

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

Learning in contexts. Four cases in higher education.

Bannink, E.A.

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Bannink, E. A. (2001). Learning in contexts. Four cases in higher education. in eigen beheer.

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

Downloaded from UvA-DARE, the Institutional Repository of the University of Amsterdam (UvA)
<http://dare.uva.nl/document/85118>

Description	Acknowledgements
File ID	85118
Filename	UBA002000452_03.pdf

SOURCE, OR PART OF THE FOLLOWING SOURCE:

Type	Dissertation
Title	Learning in Contexts. Four cases in higher education.
Author	E.A. Bannink
Faculty	Faculty of Humanities University of Amsterdam
Year	2001
Pages	163

FULL BIBLIOGRAPHIC DETAILS:

<http://dare.uva.nl/record/91026>

Copyrights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the copyright holder (usually the author), other than for strictly personal, individual use.

Acknowledgements

The phrase 'this book would not have been written without X' features so frequently in the acknowledgement section of PhD dissertations that it could easily be dismissed as a perfunctory remark. But sometimes it is true and in this case it is: I could not have succeeded in completing this project without the unfailing support and invaluable help of Jet van Dam van Isselt. During the last ten years or so my life has been complicated and hectic, to say the least. Illness and other assorted catastrophes made it sometimes hard for me not to give up and to sustain the belief that one day this dissertation would be finished. Jet has always been there, not only as a wise, creative and inspiring mentor and colleague, but also, and maybe even more importantly, as a warm and very dear friend. I thank her for everything she has done for me over the years and for her willingness to co-author chapters five and six of this book. It is my dearest wish that we will remain friends and workmates for many years to come.

When Paul Werth, who had originally agreed to be my supervisor, passed away in 1995, I was very fortunate that Peter Verdonk was willing to take over the job. Peter has been a great support all through the process and this book has vastly benefited from his meticulous reading of the draft versions of the chapters. I thank Olga Fischer for being my co-promotor and for being such a caring and loyal 'boss'. I am grateful to Gert Rijlaarsdam for his critical comments on the 'work in progress'. It makes me very happy that Livia Polanyi has agreed to be on the committee and that she will cross the Atlantic for the 'promotie'. On the same score my thanks go to the other members of the committee, Remco Scha and René Appel.

I am very grateful to Manon van der Laaken for helping out with the editing of the manuscript and the lay-out of the book – it has been wonderful to relive old times in this way.

There are a number of other people who have been very important for my happiness and sanity during this exhausting period of my life. First of all, my friends – in order of appearance: Marije (in a double role of wise and loving sister and best friend), Marijke (who has shared so many years of my life that she could very well be my sister and who is one of the best teachers I know), Sybrand and Louis (who I thank for their loyalty and friendship, especially when times were rough), Coby (Saturday shopping would be very different without her) and Riny and Hanneke (where would I be without the FWC?). I thank my mother and Greet for making my life so much easier by helping out with the logistic problems of holding down a full-time job and being a single mum. I thank my colleagues at the English department and the ILO for providing me with a such a stimulating professional life.

And last but not least, it gives me enormous pleasure to be able to thank the three men in my life: Makke, Stijn and Henk. Motherhood is one of the best things that have happened to me. It has forced me to work on this project in the – to borrow a phrase from chapter three - ‘cracks and seams’ of domestic life, but I would not have wanted it any other way. Henk has given me the wonderful feeling that I’ve come ‘home’ – at last – and that I am loved for who I am. Besides, he really makes me laugh. I so much hope we will be able to sail together until we are old and grey – as happy as we are today.