What do you do and who do you think you are?

Activities speak louder than words

In focusing on what employees do, this dissertation provides opportunities to assess whether particular activities are congruent with who employees are, and whether, and to what extent, those activities constrain or enhance employee well-being and performance. Changes in work activities over time may sometimes imply that at a certain moment what employees do no longer sufficiently reflects who employees are professionally or what they can deal with in terms of workload. A first step in furthering understanding in this area is to study what employees (are asked to) do and how employees perceive such tasks.

After the introduction, Chapter 2 shows that it is possible to automatically extract information about what employees (are expected to) do from online vacancies with the use of text mining, and that the results are to in part comparable with and in part complementary to more mainstream job analysis methods. Text mining of vacancies provides a relatively efficient way of collecting and analyzing tasks and as such could aid in filling the lack of detailed studies about what employees do. In linking these tasks to well-being, I found that tasks differ in terms of being burdensome or enjoyable and that studying individual tasks can help in furthering our understanding of employee well-being. Chapter 3 shows that employees with a calling (i.e., employees who work for intrinsic enjoyment of the work itself rather than financial benefits or career advancement) expand their job through enhancing job crafting. This behavior can explain why employees with a calling may unintentionally do more than they can handle in terms of well-being, even though others in the organizations may benefit from their growing contribution and helping behavior. Although many employees may need to adjust who they are at work more often nowadays, the studies in Chapter 4 show that not all employees are equally equipped to deal such changes. I developed a scale for work identity rigidity, which measures the extent to which employees have an unfavorable attitude toward identity-related change and are unwilling to change who they are at work. Chapter 5 shows that (in)congruences between what employees do and who they are at work explain well-being and performance through the experienced meaningfulness at the level of work activities. The work of professionals can be divided in eight activity types that differ in the extent to which they are congruent with professional identity (i.e., 'doing what you are') and the extent to which they are significant for the organization (i.e., 'doing what matters'). The chapter also discusses how balance in the total set of work activities can be disrupted and regained by both professionals and organizational agents.

Together these studies suggest the importance of considering what employees (are asked to) do, which is guided by who they are and how they see their work, and vice versa. Each individual activity can be related to employee well-being, which means that when activities change so may the balance between meaningful and meaningless work. Incongruence between what employees do and what the employee and/or the organization need in terms of well-being or performance may also unintentionally occur based on employees being true to themselves or their calling rather than rational decisions. It is thus important for researchers and practitioners alike to continuously assess what employees do at the level of activities and use that specific information to understand and optimize employees' well-being and performance through changing what employees do, who they are, or their subjective experiences of the two. Although more research is needed to understand how to address incongruences when they occur, I showed that a greater understanding of what employees do, how they perceive these activities, and how this impacts well-being and performance is an important first step in this process. With this dissertation I hope to inspire further investigations of what employees do, because those activities may (unintentionally) become disconnected from who employees are, what makes them happy, what they can deal with in terms of workload, and what the organization needs and expects in light of the changing nature of work.

Wat doe je en wie ben je?

Activiteiten zeggen meer dan woorden

Dit proefschrift laat zien dat reflectie over wat werknemers doen mogelijkheden biedt om te beoordelen of deze taken voldoende in overeenstemming zijn met wie werknemers zijn en of deze activiteiten werknemers niet beperken in hun welzijn en prestaties. Taken zullen namelijk naar alle waarschijnlijkheid vaker veranderen, gelet op hoe werk in de afgelopen decennia in het algemeen is veranderd. Hierdoor is er een kans dat wat werknemers doen op een gegeven moment onvoldoende reflecteert wie ze zijn als professionals of waar ze mee om kunnen gaan in termen van werkdruk. De eerste stap in dit proces is beter begrijpen wat werknemers (gevraagd wordt te) doen en hoe werknemers deze taken ervaren.

Hoofdstuk 2 laat zien dat het mogelijk is om (semi-)automatisch informatie te vergaren uit online vacatures over wat werknemers doen met behulp van text mining en dat de resultaten tot op zekere hoogte vergelijkbaar zijn aan, en aanvullend op het gebruik van huidige functie-analysemethoden. Text mining biedt een relatief goedkope manier om taken te vergaren uit vacature teksten, en zou daarmee kunnen helpen het gebrek aan gedetailleerde studies over wat werknemers doen aan te vullen. Bovendien heb ik gevonden dat de taken niet gelijkmatig belastend of aangenaam zijn en dat het dus interessant is om naar de individuele taken te kijken om het welzijn van werknemers in kaart te brengen. Hoofdstuk 3 laat zien dat werknemers met een roeping (dat wil zeggen mensen die voornamelijk werken vanuit een intrinsiek plezier in het werk in mindere mate vanwege de financiële middelen en/of carrièrekansen) hun werk uitbreiden door job crafting. Dit gedrag kan verklaren waarom werknemers met een roeping onbedoeld meer gaan doen dan ze eigenlijk aankunnen daar waar het aankomt op hun werkdruk, ondanks dat deze toenemende bijdrage en dit hulpvaardig gedrag collega's binnen de organisatie vooruit helpen. Hoewel veel werknemers tegenwoordig regelmatig zullen moeten aanpassen wie ze zijn op het werk, laat hoofdstuk 4 laten zien dat niet alle werknemers even goed toegerust zijn voor het omgaan met zulke veranderingen. Ik heb een schaal ontwikkeld om de rigiditeit van iemands werkidentiteit te meten via de mate waarin iemand veranderingen betreffende identiteit als ongunstig beoordeelt en niet bereid is om te veranderen wie hij/zij is op het werk. Hoofdstuk 5 laat zien dat (in)congruentie tussen wat werknemers doen op het werk en wie ze zijn de betekenisvolheid op het niveau van specifieke taken kan verklaren. Het werk van professionals kan opgedeeld worden in acht soorten taken die verschillen in de mate waarin ze overeenkomen met iemands professionele identiteit, 'doen wat je bent', en de mate waarop ze bijdragen aan de organisatie, 'doen wat er toe doet'. Ik laat zien hoe de balans in het gehele taakpakket uiteindelijk verstoord kan raken en hoe deze weer herpakt kan worden.

Gezamenlijk suggeren deze studies dat het belangrijk is om te kijken naar wat werknemers (gevraagd wordt om te) doen. Elke afzonderlijke taak kan gerelateerd worden aan het welzijn van werknemers en omdat taken vaker zullen veranderen kan daarmee de balans tussen het uitvoeren van betekenisvol en betekenisloos werk verschuiven. Incongruentie tussen wat werknemers doen en waar de werknemer en/of de organisatie behoefte aan heeft daar waar het aankomt op het welzijn of de prestaties kan ook onbedoeld ontstaan wanneer werknemers trouw willen blijven aan wie ze zijn of aan hun roeping en hiedoor geen rationele besluiten nemen. Het is dus relevant voor onderzoekers en mensen in de praktijk om continue te blijven beoordelen wat werknemers doen qua taken om die specifieke informatie te gebruiken om het welzijn en de prestaties van werknemers te optimaliseren door te sleutelen aan wat werknemers doen, wie ze zijn, of de subjectieve ervaringen van deze twee factoren. Hoewel er meer onderzoek naar de aanpak van deze incongruenties, heb ik aangetoond dat het meer inzicht over wat werknemers doen een goede eerste stap is in dit proces. Met dit proefschrift hoop ik verder onderzoek naar wat werknemers doen te inspireren, aangezien taken (onbedoeld) los kunnen komen te staan van wie werknemers zijn, wat ze blij maakt, wat ze aankunnen qua werkdruk en wat de organisatie tegenwoordig verwacht te midden van de veranderende aard van het werk.

DANKWOORD - ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Allereerst wil ik mijn (co-)promotoren bedanken. Deanne, Stefan en Gábor het is dankzij jullie begeleiding dat ik de afgelopen jaren heb geleerd wat het betekent om zelfstandig onderzoek te doen. Ik ben dankbaar voor jullie ruimte en vertrouwen om te doen wat ik wilde. Deanne, dankjewel voor je enthousiasme de afgelopen jaren. Samen nadenken, theoretiseren en structureren was altijd een feest en jouw vragen daagde me uit en inspireerde me. Stefan, dankjewel voor je ongelooflijke oog voor detail, hoge standaarden voor wetenschappelijk onderzoek, kritische opmerkingen en de miljoenen correcties in mijn teksten. Je bereidheid om er samen uit te komen is meer dan eens cruciaal gebleken. Gábor, thank you for your optimism, team spirit, and enthusiasm to solve real life problems that extent beyond the academic context.

Zonder Renske en Rob zou ik mijn proefschrift niet overleefd hebben. Ten eerste Renske. Het waardevolste van mijn PhD, dat ben jij. Jij bent een van de bijzonderste en liefste mensen die ik ken. Je zag het als jouw taak om mij (en vele anderen) wegwijs te maken binnen de ABS, de academische wereld, Mplus en de Academy. Met jou aan mij zijde voelden al die uitdagingen een stuk minder eng. Het was pas echt 'aan' toen we samen Death Valley overleefden zonder tent of ruzie maar met een zonnesteek. Toen ik en mijn wereld uitelkaar vielen, was jij daar. Je hebt me naast onvoorwaardelijke steun en lol in en op het werk, bovenal een vriendschap gegeven waar ik volledig mezelf kan zijn. Mezelf even kunnen zien door jouw ogen, maakt me enorm trots op mezelf en daar ben ik je eeuwig dankbaar voor. Je stralende aanwezigheid in M 2.22 en vriendschap zijn onvervangbaar en alle verloren potjes mahjong meer dan waard. Ik ga je nooit meer loslaten oké? Mijn leven is significant (kijk mij dan!) beter met jou erin.

Dan Rob. Nadat ik uit de kelder van de ABS bevrijd was, bracht het lot (of waarschijnlijk het vakkundige werk van Fleur) ons samen in één kantoor. Lang daarvoor waren jij en Casper het die in mij, als slimme maar ook nog erg onzekere student, voldoende potentie zagen. Jouw rol in mijn proefschrift begon toen al, want ik ontdekte een passie voor onderwijs en een sterkere versie van mezelf. Jij hebt als outsider met een geduldig oor altijd geluisterd naar mijn verhalen. Jouw compassie en steun kennen weinig gelijken en hebben mij sterker gemaakt, als docent, onderzoeker en mens. Waar je in de academische wereld constant in twijfel wordt getrokken (voornamelijk door jezelf), stond jij altijd achter me. Bijna onverbiddelijk hield je dit vol. Je mag het misschien willen verstoppen, maar ik schreeuw het van de daken: Rob je bent top!

Dank getuig ik ook graag aan Inge. Als tiny potato heb je mij gesteund, aangemoedigd, advies gegeven, uitgedaagd, meegeleefd en soms meegevloekt op alles en iedereen die ons leven en werk (potàto, potáto) moeilijk leek te maken. Je bent zo razend kundig in het doen van onderzoek dat het bijna jalouersmakend is. Ik ben dankbaar dat ik van de focus krokus heb mogen leren. Het was heerlijk om je steeds meer jezelf te zien worden in ons kantoor met al je blinde doorzettingsvermogen, onzekerheid soms (thank god ze is menselijk) en het voluit lachen om je eigen grappen. Ook jij stond, in de woorden van Brené Brown, pal naast me in de arena me toen ik viel. Je kwam zelfs naast me liggen, iets waar veel lef voor nodig is. Ik ben enorm dankbaar dat ik met jouw als burn-out buddy me daar nooit alleen in hoef te voelen. Samen voelen we onze weg hieruit. Naar een plek in de wereld waar we kunnen stralen!

Special thanks to my original office roommates Eloisa, Sofija, and Vlad! Doing this PhD side by side felt like growing up together, which you guys made a lot more pleasant. Eloisa, you are something. First, I do not know anyone with such passion for statistics, including Renske. Your willingness to advise a statistics idiot like me was a big help. Second, never ever underestimate your worth. You inspire me (and all master students) to be a better researcher. Third, despite your fears, you absolutely shine as a teacher now and I could not be prouder. Well, every time we play foosball, I am damn proud that this Italian power player is my friend. Sofija, you are something else. Not because you manage to always loose or break something or come up with brilliant sayings, but because you one very loyal brown m&m. You shine in so many unique ways and were so compassionate every time you listened to my struggles. I wish I could have some of your chaos. Vlad, there is no one like you. I am grateful that we walked the first part of our PhD journeys together and have two publications to prove our success. Thanks for introducing me to the world of big data and being a great partner in crime, I mean research. You always managed to make me smile. See you one day in the beautiful country!

Shout out to the many other PhD colleagues that I have met during this journey. Sheilla, thanks for all the delicious cakes and for making the basement a nicer place together with Yumei. My enemies from #dreamteam Rob and Dorinth, who are not so great in foosball, thank you for plotting and planning PhD events together. Together with Jort, you had my back when I broke down, which meant a lot. Jort, thank you for being a passionate fighter for PhD rights and a good listener when I needed one. You are a hell of a compassionate accountant. A big thanks to the rest of my ABS PhD family for making Roeterseiland a nicer place to work and to my (adopted) Eduworks family for making me feel at home wherever we were.

Ik ben daarnaast mijn commissieleden erkentelijk voor de tijd en moeite die zij hebben gestopt in het lezen en beoordelen van deze dissertatie. Dankjewel, Frank Belschak, Pascale Le Blanc, Wendelien van Eerde, Svetlana Khapova, en Annelies van Vianen. Dank ook aan alle andere collega's van de Leadership and Management sectie en de fantastische collega's van het secretariaat, want zonder jullie zou de ABS niet draaien. Pauline, Merel en Patrick, dankjewel voor de fijne samenwerking in het onderwijs. Luc, dankjewel voor het gevoel dat we iets te pakken hadden met die taken en je alternatieve kijk op werk. Ook wil ik al mijn nieuwe collega's binnen de HPM groep van de TU/e bedanken voor hun warme welkom. Jullie maken dat ik enorm zin heb in het zetten van deze stap in mijn academische carrière en daar zelfs een paar uur voor in de trein wil zitten. Thanks to all other academic colleagues that I have met the past years and that have inspired, supported, mentored, and taught me valuable lessons, especially Eva Selenko for showing me the light again.

Via de UvA zijn er ook een heleboel studenten die een bijdrage hebben geleverd aan dit proefschrift. Ik ben vooral mijn scriptiestudenten dankbaar voor het vreselijk harde werken om data bij elkaar te schrapen. Dankjewel voor jullie hulp! Vooral ook heel veel dank voor alle mensen die een bijdrage hebben geleverd door mee te doen aan mijn onderzoek door hun ervaringen te delen in de vorm van een ingevulde vragenlijst of een interview. Jullie input is van onschatbare waarde geweest voor dit proefschrift en daarmee voor mij. Dank!

Buiten werk zijn er hechte vrienden die mij al enige tijd aanmoedigen en daar niet mee zijn gestopt toen ik besloot deze idiote uitdaging aan te gaan. Lieve Dorrit, wat begon op het Sefa introductiekamp ruim 10 jaar geleden is inmiddels een dierbare vriendschap. Ik ben zo blij dat we nog steeds samen drankjes doen, reisjes maken en musea af gaan. Hoeveel tijd er ook tussen zit, met jou afspreken voelt altijd als thuiskomen, vertrouwd, veilig en fijn. Lieve Annemieke, ik waardeer ik de kwetsbaar- en dapperheid waarmee je de wereld trotseert en hoe je dit stimuleert bij mij. Je daagt me altijd uit om een ander perspectief aan te nemen en ik hoop dat ik nog lang van je mag leren. Lieve Mieke, als oud-huisgenoot ben je eerder familie dan een goede vriendin. Jouw zorgzaamheid en attentie zijn uniek en worden zeer gewaardeerd, zeker toen het slechter ging. Lieve Joep, jouw heerlijk eerlijke en ontnuchterende kijk op de wereld (en het datingsleven) hebben mij bij menige crisis geholpen. Alle andere losse en vaste vrienden die ik hier niet allemaal kan benoemen, you know I love you, xoxo.

Dankbaarheid voel ik in bergen voor de sport en de mensen die mij door deze periode hebben gesleurd. Karate is de plek waar ik kan uitrazen zowel fysiek als emotioneel en waar ik altijd mezelf kan zijn. Dankjewel sensei's Jaap, Robbert en Ali voor de hulp in het behalen van mijn zwarte band. Trudie, eigenlijk pas je meer in de bovenstaande lijst met je luistervermogen, empathie, levenslust en lef. Samen met Manouk, Janna, Emma en Bibi vormen we een stel power vrouwen waar je geen ruzie mee moet krijgen. Ook de rest van mijn karatefamilie wil ik bedanken. Jullie stonden altijd voor mij klaar bij wat voor problemen dan ook, in grote getalen en zonder vragen. Dat is echt het beste gevoel in de wereld. USH!

Er is nog een groep mensen die ik dankbaar ben om hun vermogen om ruimte te geven aan de meest authentieke en kwetsbare versie van mezelf, namelijk mijn 'Met de benen op tafel' dames. Een klein en hecht groepje dat samenkomt voor de grote vragen in het leven in de meest liefdevolle en veilige omgeving. Dankjewel Marieke en Joanneke, dat jullie mij inspireren tot een authentiek leven vol lef. Dankjewel Andrea, dat je altijd een vraag en een warme knuffel voor ons hebt. Dankjewel Yolanda, dat jij zonder woorden voelt wat er in mij omgaat, mij helpt met het vinden van bewustzijn in de chaos van het leven en mij zoveel zelf-inzicht gunt. Dankzij deze prachtige, krachtige vrouwen durf ik steeds dieper naar mezelf.

Dankbaarheid heb ik als laatste, maar eigenlijk als allereerste in beginsel voor mijn familie. Het hebben van een fijne plek om in op te groeien, mezelf te ontwikkelen, te vallen, op te staan en gewoon te zijn heeft alles wat ik heb bereikt in mijn leven mogelijk gemaakt. Lieve Wim en Karin, betere ouders zou ik niet kunnen wensen. Ik ben enorm trots jullie dochter te zijn. Dat het bij jullie vanzelfsprekend is dat taken gelijk verdeeld zijn, dat roze voor jongens is en blauw voor meisjes, dat je boos mag zijn, dat rechtvaardigheid belangrijk is, dat mooi spelen bovenaan staat, dat je rekening houdt met elkaar en dat er veel meer is dan eigendom en geld. De ruimte die jullie mij gegund hebben om te doen wat ik wil met onvoorwaardelijke steun en liefde is de kern van mijn bestaan. Lieve Gabi, de allerliefste, beste, leukste zus in de wereld. Onze band is uniek, onverwoestbaar en overbrugt oceanen. Lieve Martijn, de allerliefste, slimste broer in de wereld. Grapjes maken, scherp argumenteren, spelletjes spelen en taarten bakken gaat als vanzelf met jou. Grote zus zijn maakt een soort oerkracht in mijn los, voor jullie doe ik alles. Lieve Pom, jij bent mijn zelf-gekozen familie, een boefje, een slim katje en mijn kleine liefde. Ik hou van jullie.

De rest van de familie Berkers en Bennis, jullie zijn met teveel om los te noemen, maar een onlosmakelijk onderdeel van mij. In mijn Berkers-DNA zit de wil en de kracht om hard te werken, mezelf te bewijzen en bloed, zweet en tranen geven in alles wat ik doe, wat meer dan eens essentieel was in het doorzetten de afgelopen jaren. In mijn Bennis-DNA zit de vrijheid en ruimte om mijn eigen pad te kiezen, zorg en aandacht voor mijn omgeving en mijn liefde voor dieren. Dankjewel lieve opa en oma voor mijn lust om de hele wereld over te gaan.

Dan echt als aller-allerlaatste wil ik mezelf bedanken, want het meest trots ben ik op mezelf. Niemand anders heeft er die uren ingestopt. Tranen gelaten. Lef getoond. Buiten de gebaande paden gewaagd. Hulp gevraagd. Doorgebikkeld. Ik ben trots dat ik kon doorzetten, juist toen doorzetten betekende dat ik alles moest loslaten en stilzetten. Ik ben dankbaar dat ik voldoende van mezelf kon houden om moeilijke keuzes te maken, mijn hart te volgen en grenzen aan te geven. Inmiddels omarm ik alle kanten van mezelf. Lieve Hannah, jij bent je eigen zonnetje en je straalt als je doet wat je bent, waar je van houdt en waar je in gelooft. Dit proefschrift schittert, verwarmt en straalt van trots. Dankjewel dat je dit hebt gedurft.

“My mission, should I choose to accept it, is to find peace with exactly who and what I am. To take pride in my thoughts, my appearance, my talents, my flaws and to stop this incessant worrying that I can’t be loved as I am.”
