On the importance of families and public policies for child development outcomes

Rosero Moncayo, J.A.

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
Contents

1 Introduction

2 Trade-offs between different early childhood interventions: Evidence from Ecuador
  2.1 Introduction ........................................................................ 5
  2.2 Context and interventions ................................................... 8
    2.2.1 Context ..................................................................... 8
    2.2.2 Programs .................................................................. 9
    2.2.3 Selection process ....................................................... 9
  2.3 Empirical approach ............................................................. 10
  2.4 Data .................................................................................. 13
  2.5 First stage and identifying assumptions ............................... 15
  2.6 Results .............................................................................. 19
    2.6.1 Children’s cognitive and motor outcomes ....................... 19
    2.6.2 Children’s health outcomes ....................................... 24
    2.6.3 Mothers’ outcomes ..................................................... 24
  2.7 Putting the pieces together .................................................. 30
  2.8 Conclusions ..................................................................... 34

3 On the effectiveness of child care centers in promoting child development in Ecuador
  3.1 Introduction ...................................................................... 39
  3.2 Context and intervention ................................................... 41
    3.2.1 Context ..................................................................... 41
    3.2.2 Intervention ............................................................... 42
  3.3 Empirical approach ............................................................. 43
  3.4 Data and outcomes ............................................................. 45
    3.4.1 Sample design ............................................................. 46
    3.4.2 Outcomes ................................................................. 49
  3.5 Results .............................................................................. 50
5.6.1 Mother’s time investment ........................................ 109
5.6.2 Breastfeeding ...................................................... 110
5.6.3 Poverty, parental schooling and teenage motherhood ...... 112
5.7 Conclusions .......................................................... 115

6 Summary and conclusions ........................................... 121