

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

Sex differences in emotion expression

Timmers, M.

Publication date
2000

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Timmers, M. (2000). Sex differences in emotion expression. [Thesis, fully internal, Universiteit van Amsterdam].

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, P.O. Box 19185, 1000 GD Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

Acknowledgements

First I would like to thank two people who were directly and closely involved in my work, my supervisors Agneta Fischer and Tony Manstead. I always felt very fortunate to work with them, despite the fact that I was sometimes daunted by certain proposals they made during discussions in the finishing phase of a paper, such as "What if you do the analyses just once again, but this time with a new group of respondents", or, "with a new set of variables". I appreciated their supervision and them personally for being so nice and friendly, for guiding me, for their critical attitude and for improving my English.

Furthermore, I would like to thank all the people that participated in the studies, and two of my students with whom I enjoyed working very much, Leigh Stieglitz and Lisa Boshuizen.

Besides working on my project, working at the department of social psychology meant participating in the emotion group meetings, having lunches, drinks and conferences together. I want to thank my colleagues for making these events so worthwhile. Especially, I want to mention my colleagues Ernestine Gordijn and Boukje Keijzer. For the greater part of the Ph.D., they were my roommates. I want to thank them for their company, for listening to my stories, for their support when I needed it and for sharing my joy.

Especially because my personal life during the Ph.D. could be characterised as a period of major life events, my friends and family were very important to me.

I am thankful to Ellen de Bruin en Natalie Hanssen. Because they share the same background with me in theoretical psychology, they were my main sources of social comparison. Our sessions during dinner about 'how to move on' in our personal and professional lives were always very inspiring. Carien Reugebrink I thank for always being there, almost as long as I can remember. I would like to thank her for her understanding, for making me feel good about myself, and especially because spending time with her always means having a good time.

I want to thank Annemiek because she offered to take care for Lila one day a week and because she took care for her with so much love, and I want to thank Ton, because he registrated these Wednesdays on video.

I want to thank my parents, because they value my pleasure in life more than anything else, such as career moves, and for their great practical support in caring for and enjoying Lila.

I would like to spend my last words to Teun en Lila. Teun I thank for his faith in me and in the world, for being such a great father for Lila, for his scientific interest and his appreciation of my work. Lila, for being my daughter and source of inspiration, and for her joyful and expressive way of living her life.

Monique Timmers

September, 2000

