UNIVERSITY OF AMSTERDAM

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

The modular security toolbox

Assembling state and citizenship in Jerusalem

Volinz, L.

Publication date
2019

Document Version
Other version

License
Other

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):
Volinz, L. (2019). The modular security toolbox: Assembling state and citizenship in Jerusalem. [Thesis, fully internal, Universiteit van Amsterdam].

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

UvA-DARE is a service provided by the library of the University of Amsterdam (https://dare.uva.nl)

Download date:24 May 2025

THE MODULAR SECURITY TOOLBOX: ASSEMBLING STATE AND CITIZENSHIP IN JERUSALEM

LIOR VOLINZ

THE MODULAR SECURITY TOOLBOX:

ASSEMBLING STATE AND CITIZENSHIP IN JERUSALEM

LIOR VOLINZ

THE MODULAR SECURITY TOOLBOX:

ASSEMBLING STATE AND CITIZENSHIP IN JERUSALEM

LIOR VOLINZ

THE MODULAR SECURITY TOOLBOX:

ASSEMBLING STATE AND CITIZENSHIP IN JERUSALEM

ACADEMISCH PROEFSCHRIFT

ter verkrijging van de graad van doctor

aan de Universiteit van Amsterdam op gezag van de Rector Magnificus

prof. dr. ir. K.I.J. Maex

ten overstaan van een door het College voor Promoties ingestelde commissie, in het openbaar te verdedigen in de Agnietenkapel op woensdag 23 januari 2019, te 14:00 uur

door

LIOR VOLINZ

geboren te Ramat Gan

Promotiecommissie:

Promotor:	Prof. dr. R.K. Jaffe	Universiteit van Amsterdam
Copromotor:	Dr. E. Grassiani	Universiteit van Amsterdam
Overige leden:	Prof. dr. N. Shalhoub-Kevorkian	Hebrew University of Jerusalem
	Prof. dr. W. Pullan	University of Cambridge
	Prof. dr. ir. L. Bertolini	Universiteit van Amsterdam
	Prof. dr. M. de Goede	Universiteit van Amsterdam
	Dr. V.D. Mamadouh	Universiteit van Amsterdam

Faculteit: Faculteit der Maatschappij- en Gedragswetenschappen

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgments viii
Preface x
List of Figures xi
1. Introduction 12
Security pluralization and privatization 17
Assemblage and the modular security toolbox 21
Security and citizenship 23
Negotiating urban citizenship 27
Dissertation outline 30
2. Researching Jerusalem 34
Jerusalem and its histories 36
Governing Jerusalem, Re-making Jerusalem 40
Methodology 47
Access and positionality, or on doing research in difficult settings 50
Ethical considerations 55
3. Governance through Pluralization 60
Modularity and pluralization 65
Heterogeneity: 'they come together' 68
Calling in the reserves 73
The multifacetedness of (in)security distribution 80
Informal knowledge and information transfer 84
Conclusion 89
4. Crafting and Reinforcing the State through Security Privatization 92
Security privatization and state-led projects 95
Reconfiguring security at East Jerusalem's settlement compounds 101
New public and the private nodes of authority in Jerusalem 104
Challenges and tensions in an emerging security provision 110
Seeking indemnification, differentiation and depoliticization 113
Conclusion 118

5. Outsourced Security and the Politics of Uncertainty 120
Governance through uncertainty in a city of barriers 124
Plural security actors: obfuscation and confusion 129
Military permits 142
How settlers travel 146
Shifting borders in spatiotemporality 152
Conclusion 164
6. Performing the Home and Negotiating Citizenship in Jerusalem 166
Performing citizenship 170
Citizenship under occupation 173
Fresh bananas and a moist toothbrush 177
Performing the home through socio-material practices 181
Secrecy, self-censorship, and how to mobilize the social 184
Performing the home through paperwork 188
Conclusion 193
7. Conclusion 196
(Re)assembling security landscapes 201
Towards a future of (in)security 204
Bibliography 208
English summary 230
Nederlandse samenvatting 235

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Writing a PhD is a bumpy journey full of obstacles, doubts and forks in the road. But I never had to traverse this road alone. I am indebted to so many colleagues and friends, guides and interlocutors, for accompanying me and supporting me over these past years. First, I would like to thank Rivke Jaffe and Erella Grassiani, my supervisors. Rivke assembled a diverse group of researchers, and with strong determination and unbounded optimism brought us together, leading us to question, to think, to debate and re-consider, both as a group and as individuals. Rivke's out-of-the-box thinking, meticulous reading of texts and shrewd observations accompanied me in every step of this journey. I was very fortunate to have Erella as my co-supervisor. With her attentiveness, methodological expertise and ample of research experience in Israel/Palestine, Erella provided me with valuable advice in every part of my work, and especially during my fieldwork.

I found a warm welcome at the University of Amsterdam, and particularly with my close colleagues at the SECURCIT project, whose similar research inquiries provided the background for endless hours of discussion, deliberation, chatter and laugher. Thank you Thijs, Carolina, Francesco, Tessa, Francesca, Frank and Patrick. I'm further thankful to my lovely colleagues from both the Governance and Inclusive Development group and from other research groups at the UvA: to Tracian, Alana, Sterre, Jelke, Joeri, Tara, Malin, Shazade, Yannis, Rowan, Juileen and many others. The stimulating academic environment at the University of Amsterdam allowed me to learn and seek advice from a large number of scholars. Among them I would like to mention Jan Nijman, Dennis Rodgers, Anna Nikolaeva and Joyeeta Gupta at the department of Human Geography, Urban Planning and International Development, as well as our guests from other institutions - Tahire Erman, Martijn Oosterbaan and Finn Stepputat, to name a few. I'm further thankful to the members of my doctoral committee, for their time and efforts in this important step of my academic development.

My thanks are also due to Eric Stoddart, Susanne Wigorts Yngevesson and David Lyon, who encouraged me to engage further in debates on surveillance technologies, and how these are contested and negotiated. In the writing-stage of my PhD, I was welcomed for a short visiting fellowship at the Crime & Society research group of the Vrije Universiteit Brussel. I'm grateful for the support of Lucas Melgaço, Kristel Beyens and Els Enhus, among others, who inspired me with new perspectives on security, policing, technology, and fear. Their support now continues, as I found a new scholarly home within their research group.

My academic training would have been incomplete without the advice and encouragements of Rajko Muršič and Staffan Löfving, my MA thesis supervisors. Thank you for demystifying the academic world and allowing me to develop my own voice within it. There are many others to whom thanks is due. While I can't name them all, I would like to mention a few - Erez Tzfadia, Munir Nusseibeh, Hillel Cohen, Oren Yiftachel, Nir Gazit, Barbara Segaert, Simone Tulumello, Ana Ivasiuc, Mijke Mulder, Shir Hever, Joan van Geel, Shira Havkin, Oren Shlomo, and Nils Zurawski. For the colourful cover and layout design of this dissertation, I'm thankful for the creative work of Urban Breznik. Many friends supported me on this journey, too many to list them all; yet I would like to make a particular mention of Itamar Shachar, who shared with me the travails of academia, of politics, and of an unwarranted hope for a better world. A special word of thanks is reserved for my anonymous interlocutors in Jerusalem, to those Jerusalemites, security agents, policymakers and advocates who allowed me a glimpse into their world, in all its shame and glory, in a city that became my home for a short while.

I was blessed by a family that encouraged me to replace full stops with questions marks, that encouraged me to let my inquires lead my way, allowing me to travel both near and far. Simple words could not express my thanks. Lastly, a word of thanks to my love, whose contribution to this work is immeasurable. Without her support and patience, the following pages would be nothing but blank.

PREFACE

This doctoral dissertation is the result of 52 months of research work as a doctoral candidate at the department of Human Geography, Planning and International Development of the University of Amsterdam, under the supervision of Prof. dr. Rivke Jaffe and dr. Erella Grassiani.

This research project was funded by the European Research Council (ERC), as part of a research grant awarded to Prof. dr. Rivke Jaffe, titled 'Transforming Citizenship through Hybrid Governance: The Impacts of Public-Private Security Assemblages' (SECURCIT). This research was further supported by the Amsterdam Institute for Social Science Research (AISSR), and the Centre for Urban Studies at the University of Amsterdam.

Earlier versions of Chapters 3 and 4 of this dissertation, and sections of the introductory chapter, were previously published in journal articles in the following peer-review journals:

Volinz, L. (2018). Governance through Pluralization: Jerusalem's Modular Security Provision, Security Dialogue, In Press. DOI: 10.1177/0967010618789758.

Volinz, L. (2018). Crafting and reinforcing the state through security privatisation: territorialisation as a public–private state project in East Jerusalem, Policing and Society, In Press. DOI: 10.1080/10439463.2018.1489396.

Cover and layout design: Urban Breznik

LIST OF FIGURES

Figure 1	Map of Greater Jerusalem	42
Figure 2	Private security guards providing transport services for Jewish-Israeli settlers, Silwan, Jerusalem.	106
Figure 3	An Israeli policeman and private security guard directing traffic near Qalandyia checkpoint, Jerusalem.	138
Figure 4	Aerial photo of Ras Abu Sabitan and al-Zayim checkpoints.	147
Figure 5	Israeli border-policemen and a military police-woman watch over the passage of Palestinian women into Jerusalem, Qalandyia Checkpoint.	158