The problem of disenchantment: scientific naturalism and esoteric discourse, 1900-1939
Asprem, E.

Citation for published version (APA):
List of Figures

Figure 1: Three dimensions of disenchantment ................................................................. 21

Figure 2: Comparison of "Cartesian" and "Batesonian" worldviews ........................................ 46

Figure 3: Naturalism – supernaturalism continuum .......................................................... 66

Figure 4: Blind spot of disenchantment on the naturalism-supernaturalism continuum .......... 69

Figure 5: Three levels of scientific interpretation ................................................................. 127

Figure 6: Mendel’s law of heredity ......................................................................................... 184

Figure 7: Evolutionary positions placed on three dimensions ................................................ 194

Figure 8: Samuel Alexander’s philosophy of emergence ...................................................... 238

Figure 9: Naturalisation strategies in psychical research ....................................................... 313

Figure 10: Photographic impressions of astral projection (Hereward Carrington) ................... 337

Figure 11: Illustration of disrupted telepathic signal (René Warcollier) .................................. 362

Figure 12: The links between psychical research, vitalism, Lamarckism, and eugenics .............. 406

Figure 13: Zener cards for testing of ESP (Karl Zener, J. B. Rhine) ........................................ 415

Figure 14: Representations of non-visual entities in physics (Descartes, FitzGerald, Lodge) ......... 474

Figure 15: "Occult" representations of hydrogen (Annie Besant, C. W. Leadbeater) ............... 479

Figure 16: "Ultimate physical atom" (according to Besant & Leadbeater) compared with "the general form of an Atom" (according to Edwin Babbitt) ................................................................. 486