Curriculum Vitae

Carola de Groot was born in Naarden on the 15th of August 1980. She studied Economics, with a specialisation in Spatial Economics, at the Free University of Amsterdam from 2000 until 2005. In her final year of study, she investigated the suburbanisation of non-Western migrants for the case of Amsterdam while stationed at the former Ministry of Housing, Spatial Planning and the Environment (VROM), which resulted in her Master's dissertation titled "Black Flight". After obtaining her Master's degree cum laude in 2005, she started working at the PBL Netherlands Environmental Assessment Agency in The Hague as a researcher on residential mobility decision processes, demography, and the connection between spatial and demographic developments, such as the greying of the population and population decline. In 2006, she became a PhD student at the Amsterdam Institute for Social Science Research (AISSR) of the University of Amsterdam, resulting in this thesis.
