Acknowledgements

These days getting a PhD is a journey which is impossible to accomplish without contributions from various people around the world. Here, it is excellent time and place to thank all those people who directly and indirectly contributed to the completion of this thesis.

In the first and the foremost place I would like to thank my supervisor, Simon Portegies Zwart, who, despite being very busy, has always been helping me in virtually every step of this adventure. I would like to use this opportunity to thank him for all time he spent in my office discussing science with me. I found his advises about how to write, present and carry out science very valuable, and they helped me to mature and grow scientifically: it is enough to compare my first and last published paper, my first and last presented talk.

I would like to thank my promotores, the members of the doctorate commission, my friends & colleagues, who took their valuable time to carefully and critically read my original manuscript and to provide valuable comments which helped me to improve the thesis. Unfortunately, getting the missing “s” & “d” at the end of, and “the” & “a” in front of, the words has always been a problem for me.

I also would like to thank Evert Glebbeek & Onno Pols, the second half of our collaboration between Amsterdam and Utrecht. We solved a number of technical and scientific problems, but there are still a few puzzles left to unravel. Greets to Rob with his interesting views on the life, and to Selma, Peter, Diederik.

Next, I would like to greet my previous & current office-mates. Michael, your Beeriodic table of the elements was very enlightening. Alessia, thanks for your valuable and conservative advises. Derek, you do have a genuine ability to talk, talk & talk (thanks for translating my summary to Dutch!), and you Stefan have an interesting ability to listen, listen & listen. Our visitors: Mark, Clovis, Hui-Chen, Stephanie, Keigo, Michiko, Piet & Steve it has been a great pleasure working with you.

I would like to express my gratitude to a good friend of mine, James Lombardi. Jamie, it is always great working with you, and I hope we will continue collaborating on various exciting topics. Another thank I send to my good friend Ofer Yaron. It has always been fun having you around!

My friends & colleagues at the astronomical institute & section of computational science. Dominik, I still remember the face of our Dutch class teacher. Lianne & Arjan, it has always been fun being a part of your conversations. Thijs, sadly I was not been able to return you a favour. And the rest of people who also have contributed to the pleasant atmosphere: Michiel, Ed, Ralph, Lex, Rens, Carsten, Huib, Joop, Alex, Alfons, Breannbán, Rudy, Peter, Alessandro, Alfredo, Anna, Asaf, Atakan, Atish, Bart, Casey, Diego, Dipankar, Eduardo, Gemma, Hanno, Hendrik, Jason, John, Jordi, Lucinda, Maciek, Manu, Martin, Michael, Michiel, Mihkel, Nanda, Nathalie, Paolo, Peter(s), Piergiorgio, Ramesh, Sera, Syed, Valeriu.

Special thank goes also to our librarians: Liesbeth & Sjoerd; and secretaries: Eva, Nicole, Minou, Annemiek, Lidewijde, Erik, Esther, Fieke, Gaby, Said, you have always been able to solve my little problems.

Life, luckily, is not limited by research alone, and here I'd like to express my gratitude to all the people outside academia who contributed to the completion of this journey.

Denys & Cathy, I will eventually visit you in Taiwan, it is just a matter of time. Denis, it was fun talking to you about programming, computer graphics, string theory and lots of other interesting stuff. SDT, I hope you'll learn Spanish one of these days. Halim, Nick & Ismail, who could have imagined where we would be today. Rosie, thanks for your and your parents help during my studies at the University of Leicester.
