Preface

This thesis is the result of research which I have been carrying out since September, 1996 at the Tinbergen Institute in Amsterdam. Many people have helped me along the way.

First of all, I am grateful to Professor Siv Gustafsson, and to Professor Audra Bowlus of the University of Western Ontario, who supervised, promoted, and advised me. The joint projects I have undertaken with Audra Bowlus and Gerard van den Berg have been a great stimulation to me. As well, I am very thankful for the existence of the Tinbergen Institute, which provided me with a lot of ideas and inspiration through its labour economic seminar series, and which put me into contact with my co-authors. I thank Maarten Lindeboom for his help on Chapter 2, and the encouragement he showed to me as the Director of Graduate Studies. Katarina Katz of Stockholm University provided many helpful tips, and I look forward to working with her more on the Taganrog data.

Thanks to Charles, Aico and Bas for a lot of GAUSS tips. For the Dutch summary of the thesis, I am grateful to Aico for his generous exchange of a little Spanish for a lot of Dutch. I am grateful to Albert Nijnik for help on the Russian summary. Arjen gave a lot of useful TeXnical advice. My native English speaker emergency squad-Audra, Erica, and Ruta-did a great, quick job of cleaning up after me. The help and friendliness of Jeroen, Elfie and Marian has got me through a lot of rainy days in Amsterdam.

I have benefited from the generous support of the Dutch Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO), who funded research visits to St. Petersburg State University, the Institute for Socio-Economic and Population Issues in Moscow, and the Russian European Center for Economic Policy. As well, I have benefited from the EC’s Training and Mobility of Researchers funds, which supported two research visits to CEPS/INSTEAD in Luxembourg. I am grateful to the CEPR, who funded my participation at their workshop on transition economics for young academics in May 1999. The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada funded a stay at the University of Western Ontario for work on labour market behavior and gender wage differentials.
Most of all, I would like to thank my parents, my friends in Amsterdam, and those around the world, for years of encouragement and inspiration. Albert, Alison, Aljaz, Anthony, Charles, Dani, Ibolya, Erica, Irinka, Jeroen, Luc, Maria, Mathijs, Mauro, Ruta, Silvia, and many others, have been supportive through difficult and exciting moments. You are my Amsterdam. Thank-you.
