Reference, Deixis and Focus in Hittite. The demonstratives ka- "this", apa- "that" and asi "yon"

Goedegebuure, P.M.

Citation for published version (APA):
Goedegebuure, P. M. (2003). Reference, Deixis and Focus in Hittite. The demonstratives ka- "this", apa- "that" and asi "yon"

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: http://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
The subject for this dissertation was suggested to me by my “Doktorvater” Theo van den Hout. So first of all I want to thank him. But not only for the subject, also for keeping an eye on me through difficult years, and for patiently guiding me while my thoughts on the demonstratives and pronouns of Hittite were developing.

On the more personal level I owe much to Marcel, who suddenly appeared in my life and created peace these last two years. For ever there has been my family: mother, brother, aunt and the Oklahoma branch. Thanks for providing me with refuge! And also important was and is my music teacher, Ilda Simonian, who really ‘pushed’ me to relax by using my voice.

Kees Hengeveld kept an eye on my progress after Theo left for Chicago. And since there were not many Hittitologists around, I found a place in the Functional Grammar discussion group for the badly needed intellectual food.

Even Hittitologists travel, although mostly to Chicago. There I was granted access to the lexical files of the Hittite Dictionary Project of the Oriental Institute, for which I am very grateful to the editor, Theo van den Hout. Besides that, my stay in Chicago in 2002 could never have been as fruitful as it was without the generosity of Kathleen Mineck for letting me use her laptop and sharing a very tight space to work in, sitting back to back. I also owe much to the discussions with and the hospitality of Prof. Harry Hoffner, Richard Beal, Öğuz Soysal and the temporary Dutch colony, the only Dutch student Hittitology Willemina Waal, and Wouter Henkelman, the only Dutch Ph.D. student of Elamite.

This dissertation is written in honour of my buddy Jan. Still thinking that there was a future, we decided to conquer our world. Sadly, I had to do it alone, for you had to go young. So I have worked for two. I hope you like the result.

Amstelveen, May 2003