Use of localized gene transfer to develop novel treatment strategies for the salivary component of Sjögren's syndrome

Kok, M-R.

Citation for published version (APA):
BIBLIOGRAPHY

Katano H, Kok MR, Yamano S and Chiorini JA. Enhanced transduction of mouse salivary gland with AAV5 based vectors. Submitted

Lodde BM, Sankar V, Kok MR, Leakan R, Tak PP, Pillemer SR. Serum Lipid Levels in Sjögren’s Syndrome. Accepted Annals of the Rheumatic Diseases.

Lodde BM, Sankar V, Kok MR, Leakan R, Tak PP, Pillemer SR. Adult Heart Block Is Associated with Disease Activity in Primary Sjögren’s Syndrome. Accepted Scandinavian Journal of Rheumatology

Radfar L, Sobrara L, Harlor DA, Sankar V, Leakan R, Kok MR, Raffeld M, Pillemer SR. Salivary gland inflammation is associated with monoclonal B cell expansion. Submitted

Zheng C, Voutetakis A, Kok MR, Goldsmith CG, Smith GBJ, Vallant M, Irwin RD, Baum BJ. Toxicity and biodistribution of a first-generation recombinant adenoviral vector, in the presence of hydroxychloroquine, following retrodudal delivery to a single rat submandibular gland. Submitted