Challenges and opportunities for judicial protection of human rights against decisions of the United Nations Security Council

Hollenberg, S.J.

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
Table of Contents

1. Introduction
   1.1. Sketching the Scene
   1.2. Research Questions
   1.3. Methodology
      1.3.1. Research Methods
      1.3.2. Conflict between International Norms
      1.3.3. Judicial Protection
      1.3.4. Domestic and Regional Courts
   1.4. Outline

2. UNSC Resolutions Potentially Affecting Individuals’ Human Rights
   2.1. Introduction
   2.2. The Legal Nature of UNSC Resolutions
      2.2.1. The Binding Force of Obligations Created by the UNSC
      2.2.2. The Scope of Discretion Left for Implementation
   2.3. Types of UNSC Resolutions Selected for the Research
      2.3.1. Targeted Sanctions
      2.3.2. Selective Sanctions
      2.3.3. UNSC Sanctions Committees
      2.3.4. Other Resolutions Potentially Affecting Individuals
         2.3.4.1. Authorizations
         2.3.4.2. Cooperation with the International Tribunals
         2.3.4.3. International Administration
   2.4. The Implementation of UNSC Resolutions
      2.4.1. The Divide between National and International Law
      2.4.2. The Role of State Organs
      2.4.3. Implementation by the EU
   2.5. Conclusion

3. The International Human Rights Involved
   3.1. Introduction
   3.2. Sources of the International Human Rights Obligations
   3.3. Distinction from Fundamental Rights
   3.4. Human Rights of Private Entities
   3.5. The Human Rights Norms Concerned
      3.5.1. Respect for Property
      3.5.2. Freedom of Movement
3.5.3. Liberty and Security ................................................................. 66
3.5.4. Private and Family Life ............................................................ 67
3.5.5. Effective Remedy ................................................................. 69
3.5.6. Fair Trial and Access to Court .................................................... 71
3.6. Derogation and Limitation .......................................................... 77
  3.6.1. Derogation ............................................................................. 77
  3.6.2. The System of Limitations ......................................................... 79
  3.6.3. Proportionality Analysis .......................................................... 83
  3.6.4. The Margin of Appreciation ..................................................... 86
3.7. Remedy before the UNSC Sanctions Committee ....................... 88
  3.7.1. From Diplomatic Protection to the Ombudsperson .............. 90
  3.7.2. The Latest Reforms ............................................................ 92
3.8. Conclusion .............................................................................. 98

4. The Precedence of UNSC Resolutions over International Human Rights
   Law .................................................................................................. 101
  4.1. Introduction ............................................................................. 101
  4.2. The Balancing of International Obligations .............................. 102
  4.3. No, or Limited, Judicial Protection ........................................... 106
    4.3.1. Contestable Attribution of Conduct Resulting in Inadmissibility ........................................................................... 108
    4.3.2. The ECtHR’s Refusal to Engage in a Marginal Review of State
           Conduct under UNSC Auspices .................................................. 116
      4.3.2.1. Rejection of the Equivalent Protection Test in the Behrami
               Case .................................................................................. 118
      4.3.2.2. Further Restriction of the Equivalent Protection Test’s
               Application .......................................................................... 120
      4.3.2.3. The Equivalent Protection Test with regard to Other IOs
               ......................................................................................... 126
      4.3.2.4. Conclusion .................................................................... 127
    4.3.3. UNSC Resolutions Limiting Domestic Courts’ Jurisdiction 127
      4.3.3.1. Limited Review of Acts of Cooperation with International
               Tribunals ........................................................................... 128
      4.3.3.2. Limited Review of Implementation of Sanction Measures
               Against Individuals ................................................................ 136
      4.3.3.3. Conclusion .................................................................... 139
    4.3.4. Judicial Protection Only in Regard to Ius Cogens ............... 140
  4.4. Courts Addressing the Conflict between International Norms .... 144
    4.4.1. Indications on Hierarchy from International Human Rights
           Case Law ............................................................................... 145
    4.4.2. Domestic Courts on the International Norm Conflict .......... 149
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4.4.2.1. Reconciling International Obligations in Al-Jedda (House of Lords)</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.4.2.2. Subsequent Interpretations of Al-Jedda (House of Lords)</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.4.2.3. Other Domestic Courts’ Perspectives on the International Norm Conflict</td>
<td>158</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.5. Conclusion</td>
<td>160</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. Broad and Narrow Interpretations</td>
<td>165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.1. Introduction</td>
<td>165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2. Interpretation of UNSC Resolutions by Domestic and Regional Courts</td>
<td>166</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2.1. Courts’ Latitude Following from the Need for Interpretation</td>
<td>168</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2.2. Methods of Interpretation of UNSC Resolutions</td>
<td>171</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2.3. The Role of the Interpretations by the UNSC Sanctions Committees</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.3. Emphasis on the Interest of Maintaining International Peace and Security</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4. Creating an Opportunity for Judicial Protection through Interpretation</td>
<td>194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4.1. Narrow Interpretation of UNSC Resolutions</td>
<td>196</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4.2. Presumption of Compliance</td>
<td>206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4.3. Beyond Interpretation?</td>
<td>211</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.5. Conclusion</td>
<td>215</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6. The Dualist Approach and Indirect Review</td>
<td>220</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.1. Introduction</td>
<td>220</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.2. The Dualist Approach as an Avoidance Technique</td>
<td>221</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3. Indirect Review of a UNSC Resolution’s Lawfulness</td>
<td>225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.1. Direct Application of International Human Rights Law</td>
<td>227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.2. A Clear Reference to International Human Rights Law</td>
<td>233</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.3. A Connection with International Human Rights Law Cannot be Ascertained</td>
<td>237</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.4. Appraisal</td>
<td>242</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.4. Review Against Entirely Separate Domestic Prescriptions</td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.4.1. Domestic Division of Competences</td>
<td>244</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.4.2. Requirements for Extradition</td>
<td>248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.4.3. Appraisal</td>
<td>254</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.5. A Need for Judicial Dialogue</td>
<td>255</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.6. Conclusion</td>
<td>257</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
7. Proportionality and Alternative Remedy Review ................................. 261
  7.1. Introduction .................................................................................. 261
  7.2. Indirect Assessment of a UNSC Resolution’s Proportionality .......... 262
    7.2.1. The Right to Property ............................................................. 263
      7.2.1.1. Less Restrictive Alternative Means .................................. 267
      7.2.1.2. Review of the Balance Drawn between the Interests at Stake .................................................................................. 274
    7.2.2. The Right to Effective Judicial Protection .............................. 280
    7.2.3. Appraisal ................................................................................. 282
  7.3. Assessing the Alternative Remedy at the UN Level ..................... 286
    7.3.1. The Alternative Remedy Test .................................................. 286
    7.3.2. Domestic Courts’ Review of the Remedy before the UNSC Sanctions Committee ................................................................. 288
  7.4. Conclusion .................................................................................... 294

  8.1. Introduction .................................................................................. 297
  8.2. The Right to a Fair Trial and the Obligation to State Reasons ....... 299
  8.3. Counterbalancing the Limitation on Access to Information ......... 303
    8.3.1. The Special Advocates Procedure ......................................... 304
      8.3.1.1. The Minimum Level of Disclosure of Information .......... 307
      8.3.1.2. Fairness of the Special Advocates Procedure .................. 309
    8.3.2. The Lack of a Special Advocates Procedure in Relation to Targeted Sanctions ................................................................. 312
      8.3.2.1. Disclosure of Information to the Individual Concerned 312
      8.3.2.2. Disclosure of Information to the Judiciary ....................... 316
    8.3.3. Domestic Authorities not Possessing all Relevant Information ................................................................................................. 318
  8.4. A Solution: Decentralization of Designations .............................. 320
  8.5. The Standard and Intensity of Review of the Grounds and Evidence ................................................................................................. 326
    8.5.1. The Criteria of Review under the 1373 Regime Applied to the 1267 Regime ................................................................. 326
    8.5.2. Progressive Intensity of Review ............................................. 329
  8.6. Conclusion .................................................................................... 332

9. Conclusion: Challenges, Opportunities, and a Suggestion for Improvement ............................................................................................ 337
  9.1. Introduction .................................................................................. 337
  9.2. The Research ................................................................................ 338
  9.3. Analysis of Case Law ..................................................................... 340
9.3.1. Application and Influence of Article 103 of the UN Charter 340
9.3.2. Possibilities Emanating from the Need for Interpretation .... 342
9.3.3. Opportunities Following from a Dualist Approach and Indirect Review ................................................................. 345
9.4. Assessment of the Challenges and Opportunities ..................... 350
9.5. The Approach to be Followed................................................. 353

Case Law......................................................................................... 360

Bibliography ................................................................................. 367

Summary ....................................................................................... 383

Samenvatting................................................................................. 386