The first sentence and my greatest respect go to my supervisor Arthur Schram, for encouraging me in my first venturing steps in economics; and, at later stages, for giving me the most helpful criticisms I could have wished for. I am very thankful for his support and trust. Many thanks to my other supervisors Maus Sabelis and Martijn Egas, who have been a steady source of inspiration and feedback. Their ideas transpire in the experimental designs and have greatly improved the manuscript. To my other coauthors, too, I am very much indebted - working together has been the greatest pleasure during the past years. Chapter 2 is the result of collaboration with Martijn Egas and Lucas Molleman and was published in 2013; Chapter 3 is based on a working paper with Martin Kocher and Arthur Schram, and Chapter 4 is joint work with Arno Riedl, Martijn Egas and Laurens Gomes.

I want to thank the members of the committee for taking the time and effort to read the manuscript. The financial support from The Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) and the Marie Curie program are gratefully acknowledged- and so is the hospitality of the Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität in Munich, the University of Vienna, the Center for Adaptive Behavior and Cognition in Berlin, and the University of Mannheim. For the rest of my career, I will strive to become as friendly and smart as Martin Kocher, as straightforward yet considerate as Arthur, and as creative and open-minded as Karl Sigmund.

Working at CREED has been a delight, with the additional treat of the visits to the biology department. The CREED group plus alumni always seemed to be the most popular group at conferences. Thanks to all my colleagues in Amsterdam, Mannheim, Berlin, Vienna and Munich, for daily discussions, feedback, talks, lunches and beers; and to my colleagues at LEI Wageningen UR and Sciencepalooza.nl for reminding me to finish my thesis. Cheers to all the real friends I gained from this PhD: Ana, Astrid, Aljaž, Ailko, Ernesto, Martin, Fabrice, Tom, Christian, Mathias, Marian, Jan Willem, Matthijs, Andreja, Michal, and Alminas. Special thanks to the Pink Boots Society: Floris, Tijmen, Astrid, Frank, Naomi, David, Sander and Julia – to think that I was afraid of economists before I started! And cheers to all my old friends, especially Eefje, Freek, Lisa, Stefan, Anneke, Jan Hein and Lotte and to my 'paranimphs' Adrian and Leendert for their support.

Thanks to my parents and brothers for making me feel safe and important. Love to Tijmen.
