Acknowledgements

I have had the unique opportunity to explore my thesis research over the past years. This privilege I mainly owe to my advisor, Kai Clewing, who has given me the theoretical and technical support to consider the design of a new financing structure of insurance and a more practically oriented lead. In this respect, I am indebted especially to Hans Geurts who has played a key role in the beginning of the project and who has given me the freedom to follow the path I would have been following when outside out and just starting. I owe you!

I am also greatly indebted to my thesis supervisor, Henk van den Brink, who has provided me with the university enabling me to combine my research, yet encouraged me to work day and night. I also thank him for putting me in the right direction and for giving me the freedom to become an economist.

Voor mijn ouders

My work additionally profited from the comments of a number of other people. In particular, I want to thank Dipak Mahalingam for his thoughtful introduction of my work and I do a great pleasure to thank him for the critical suggestions of Michael Brennan. I also want to thank the other members of the supervisor committee, professors Cas, Koolstra, Ewens, Geurts and Ton Vries for their thoughtful remarks on my work.

In the process of writing this dissertation I received a lot of help from the University of Amsterdam. As Kai Clewing, I want to thank you for your understanding for all the practical aspects. As for Henk for his important role in the early stages of the project, and Ed Mulderbeek for giving me the opportunity to use the case studies.

I have been very lucky to work at the Finance group of University of Amsterdam. I have enjoyed the presence of many great people. Let me thank them all, and in particular Henk Geurts, Ed Mulderbeek, Jeroen Dijkshuis and Ewens Ferman. And of course, my colleague Peter "Lamprecht" van der Grint, being both a very close friend and colleague for the past few years, more than likely and for Christy, Peri!

I also want to thank myself for accepting my responsibility upon becoming a working student to complete this one. I thank her for every night for the love and support made when the followed. Finally, I want to dedicate this work to my parents for their unwavering confidence in me and for everything else really.
