Inside Installations: Preservation and Presentation of Installation Art

is a three-year research project (2004-2007) into the care and administration of an art form that is challenging prevailing views of conservation.

Managed by the Netherlands Institute for Cultural Heritage (ICN) the project is co-organised by: Tate, London; Restaurierungszentrum, Düsseldorf; Stedelijk Museum voor Actuele Kunst (S.M.A.K.), Ghent; Museo Nacional Centro de Arte Reina Sofía (MNCARS), Madrid and the Foundation for the Conservation of Modern Art (SBMK), The Netherlands. Partners, mainly museums, carry out case research bringing the total number of participating organisations to 25.

Thirty complex installations (many multimedia) will be re-installed, investigated and documented. Experience will be shared and partners will collaborate to develop good practice on the topics: preservation strategies, artists' participation, documentation and archiving strategies, theory and semantics as well as knowledge management and information exchange.

Franz West, Clamp, 1995

In this object based installation, the artist's former studio has been recreated. The spectator is invited to take a seat within this environment and experience the artworks the same way West did as he saw them come to life.

During a special presentation in the Kröller-Müller Museum, the history, present and the future of 'Clamp', and other case studies within the project, will be unravelled. In this unique exhibition, visitors will see artworks being installed, documented, researched and even treated in the museum.
