Financial Intermediation and Monetary Transmission Through Conventional and Islamic Channels

Sajjad Zaheer

The foreground of the front cover image, Grand Mosque in Abu Dhabi, is a symbol of religion (can also be a church). The background building is of ABN AMRO in Amsterdam and represents conventional finance. Taken together, the picture may be viewed as introducing religious principles and moralities (risk sharing, transparency, prohibition of shorting selling etc.) in conventional finance. Also, the image potentially represents the dissertation title.
