Remodel[l]ing Reality
The Tribe

The Tribe is a project for a large city of ladies in order to improve the quality of life. We can transform the city into a nature reserve where the animals will become the real rulers of the city. We can create our own world, a world that is free from the control of the dominant classes. We can invent a new language, a language that is free from the constraints of the past. We can create a new society, a society that is based on equality and cooperation. We can invent a new art, a art that is free from the constraints of the past. We can create a new culture, a culture that is free from the constraints of the past.
