The evolution of wage structures in Portugal 1982-1992
Cabral Vieira, J.A.

Citation for published version (APA):
Preface

This book is the final product of four years of research as a Ph.D. student at the Tinbergen Institute. During those years I had the pleasure of being supervised by Joop Hartog, from whom I benefited much from his insight and research experience. I deeply appreciate his guidance during this research project. I extend acknowledgements to Pedro Telhado Pereira for guiding and supporting me throughout this endeavour. Indeed, his encouragement was decisive in initiating this thesis project.

I have also to acknowledge the incentives of the directors of the Department of Economics and Management of the University of the Azores, Mário Fortuna and Fernando Lopes.

A special thanks goes to Hessel Oosterbeek for long and very helpful conversations. I am particularly indebted to him for his suggestions and advice pertaining to chapter 4 of this book. I am also very grateful to Coen Teulings, with whom I wrote chapter 7.

My gratitude also goes to my excellent working environment at the Tinbergen Institute and to Sue who corrected my English. Elfie, Miep and Marian at the Tinbergen Institute helped me on many occasions and my colleagues stimulated my work. I have to apologise to Jesse and Edwin for my hours of philosophizing and my lack of imagination for composing new songs. It was always a pleasure to hear a new story from Athula because he is great story-teller. I also had the opportunity to learn a few words of his language. Francesca and I shared the same desk, and although my books invaded her territory many times, it was always agreeable for her.

Old friends such as Ana Rute Cardoso and Paulo Madruga were always available to help me. I owe a lot to them.

Financial support from PRAXIS XXI (Subprograma Ciência e Tecnologia do 2° Quadro Comunitário de Apoio) and from the University of the Azores is warmly acknowledged.

Finally, my last-but-not-least thoughts of gratitude go to Helena, Ricardo and Rodrigo for all their encouragement and support.

Amsterdam, March 1999
José António Cabral Vieira
The report is the final product of your course work, and it aims to provide a comprehensive overview of the research conducted during the course.

The introduction discusses the background and significance of the topic, highlighting the importance of the research. It sets the stage for the subsequent sections by outlining the objectives and the research questions.

The methodology section details the research design, data collection methods, and analytical techniques used in the study. It ensures transparency and reproducibility, allowing others to understand how the research was conducted.

The results section presents the findings from the research, along with relevant data and statistical analyses. These results are discussed in the context of existing literature, highlighting the originality and implications of the findings.

The conclusions section summarizes the key findings and their implications. It reflects on the broader implications of the research and suggests areas for future research. The conclusions integrate the findings with the literature review, providing a comprehensive understanding of the research.

A practical and theoretical framework is used to organize the content, ensuring that the research is relevant and applicable within its field. The framework guides the reader through the research journey, making it easier to follow and understand the conclusions drawn.

The report integrates the literature review, methodology, and results seamlessly, ensuring a cohesive narrative. This approach not only meets the academic standards but also makes the report accessible to a broader audience, including policymakers, practitioners, and other researchers.

The report is well-structured, with clear headings and subheadings, and it utilizes visual aids such as graphs and charts to enhance understanding. The use of an academic writing style and the adherence to a consistent tone and voice throughout the report demonstrate attention to detail and a high level of professionalism.

In conclusion, the report is a testament to the quality and depth of the research conducted during the course. It not only meets the academic standards but also has the potential to make a significant contribution to the field, providing valuable insights and knowledge that can be applied in both practical and theoretical contexts.