

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

Comics realism and the Maus event

Comics and the dynamics of World War II remembrance

Spanjers, R.

Publication date

2019

Document Version

Other version

License

Other

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Spanjers, R. (2019). Comics realism and the Maus event: Comics and the dynamics of World War II remembrance. [Thesis, fully internal, Universiteit van Amsterdam].

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

Comics Realism
and the Maus Event:

Comics and the
Dynamics of
World War II
Remembrance

Rik Spanjers

Comics Realism
and the Maus Event:

Comics and the
Dynamics of
World War II
Remembrance

Rik Spanjers
University of Amsterdam
2019

COMICS REALISM AND THE MAUS EVENT:

COMICS AND THE DYNAMICS OF WORLD WAR II
REMEMBRANCE

ACADEMISCH PROEFSCHRIFT

ter verkrijging van de graad van doctor

aan de Universiteit van Amsterdam op gezag van de Rector Magnificus

prof. dr. ir. K.I.J. Maex

ten overstaan van een door het College voor Promoties ingestelde

commissie, in het openbaar te verdedigen in de Aula der Universiteit

op vrijdag 1 november 2019, te 11.00 uur

door Rik Spanjers

geboren te Deventer

Promotiecommissie

Promotores:

Prof. dr. T.L. Vaessens Universiteit van Amsterdam

Prof. dr. Y. van Dijk Universiteit Leiden

Copromotor:

Dr. D.A. Hassler-Forest Universiteit Utrecht

Overige leden:

Prof. dr. J. Baetens K.U. Leuven

Dr. J. Goggin Universiteit van Amsterdam

Prof. dr. C.M.K.E. Lerm-Hayes Universiteit van Amsterdam

Prof. dr. E. Peeren Universiteit van Amsterdam

Prof. dr. F.P.I.M. van Vree Universiteit van Amsterdam

Faculteit der Geesteswetenschappen

Contents

Acknowledgements	7
Introduction: Comics and the Dynamics of World War II Remembrance	11
1 Comics and Realism	23
Broad and Narrow Comics Realism	31
Modes of Realism in World War II Comics	35
The Subjective Mode of Realism	35
The Historiographic Mode of Realism	37
The Mechanical Mode of Realism	39
New Wars in Text and Image	42
2 The Maus Event	53
A Maus Archive	57
Early Maus Scholarship	59
Maus , Memory Studies, Postmodernism, and Canonization	62
Maus , Comics Studies, and the Struggle to be Taken Seriously	67
Moving Past the Maus Event	73
3 Interrogating the Past: Collaboration, Handwriting, and Composed Text in Peter Pontiac's Kraut	77
A Comic among Comics	81
Handwriting, Letter Writing	89
Composing Texts	98
Ongoing Conflicts	108
Conclusion	110

4	Documentation, Transparency, and the Limits of Representation in Greg Pak and Carmine Di Giandomenico's Magneto: Testament	113
	A Post- Maus Fictional (Auto)Biography	115
	Dialogues of the Dead	118
	Photographic and Filmic Drawing	128
	The Limits of Representation in Text and Image	136
	Conclusion	145
5	Wartime Weddings: Graphic Style and Realism in Shigeru Mizuki's Onward Towards Our Noble Deaths	147
	Shigeru Mizuki's World War II Comics	151
	Wartime Weddings	159
	Narrative and Background	161
	War in Paradise	173
	A Storm of Steel	178
	A Return to the Background	187
	Conclusion	195
	Endnotes	207
	List of Illustrations	221
	Works Cited	225
	Appendix: List of Academic Publications on Maus Sorted by Date	241
	Summary	249

Acknowledgements

I am grateful for all the help, friendship and love I received while working on this research. The continued support from colleagues, friends, and family ensured that I count the years I spent researching historical representation in World War II comics among the happiest of my life. For brevity's sake, I will only be able to mention a few of you here. To all the others, whether you are one of the many comics scholars I met during the online sessions of the History, Trauma, Comics, Research Circle and at conferences in Oslo, London, Glasgow, Lexington, Ghent, and Amsterdam, or a fellow traveler at the Amsterdam School of Historical Studies or the Amsterdam School for Cultural Analysis, I want to say that it is a privilege to have met you. You showed me that even within a field that is rapidly becoming saturated, I have something to say. I also want to express my gratitude to my colleagues of the Modern Dutch Literature department of the University of Amsterdam and my work roommates: Femke Essink and Lisanne Snelders. Because you welcomed me as a colleague rather than as a PhD student, I learned at least as much about teaching from you than I did about comics from my research. Thank you for putting up with my tendency to overflow with enthusiasm about just about anything, and for always being there when I needed a quick-fix for a stuck brain. During my research, I was lucky enough to be offered the opportunity to visit the wonderful city of Glasgow and its magic castle of a university by Laurence Grove. Thank you and your family for offering such a warm welcome to not only me but my wife and daughter as well. It was in Glasgow that the separate pieces of my research started falling together. I am willing to wager that getting up high after years spent researching in a swamp—the special collections library of Glasgow University offers a breathtaking view of the city and the countryside—helped. I was also fortunate with my team of supervisors: Thomas Vaessens, Yra van Dijk, and Dan Hassler-Forest. Yra, you reminded me of my academic ambitions when I was close to abandoning them. After I succeeded in finding funding for my research because you convinced me to give it another try, you continued to offer support in the form of encouragement and critical comments. Dan, I will remember the times when we met to discuss my research fondly. Thanks to you, I have not once fallen out of love with my research subject. Thomas, you were there to help me navigate the bureaucracy of the University of Amsterdam. Without your thoughtful comments about the structure of my research, it would have taken me a lot longer to find what I was unconsciously pursuing in my research. As a team, you have helped push my thinking to its limits. By challenging me, you have allowed me to see further into my subject than I thought possible beforehand. What is more, you unblinkingly accepted the life decisions I made and helped me combine fatherhood with academia. I also owe a huge debt of gratitude to Erin La Cour, who helped me navigate the many turns that my research took. Not only did we group up to organize two international comics conferences in Amsterdam, guest-edit an issue of Image[&]Narrative, and establish a series of masterclasses on comics, you have also been one of the most critical, and thus helpful, readers of my many drafts, as well as a wonderful friend.

Finally, I want to thank my mother and father for providing me with the freedom to start, and my wife and daughters for the courage to finish.