my husband Aḥmad Alami, for many fruitful discussions on the various issues and themes of my thesis and for accompanying me during my fieldwork in the mountains of Morocco. His love and support have nourished this research. I would also like to thank my daughters Sara and Hajar for their love and their continuous prayers to God to help me to successfully complete my research. I am grateful as well to my sisters, Ouguir Fāṭima, Ouguir Samira, Ouguir Houda, and my brothers, Ouguir Ḥasan, Ouguir Hammadi, Ouguir Mustapha and Ouguir Hicham. I also want to thank my cousin, Ouguir `Alī and my brothers-in-law, El-Omri Mustapha, Lafdaoui Omar and Ouissa Muḥamed. I am grateful to my sisters-in-law, Qrifa Fāṭima and Ahmmad Salwa. I also want to thank my nieces, El-Omri Mariam, El-Omri `Āyisha, El-Omri Hiba, Ouguir Ranya, Ouguir Zayneb and Lafdaoui Fatine, and my nephews, Lafdaoui Hamza, Ouissa Sma'il, Ouissa Ilyas, Ouguir Zaid and Ouguir Mahdi. I want to thank my friends, Asmaa Bouslmam, Malika Houcha, Rachid Touhtouh, Rose Admiral, Taib Kabir and his family and many others. Finally, I am deeply indebted to all people who offered me continuous encouragement, support, love and patience throughout the years I spent on this work.