During the six years of investigating tense, aspect and modality, many people and institutions have supported me. Without their help, this project would not have succeeded. The Universiteit van Amsterdam, the Landelijke Onderzoeksschool Taalwetenschap (LOT) and the Amsterdam Center for Language and Communication (ACLC) provided the necessary means to do my work. I am particularly grateful to Machtelt Bolkestein (†), Folkert Kuiken and Anne Baker for all their efforts.

I am indebted to many teachers for my intellectual growth during the years. Several courses in the LOT schools were of great help to me. Special thanks go to Jürgen Bohnemeyer, who introduced me in all the ins and outs of tense and aspect, to Michael Tomasello, who convinced me of the idea that children construct a language, and to Melissa Bowerman, who inspired me to think more about the relation between conceptual and linguistic development. I have also very much enjoyed the classes of Nick Enfield on language contact, of Bill Croft on typology and universals and of Marian Klamer on linguistic fieldwork. A very special occasion was the Linguistic Institute in Santa Barbara, 2001. The discovery of the richness of functional linguistics has been an important source of inspiration in my work. Particularly the classes of Roger Andersen, Peter Austin, Elizabeth Bates, Joan Bybee and Adele Goldberg were very stimulating.

I want to express my deep gratitude to my supervisors Kees Hengeveld and Anne Baker. They have been an almost perfect supervising couple. Anne provided the necessary structure, both in the planning of the project as a whole and at the text level. Kees made sure that there was always enough enthusiasm and positive energy to continue. My discussions with them have been of major help during the years, to clarify my ideas and to improve my work. They were both of great support when I suffered from physical problems. Anne has spent much time and probably patience on correcting my English. She helped enormously in unravelling the chaotic child data. Kees has spent hours on helping to analyze the different languages and on discussing my almost endless adjustments of the theoretical issues. Thank you.

I am very grateful to Heike Behrens, Olga Fisher, Wolfgang Klein, Lachlan Mackenzie and Fred Weerman for accepting to be a member of the committee. I want to thank Niels Smit and Elma Blom who read large parts of the manuscript and provided many useful comments. Thanks to them, I could improve the book in many respects. I am also very grateful to Angela van Leeuwen who designed Figure 10-3.
At several occasions, I was delighted by the friendliness with which colleagues from around the world have approached me. A lovely event in my first year as PhD student was the Hungarian and Dutch Language Acquisition (HuDuLa) project at NIAS in Wassenaar: the collaboration with, among others, Jeroen Aarssen, Steven Gillis, Casper de Groot, Evelien Krikhaar and Szilvia Papp was very pleasant. At several conferences and symposia I enjoyed the time I spent with Helena Taelman, Karen Schauwers and Judith Rispens. I want to thank Hella Olbertz for the great weeks in Santa Barbara. I also want to thank the participants of the FG group for the stimulating discussions and all the researchers who have so kindly responded to the questions I sent to them.

I have had many roommates during the years, in order of appearance: Margriet Heim, Česke Niewold, Gerry Wanders, Margot Rozendaal, Martin Salzmann, Norval Smith, Miriam van Staden, Rafael Fischer, Jorge Gomez Rendon, Eva van Lier, Marina Dyakonova, and Niels Smit. They made my working days very agreeable. A few of them need a special word of thanks. Margot was of endless help in discussing the coding scheme and the actual coding of the English files. It was great to have a mate with whom I could discuss the beautiful and difficult child utterances. With Česke, I had many talks about our lives as PhD students and it always cheered me up to find out that our strugglings were very comparable. Česke’s irony is beyond compare. Thanks to Gerry I did not have to worry about pencils or printing paper. She was very sensitive to when I could use some support in the form of kind words or cookies. And, as if this was not enough, she also read through different versions of the manuscript and prevented me from many inconsistencies.

The contacts between the PhD-students from the ACLC were very pleasant. At first we were a small group including, to mention a few, Wim, Barbertje, Nel, Victoria, Margot, Hedde, and Suzanne, later growing with, among others, Maren, Diana, Marian, and Daniela. The sharing of fascinations and frustrations made me like my work much more. I thank everyone from het oude ATW. I have enjoyed the atmosphere of friendship and familiarity.

Many thanks go to my friends, my family and my family in law for their support and their interest in my well being during the years. In the last year, many people took care of Jozef so that I could continue writing. Marieke Schoenmakers, Lydia Kes, Marjolijn van Luit, Marie Anne Remmelink, Hans and Truus Boland, Hilly Kes, and above all, Klaas Kes, have been of endless help. If it had not been for their help, this dissertation would still be far from finished. Finally, I thank my love, Jan. He supported me mentally, by listening to my doubts and worries and by having confidence in me, as well as practically, by taking care of Jozef and the household. He was my anchor during the years. It is to him that I dedicate this work.
