Topics in correspondence analysis
van de Velden, M.

Citation for published version (APA):

General rights
It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations
If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: http://uba.uva.nl/en/contact, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
Acknowledgments

This thesis is the result of my four years as an AIO at the Faculty of Economics and Econometrics of the University of Amsterdam. It would have been impossible for me to complete this thesis without the support and encouragement of several people.

My supervisor Heinz Neudecker has been of crucial importance in writing this thesis. His contagious enthusiasm was a driving force behind this project and I have benefitted significantly from his consistent, clear, and accurate comments. For me he was the perfect supervisor, providing freedom and independence while always staying involved and supportive. I very much enjoyed our collaboration as well as our afternoon conversations and walks.

I also thank Risto Heijmans whom I assisted with the mathematical statistics courses at our university. I have learned a lot from him in these years and it was always a pleasure to work with him.

During the past four years I visited the Universitat Pompeu Fabra in Barcelona twice. These stays in Barcelona were both pleasant and productive thanks to the motivating presence of Albert Satorra. His enthusiasm for my work speeded up the process of finishing at least two papers. Furthermore, he introduced me to other Ph.D. students at the Universitat Pompeu Fabra. In particular I would like to mention Jan Graffelman, with whom I shared an office and many pleasant lunches, and Anna Torres, who is one of the few people working on similar—sometimes even identical—formulas.

I am grateful to Henk Kiers who supplied the basic idea for the last chapter of this thesis. In addition, his detailed comments on the rest of the thesis led to a considerable improvement. Our cooperation has been most pleasant and I am looking forward to a continuation of it.

I am also grateful to the other members of the committee for their willingness to read and assess the thesis. Furthermore, I thank Ronald Bosman for providing me with the data analyzed in Chapter 2.

Patrick Groenen, in his capacity as anonymous referee for Linear Algebra and its Applications, and George Styan, as its editor, gave useful comments on an earlier version of the paper presented in this thesis as Chapter 3. I thank them for their support and suggestions.

I thank my colleagues at the afdeling Kwantitatieve Economie for providing me with a pleasant working environment. In particular I thank Peter Boswijk, Dennis Botman, Richard Boucherie, Maurice Bun, Cees Diks, Gerwin Griffioen, Angela van Heerwaarden, Tijs Huisman, Jan Kiviet, Frank Kleibergen, André Klein, Sebastiano Manzan, Sicco Marsman, Arnold van Meteren, Willem de Paepe, Jaap Spreeuw, Herman Ten Napel, Aljaž Ule, Henk van de Velden, Stefan Verwijmeren and Roy van der Weide. A special thanks goes to Jan Tuinstra who became a very good friend and with whom I enjoyed numerous fruitless discussions concerning our research and other trivialities.

My friends outside the academic world, in particular Raymond Calis, provided me with the necessary distraction. Their support has been invaluable.

Clearly, my work did not, and probably still does not, make interesting dinner conversation. Nevertheless, my family, in particular my parents and brothers, were supportive and showed interest at all times during the last four years. I thank them and apologize for my reluctance to talk about my work.

Finally, I thank Chie. For being there...

Amsterdam, 15 September 2000