Acknowledgements

“Acknowledgements”, well writing this word gives me a nice feeling...my PhD is finally completed and finally I am writing a chapter that everyone is going to read!!

As I wrote on the board of the lab when I left for Germany, I really enjoyed working in the Pathology Department. I felt welcome from the beginning and I would like to thank everybody for contributing to the nice atmosphere within our department.

Sandrine, thank you for guiding me during my PhD period, for the time spent in discussing my results and correcting my “long” articles, for the trust given to me and for cheering me up when I needed it. As always in research, things did not go as planned, but with your efforts and also your critics, we found a way to continue the project and this book is the result of it.

Jaklien, first of all, thank you for saving me from unemployment! You always showed me your trust and support, and had a positive attitude also when the situation was not so rosy. This helped me a lot during the PhD period as well as during the last 6 months in Germany.

I would like to thank my “roomies” Alessandra, Diba, Ingrid, Jeroen, Jesper, Lionel, Lotte, Marcel, Unsal, Xiaofei, and Wilco for the “gezelligheid” of room L2-112. Thank you all for sharing not only the room, but also biscuits, pens, protocols, beers at the Epstein-bar, in some cases socks, and most importantly the responsibility of taking care of 10 ants (which miserably failed after one month). “Let them rest in peace” on the top shelf of our room. Wilco, thank you for taking me under “your wings” in the first year and for teaching me what you knew. Ingrid, thanks for not letting me faint in the ARIA during my first experiment with mice. Jereon, you are a man of many words, so thanks for all the chats at work and outside; good luck in finishing up! Jesper, thanks for the discussions on CD44 and fibrosis, and for all your travel stories. Lionel, you are also almost at the end, I think that we are all waiting for that trip to Brussels. Marcel, I still have your sock (just one, the other one got lost in Rembrandtplein!), thanks for not running with me against the “B cell people” in the Dam-tot-Damloop, and for always taking Martin with you after night-outs. Lotte, it was nice to have you back in the team after your internship, go to Naples with your spontaneity and everything is going to be fine. Diba, thanks for keeping an eye for me for open positions, and for making the room cozy during Xmas time. Ale, e’ un peccato che tu abbia iniziato quando io stavo finendo, TREM1 ci ha fatto pensare ma mi è piaciuto lavorare con te ed avere un’italiana in squadra, in bocca al lupo negli States! Of course, I also want to thank the wise men of room L2-111, thank you Geurt, Mark and Peter for the advice given every time I ran into your room with a question. Gwen, thanks for all the help with the mice experiments and the good chats that had to stay inside the ARIA. Loes, thank you for not getting annoyed by the many “Beste lieve Loes, ik heb een vraagje”. Thanks to Jan A. for all the good interventions during the work discussions; there is a lot to be learned from you. Onno, thank you for the help with the slide scanner. Kasper, thank you for the work that you did on CD44 before I started my PhD and for reviewing chapters 5 and 6.

Anand and Nike, there is a reason why I choose you two as paranympths. Anand, you are one of one kind, always there for the others, ready to listen and give a nice word or throw a joke. I think that I never saw you grumpy, or maybe, just the time that we had to get up at 4 a.m. to catch a plane from Barcelona! I really value our friendship, but you already know that.

Lieve Nike, je bent het hart van het lab! You are the most energetic woman that I know, and so cheerful that you make people happy just from being around you. Thank you for all the pipetting that you did for me and for the “therapeutic sessions” that we had in your room. Thanks to you, now I know that: “Een zwaluw maakt nog niet de zomer” and “Wie goed doet, goed ontmoet”!

Anneke, Annemieke en Leonie, ik vond het altijd gezellig om met jullie te kletsen in het lab!

Leonie, je hebt het goed gedaan bij de NY marathon, nu moet je alleen naar Amsterdam verhuizen en dan ben je een topper!

As I said (wrote) in the beginning, I really enjoyed the atmosphere in the lab, thus, many people have to be mentioned here: Alex, Alex Brown (sorry but the B&B Rampanelli is now closed), Dieuwertje, Chiel, Chris, Dilara, Esther, Frederike, Gerrit, Hans, Jitske, Katarina, Katja, Linda (thanks for driving back from the PhD Retreat), Mahnoush, Martin (yes, there will be beer and you can sleep at Marcel’s place), Martine, Mireille, Monique, Nerissa, Per, Peter R., Peter T., Richard, Robert H., Robert E., Ronald, Roy, Sander (thanks for the help for chapters 2 and 6), Shivani (do not lose your interest in everyone and everything), Thera, Timon, Willem, and Zemin.

Thanks to Patrick and Remco for helping out with my damned PC, to Frank, Agnes, Juana and Marion for the bureaucracy work, to Wim and Wilfried for the printing of posters. Eelco, thanks a lot for the great job with the layout of this book in such a short time.

Thanks to the neuro-group (Astrid, Avanita, Eleonora, Dirk, Jasper, Rene), for always offering me a cup of coffee (+ biscuits/cake), when I was dropping by in the mornings, and for borrowing the westernblot stuff when the westernblot room upstairs was dominated by chaos. Ava, it maybe took some time to get closed, but I am happy that Anand put a good word on me.

Jeroen G., we did not work together, anyway thanks for your enthusiasm and passion for research, for being around in the lab in the evenings and week-ends, and for being a person to look up to!

For the seminars, borrels, Christmas dinners and lab-days thanks to all the people mentioned above and to Allard, Carel, Joris, Mat, Marc, Marcel S., Marius, Marnix, and Steven. Joris and Steven, thanks for being part of the commission and Steven also for hiring Harmen.

I would also like to thank the neighbors of the Anatomy department for the chats in the corridor or through the glass door between our labs. In particular, thanks to Aho, Annalisa, Ileana and Sonia. It is funny that I got to know you girls in the toilet of L2!

As a foreigner, you do not survive abroad without an international community around you.

Annarella, Cate, Ema, Evan, Felipe, Karene, Kinga, Marco, Maria, Melania, Miriam, Olivia, Tjana, Trudi and Valeria, it is always fun to go out with you guys! Evan and Marco, your parties will remain historical, especially the one in which a piano was suddenly brought upstairs! Cate, amiga de café, como estábamos bien juntos! Es una pena que no estas alla promotion, pero vengo a molestarte pronto en Barcelona. Maria, no me puedo imaginar el primer año sin ti; empezamos a salir juntos del primer fin de semana, y cinco años más tarde, llegas da Manchester para mi promoción, gracias!! Vale, o mejor señora Jansen, bueno que te quedas en Amsterdam; tuvimos vidas en paralelo durante un tiempo, por suerte nos pudimos reír juntos en vez de llorar; Amsterdam no va a ser lo mismo cuando usted irá! Ema, se i muri dello smokey potessero parlare!! Grazie per aver portare un po' si sole napoletano ad Amsterdam!

Thanks also to Andreas and Putri, after changing so many houses in the first year I finally felt home when I moved in with you two guys! Sjoerd, it is amazing that you were also in my Master's thesis acknowledgements; who would have thought in Australia that we will still be so good friends.

Grazie anche a voi mamma, papa', Michele, Elena, e il piccolo Rampa in arrivo. Magari ora avete un'idea di quello che ho fatto negli ultimi anni!

Ringrazio pure le mie care sbarbine, Marcella, Nadia, Sarah, Silvia e Tullia, per i week-ends a Bologna, Milano, Praga, per le vacanze insieme in Spagna e Portogallo, e per essere i miei fedeli scagnozzi di sempre. Tulli, è o non è un fatto del tre e mezzo questo libro??

No, I did not forget you Harmen, you are definitely the person that I have to thank the most here!

Thank you for tolerating my ups and downs during the last year, thanks for being there in a professional and "unprofessional" way! J Funny enough, I did not even like you at the very beginning because you took the desk of Maria, then we became friends but still I was thinking that you were kind of alien (all giving and never asking a favor back), and now, well..., now I end up going to the Stadium on St. Valentine's day, isn't it what they call "love"?? I think that we go along as well as the "pane" with "burro di arachidi"!! Grazie cit.

Dank ook aan Dieuwke, Freek, Gert, Esther en aanhang voor de gezellige etentjes en feestdagen samen!

Finally, I would like to thank the people working at the Epstein bar, the Gasthuis and the Sound Garden for alleviating the frustrations and sorrow of a researcher and thereby contributing, in their own way, to the making of this book.

Bedankt allemaal !!

Thank you all !!

Grazie a tutti !!

Gracias a todos !!
