Behavioral therapy for functional constipation in childhood: health-related quality of life, emotional and behavior problems & parental child-rearing attitudes van Dijk, M.

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: http://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
Table of Contents

Chapter 1. General Introduction ................................................................. 7
  Definition of Functional Constipation (FC) ............................................. 8
  Prevalence and cost implications ......................................................... 8
  Development and maintenance of constipation: the biopsychosocial model ................................................................. 9
  Treatment approaches in the 20th and 21st century ................................ 9
  Behavioral therapy .................................................................................. 10
  Aim, design and outline of the thesis .................................................... 12

Chapter 2. Chronic childhood constipation: A review of the literature and the introduction of a protocolized behavioral intervention program

Chapter 3. Behavioral therapy for childhood constipation: a randomized, controlled trial

Chapter 4. Health related quality of life in children with constipation-associated fecal incontinence

Chapter 5. Prevalence and associated clinical characteristics of behavior problems in constipated children

Chapter 6. Parental child-rearing attitudes are associated with functional constipation in childhood

Chapter 7. General discussion ................................................................. 101
  Summary of the main findings ............................................................. 103
  Reflections on the findings ................................................................. 104
  Limitations .......................................................................................... 109
  Clinical implications: the best of both worlds ...................................... 110
  Future research ................................................................................... 111

Summary ....................................................................................................... 117
Samenvatting .............................................................................................. 123
Dankwoord ................................................................................................. 129
Curriculum vitae ........................................................................................ 135