UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

Can the 'muhajir' speak? European Syria fighters and the digital un/making of home

Alloul, J.

DOI

10.5040/9781788316187.ch-009

Publication date

2019

Document Version

Proof

Published in

Radicalization in Belgium and the Netherlands

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Alloul, J. (2019). Can the 'muhajir' speak? European Syria fighters and the digital un/making of home. In N. Fadil, M. de Koning, & F. Ragazzi (Eds.), Radicalization in Belgium and the Netherlands: Critical Perspectives on Violence and Security (pp. 217-243). I.B. Tauris. <https://doi.org/10.5040/9781788316187.ch-009>

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

UvA-DARE is a service provided by the library of the University of Amsterdam (<https://dare.uva.nl>)

RADICALIZATION IN BELGIUM AND THE NETHERLANDS

RADICALIZATION IN BELGIUM AND THE NETHERLANDS

Critical Perspectives on Violence and Security

Nadia Fadil
Martijn de Koning
Francesco Ragazzi

I.B. TAURIS

LONDON • NEW YORK • OXFORD • NEW DELHI • SYDNEY

I.B. TAURIS
Bloomsbury Publishing Plc
50 Bedford Square, London, WC1B 3DP, UK
1385 Broadway, New York, NY 10018, USA

BLOOMSBURY, I.B. TAURIS and the Diana logo are trademarks of Bloomsbury Publishing Plc

First published in Great Britain 2019

Copyright © Nadia Fadil, Francesco Ragazzi and Martijn de Koning and contributors 2019

Copyright Individual Chapters © Nadia Fadil, Martijn de Koning, Francesco Ragazzi, Rik Coolsaet, Martijn de Koning, Mieke Groeninck, Beatrice de Graaf, Ineke Roex, Floris Vermeulen, Francesco Ragazzi, Lili-Anne de Jongh, Silke Jaminé, Jaafar Alloul, Annelies Moors, Iman Lechkar, Didier Bigo, Paul Silverstein 2019

Nadia Fadil, Francesco Ragazzi and Martijn de Koning have asserted their right under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act, 1988, to be identified as authors of this work.

For legal purposes the Acknowledgements on p. vii constitute an extension of this copyright page.

Cover design: Adriana Brioso

Cover image © typographic

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, or any information storage or retrieval system, without prior permission in writing from the publishers.

Bloomsbury Publishing Plc does not have any control over, or responsibility for, any third-party websites referred to or in this book. All internet addresses given in this book were correct at the time of going to press. The authors and publisher regret any inconvenience caused if addresses have changed or sites have ceased to exist, but can accept no responsibility for any such changes.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

ISBN: 978-1-7845-3889-7

eISBN: 978-1-7883-1619-4

ePDF: 978-1-7883-1620-0

Series: Library of European Studies

Typeset by RefineCatch Limited, Bungay, Suffolk

Printed and bound in Great Britain

To find out more about our authors and books visit www.bloomsbury.com and sign up for our newsletters.

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
List of Contributors	viii

Introduction
RADICALIZATION: TRACING THE TRAJECTORY OF AN 'EMPTY SIGNIFIER' IN THE LOW LANDS	3
Nadia Fadil, Martijn de Koning and Francesco Ragazzi

Part I THE CIRCULATION OF A CONTESTED CONCEPT

Chapter 1
RADICALIZATION: THE ORIGINS AND LIMITS OF A CONTESTED CONCEPT	29
Rik Coolsaet

Chapter 2
TURNING 'RADICALIZATION' INTO SCIENCE: AMBIVALENT TRANSLATIONS INTO THE DUTCH (SPEAKING) ACADEMIC FIELD	53
Nadia Fadil and Martijn de Koning

Chapter 3
CONSIDERING INTERNAL DEBATES ON 'RADICALISM' WITHIN THE BRUSSELS' ISLAMIC COMMUNITY	81
Mieke Groeninck

Part II DE/RADICALIZATION POLICIES ON THE GROUND

Chapter 4
FOREIGN FIGHTERS ON TRIAL: SENTENCING RISK, 2013–2017	97
Beatrice de Graaf

Chapter 5
PRE-EMPTIVE MEASURES AGAINST RADICALIZATION AND LOCAL PARTNERSHIPS IN ANTWERP	131
Ineke Roex and Floris Vermeulen

Chapter 6
COUNTERING RADICALIZATION: HIJACKING TRUST? DILEMMAS OF STREET-LEVEL BUREAUCRATS IN THE NETHERLANDS	147
Francesco Ragazzi and Lili-Anne de Jongh
Chapter 7
(DE-)RADICALIZATION AS A NEGOTIATED PRACTICE: AN ETHNOGRAPHIC CASE STUDY IN FLANDERS	169
Silke Jaminé and Nadia Fadil
Part III
DE/RADICALIZATION AND ITS EFFECTS
Chapter 8
ROUTINIZATION AND MOBILIZATION OF INJUSTICE: HOW TO LIVE IN A REGIME OF SURVEILLANCE	197
Martijn de Koning
Chapter 9
CAN THE ‘ MUHAJIR ’ SPEAK? ESUROPEAN SYRIA FIGHTERS AND THE DIGITAL UN/MAKING OF HOME	217
Jaafar Alloul
Chapter 10
NO ESCAPE: THE FORCE OF THE SECURITY FRAME IN ACADEMIA AND BEYOND	245
Annelies Moors
CONCLUSIONS
Chapter 11
FROM CONVERT TO RADICAL: MAKING CRITIQUE ILLEGIBLE	263
Iman Lechkar
Chapter 12
THE MAZE OF RADICALIZATION: JUSTIFICATION AND PROFESSIONAL INTERESTS	269
Didier Bigo
Afterword
A DE/RADICALIZED FUTURE	283
Paul Silverstein
Bibliography	289
Index	317

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This edited volume is the outcome of two conferences that were held in Amsterdam and Leuven in January and September 2016. We would like to thank the invited keynote speakers, Arun Kundnani and Martha Crenshaw, and the conference participants for their contributions and stimulating comments which have made the realization of this volume possible. We would also like to thank the anonymous peer reviewer, as well as Tahni Candelaria for the copy-editing of the manuscript and Sophie Rudland from I.B. Tauris for her professional guidance and support throughout the process. The realization of the volume was made possible with the financial support of the University of Amsterdam and the Catholic University of Leuven.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Jaafar Alloul holds an MA in Middle East studies from the Belgian University of Ghent, along with a European MA of Excellence (Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree/EMJMD) in social science with a focus on migration studies (EMMIR), coordinated by the German University of Oldenburg. He is currently finalizing in a joint PhD program in social anthropology at the KU Leuven and the University of Amsterdam, working on migration, minorities and the inclusion-exclusion nexus across the EU and the Arab Gulf/Dubai. His broader research interests include political Islam, the globalization of culture(s), and the social hierarchies of the political economy of race in Europe and the greater Middle East.

Didier Bigo is a professor at King's College London Department of War Studies and research professor of International Relations at Sciences-Po Paris/CERI. He is also director of the Centre for Study of Conflicts, Liberty and Security (CCLS) and editor of the quarterly journal Cultures et Conflits, published by L'Harmattan, as well as founder and previous co-editor, with Rob Walker, of the ISA journal International Political Sociology. His works focus on critical approaches to security in Europe and the relation between internal and external security, as well as the sociology of terrorism, antiterrorism and practices of surveillance. Some of his recent publications are Extraordinary Rendition: Addressing the Challenges of Accountability (with Elspeth Guild and Mark Gibney, Routledge, 2018) and Foucault and the Modern International: Silences and Legacies for the Study of World Politics (with Philippe Bonditi and Frederic Gros, Palgrave 2017).

Rik Coolsaet is Professor Emeritus of International Relations at Ghent University (Belgium) and Senior Associate Fellow at Egmont–Royal Institute for International Relations (Brussels). He was appointed a member of the original European Commission Expert Group on Violent Radicalization (established 2006) and the subsequent European Network of Experts on Radicalization (ENER). He was chair of the Department of Political Science at Ghent University from 2006 to 2014. He served as director of the Security & Global Governance programme at Egmont–Royal Institute for International Relations (Brussels). His most recent studies on radicalization and terrorism have all been released by the Egmont Institute: 'Returnees – Who Are They, Why Are They (Not) Coming Back and How Should We Deal with Them? Assessing Policies on Returning Foreign Terrorist Fighters in Belgium, Germany and the Netherlands' (with Thomas Renard, February 2018); 'Anticipating the Post-Daesh Landscape' (October 2017); "'All Radicalisation is Local': The Genesis and Drawbacks of an Elusive Concept' (June 2016); 'Assessing the Fourth Foreign Fighters Wave: What Drives Europeans to Syria, and to Islamic State? Insights from the Belgian Case' (March 2016).

Beatrice de Graaf is a professor of History of International Relations & Global Governance at the University of Utrecht. She is a leading expert in the field of terrorism, conflict and security and is a well-known researcher and discussion partner for governmental and societal institutions and the media. In 2007, she co-founded the Centre for Terrorism and Counterterrorism at Leiden University (Faculty Campus – The Hague). She was appointed professor for Conflict and Security History at Leiden University (2011), and received numerous grants, including an EU Consolidator Grant (SECURE) and the Stevin Prize (2.5 million euros). She has two research tracks: (1) the investigation into the origins and makings of a European Security Culture in the nineteenth century and (2) terrorism/counterterrorism from a historical perspective. She is a council member of the European Council of Foreign Relations, member of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences, and sits on the editorial boards of Studies in Conflict & Terrorism and Terrorism and Political Violence.

Lili-Anne de Jongh studied communication studies and political science at Leiden University, American University in Washington DC and Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam. She currently works as a policy advisor on security (radicalization and polarization in particular) for the City Council of Delft, the Netherlands, and as a part-time scientific researcher on the effects of security and counterterrorism measures on individuals, communities and human rights in general. Prior to that, she worked as the coordinator for the Institute of Security and Global Affairs (ISGA) Opening Conference of Leiden University and as a freelance researcher on counterterrorism measures at the Department of Human Rights Policy of Amnesty International, the Netherlands.

Martijn de Koning is an anthropologist. He teaches at the Department of Islamic Studies at Radboud University, Nijmegen, in the Netherlands and conducts research on lifestyles, identities and memories of Dutch Muslims in the UK. He is a post-doc researcher at the Department of Anthropology at the University of Amsterdam, where he is currently involved in the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research (NWO) funded project 'Forces That Bind and/or Divide' (on how Muslims can claim a voice in the public debates on Islam), and in the European Research Council (ERC) funded programme 'Problematizing "Muslim Marriages": Ambiguities and Contestations'. Martijn de Koning has published on Moroccan-Dutch youth and identity formation, radicalization, Salafism, Islamophobia, racialization and activism among Muslims in the Netherlands, Germany and Belgium. He maintains his own weblog CLOSER: <http://religionresearch.org/closer>.

Nadia Fadil is Associate Professor of Anthropology at the IMMRC (Interculturalism, Migration and Minorities Research Centre) at the Catholic University of Leuven (KU Leuven) in Belgium. Her ethnographic focus is on the presence of Islam in Europe, both as a living tradition and as an object of governmental regulation and societal debate, on which she has published extensively in academic journals (such as HAU, Ethnicities, Identities, Social Anthropology, Ethnic and Racial Studies and Feminist Review) and edited volumes. More broadly, her theoretical interests pertain to questions of subjectivity and power, ethical selfhood, embodiment and affect, postcolonialism, race and secularism.

Mieke Groeninck holds a PhD in social and cultural anthropology from the Catholic University of Leuven, Belgium. Her doctoral research focused on Islamic religious knowledge transmission for adults in Brussels' mosques and Islamic institutes. She has published articles on the art of Quranic recitation, the history of the institutionalization of Islam in Belgium, and pious epistemology and subjectivization. Currently, she works as a full-time researcher at the Knowledge Centre Higher Institute for Family Studies, conducting a research project on resilience among Afghan, Iraqi and Syrian asylum seeking and refugee families in Belgium. Her next project starts in May 2019 as a Marie Skłodowska-Curie postdoctoral research fellow at the Leiden University, where she will work on informal imam education programmes in Belgium and the Netherlands.

Silke Jaminé is a PhD researcher in anthropology at KU Leuven and Université libre de Bruxelles (ULB). She studied social work (UCLL/Social School Heverlee) and social and cultural anthropology (KU Leuven). During her master thesis research, she conducted fieldwork among civil servants and youth workers who were developing a deradicalization project. After graduation, she worked as a social worker in Antwerp. Her current PhD research looks at the development of counter-radicalization policies among local municipalities and civil servants in Belgium.

Iman Lechkar is Fatima Mernissi Chairholder at the Vrije Universiteit Brussels and a postdoctoral research fellow at IMMRC (KU Leuven). She obtained a PhD in social and cultural anthropology on Neo-Sunnis and Neo-Shi'ites in Belgium, which looked into conversion and religious practices in a secular context. Her teaching and research engage with questions of Islam and gender, religion and secularism, conversion, religious practice, identities and authorities, ethnicity, citizenship, subjectivity, agency, affect and (visual) methodologies. Recent publications include 'Being a "True" Shi'ite: The Poetics of Emotions among Belgian-Moroccan Shiites', Journal of Muslims in Europe 6, no. 2 (2017): 241–59; and 'The Power of Affective Encounters and Events: Why Moroccan Belgian Sunni's become Shia', in Moroccan Migration in Belgium: More than 50 Years Settlement, eds. C. Timmerman et al., 367–80 (Leuven: Leuven University Press).

Annelies Moors studied Arabic at the University of Damascus and anthropology at the University of Amsterdam. She did fieldwork in Palestine, Yemen and the Netherlands, and holds the chair of contemporary Muslim societies at the Department of Anthropology at the University of Amsterdam. She is also the PI of the NWO programme 'Muslim Activism in the Netherlands after 1989' and of the ERC advanced grant 'Problematizing "Muslim Marriages": Contestations and Ambiguities'. She has published widely on gender, nation and religion, materiality, affect, and visibility of various aspects of the Muslim culture, including Women, Property and Islam: Palestinian Experiences 1920-1990 (Cambridge University Press, 1995). She has edited special issues of journals such as Islamic Law and Society (2003), Fashion Theory (2008, with Emma Tarlo), Social Anthropology (2009, with Ruba Salih), Material Religion (2012) and Anthropological Quarterly (2014, with Jeanette Jouili); and edited volumes including Religion, Media, and the Public Sphere (Indiana University Press, 2006, with Birgit Meyer), Narratives of Truth in Islamic Law (I.B. Tauris, 2008, with Baudouin Dupret and Barbara Drieskens), The Colonial and Post-Colonial Governance of Islam (Amsterdam University Press, 2011, with Veit Bader and Marcel Maussen), and Islamic Fashion and Anti-Fashion (Bloomington, 2013, with Emma Tarlo).

Francesco Ragazzi is Lecturer in International Relations at Leiden University (the Netherlands) and associate scholar at the Centre d'Etudes et de Recherches Internationales (CERI/ Sciences Po Paris, France). He holds a PhD in political science from Sciences Po Paris (France) and Northwestern University (US). His research interests include diaspora, radicalization, terrorism, migration and citizenship. His last research project, funded by the Netherlands Scientific Organization and the European Union Marie Curie-Sklodowska programme, entitled 'Security and the Politics of Belonging: Homegrown Terrorism, Counter-Radicalization and the "End" of Multiculturalism?' explored the effects of security practices on contemporary meanings of community. His work has been published in peer-reviewed journals such as International Political Sociology, Security Dialogue, Political Geography, Journal of International Relations and Development, Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies and Cultures et Conflits, and has featured in numerous edited volumes. He serves on the editorial boards of the journals International Political Sociology, Citizenship Studies and Cultures et Conflits. He has been consulted as an expert on issues of security by the European Parliament, the Council of Europe and the French Senate.

Ineke Roex studied anthropology at the Radboud University in Nijmegen. Her thesis was about the Arab European League (AEL) in Belgium. In 2007–2009 she participated in a research programme about Salafism in the Netherlands at the University of Amsterdam. In 2009–2011 she worked at FORUM, Institute for Multicultural Affairs, as a researcher in the context of the special FORUM Frank Buijs Chair on Radicalization Studies with professor Frank Bovenkerk. She has participated in a programme of education and research on the evaluation of the effectiveness of anti-radicalization policies. Her dissertation Leven als de profeet in Nederland: Over de salafi-beweging en democratie (Amsterdam University Press, 2013) is based on her anthropological fieldwork in the Salafi movement in the Netherlands. She was involved in a research project focusing on Islamic activism in Western Europe, with a special focus on Sharia4Belgium. She is co-author of Als ik iemand beledigd heb, dan was dat mijn bedoeling': Sharia4Belgiums ideologie en humorgebruik (Amsterdam University Press, 2017). She is currently involved at NTA (Nuance door Training en Advies) as researcher and consultant, and she is guest researcher at the Department of Political Science at the University of Amsterdam.

Paul A. Silverstein is Professor of Anthropology at Reed College (Portland, USA). He is author of Algeria in France: Transpolitics, Race, Nation (Indiana University Press, 2004) and Postcolonial France: Race, Islam, and the Future of the Republic (Pluto, 2018), among other publications. His ethnographic and archival work addresses issues of (im)migration, labour, popular culture, sport and identity movements in both Europe and North Africa, and he is completing an ethnohistorical monograph on Amazigh cultural politics in south-eastern Morocco. His new research investigates the history and politics of immigrant workers in the coal mines of northern Europe. In 2015–2016 he was a Fulbright visiting professor in the Interculturalism, Migration and Minorities Research Centre at the University of Leuven. He chairs the board of directors of the Middle East Research and Information Project and is a co-editor of the Public Cultures in the Middle East and North Africa book series with Indiana University Press.

Floris Vermeulen is an associate professor at the Department of Political Science at the University of Amsterdam. He has been chair of the department and co-director of the Institute for Migration and Ethnic Studies (IMES). His research focuses on the civic and political participation of immigrants and their descendants at the local level. He is also interested in local integration policies for immigrant communities and the manner in which these policies are often combined with preventive policy programmes to counter violent extremism. His work is published in different international volumes and journals such as European Union Politics, Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, Terrorism and Political Violence, Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector Quarterly, Urban Studies, West European Politics, British Journal of Sociology, and Political Psychology.

Chapter 9

CAN THE 'MUHAJIR' SPEAK? EUROPEAN SYRIA FIGHTERS AND THE DIGITAL UN/MAKING OF HOME

Jaafar Alloul

In May 2014, a man calling himself Abu Fulaan from Antwerp¹ posted a video on YouTube explicitly addressing his audience as drari, Maghrebi Arabic vernacular (Darija) for 'brothers'. In his talk, Abu Fulaan is clearly concerned with presenting life after emigration as good, if not better than (staying put at home) in Europe. Driving his car somewhere in northern Syria, and filming himself with his dash camera, he claims repeatedly in Dutch that 'life is very normal here', adding that 'in some cases we're even better off than you guys in Belgium'.² Fulaan's aversion for the institutional order of things in Europe comes to the fore when he refers to Belgian political parties, which are usually deemed sympathetic to minority concerns, but by whom he seems to feel betrayed, as follows:

Sp.A [socialist party] and Groen [green party], it's all bullshit! It's all the same. Vlaams Blok! [far-right party] They are the least troublesome of all those democrats over there [Belgium]. Why? Because they say it out loud: All *makkakken*³ out. Muslims shouldn't be here.⁴

Fulaan then even urges his social group, that is, Belgian-Moroccans, to reconsider their supposedly docile voting habits: 'There are many people who say that if we don't vote the extreme right will win the elections and we will be the victims of that, and therefore we should all vote left-wing parties. . . . Those politicians for whom most Moroccans . . . most Muslims, vote – they do vote indeed – have never solved anything for us Muslims'.⁵ To outside observers, it is striking that although Abu Fulaan is based in war-torn Syria, he focuses primarily on Belgium, fulminating, 'I have followed the [Flemish] news', and 'in a few days there will be elections, so people are urging each other to go vote'.⁶ These utterings clearly indicate an ongoing emotional investment in the home country, as well as a desire to politicize life there. For instance, in another of several YouTube episodes, he and his Dutch co-driver, referring to Sharia law, urge youngsters not to go vote and to stage protests simultaneously: 'Go and hold up pamphlets and distribute flyers in order to raise political awareness'.⁷

The presence of Belgian nationals in Syria first came to the general public's attention in Flanders during the summer of 2012. Belgium now holds the highest per capita contingent of EU 'foreign fighters' in Syria. As of February 2018, the total number of Belgian legal subjects having engaged in migration efforts to Syria ever since 2012 was estimated at 550–600, including both failed attempts and 'returnees'.⁸ This entire group has been described as comprising a variety of 'teenagers and tweens, girls as well as boys, sometimes entire families, or mothers with small children'.⁹ Also, 75 per cent of the estimated total of 137 Belgian children in Syria was born on site. Of the 413 adult Belgian 'Syria fighters' or 'foreign terrorist fighters' (FTF) – as they are now dubbed by most agencies of the Belgian government – who managed to reach Syria and Iraq, 80 per cent are young men with a typical age range between twenty and thirty, and three-quarters reportedly 'joined the Islamic State (ISIS)'.¹⁰ By February 2018, the Dutch FTF group believed to have travelled to Syria and Iraq was estimated at 280 nationals, with at least 42 killed on site, 50 returnees, and 140 remaining in the region.¹¹ For the joint Belgian and Dutch cases for which information is available, unemployment was estimated at 32 per cent for the Belgian cohort and 41 per cent for the Dutch group, with those employed mainly categorized as unskilled workers.¹² Moreover, some estimates suggest that around 80 per cent of the Belgian Syria fighters held a Maghrebi minority background, while at least a disaggregated 41 per cent of the Dutch fighters is reported to have a Moroccan background.¹³

In September 2014, the largest ever terrorism prosecution in Belgian history began. Members of an association named 'Sharia4Belgium' and a set of Syria fighters were put on trial, some in absentia. Speculation about the role of Belgian nationals in crimes against humanity committed in Syria has been ongoing, ever since videos surfaced online in mid-2013 in which Belgian 'fighters' allegedly filmed their own acts of beheading their Syrian adversaries.¹⁴ Many other European emigrants – muhajirun in their own parlour¹⁵ – also used a variety of social media platforms to record and share their activities in Syria.¹⁶ A French media commentator even remarked on the jubilant editing and publishing process of one such video – in which Belgian national Abdelhamid Abaaoud can be seen driving a pick-up truck in Syria and dragging along the bodies of what he proudly calls the murtad (apostates) – '[They] film their jihad, as if it were all a game'.¹⁷ This chapter seeks to uncover the meanings behind the fabrication and distribution of such digital-style performances of European Islamist fighters in the disintegrating state(s) of Syria (and Iraq), aimed at local publics at home in Europe.

These inexpensively assembled (YouTube) videos and staged pictures focus primarily on their own mythical engagement in what they call sham,¹⁸ and later the khilafa (Caliphate), instead of on the Syrian people's struggles. Indeed, social media posts of profane celebrations of 'newfound' material gains in Syria (weapons, cars, villas) appear legion,¹⁹ along with 'jihadi' enactments of what has been coined 'fierce masculinity' in other case studies on the migration of close-knitted male groups.²⁰ This somewhat narcissistic and consumerist behaviour of some European muhajirun in Syria is reminiscent of the 'post-political' characterization of contemporary society.²¹ However, a closer look at some of these online performances suggests that concrete politics might nevertheless be present. Interestingly though, these politics often relate directly to Europe rather than (only) the Middle East. This chapter therefore also gauges how such digital jihadi enactments can be understood and read as practices of romantic-nationalist 'homemaking', whereby established notions of belonging, (feeling at) home and citizenship are purportedly destabilized in favour of the mythical trope of an idealized 'Islamic home'.

Over time, a series of media polemics and public spectacles have arisen in the Flemish and Dutch media on whether or not these are really 'Our boys in Syria'?²² Moreover, lawmakers across Europe have sought to strip 'them' of their citizenship through new terrorism legislation, thus seeking to redefine the boundaries of the constitutional order and reinforce the cultural form of the 'punitive turn'.²³ In sight of this muhajir (migrant) phenomenon to conflict zones and rising security concerns across the EU, some politicians in the Low Countries have started applying the catch phrase 'act normal or leave',²⁴ insinuating that all sorts of agitation and deviance from the part of 'the people' – in this case exceptional minorities – should be de-territorialized, and preferably so to an (ancestral) elsewhere ('homeland'). Yet, one can also detect a degree of unease among policymakers and academics in Europe on how to best 'define' EU nationals that have left for Syria: 'Syria fighters', 'Syria travellers', 'foreign fighters', 'FTF', or 'jihadi brides' (for women)? It is telling that none of these common institutional signifiers imply any reference to Europe, while at least some Europeans in Syria, like Hicham Chaib, have appropriated a nom de guerre that denotes precisely such a spatial connection: 'Abu Hanifa al-Baljiki [the Belgian]'.

This chapter has three main purposes: (1) to unpack the complex web of coded (Islamic) ideas (hijra, jihad, sham, umma, ikhwaniyya) on which some muhajirun draw and outline how this infers a set of relational societal sensibilities that refer back to Europe; (2) to denaturalize what we pretend to know about 'jihadi radicalization' in Western Europe by foregrounding anthropologically some of the narratives of the actors themselves; and (3) to elucidate some of the ways in which the state in Europe has tried to (re)gain control over these 'anti-citizens' (e.g. by enacting new terrorism legislation, declaring a state of emergency, stripping of citizenship and discursive framing). In the following section, I first review the dominant ways in which social scientific knowledge has thus far been produced about this deviant public. It will be shown how the analytical concepts of 'social space' and 'home', as well as the lens of a political anthropology of migration, offer fruitful venues for inquiry. I then offer a brief note on the applied methodology, before presenting my data and research results.

Knowledge production on radicalization

The considerable focus on the mahjar (place of departure in Europe), apparent in the language used by some of the Belgian and Dutch fighters in Syria, earnestly questions key arguments found in the bulk of rapidly emerging radicalization studies, which mostly emphasize (ideological) 'pull factors'.²⁵ The latter focus often leads to methodological individualism (and petite histoire as pathology),²⁶ and the mystification of explicit and implicit structures that may precede such outward mobility, such as the interplay between ‘social space’ and ‘race.’²⁷ While much of the literature focalizes on the transgressive ideology of such agents, it neglects the context of departure and specific inter-group dynamics at play therein. Some scholars have attempted to address this lacuna, but mostly from within the framework of ‘radicalization’ or ‘terrorism.’²⁸ Although these two strands of enquiry have been considered in recent years,²⁹ a genealogical tendency to downplay the local context and prioritize ‘international jihadism’ remains salient.³⁰ For instance, in his recent edition on Syria fighters, Patrick Loobuyck puts forth a disquieting scientific reductionism, which the saturated radicalization paradigm now legitimatizes:

We don’t focus on the societal context of poverty, unemployment, disadvantage, discrimination, Islamophobia, equal opportunities, far right [politics], racism and (failed) integration. This does not imply that a debate on these subjects is unimportant; the contrary is true and it is a pity that we need Syria fighters to do so as a matter of speech. But we nevertheless do not treat these topics here in this study, because they do not have particular relevance to better understand Syria fighters, radicalization and the attraction of IS.³¹

While some scholars frame the muhajirun’s behaviour as ‘nihilist’,³² others mention the attraction to ‘conspiracy theories.’³³ Both appreciations risk briskly depoliticizing these EU citizens’ migratory agency and the very spaces, or ‘power-geometries’,³⁴ through which they move, irrespective of their mode of alienation or sense of paranoiac phantasm. Media scholarship either harbours similar ideological premises or gets bogged down in the substantial work that comes with more quantitative analyses.³⁵ Still others have mostly attended to synthesizing governmental data,³⁶ while staying largely within the analytical confines of ‘integration.’³⁷ Few have drawn qualitatively on the direct empirical study of such online data as the discursive registers – or ethnographic artefacts – of a mobile but local contestation of societal power in Europe.³⁸ Anthropologists have only recently started exploring European female migrants in Syria (muhajirat sham) from such an everyday analytic while applying online methods.³⁹

Although the Islamic notion of jihad and numerous mujahidin have enjoyed considerable attention in social science,⁴⁰ the Islamic concept of hijra (piety migration) remains much less investigated. Yet, one of the claims put forward here is that it is precisely this critical ‘Islamic’ notion that commands attention for the conducive context of departure in Europe. Once unpacked, this mobilizing topos serves as a cognitive bridge in linking strands of contemporary Islamic vernacular to broader phenomena such as alienation and specific modes of spatial-urban aversion and indignation, which are social, if not existential as well.⁴¹ In fact, hijra speaks of the unimaginable: leaving wealthy Europe for war-torn Syria because of a negative place attachment in the West. In their own right, scholars of Islamic studies have already connected such underlying semantic registers as hijra, and dar al-harb ('the house of war', meaning territory outside Muslim rule), to a variety of historical and jurisprudential debates within the Islamic tradition on the prescription of jihad as either an individual (fard 'ayn) or communal responsibility (fard kifaya), while noting simultaneously dynamic shifts in the ideational spheres of global(izing) Islam(s).⁴² Indeed, the verbal Arabic root of hijra often features in the Qur'an in concurrence with that of jihad.⁴³ However, hijra also inherently references social space. After all, its Arabic meaning literally oscillates between 'forced migration', 'to break away from' and 'render(ed) homeless', encompassing the coatings of structure, instances of agency and a temporal and uprooted state of liminal being. The contemporary mobilization of hijra as a politicized category may therefore signal how a set of lived experiences of socio-spatial friction have in turn enabled romantic imaginaries of land (sham) and community to take shape. Adopting this angle, 'Islamist' notions such as hijra, jihad or sham suddenly appear to us as very modernist epistemic classifications.

In this sense, the muhajir, as an un-theorized 'mobile figure',⁴⁴ thus also embodies the increasingly politicized emotion of 'home' in Europe, or what Jan Willem Duyvendak calls the 'crisis of home': heightened social and political concerns for ethno-national belonging and organization. Interestingly, and contrary to what has thus far appeared in social science literature, Duyvendak approaches 'home' as an emotional experience and interactional disposition rather than as a mere physical structure or purely individual sentiment.⁴⁵ This then invites us to reflect more profoundly on the uneven experience of what Henri Lefebvre theorized earlier as 'social space' and the 'triple dialectic', that is, the meeting point of situational political economy (materiality) and cultural forms (layered, ideological normativities), reified as actual social environments by the occurrence of everyday interactions. Indeed, 'space' is not a mere passive background to social relations; rather, space is fundamentally social because material context, ideological regimes and everyday social interactions are all mutually constitutive, functioning as a triad or 'socio-spatial dialectic'.⁴⁶ My reading of the notion of hijra also resonates with debates on the validity of the critique of 'racial capitalism' and its implications for a 'politics of recognition'.⁴⁷ Although racialized majority-minority dynamics in Europe have been studied in relation to Muslim publics,⁴⁸ few have approached it from the dynamic case-perspective of emigration. Indeed, while studies exist about the impact of 'multicultural' immigration on formations of 'race' in the West,⁴⁹ rare are those that focus on the impact that 'race' has on emigration, that is, as a powerful structure in itself, informing social experience and capable of spurring all sorts of new (individualized) 'migratory dispositions'.⁵⁰

Mainstream social science research in Western Europe still considers 'race' to be a predominantly American issue and therefore an analytic relevant chiefly to US scholarship. Ignored thereby are the basic premises of racial formation theory,⁵¹ such as racial categorizations being dynamic throughout time (and space), in what remains a societal power play between (established) groups (and newcomers) over capital resources and political domination. This ontic and epistemic inertia has become manifest recently in that it is first and foremost US scholars who initiated the significant question, 'Is Islam in Western Europe like race in the United States?'⁵²

A small and pioneering number of European scholars have recently sought to address this racial optic trans-historically by positing Islamophobia as 'the new Western racism', flowing out of an older Euro-colonial racism and continental anti-Semitism.⁵³ Yet, this overall reluctance of taking race seriously as a meaningful category of analysis might stem from the ongoing rescaling of 'methodological nationalism',⁵⁴ fixated on all sorts of immigration to 'Fortress Europe'.

The following question arises from this critical framework: does hijra as a coded form of emigration constitute a spatially contextual and highly symbolic form of minoritarian 'exit' in Europe,⁵⁵ one which paradoxically reflects a sense of migratory 'hope',⁵⁶ as a modern 'imaginary of mobility'?⁵⁷

Methodology: Complementary practices of looking

Scholars have come to note a general 'lack of primary data' in most studies on Islamist radicalization in Europe.⁵⁸ Indeed, while governments limit sharing their sensitive information, social media platforms and companies like YouTube and Facebook are known to erase 'hate speech', nullifying considerable empirical evidence and leaving the public only with impressions. Others have nevertheless noted that, unlike the crises in Bahrain or Yemen, 'Syria is probably the most "socially mediated" conflict in modern history';⁵⁹ foregrounding the growing importance of 'online fields' when physical access is restricted.⁶⁰ In an attempt to redress this dearth of primary data, this chapter draws on a preliminary sample of videos and pictures that surfaced online, or were sometimes reported on (and stored temporarily) by media outlets, in the early war context of 2012–2014, when European Islamist activists and fighters in Syria were still actively disseminating their self-portrayals. In total, twelve open-source video samples (of anything between one and thirteen minutes) from mainly Dutch-speaking Belgian and Dutch (Maghrebi) nationals, and approximately twenty images were located online, featuring predominantly young men, of which only a portion could be discussed here.

While quantitative research has been conducted on some of the formal propaganda channels of organizations like ISIS, such as the English-language Dabiq magazine,⁶¹ or the Twitter and Facebook accounts of vocal figures (in the West) calling for jihad in Syria,⁶² this study draws on self-fabricated materials by Europeans in Syria, as well as on secondary ISIS propaganda segments that specifically feature EU nationals. In doing so, it seeks to move the analytical perspective primarily to the protagonists and their own discourses about leaving Europe, seeking to address the question, 'For what and for whom is all this going on, and – indeed – against whom?'⁶³

This digital anthropology applied an open-source methodology,⁶⁴ employing both direct and indirect data collections. First, open access e-platforms like YouTube were skimmed manually by applying focused search variables, and then other materials (e.g. videos, pictures) were gathered from residual websites, public social media platforms and online media channels that have all reported on and stored such primary data. The overall aim was to isolate these primary materials from any secondary framing so as to explore more directly the perspectives of those engaging in hijra to Syria. I do not claim this sample is representative for any (national) group of European muhajirun, nor does this chapter provide an exhaustive causal explanation of this complex phenomenon – leaving this to scholars better positioned. Rather, I approach the theme through a body of literature that is seldom integrated during academic discussions of Islamist radicalization in Europe. Given the relative absence of similar studies that foreground e-data outside of the framework of radicalization, complementary insights on this muhajir public can be attained here, not least by first provoking the Spivakian question, 'Can the muhajir speak?'⁶⁵ and then carefully listening 'to what people say regarding where and when they feel at home, and what feeling at home means to them.'⁶⁶

Discussion: Jihadi ego in new media

Speaking back to 'home' in Europe

A video featured online on the webpage of a Belgian daily newspaper in October 2013 and saw a Flemish-Maghrebi youth (see Figure 9.1) slander the Belgian population from abroad as 'the descendants of apes and swines', claiming that Belgium was 'fighting Islam with laws' by means of 'a ban on veils in the schools'.⁶⁷ Despite the ISIS flag in the background, he was referencing local municipal politics in Belgium, dating from the late 2000s, namely when the city of Antwerp (led by the socialist mayor Janssens) decided to outlaw headscarves among civil servants in 2007. In 2009, a regional measure was also adopted in the Flemish public-school system, allowing for the prohibition of all displays of religious signs in schools, as an extension of the bureaucratic sartorial legislation.⁶⁸ References to such public discussions on the veil ban back in the Low Countries were also made in Abu Fulaan's first episode on YouTube:

a woman who dresses up gets a fine, while a woman who undresses gets money for it. Yes! . . . The freedom of expression! For us there is no freedom. For us there is dictatorship; using a steel fist against Muslims, that is what we have experienced in Europe, guys.⁶⁹

Here, Fulaan frames such legislative initiatives in the Low Countries as efforts that sought to limit the freedom of religion. Contrary to what one would expect from someone engaged in the Syrian civil war, he chooses to emphasize the claim that his social group has experienced a lack of 'freedom' in Europe. We can read in Fulaan's outcry a sense of racialized exclusion and suppression ('steel fist against Muslims'). His narrative appears to stand in opposition to what he perceives as a top-down 'technology' of state (bio)power. Here, the muhajir's rhetoric could be seen to function as an oppositional 'technique' that seeks to undermine the moral authority of the state in Europe.

Figure 9.1 Anonymous Belgian in Syria. Screenshot caption: 'We left everything behind: our family and friends.'

Source: Anonymous 1, in 'Strijder roept in plat antwerps op om aanslagen te plegen en naar Syrië te komen', Het Nieuwsblad [online], 23 October 2013. Available at https://www.nieuwsblad.be/article/detail.aspx?articleid=DMF20131022_00804525 (accessed 18 November 2013).

Besides such political controversies, some fighters also share rather banal details of their daily practices in Syria. Abu Fulaan, for instance, occasionally mentions some leisurely routines that seemingly fall outside of any concrete politics: 'I'll be driving to the shop later on to buy some crisps, some drinks, Pepsi and stuff; that's all available here'. However, these mundane references nevertheless allude to a concrete urban space and minority milieu in Europe. What Fulaan does here is to tap into a Dutch-Darija vernacular language and introduce subtly a sense of familiarity or 'home' that appeals directly to an urban youth culture in Europe. Hence, his popular 'urban language' functions as an emotive layer within the assemblage of his propaganda effort, rather than outside or alongside it. By infusing his message with familiar social codes, such as consuming snacks with close friends, he first portrays himself as an in-group member, establishing credibility and trust, and only then continues to project his ideology. By inserting recognizable elements of daily life in Europe into a larger account of (the war in) Syria, he reshapes the idea of travelling to Syria into something more conceivable; as a groomer, he leads the imagination by example. Such an emigration might otherwise appear alien or distant to European minority youths, as the intricacies of Middle Eastern politics are not familiar per se to second- and third-generation Maghrebis, born and raised in Europe. By blending the wider political concerns of minority publics in Europe, like the veil ban, with more banal rites located in the urban everyday of minority youths, Fulaan crafts meanings into the Syria conflict, offering a palatable 'translation'. Such highly emotional amalgamations help to make recruitment efforts echo more widely among alienated publics in Europe.

In his recent work, Migration and the Search for Home, Boccagni argues that a combined sense of security, familiarity, and control constitute the three key elements in the social experience (of feeling at) 'home'.⁷⁰ Fulaan's negative perception of 'anti-Muslim' legislation takes the form of a dialogical resentment that testifies to a perceived loss of security for his specific (piety) group(s). It also conveys an inability, namely the perceived lack of a political means to exert a degree of control over contemporary forms of exclusion. Listening to these men's voices when they speak online, one notices a strong ventilation of anger for having gone through some kind of deep-seated, denigrating treatment in Europe – a sort of casting out. In Purity and Danger, Mary Douglas describes such negative boundary making, or 'abjection', as the processes by which certain bodies in society are marked by the ruling classes as undesirable for the purpose of enabling a national 'Us' to take shape, precisely by imaginatively emphasizing that which 'We' are not.⁷¹

Moreover, scholars of race studies have suggested that 'social power plays an important role in how people move in the world and how they connect to place',⁷² reclaiming the Lefebvrian idea that the ability to exert power over space is ultimately power over life.⁷³ Hence, 'exiting' social space, in this case by means of an outward migration to Syria, thus becomes analytically meaningful in attaining a symbolic European 'voice' of its own.⁷⁴ By 'leaving Europe', and advocating for a new community and polity abroad, this 'migratory voice' is indeed reified. In this sense, migration-as-process becomes an almost existential means for regaining some degree of (political) control over life. It is therefore argued here that this emigration dynamic to Syria might relate to a deep-running frustration among Muslim minority publics in Western Europe over their abjected social status as second-class citizens, and consequently, to the remaking or revalorization of this degraded social standing through geographical relocation.

In his second YouTube episode, Fulaan introduces a Dutch companion seated next to him in the car, who is brought in to testify on what they claim is by now a collective and transnational political climate across Western Europe:

I can tell you that left-wing parties like Sp.A and Groen have voted for the ban on headscarves and effectuated it. [The same for] ritual slaughter, a ban; Islamic school, a ban! Those weren't the right-wing parties; it was all left-wing parties.⁷⁵

In other words, what they claim is that the targeting of Muslim publics in Europe is no longer the sole currency of the (far) right but that it has become part of the broader political landscape. Some Belgian scholars have suggested that it is precisely such a general, post-9/11 societal backdrop – consumed by 'Islam' and 'migration' – to which contemporary forms of radicalization in Europe can be read: the 'radical-right anti-Islam stance was now joined by the rigorous anticlerical stance of the left in some kind of joint anti-Islamic Kulturkampf', thereby cementing a 'polarizing debate on the compatibility of Islam with Western values'.⁷⁶

In their episode, Fulaan and his Dutch companion first touch upon the situation in Syria. But this evocation of their new 'home' remains relatively brief (one minute), marking a 'discursive silence'; the remaining time (nine minutes) is dedicated to current media affairs in the Low Countries rather than in Syria. The shift in focus occurs abruptly, hastily transitioning: 'actually we want to discuss this'.⁷⁷ They then relate how two 'sisters' were arrested at the Belgian international airport on the suspicion of wanting to leave for Syria. They try to legitimize these muhajirat's attempts by referencing the local societal context in Europe, not least the decades-old racist credo that 'they' should leave:

If you're always shouting, like Filip does [Filip Dewinter, former head of the far-right Flemish Cause party], 'Adapt or get lost'. Well, those two sisters wanted to leave [Belgium]. They were probably sick and tired of it. But why did they want to leave? They left but they were stopped. Why, I don't know . . . people that want to leave voluntarily via official routes are stopped! That's a world upside down . . . Those guys [far right], I don't know what they want. They want us here; they want us there. What are we supposed to do?⁷⁸

This statement can either be read as incorporating right-wing arguments in order to mock a level of political contradiction at home, or as an illustration of their having fully internalized the racist trope of 'not belonging' to Europe. Either way, their mode of speaking occurs in direct spatial relation to the political discourse of the Flemish right wing. Abu Fulaan then asks his anonymous Dutch passenger, 'I don't know whether it's the same at your end?' To which the latter replies, 'At our end, they always say that we have to leave. Yes, for the Netherlands it's exactly the same. Adapt to Dutch society or else you don't belong here.'⁷⁹ The Dutch phrase that is used to refer to 'not belonging' applies the exact wording of 'or else you are not at home here [anders hoor je hier niet thuis]', in which the key sign of 'home' does not merely denote a physical home or even legal citizenship, but clearly connotes belonging to a 'national' community based on ethno-racial or assimilationist ideas of collective identity, in their modernist romantic conception. The speakers in Syria thus present their former 'home' as an experience of friction, grounded in concrete social geographies in Europe (Flanders, the Netherlands). Their referenced subject position as 'Muslims' in Europe imbues the characteristics of 'racial formation' processes in which 'Muslimness' has gradually started operating as a form of religion-coded race,⁸⁰ much in the same way that 'Catholic' Irish (and Italian) immigrants to the US were first cast out as 'non-white' by the 'White Anglo-Saxon Protestant' (WASP) majority in power – a racial disciplining process aimed at limiting their access to meaningful positions of power, thus curbing their quest for permanent settlement and discouraging them from feeling at home.⁸¹ The similarly transformative but contrary dynamic goes for former 'ghetto Jews' in Europe, who, over the course of two centuries (1750–1950) became part and parcel of Europe's cultural avant-garde and integrated into its political and financial elites, only for this 'Jewish modernity' to be violently annihilated when 'they' were recast as distinct 'Jews' during the continental crises of 1930–1945.⁸²

By alluding to their past experiences with racism, these muhajirun evoke the idea of 'home' in Europe as a well-policed notion to which their community was not allowed to lay claim. Given that most of the cited online media fabrications occur in Dutch, both the symbolism and message do appear located largely within a European social field. Such instances display a political indignation from below, however inconvenient this may sound. Their social media activity signals a need to 'speak' (back to 'home') – a social privilege often denied to subaltern publics. However, as Robert Young has pointed out, it is not that 'they' do not know how to speak (politics), as the above videos partly indicate, 'but rather that the dominant would not listen.'⁸³ The tension with which this urge to speak back to Europe from a position in Syria reflects a dual process of un/making 'home': in Dutch, rather than formal Arabic, European speakers in Syria address European publics, and discursively intervene on local matters of social and political concern in Europe ('making'), while at the same time discarding ('unmaking') their respective societies as viable social spaces for 'Muslim' life, propagating oppositional horizons of being and community. In doing so, they seem to have internalized the very binary of outsider/Fremdbild of the far-right logic.⁸⁴

Indeed, it is striking how the political life-worlds of these muhajirun continues to be informed by European sensibilities despite their relocation. As migration scholar Pine makes clear, however, 'migration is both a future-oriented and a backward-looking process.'⁸⁵ In our case, it calls attention to the importance of lived experiences in the space of departure as being indicative of the movement itself: from the alienating urban ghetto in Europe to the Syrian front. Moreover, migration scholars like Ghassan Hage have already demonstrated at length that a sense of 'stuckedness' – that is, the subjective feeling of 'going too slowly' or 'going nowhere' – can play a role in prompting emigration.⁸⁶ In such instances, migration operates as a hands-on coping strategy for 'waithood',⁸⁷ and as a gateway for a set of future aspirations located or imagined in an elsewhere.

In this light, it comes as no surprise that Belgian scholars have started making the claim that 'all radicalisation is local'.⁸⁸ In fact, more alarming analyses also implicate the relevance of the suggested notion of 'home', in very concrete ways: 'Judging by the number of plots and attacks hatched by Syrian returnees, the Islamic State's francophone [French and Belgian] cadre appears to be the most active of the organization's Western contingent. Often operating together in Syria, a number of these recruits showed an early proclivity towards striking their home country.'⁸⁹ Indeed, 'immigrant' minorities-turned-muhajirun might now symbolize how 'from its place of banishment, the abject does not cease challenging its master'.⁹⁰ This ongoing interplay between ego and superego, both online and in the political sphere, raises the question then whether the ensuing aggression by these muhajirun inside Europe symbolizes, to a certain degree, a very reactionary revolt of the 'colony within',⁹¹ bearing in mind here the involvement of European citizens in appalling local attacks on European soil who have never themselves ventured out to Syria, like Salah Abdeslam.

Un/making home: Burning the EU passport

A particular muhajir rite in Syria is the recording of EU passport burnings, accompanied by slogans like, 'We are honoured that we have nothing more to do with [yo]u'⁹² in the case of a set of Dutch nationals (see Figure 9.2). Here, the signifier ‘you’ refers to Dutch society. In part, this type of recorded hyper-media seems manufactured to arouse a non-Syrian, Dutch public. The speaker’s claim of not being part of the ‘u’ evokes an almost bodily understanding of ‘the nation’. During such critical junctures, aversion to the context of departure seems stronger than attraction to Syria or the Middle East. This rite of passage further amplifies the unmaking of ‘home’: subsequent to the burning stage, one passes on to the liminal phase of being stateless and homeless (disaffiliation),⁹³ after which a combative oath is taken (re-grounding) that clears the way for a reconstitution (re-affiliation) of community (brotherhood/ikhwaniyya, umma) in a new ‘home’ (sham, khilafa). Such emblematic rituals in Syria foster newly found social bondage and self-identification.

A similar act was staged by French nationals in Syria, who in a video post (see Figure 9.3) that was published by the Guardian in 2014 shout out in an enraged tone of recording, ‘You have oppressed us, you have fought our religion, you have insulted our Prophet’. The main speaker adds: ‘If you come here, we will fight you.’⁹⁴ Here, the signifier of ‘you’ denotes France and the symbolic institution of the French army. Citizenship thus also represents the (un)willingness to associate with a state and its society. This French discourse of dissent evokes a desire to engage with France in a geographical space that is framed in highly mythological

Figure 9.2 Primary image produced by Dutch nationals in Syria and reported on by UK scholar Shiraz Maher on Twitter (September 2014), showing the ritual burning of passports. Screenshot caption: ‘Dutch foreign fighter in Syria burns his passport. His message: “we are honoured that we have nothing more to do with u.”’ parole (sham, khilafa). Syria then becomes a highly symbolic counter-space, or 'consequential geography',⁹⁵ for staging actual politics against (a former home in) Europe. Sham, founded on the debris of disintegrated states in the Middle East, provides these Europeans with a highly mediated platform from which to voice their power contestation as modern 'anti-citizens' on the move.

Source: Anonymous 3, retweeted by Dr Shiraz Maher (ICSR, King’s College London) (9 April 2014), [Twitter, account ‘@ShirazMaher’]. Available at <https://twitter.com/ShirazMaher> (accessed 20 April 2014).

Figure 9.3 Screenshot of video by French nationals in Syria.

Source: Anonymous 4, in 'Video: French ISIS Fighters Burn Their Passports', the Guardian [online], 20 November 2014. Available at <https://www.theguardian.com/world/video/2014/nov/20/french-isis-fighters-burn-passports-video> (accessed 6 June 2016).

By introducing ethnographically the social figure of the muhajir, and probing his rituals in Syria, I am able to conceptualize here the analytical figure of the 'anti-citizen', which enables for the development of Robin Cohen's triangulation of citizenship categories. Based on his view that 'the modern state has sought to differentiate the various people under its sway by including some in the body politic and according them full civic and social rights, while seeking to exclude others from entering this charmed circle', he conceptualized 'citizens' (e.g. nationals by birth), 'denizens' (e.g. cosmopolitan 'expats', recognized asylum seekers), and 'helots' (e.g. irregular entrants and overstayers, asylum seekers, irregular workers).⁹⁶ However, his implicit legalistic focus does not include abjection processes of racialized segments of the citizenry (by birth) that are, subsequent to emigration, downgraded in both their symbolic and legal status, over their political behaviour abroad – either by their own doing (i.e. burning rites) or by authorities in Europe that push for stripping their citizenship status.

There is a well-established discourse in France, and Western Europe for that matter, that propounds that citizens with a non-EU, Muslim background from Maghreb countries are only 'French in passport' or 'français de passeport', and can therefore be categorized as 'second-', 'third-', or 'fourth-generation immigrants' or 'issue de l'immigration', irrespective of their place of birth. This amounts to what scholars have dubbed 'differentialist racism' or 'neo-racism'.⁹⁷ Rik Coolsaet has recently highlighted that 'social exclusion – the feeling of being considered second-class citizens' constitutes a key element of the conducive context of minority youth's radicalization in Europe, precisely because it operates as a form of relative deprivation.⁹⁸ In her study on the experiences of youths of North African origin in France, Nadia Kiwan writes that 'racial and cultural discrimination, in all its forms', is intensely 'present in terms of a conscience' among young men in the banlieues of Paris.⁹⁹ In the Low Countries, scholars have over the years also noted an increasing 'culturalization of citizenship',¹⁰⁰ operating under the auspices of the disciplinary discourses of 'integration' and 'tolerance'.¹⁰¹ The salience of such exclusivist ideologies in Western Europe reinforces the primacy of ethno-national ideas (confer jus sanguinis) and challenges universalist philosophies on state-subject relations that remain as yet enforced by law in most EU Member States (jus soli).

In the French video (Figure 9.3), one of the speakers heatedly utters, 'we disown these passports that you have imposed on us'.¹⁰² Such a claim makes it seem as if a passport is the only thing they share with other segments of French society, suggesting that they have internalized and are now themselves reproducing the racist logic of the European far right, despite having been socialized primarily in Europe. In her work, Barbara Franz has discerned an ongoing 'coloured' (segmented) form of class indignation in Europe, arguing that an underlying negation of social mobility for many West-Europeans with an immigrant-Muslim background has in turn led to a reinforced self-identification as 'Muslims'. In this dialectic process of segregation, dominant notions of otherness (stigma) also feed back into the cultivation of selfhood among besieged minorities.¹⁰³

The muhajirun's narratives, rituals and style performances convey strong negative place attachments to Europe that seem located on a visceral level, based on a series of (traumatic) lived experiences, or 'espace vécu'.¹⁰⁴ Indeed, the fact that they take the time and effort to speak of their prior condition back in Europe in a heated Syrian war context suggests that Europe continues to occupy a central emotional referent in their life-worlds. Their willingness to engage militarily with the European 'nation-state' indicates that their anger and discourse seem fixated against this previously experienced racialized structure, or 'racial space', in Europe.¹⁰⁵ This renders their Islamist discourse on 'home' very political indeed. It appears that forms of local alienation in urban Europe have translated into a spatially aversive affect, to which emigration (hijra) is the answer.

This emerging importance of the European context of departure, unearthed in the online repertoires of European muhajirun in Syria, puts to question the overemphasis on foreign ideologies and political movements abroad, as found in the rapidly emerging bulk of radicalization scholarship. Recent studies seem primarily concerned with diagnosing individual signs of pre-departure 'radicalization',¹⁰⁶ while often outsourcing the main political references to a social space abroad, outside of Europe, namely as 'the attraction of IS'.¹⁰⁷ Yet others displace politics entirely to a sensational cyberspace ('virtual Caliphate'), which allegedly stands disconnected from broader socialization processes. Conveniently so, 'they' then radicalize anywhere but in our midst.¹⁰⁸

Responding to such a trend, scholars like Franz have long argued for the rehabilitation of social class into the analysis of 'Islamic alienation' in Europe.¹⁰⁹ In a similar vein, more critical explorations into the intricate structure of 'race' have posited racism to be an inherent instrument for class division, catering to the ability of capital to flexibly call upon, or temporarily expel labour segments according to the dictate of market demands (social dumping),¹¹⁰ precisely through their very inferiorization or selective 'racing',¹¹¹ always recreating new 'regimes of human worth'.¹¹² In this view, racism is not a negligible by-product of modern capitalism but rather an integral function ('social reproduction') to sustaining its very survival. Therefore, if capital organizes itself on a racial basis too, as an underlying social relation of production, then 'race' forms an integral device in the hegemonic ideological apparatus of the ruling class and its majoritarian following among the population.

For instance, when yet other Belgian and Dutch muhajirun in Syria proclaim, 'Our Prophet is being mocked, use hikma [righteous wisdom], and stand up',¹¹³ in direct conjunction with mentioning (Geert) 'Wilders' – the Dutch chairman of a far-right party (Partij voor de Vrijheid) – it signifies not only the visceral ways in which 'Muslims' experience the persona of the Prophet, but, also that European minority youths have started mobilizing religion (hikma) politically, as a modern vernacular for staging a militant counter-discourse. Most scholars have overlooked the fact that these European muhajirun in Syria repeatedly make such telling references to concrete political figures of the far right in Europe. Consequently, one can argue that new and locally emerging ways of collective self-identification (categories of practice) among highly racialized subjects of the working class need to be tied into the global material intricacies at play within grotesque spectacles of identity politics. As Cohen has amplified, 'too much attention has been paid to identity formation among ethnic minorities without looking at the shifts in popular consciousness and cultural practices among majority populations'.¹¹⁴ Hence, shifting the analytical focus from the 'individual' ('Syria fighter') or 'residual' ('Muslims') to the hegemonic and dominant dispositif within the socio-spatial (i.e. re-emerging forms of ethnic nationalism) seems expedient.

Today, the notion of hijra is actively discussed (online), especially in puritan strands of Salafi-Wahhabism in the West. 'Spokesmen' have been reinforcing its obligatory and literal-physical interpretation – stressing the binary 'dar al-harb' versus 'dar al-Islam' as opposed to hijra as intention (niya) and a domain for self-struggle and repentance (tawba).¹¹⁵ However, it is key to ask ourselves on what societal grounds in Europe this ideational Wahhabi literalism (of 'reborn' Muslims rediscovering their faith) is fostered. One could reference the Qur'an and state that 'they' act merely upon their religious commands; one particular Qur'anic verse seems to have been popularized in Wahhabi circles, namely when the angels are quoted asking the deceased, 'In what condition were you?' They will say, 'We were oppressed in the land.' To which the angels will say, 'Was not the earth of Allah spacious [enough] for you to emigrate therein?'¹¹⁶ However, the very popularization of this specific verse (from the entire Qur'an and body of Hadiths) also suggests that 'they' link such historical registers of the Islamic tradition (e.g. the oppression of Prophet Mohammad and his 'hijra al-nabawiyya' in AD 622) to a contemporary climate of societal polarization in Europe and their own negative place attachments.

Un/making race through hijra to sham

In older video segments that were incorporated in a 2017 Belgian-Flemish documentary series on IS, we can hear French-speaking Belgians in Syria propagate the Caliphate, saying ‘there is no difference between an Arab and a non-Arab, between a white man and a black man, provided that they are pious’.¹¹⁷ This claim is bolstered in their video sketch by an image of men of different colour, all dressed up in identical (‘egalitarian’) army uniforms, all smiling and posing in a brotherly fashion (see Figure 9.4). Another image follows showing young men intensely hugging each other in the mosque after prayer. Racial equality and pious brotherhood (ikhwaniyya) are two ideas that are drawn upon simultaneously to morally legitimate the Caliphate as a political space in opposition to Belgium and Europe. The documentary also featured an anonymous Dutch-speaking Belgian male (see Figure 9.5). Looking into the camera, he proclaims: ‘Thank God for giving us the strength to comply with our duty [hijra, jihad], and as you can see, we are here with all sorts of people: Africans, Europeans, Americans, Asians. And that kind of racism that you know there is simply not around over here’.¹¹⁸ He makes this claim while rowing a boat (on the Euphrates, with a child) against the backdrop of a crystal-clear sky. He is then seen lighting a campfire over which fresh food is cooked, enticing the audience with a sense of outdoor adventure. Similar to most of the abovementioned speakers, he narrates in vernacular Dutch to European (in-group) audiences, and in the background one can hear pre-recorded Arabic-language hymns (anasheeds) that have been put in place to further evoke a sense of Arab-Muslim authenticity. By unfolding a discursive opposition between ‘here’ (the Caliphate’s self-proclaimed territories) and ‘there’ (Belgium), he too addresses – as fuel for Wahhabi ISIS propaganda – the contemporary racialization of (coloured) Muslim citizens in Europe.

The documentary then features a video clip dating from August 2014, featuring Hicham Chaib (see Figure 9.6), a former resident of the Belgian city of Antwerp.

Figure 9.4 European IS fabrications. Left: Image of fighters of ‘all colours’ presented as ideal. Screenshot caption: ‘Between an Arab and non-Arab, a white [man] and a black [man]’.

Source: Anonymous 6, in ‘Vranckx: IS in het vizier – voor God en Kalifaat’ (21 March 2017), [Canvas online, episode 1], 26:35–27:06. Available at <https://www.vrt.be/vrtnu/a-z/is-in-het-vizier/1/is-in-het-vizier-s1a1-voor-god-en-kalifaat/> (accessed 1 April 2017).

Figure 9.5 Anonymous Belgian-Maghrebi testifying about the absence of racism in the Caliphate. Screenshot caption: 'And the sort of racism that you know there is simply not around over here.'

Source: Anonymous 7, in 'Vranckx: IS in het vizier – voor God en Kalifaat' (21 March 2017), [Canvas online, episode 1], 27:25–27:45. Available at <https://www.vrt.be/vrtnu/a-z/is-in-het-vizier/1/is-in-het-vizier-s1a1-voor-god-en-kalifaat/> (accessed 1 April 2017).

Figure 9.6 Belgian-Moroccan national Hicham Chaib (August 2014), staging IS propaganda from Raqqa, Syria. Screenshot caption: '[I have never in my life felt like a Muslim as I do] in these moments, over here, amidst all the Muslims.'

Source: Hicham Chaib in 'Vranckx: IS in het vizier – voor God en Kalifaat' (21 March 2017), [Canvas online, episode 1], 27:55–28:15. Available at <https://www.vrt.be/vrtnu/a-z/is-in-het-vizier/1/is-in-het-vizier-s1a1-voor-god-en-kalifaat/> (accessed 1 April 2017).

Wearing a turban and 'traditional' garb, he emotionally proclaims in Dutch, 'I have never in my life felt like a Muslim as I do in these moments, over here, amidst all the Muslims, and under the shadow of the khilafa. Thank God, we live here very safely and very happily.'¹¹⁹ At the time of recording in Raqqa, the day is bright and there are few signs of war. Chaib claims that his 'happiness' is derived from concluding hijra, evoking the idea of a 'homecoming' and immersion into a reachable Muslim 'body', as some form of kinship, drawing on the pre-national notion of the global umma, the ecumenical Islamic community. His reductionist parole of equating diversely inhabited territories in Syria to 'Muslims',¹²⁰ only makes sense when attending to its reflexive referent: the feeling of not belonging to/in Europe, propagated, or indeed previously experienced, as being equally 'homogenous'. Chaib crafts a migratory horizon where sham operates as a 'promised land', portrayed as a gateway towards a more dignified life among alleged brethren. Although the signifier of 'Muslim' remains applied in terms of 'situational self-identification' across space – he self-portrays primarily as 'Muslim', first in Europe, then in Syria – its connoted meaning nevertheless holds a wholly different weight subsequent to emigration: majoritarian dominance.¹²¹ Spatial relocation across social formations can thus be imagined or experienced as a beneficial form of (racial) status exchange, and is hereby conceptualized as the process of 'status migration', as a contribution to migration scholarship. In Chaib's case, his own status exchange seems to have come with a concrete pathway to power in Syria, as he reportedly occupied a position in the ranks of the 'religious police' in Raqqa. In fact, other muhajirun in Syria, like Abu Fulaan, also celebrated this peculiar inversion of power: 'In Syria, we are the police!'¹²²

Drawing on colonial history, Cohen was quick to point out that it used to be 'perfectly possible for English and Irish convicts to become landowners and gentlemen farmers in Australia',¹²³ demonstrating that a drive for upward mobility in the social order has long functioned as an emigration motive, especially for symbolically stained publics that would otherwise remain 'stuck' in their abjected social position.¹²⁴ This chapter proposes, however, that such instances of 'status migration' need not be narrowed down economically to labour or mere gains in monetary income, but can simultaneously involve matters of 'race' too. The idea of 'hope' for an alternative social ordering through migration comes to the fore here.¹²⁵ One should note also that Chaib does not evoke 'Arabness' in his discourse on community, amplifying the demise of regional Arab nationalism as a mobilizing political force.¹²⁶ The militant Wahhabism of European IS-supporters like Chaib and their obsession with the ancient world seems to have blended with the ideational categories of nineteenth-century European racism, approaching therein the discursive structure of the contemporary far right in Europe. This 'glocal' style-embodiment exhibits how certain ideational frameworks can travel, blend with others and re-emerge as hybrid assemblages outside of their foundational sphere of origin.

By coding Syria as sham and 'among Muslims', and infusing mythological monotheist sentiments like 'salvation', a 'new beginning', or a 'resurrection' (nahda in Arabic) into imagined notions of communitarian space abroad, we see Chaib romantically framing his migration as a transition from membership of an urban outcast minority to a majority Herrenvolk. While showcasing subtly his new position in the social hierarchy, the sign of 'Muslim' in Chaib's narrative implies, however, an equally racialized conceptualization. His take on sham and the khilafa has taken on the form of a Lacanian 'fantasy-space',¹²⁷ in which he and his IS affiliates are positioned centre stage as a 'chosen people', surrounded by object-like others – framed as 'pagan intruders', 'non-people', or 'rejectionist apostates' (kuffar, tawaghit, murtad, rafidin) – whose very existence defies the propagated myth. These ideational exponents of his language use – romantic terra, default 'nation' in Europe's mirror image – partly highlight the reproduction of European social space in Syria. As Neely and Samura have aptly pointed out, 'the making and remaking of space is also about the making and remaking of race'.¹²⁸ This also resonates with Spivak's critique of 'colonized minds': subalterns ending up reproducing the very 'Western fantasies' of their (former) 'masters'.¹²⁹ These young men seem to produce the stereotypical image of the antithetical Orient that has so long been propagated by the centres of Empire, prompting the question of whether their styling efforts, in all their disconnect from the many concrete struggles of the Syrian peoples, present us paradoxically with yet another Fanonian permutation of 'brown skin, white masks'.¹³⁰ Indeed, Chaib's narrative strikes us as an extremely dualist, centre-periphery discourse and demonstrates the modernist racialism at the heart of IS's ideology. His language points yet again to the importance of Boccagni's aforementioned element of (re/gaining a sense of) control over life; in this case, by violently remaking Syria as a cleansed 'Muslim home'.

Performing hijra to Syria-as-sham appears to constitute a highly relational quest for community and belonging, masking modes of individual alienation and racialized abjection in Europe. This indignant procession of self-exile then becomes a late-modern phenomenon, occurring to a certain degree in a dialectic relationship to forms of exacerbated nationalism and racist exclusion by majoritarian publics in the West. This suggests that fringe elements of an oppositional minority politics have morphed into a far-right modus operandi, transposed abroad (on)to the Syrian conflict;¹³¹ as radical elements that might otherwise have served as fuel for a progressive social movement at home in the face of wide-ranging, dislocating social transformations in Europe.

Conclusion

Migration scholars Narotzky and Besnier rightly remind us that 'past experiences provide a horizon of expectations configuring present aspirations and hopes for the future'.¹³² Indeed, space and spatially situational behaviour are, at least in part, social products. However, when it comes to the study of the phenomenon of 'Syria fighters', the societal context of departure has generally been ignored in favour of the ideology of 'international jihadism', obfuscating some of the more structural psychosocial modalities that may partly inform such a peculiar emigration in the first place. By means of carefully studying the online narratives of some of the more vocal muhajirun in Syria and Iraq, this study has unearthed a strong focus on Europe (despite their emigration), as well as a relational language that articulates highly racialized experiences as 'Muslims' in their respective societies of departure. This discursive focus on 'home' in Europe is clearly political, for it speaks of a viscerally experienced abjection as second-class citizens. In fact, some of the recorded jihadi (body) language used in Syria seems to occur in Dutch rather than formal Arabic, and it often stands in a dialogical relationship to European rather than Middle Eastern societal affairs. In particular, these muhajirun can be seen interpellating the racist discourse of the European far right, applying such 'antithetical' political referents to make resonate further their (IS) propaganda among other minority youths in their home countries back in Europe. These elements run against the mainstream assertion that these 'Syria fighters' are somehow foreign to our societies in Europe.

Focusing on what is said about the home context of departure in the online narratives of some West European 'Syria fighters' suggests that the pervasiveness of 'racial space' in Europe might have partly provided a basis for spurring such migratory dispositions. This 'voice of exit' comes about through discursive references to a lived status degradation in Europe, and through visceral rites of un/making 'home' in Syria, like ritual passport burnings that first abort and then renew community abroad. To a certain extent, migration to sham could be seen as a globalized form of rebellious hyper-locality: a numerically small minority technique that seems aimed at subverting a European nationalist governmentality that is claimed to premeditate the inferior status of specifically 'Muslim' life forms in the social order. In their case, outward migration then appears to function as both a means to navigate, hampering racial stigma in Europe, and as an imagined pathway to attaining increased material privilege, social standing and even dominance abroad; a spatial process of radical status exchange that I have coined here as 'status migration'.

Moreover, in undertaking hijra to Syria (and affiliating often with such groups as IS), muhajirun from the Low Countries seem to reproduce the ideational tenets of a lived European racism, on the rise since 9/11. This is clear from their highly selective, particularly narrow, and ultimately modernist appropriation of a series of Islamic notions (hijra, jihad, sham, khilafa, umma, etc.) that are preoccupied with demographic homogeneity, ancient myths of land and political demagoguery. Consequently, it could be argued that such European (minority) youths on the move have cultivated a far-right wing political extremism of their own, coded in 'Islamic' vernacular yet occurring in dialogic relation to the racist nationalism of majoritarian far-right groups in Europe. These 'Islamists', born and socialized in Europe, thus partly transpose and reproduce a highly racialized European 'social space' in Syria, possibly reinstating and multiplying modes of injustice on site. Instead of struggling politically in Europe to ameliorate their outcast condition, minority trajectories of lived exclusion seem to have been displaced abroad, in a propagated fantasy-space like the Caliphate, which legitimizes inverted cycles of quick-fix dominance and new modes of dislocating violence, and even ethnic cleansing.

Today this muhajir public is disowned by the state in Europe through both ideological naming efforts that cast them out as allegedly foreign to the national body (e.g. 'Syria fighter', 'foreign terrorist fighter'/FTF, 'jihadi bride'), as well as the stripping of their citizenship without much judicial supervision (in the early phase of this phenomenon). In turn, their (online) threats and highly mediated societal role seem to expedite a gradual redefinition of state-citizen relations that altogether reimagine constitutional boundaries. Surely, some muhajirun returning from Syria with military know-how will continue to pose a threat to society in Europe, as shown by the abhorrent attacks in Paris (2015) and Brussels (2016), raising a whole series of further questions on prevention and monitoring mechanisms. But what is less mentioned is that they, as Belgian and Dutch IS affiliates, also provide the fuel for the public legitimization of costly and long-term 'perpetual' warfare of various EU Member States in Middle Eastern countries like Syria and Iraq. As such, this specific muhajir public has moved from the functional character of being a principle Other within Europe to what I see as 'anti-citizens' on the move, serving as a welcome nemesis in the teleological crafting of a more militarized European national self-image. The social figure of the muhajir, willingly performing the role of the jihadi anti-citizen and potentially fulfilling its reactionary credentials abroad, thus helps facilitate gradually this normative shift in societal governance in Europe, away from preventive redistribution and curative recognition in favour of a more punitive security turn.

Notes

- 1 Mimicking the critical sketches of Belgian-Moroccan comedian and Facebook-hit Rachid Abourig.
- 2 Abu Fulaan, 'Bear Grills in Syrië' (11 May 2014), [YouTube, account 'De Basis', episode 1]. Available at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QmERKBlqcc> (accessed 16 June 2016).
- 3 Flemish-Dutch slang and racist sign, translatable as 'shitty monkeys', referring to both a type of ape (makaak) while denoting simultaneously the Dutch signifier of 'kak' or 'shit'.
- 4 Fulaan, 'Bear Grills', ep. 1.
- 5 Ibid.
- 6 Ibid.
- 7 Abu Fulaan, 'Bear Grills in Syrië' (23 May 2014), [YouTube, account 'De Basis', episode 3]. Available at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=FDkfjoNC-ZU> (accessed 16 June 2016).
- 8 Thomas Renard and Rik Coolsaet, 'From the Kingdom to the Caliphate and Back: Returnees in Belgium', in 'Returnees: Who Are They, Why Are They (Not) Coming Back and How Should We Deal with Them? Assessing Policies on Returning Foreign Terrorist Fighters in Belgium, Germany and the Netherlands', Egmont Papers 101 (2018): 19.
- 9 Coolsaet, 'Facing the Fourth Foreign Fighters Wave'.
- 10 Renard and Coolsaet, 'From the Kingdom to the Caliphate and Back', p. 19.
- 11 Bibi van Ginkel and Simon Minks, 'Addressing the Challenge of Returnees: Threat Perceptions, Policies, and Practices in the Netherlands', in 'Returnees: Who Are They', Egmont Papers 101 (2018): 55.
- 12 Edwin Bakker and Roel de Bont, 'Belgian and Dutch Jihadist Foreign Fighters (2012–2015): Characteristics, Motivations, and Roles in the War in Syria and Iraq', Small Wars & Insurgencies 27, no. 5 (2016): 843.
- 13 Coolsaet, 'Facing the Fourth Foreign Fighters Wave', p. 9; Bakker and De Bont, 'Belgian and Dutch Jihadist Foreign Fighters', pp. 840–41.

- 14 Ayfer Erkul, Maud Oeyen and Koen Vidal, 'Syriëstrijders begaan oorlogsmisdaden', De Morgen, 8 June 2013.
- 15 See 'Abu Maariya Al Muhajir', in 'Martelaar aan de frontlinie' (27 May 2014), [YouTube, account 'De Basis'], 7:10-07:33. Available at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tyIsIcIHkGw> (accessed 6 June 2016).
- 16 Janny Groen, 'Nederlandse syriëganger op de foto met vijf afgehakke hoofden', De Volkskrant, 17 March 2014.
- 17 France24, 'Gruesome video of European jihadists in Syria shocks France', France24, 27 March 2014. Available at <http://www.france24.com/en/20140327-syria-french-jihadist-video-shocks-france/> (accessed 20 April 2016).
- 18 A historical endonym denoting the most populous and fertile areas of the north-western rim of the Middle East, known as the Levant or Bilad al-Sham (Syria, Lebanon, Palestine, Jordan, Southern Turkey), featuring as a mythological region in Islamic eschatology (e.g. 'Great battle of the final hour' / Al-Malhama al-Kubra).
- 19 De Morgen, 'Video: Vlaamse strijders baden in luxe in Syrië', 19 April 2014.
- 20 Dunbar Moodie and Vivienne Ndatshe, Going for Gold: Men, Mines and Migration (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 1994), p. 18.
- 21 Alana Lentin, 'Post-Race, Post Politics: The Paradoxical Rise of Culture after Multiculturalism', Ethnic and Racial Studies 37, no. 8 (2012): 1271.
- 22 Yves Desmet, 'Onze jongens in Syrië', De Morgen, 8 June 2013; Marc van Dijck, 'Zijn dat "onze jongens" in Syrië?', Trouw, 14 March 2013.
- 23 David Garland, The Culture of Control.
- 24 De Morgen, 'Burgemeester Rotterdam: "Als het je hier niet bevalt, rot dan op"', 8 May 2015. Also, in January 2015, Dutch Prime Minister Mark Rutte used the catch phrase 'pleur op' or 'piss off', mimicked in Belgium by Gwendolyn Rutten.
- 25 Lorne Dawson and Amarnath Amarasingam, 'Talking to Foreign Fighters: Insights into Motivations for Hijrah to Syria and Iraq', Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 40, no. 30 (2017): 193.
- 26 See Wright Mills, The Sociological Imagination (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2000 [1959]).
- 27 Brooke Neely and Michelle Samura, 'Social Geographies of Race: Connecting Race and Space', Ethnic and Racial Studies 34, no. 11 (2011): 1933–52, especially 1940 and 1947.
- 28 Hafez and Mullins, 'The Radicalization Puzzle'; Daan Weggemans, Edwin Bakker and Peter Grol, 'Who Are They and Why Do They Go? The Radicalization and Preparatory Processes of Dutch Jihadist Foreign Fighters', Perspectives on Terrorism 8, no. 4 (2014): 100–110; Jytte Klausen, 'Tweeting the Jihad: Social Media Networks of Western Foreign Fighters in Syria and Iraq', Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 38, no. 1 (2015): 1–22.
- 29 Kundnani, 'Radicalisation: The Journey of a Concept'; Stampnitzky, Disciplining Terror.
- 30 Sageman, Understanding Terror Networks.
- 31 Patrick Loobuyck, 'Introduction', in De Lokroep van IS: Syriëstrijders en (De) radicalisering, ed. Patrick Loobuyck (Kalmthout: Pelckmans, 2015), p. 16.
- 32 Olivier Roy, 'Interview: Lure of the Death Cult – Olivier Roy on Europe's Failure to Understand the Roots of Radicalization', The World Today, February and March edition (2017).
- 33 Johan Leman, 'Van radicalisering tot jihadisering: Een antropologische kijk', in De Lokroep van IS: Syriëstrijders en (De)radicalisering, ed. Patrick Loobuyck (Kalmthout: Pelckmans, 2015), p. 55.
- 34 Doreen Massey, 'Politics and Space/Time', in Place, Space and the Politics of Identity, eds. Michael Keith and Steve Pile (London and New York: Routledge, 1993), pp. 141–61.

- 35 Joseph Carter, Shiraz Maher and Peter Neumann, '#Greenbirds: Measuring Importance and Influence in Syrian Foreign Fighter Networks', ICSR Paper (2014): 1–32; Anna Berbers, Willem Joris, Jan Boesman, Leen D'Haenens, Joyce Koeman and Baldwin van Gorp, 'The News Framing of the "Syria Fighters" in Flanders and the Netherlands', Ethnicities 16, no. 6 (2016): 798–818.
- 36 Bakker and De Bont, 'Belgian and Dutch Jihadist Foreign Fighters'.
- 37 Sean Reynolds and Mohammed Hafez, 'Social Network Analysis of German Foreign Fighters in Syria', Terrorism and Political Violence (2017): 1–26. Published online at <https://doi.org/10.1080/09546553.2016.1272456>.
- 38 Mobilizing discourses (pull factors) from religious figures in the Middle East remain relevant given that they are read as political rhetoric. For instance, on 13 June 2013, a joint statement was issued in Cairo by a number of Sunni clerics declaring 'jihad' in Syria as 'wajib' (obligatory), in order 'to help our brothers in Syria by sending them money and weapons' (Al Arabiya, 2013). It featured prominent, state-affiliated clerics like Saudi preacher Abdulaziz al-Shaikh, Youssef al-Qaradawi, the prolific Egyptian preacher based in Qatar, and Hassan al-Shafai, a senior cleric of the Al-Azhar academy. This event coincided with the first military victory of the Iranian-backed Lebanese Hezbollah movement in Syria, namely the strategic capture of the city of Al-Qusayr in early June 2013. These regional political dimensions shed further light on the precise timing (summer 2013) by which militant 'Islamist foreigners' influenced by Wahhabi ideology, both in Europe and elsewhere, decided to leave their home countries and travel to Syria in particular (and not to Bahrain, for example).
- 39 Aysha Navest, Martijn de Koning and Annelies Moors, 'Chatting about Marriage with Female Migrants to Syria', Anthropology Today 32, no. 2 (2016): 22–25.
- 40 David Cook, Understanding Jihad (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 2005).
- 41 Bertell Ollman, Alienation: Marx's Conception of Man in a Capitalist Society (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1977); Henri Lefebvre, La révolution urbaine (Paris: Gallimard, 1970).
- 42 Stijn Aerts and John Nawas, 'Hoe Islamitisch is Islamitisch radicalisme', in De Lokroep van IS: Syriëstrijders en (De)radicalisering, ed. Patrick Loobuyck (Kalmthout: Pelckmans, 2015), pp. 107, 109, 114.
- 43 See, for instance, Qur'an 8: 72.
- 44 Noel Salazar, 'Key Figures of Mobility: An Introduction', Social Anthropology 25, no. 1 (2017): 5–12.
- 45 Jan Willem Duyvendak, The Politics of Home: Belonging and Nostalgia in Europe and the United States (Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, 2011).
- 46 Henri Lefebvre, The Production of Space (Oxford: Wiley-Blackwell, 1992 [1974]).
- 47 Cedric Robinson, Black Marxism: The Making of the Black Radical Tradition (Chapel Hill, NC: University of North Carolina Press, 2000 [1983]); Nancy Fraser, 'From Redistribution to Recognition', New Left Review I, no. 212 (1995): 68–93.
- 48 Nadia Fadil, "Are We All Secular/ized Yet?" Reflections on David Goldberg's "Are We All Post-Racial Yet?", Ethnic and Racial Studies 39, no. 13 (2016): 2261–68; Tariq Modood, Multiculturalism (Cambridge: Polity Press, 2007).
- 49 Ghassan Hage, White Nation: Fantasies of White Supremacy in a Multicultural Society (New York: Routledge, 2000); Etienne Balibar and Immanuel Wallerstein, Race, Nation, Class: Ambiguous Identities (London and New York: Verso, 1991).
- 50 Barak Kalir, 'The Development of a Migratory Disposition: Explaining a "New Emigration"', International Migration 43, no. 4 (2005): 167–96.

- 51 Michael Omi and Howard Winant, Racial Formation in the United States: From the 1960s to the 1980s (Abingdon: Routledge, 1986).
- 52 Nancy Foner, 'Is Islam in Western Europe like Race in the United States', Sociological Forum 30, no. 4 (2015): 885–99.
- 53 Enzo Traverso, The End of Jewish Modernity (London: Pluto Press, 2016): 94–96.
- 54 Andreas Wimmer and Nina Glick-Schiller, 'Methodological Nationalism, the Social Sciences, and the Study of Migration: An Essay in Historical Epistemology', The International Migration Review 37, no. 3 (2003): 576–610.
- 55 Nicholas Van Hear, 'Reconsidering Migration and Class', International Migration Review 48, S1 (2014): S116.
- 56 Frances Pine, 'Migration as Hope: Space, Time, and Imagining the Future', Current Anthropology 55, S9 (2014): S95–S104.
- 57 Noel Salazar, 'Imagining Mobility at the "End of the World"', History and Anthropology 24, no. 2 (2013): 233–52.
- 58 Daniela Pisoiu, 'Coming to Believe "Truths" about Islamist Radicalization in Europe', Terrorism and Political Violence 25, no. 2 (2013): 247.
- 59 Thomas Hegghammer, 'Syria's Foreign Fighters', Foreign Policy, 9 December 2013.
- 60 Nic Craight and Emma Hill, 'Re-Locating the Ethnographic Field: From "Being There" to "Being There"', Anthropological Journal for European Cultures 24, no. 1 (2015): 42–62.
- 61 Thomas Frissen and Leen d'Haenens, 'Legitimizing the Caliphate and Its Politics: Moral Disengagement Rhetoric in ISIL's Dabiq', in Authoritarian and Populist Influences in the New Media, ed. Sai Felicia Krishna-Hensel (Abingdon: Routledge, 2017), pp. 138–64.
- 62 Carter, Maher and Neumann, '#Greenbirds', pp. 1–32.
- 63 Eric Wolf, Pathways of Power: Building an Anthropology of the Modern World (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 2001), p. 392.
- 64 Miriyam Aouragh, 'Digital Anthropology', in The International Encyclopedia of Anthropology, ed. H. Callan (Chichester: Wiley-Blackwell, 2018).
- 65 Gayatri Spivak, 'Can the Subaltern Speak?', in Marxism and the Interpretation of Culture, eds. C. Nelson and L. Grossberg (Urbana, IL: University of Illinois Press, 1988), pp. 271–313.
- 66 Duyvendak, The Politics of Home, pp. 37–38.
- 67 Anonymous 1, in 'Strijder roept in plat antwerps op om aanslagen te plegen en naar Syrië te komen', Het Nieuwsblad [online], 23 October 2013. Available at https://www.nieuwsblad.be/article/detail.aspx?articleid=DMF20131022_00804525 (accessed 18 November 2013).
- 68 Eva Brems, Jogchum Vrielink and Saïla Ouald Chaib, 'Uncovering French and Belgian Face Covering Bans', Journal of Law, Religion & State 2, no. 1 (2013): 69–99.
- 69 Fulaan, 'Bear Grills', ep. 1.
- 70 Paolo Bocchini, Migration and the Search for Home: Mapping Domestic Space in Migrants' Everyday Lives (New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2017), p. 7.
- 71 Mary Douglas, Purity and Danger: An Analysis of Concepts of Pollution and Taboo (New York: Routledge, 2002 [1966]).
- 72 Neely and Samura, 'Social Geographies of Race', p. 1937.
- 73 Henri Lefebvre, 'The Production of Space', in Space and Social Theory, ed. Andrzej Zieleniec (London: Sage, 2008), p. 85.
- 74 Van Hear, 'Reconsidering Migration', p. S116.
- 75 Anonymous 2, in 'Bear Grills in Syrië' (23 May 2014), [YouTube, account 'De Basis', episode 3]. Available at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=FDkfoNC-ZU> (accessed 16 June 2016).

- 76 Rik Coolsaet, 'Anticipating the Post-Daesh Landscape', Egmont Papers 97 (2017): 30.
- 77 Fulaan, 'Bear Grills', ep. 3.
- 78 Ibid.
- 79 Anonymous 2, in 'Bear Grills', ep. 3.
- 80 Omi and Winant, Racial Formation in the United States.
- 81 Noel Ignatiev, How the Irish Became White (New York: Routledge, 2008).
- 82 Traverso, The End of Jewish Modernity, pp. 7–19.
- 83 Robert Young, White Mythologies (New York: Routledge, 2004 [1991]), p. 5.
- 84 Georg Simmel, 'The Stranger', in Georg Simmel on Individuality and Social Forms, ed. M. Janowitz (Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 1972 [1908]), pp. 143–49.
- 85 Pine, 'Migration as Hope', p. S95.
- 86 Ghassan Hage, 'A Not So Multi-Sited Ethnography of a Not So Imagined Community', Anthropological Theory 5, no. 4 (2005): 471; Ghassan Hage, 'Waiting Out the Crisis: On Stuckness and Governmentality', in Waiting, ed. G. Hage (Carlton: Melbourne University Press, 2009), pp. 97–106.
- 87 Alcinda Honwana, The Time of Youth: Work, Social Change, and Politics in Africa (Sterling, VA: Kumarian Press, 2012).
- 88 Coolsaet, 'All Radicalisation is Local'.
- 89 Jean-Charles Brisard and Kevin Jackson, 'The Islamic State's External Operations and the French-Belgian Nexus', CTC Sentinel 9, no. 11 (2016): 8.
- 90 Julia Kristeva, quoted in Yael Navaro-Yashin, The Make-Believe Space: Affective Geography in a Postwar Polity (Durham, NC, and London: Duke University Press, 2012), p. 147.
- 91 Frantz Fanon, Black Skin, White Masks (New York: Grove Press, 1967 [1952]); Chris Hayes, A Colony in a Nation (New York: W. W. Norton & Company, 2017).
- 92 Anonymous 3, retweeted by Dr Shiraz Maher (ICSR, King's College London) (9 April 2014), [Twitter, account '@ShirazMaher']. Available at <https://twitter.com/ShirazMaher> (accessed 20 April 2014).
- 93 Anthropologists have noted that Belgian muhajirun in Syria tend to stage a fundamental break with their mothers back in Europe – even denouncing them as apostates in a takfiri fashion that characterizes the Wahhabi strand of modern Islam – signalling other mental thresholds in the ritualistic redefinition of belonging in Syria (see Leman, 'Van radicalisering tot jihadisering', pp. 53–54).
- 94 Anonymous 4, in 'Video: French ISIS Fighters Burn Their Passports', the Guardian [online], 20 November 2014. Available at <https://www.theguardian.com/world/video/2014/nov/20/french-isis-fighters-burn-passports-video> (accessed 6 June 2016).
- 95 Edward Soja, Seeking Spatial Justice (Minneapolis, MN, and London: University of Minnesota Press, 2010).
- 96 Robin Cohen, Migration and Its Enemies: Global Capital, Migrant Labour and the Nation-State (Burlington, VT: Ashgate, 2006), p. 149.
- 97 Pierre-André Taguieff, 'The New Cultural Racism in France', Telos 83 (1990): 109–22; Etienne Balibar, 'Is There a "Neo-Racism"?', in Race, Nation, Class: Ambiguous Identities, eds. E. Balibar and I. Wallerstein (London and New York: Verso, 1991), pp. 17–28.
- 98 Coolsaet, 'Anticipating the Post-Daesh Landscape', p. 46.
- 99 Nadia Kiwan, Identities, Discourses and Experiences: Young People of North African Origin in France (Manchester: Manchester University Press, 2009), p. 153.
- 100 Moors, 'The Dutch and the Face-Veil', p. 394.
- 101 Bowen Paule and Barak Kalir, 'The Integration Matrix Reloaded: From Ethnic Fixations to Established versus Outsiders Dynamics in the Netherlands', Journal of

- Ethnic and Migration Studies* 40, no. 9 (2014): 1354–74; Slavoj Žizek, ‘Tolerance as an Ideological Category’, Critical Inquiry 34, no. 4 (2008): 660–82.
- 102 Anonymous 4, in ‘Video: French ISIS Fighters’.
- 103 Barbara Franz, ‘Europe’s Muslim Youth: An Inquiry into the Politics of Discrimination, Relative Deprivation, and Identity Formation’, Mediterranean Quarterly 28, no. 1 (2007): 89–112.
- 104 Lefebvre, The Production of Space.
- 105 Neely and Samura, ‘Social Geographies of Race’, pp. 1933–52.
- 106 See, for instance, Marion van San, ‘Onze kinderen zijn geen terroristen’: families van Belgische en Nederlandse Syriëgangers over het vertrek van hun geliefden, Tijdschrift voor Criminologie 57, no. 3 (2015): 308.
- 107 See, for instance, Loobuyck, ‘Introduction’, p. 16.
- 108 Cristina Archetti, ‘Terrorism, Communication and New Media: Explaining Radicalization in the Digital Age’, Perspectives on Terrorism 9, no. 1 (2015): 49–59.
- 109 Franz, ‘Europe’s Muslim Youth’, pp. 89–90.
- 110 Robinson, Black Marxism; David Roediger, The Wages of Whiteness: Race and the Making of the American Working Class (New York: Verso, 2007).
- 111 David Roberts and Minelle Mahtani, ‘Neoliberalizing Race, Racing Neoliberalism: Placing “Race” in Neoliberal Discourses’, Antipode 42, no. 2 (2010): 248–57.
- 112 Aihwa Ong, Neoliberalism as Exception: Mutations in Citizenship and Sovereignty (Durham, NC, and London: Duke University Press, 2006), p. 181.
- 113 Anonymous 5 [vocals wrongly ascribed to De Mulder but likely an anonymous Maghrebi youth], in ‘Video: Brian De Mulder dreigt met bloedige aanslag op België’, De Standaard [online], 10 December 2013. Available at https://www.standaard.be/cnt/dmf20131210_052 (accessed 10 December 2013).
- 114 Cohen, Migration and Its Enemies, p. 108.
- 115 Alan Verskin, Islamic Law and the Crisis of the Reconquista: The Debate on the Status of Muslim Communities in Christendom (Leiden and Boston, MA: Brill, 2015), p. 33; Daoud Casewit, ‘Hijra as History and Metaphor: A Survey of Qur’anic and Hadith Sources’, The Muslim World – Hartford 88, no. 2 (1998): 105–28.
- 116 See Qur’an 4: 97.
- 117 Anonymous 6, in ‘Vranckx: IS in het vizier – voor God en Kalifaat’ (21 March 2017), [Canvas online, episode 1], 26:35–27:06. Available at <https://www.vrt.be/vrtnu/a-z/is-in-het-vizier/1/is-in-het-vizier-s1a1-voor-god-en-kalifaat/> (accessed 1 April 2017).
- 118 Anonymous 7, in ‘Vranckx: IS in het vizier – voor God en Kalifaat’ (21 March 2017), [Canvas online, episode 1], 27:25–27:45. Available at <https://www.vrt.be/vrtnu/a-z/is-in-het-vizier/1/is-in-het-vizier-s1a1-voor-god-en-kalifaat/> (accessed 1 April 2017).
- 119 Hicham Chaib in ‘Vranckx: IS in het vizier – voor God en Kalifaat’ (21 March 2017), [Canvas online, episode 1], 27:55–28:15. Available at <https://www.vrt.be/vrtnu/a-z/is-in-het-vizier/1/is-in-het-vizier-s1a1-voor-god-en-kalifaat/> (accessed 1 April 2017).
- 120 Media reports about ethnic cleansing of (e.g. Yazidi and Kurdish) villages in the vicinity of Kobani by IS militants in September 2014 come to mind here.
- 121 Cohen, Migration and Its Enemies, p. 102.
- 122 Fulaan, ‘Bear Grills’, ep. 1.
- 123 Cohen, Migration and Its Enemies, p. 153.
- 124 Hage, ‘Waiting Out the Crisis’.
- 125 Pine, ‘Migration as Hope’, pp. S95–S104.
- 126 Neither is a form of ‘Maghrebi diaspora’ consciousness evoked (e.g. ‘Moroccanness’ or even the Amazigh identification, each harbouring its own distinctive politics).

- 127 Zizek, quoted in Hage, White Nation, p. 98.
- 128 Neely and Samura, 'Social Geographies of Race', p. 1934.
- 129 Spivak, quoted in Young, White Mythologies, p. 211 and p. 218.
- 130 Hamid Dabashi, Brown Skin, White Masks (New York: Pluto Press, 2011).
- 131 Abu Fulaan literally urges youngsters to stay away from crime ('breaking stuff down'), providing them with a political alternative: 'If you do have the excess energy, then come here'. See Abu Fulaan, 'Bear Grills in Syrië' (16 June 2014), [YouTube, account 'De Basis', episode 5]. Available at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=U2LweJEB3AQ&t=5s> (accessed 16 June 2016).
- 132 Susana Narotzky and Niko Besnier, 'Crisis, Value, and Hope: Rethinking the Economy', Current Anthropology 55, no. 9 (2014), p. S5.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

- Aarns, Pim, and Ineke Roex. Als ik iemand beledigd heb, dan was dat mijn bedoeling': Sharia4Belgiums ideologie en humorgebruik. Amsterdam: University of Amsterdam Press, 2017.
- Abels, Paul. 'Inlichtingen- en veiligheidsdiensten en terrorismebestrijding'. In Inlichtingen- en Veiligheidsdiensten, edited by Beatrice de Graaf, E. R. Muller and J. A. van Reijn. Brussels: Wolters Kluwer, 2010.
- Abram, Simone. 'The Time It Takes: Temporalities of Planning'. Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute 20, no. 1 (2014): 129–47.
- Adang, Camilla, Hassan Ansari, Maribel Fierro and Sabine Schmidtke, eds., Accusations of Unbelief in Islam: A Diachronic Perspective on Takfir. Leiden and Boston, MA: Brill, 2015.
- Aerts, Stijn, and John Nawas. 'Hoe Islamitisch is Islamitisch radicalisme'. In De Lokroep van IS: Syriëstrijders en (De)radicalisering, edited by Patrick Loobuyck. Kalmthout: Pelckmans, 2015.
- Aggarwal, Neil Krishan. Mental Health in the War on Terror: Culture, Science, and Statecraft. New York: Columbia University Press, 2015.
- Akkerman, Tjitske, Maarten Hajer and John Grin. 'The Interactive State: Democratisation from above?' Political Studies 52, no. 1 (2004): 82–95.
- Al-Alwani, Taha Jabir. Islam: Conflit d'opinions – Pour une éthique du désaccord. Paris: Éditions Al-Qalam, 2010 [1986].
- Alexanderson, Kris. "A Dark State of Affairs": Hajj Networks, Pan-Islamism, and Dutch Colonial Surveillance during the Interwar Period'. Journal of Social History 47, no. 4 (2014): 1021–41.
- Ali, Arshad Imitaz. 'Citizens under Suspicion: Responsive Research with Community under Surveillance'. Anthropology & Education Quarterly 47, no. 1 (2016): 78–95.
- Alimi, Eitan Y., Lorenzo Bosi and Chares Demetriou. The Dynamics of Radicalization. Oxford and New York: Oxford University Press, 2015.
- Allen, Lori. 'Getting by the Occupation: How Violence Became Normal during the Second Palestinian Intifada'. Cultural Anthropology 23, no. 3 (2008): 453–87.
- Allievi, Stefano. 'Shifting Significance of the Halal/Haram Frontier: Narratives on the Hijab and Other Issues'. In Women Embracing Islam: Gender and Conversions in the West, edited by Karin van Nieuwkerk. Texas: University of Texas Press, 2006.
- Amar, Paul. 'Turning the Gendered Politics of the Security State Inside Out?' International Feminist Journal of Politics 13, no. 3 (2011): 299–332.
- Amghar, Samir. 'Salafism and Radicalization of Young European Muslims'. In European Islam: Challenges for Public Policy and Society, edited by S. Amghar, A. Boubekeur and M. Emerson. Brussels: Centre for European Policy Studies, 2007.
- Amiriaux, Valérie. 'Academic Discourses on Islam(s) in France and Germany: Producing Knowledge or Reproducing Norms?' In Islam and the West: Judgement, Prejudices, Political Perspectives, edited by Werner Ruf. Münster: Agenda Verlag, 2002.
- Amir-Moazami, Shirin, and Armando Salvatore. 'Gender, Generation, and the Reform of Tradition: From Muslim Majority Societies to Western Europe'. In Muslim Networks

- and Transnational Communities in and across Europe, edited by S. Allievi and J. Nielsen. Leiden and Boston, MA: Brill, 2003.
- Amoore, Louise. 'Data Derivatives: On the Emergence of a Security Risk Calculus for Our Times'. Theory, Culture & Society 28, no. 6 (2011): 24–43.
- Amoore, Louise. The Politics of Possibility: Risk and Security beyond Probability. Durham, NC, and London: Duke University Press, 2013.
- Amoore, Louise. 'Risk before Justice: When the Law Contests Its Own Suspension'. Leiden Journal of International Law 21, no. 4 (2008): 847–61.
- Aouragh, Miriyam. 'Digital Anthropology'. In The International Encyclopedia of Anthropology, edited by H. Callan. Chichester: Wiley-Blackwell, 2018.
- Archetti, Cristina. 'Terrorism, Communication and New Media: Explaining Radicalization in the Digital Age'. Perspectives on Terrorism 9, no. 1 (2015): 49–59.
- Ariès, Philippe. Centuries of Childhood. Harmondsworth: Penguin Books, 1962.
- Asad, Talal. 'Comments on Conversion'. In Conversion to Modernities: The Globalization of Christianity, edited by Peter van der Veer. New York: Routledge, 1996.
- Asad, Talal. Formation of the Secular: Christianity, Islam, and Modernity. Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press, 2003.
- Asad, Talal. Genealogies of Religion: Discipline and Reasons of Power in Christianity and Islam. Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins University Press, 1993.
- Asad, Talal. The Idea of an Anthropology of Islam. Occasional Papers Series. Washington, DC: Georgetown University Center for Contemporary Arab Studies, 1986.
- Asdal, Kristin, Brita Brenna and Ingunn Moser. Technoscience: The Politics of Intervention. Oslo: Unipub, 2007 [1986].
- Austin-Broos, Diane. 'The Anthropology of Conversion: An Introduction'. In The Anthropology of Religious Conversion, edited by Andrew Buckser and Steven Glazier. Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield, 2003.
- Bacchi, Carol. 'The Turn to Problematicization: Political Implications of Contrasting Interpretive and Poststructural Adaptations'. Open Journal of Political Science 5, no. 1 (2015): 1–12.
- Bachmann, Reinhard, and Andrew C. Inkpen. 'Understanding Institutional-Based Trust Building Processes in Inter-Organisational Relationships'. Organisation Studies 32, no. 2 (2011): 281–301.
- Backes, Uwe, and Eckhard Jesse, eds., Vergleichende Extremismusforschung. Baden-Baden: Nomos, 2005.
- Backes, Uwe. Politischer Extremismus in demokratischen Verfassungsstaaten: Elemente einer normativen Rahmentheorie. Opladen: Westdeutscher Verlag, 1989.
- Badier, Walter. Émile Henry: De la propagande par le fait au terrorisme anarchiste. Chaucer: Éditions libertaires, 2007.
- Baker, Tom, and Jonathan Simon. Embracing Risk: The Changing Culture of Insurance and Responsibility. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 2002.
- Baker-Beall, Christopher. 'The European Union's Fight against Terrorism: A Critical Discourse Analysis'. PhD diss., Loughborough University, 2010.
- Baker-Beall, Christopher, Charlotte Heath-Kelly and Lee Jarvis, eds., Counter-Radicalisation: Critical Perspectives. Oxon and New York: Routledge, 2015.
- Bakker, Edwin, and Roel de Bont. 'Belgian and Dutch Jihadist Foreign Fighters (2012–2015): Characteristics, Motivations, and Roles in the War in Syria and Iraq'. Small Wars & Insurgencies 27, no. 5 (2016): 837–57.
- Bakker, Edwin, and Seran de Leede. 'European Female Jihadists in Syria: Exploring an under-Researched Topic'. ICCT Background Note. The Hague: ICCT, 2015.

- Balibar, Etienne. 'Is There a "Neo-Racism"?' In Race, Nation, Class: Ambiguous Identities, edited by E. Balibar and I. Wallerstein. London and New York: Verso, 1991.
- Balibar, Etienne, and Immanuel Wallerstein. Race, Nation, Class: Ambiguous Identities. London and New York: Verso, 1991.
- Barth, Fredrik, ed., Ethnic Groups and Boundaries: The Social Organization of Culture Difference. Long Grove, IL: Waveland Press, 1998.
- Bauer, Alain. 'Le djihad "uberisé"'. Sécurité Globale 5, no. 1 (2016): 113–18.
- Baumann, Gerd, and Andre Gingrich. Grammars of Identity/Alterity: A Structural Approach. New York and Oxford: Berghahn Books, 2004.
- Bawer, Bruce. While Europe Slept: How Radical Islam Is Destroying the West from Within. New York: Broadway Books, 2006.
- Bax, E. H. 'Oriëntaties van lager geschoolde werkloze en werkende mannelijke jongeren: Een vergelijkend onderzoek'. Mens en Maatschappij 54, no. 4 (1979): 361–84.
- Beach, Stephen W. 'Social Movement Radicalization: The Case of the People's Democracy in Northern Ireland'. The Sociological Quarterly 18, no. 3 (1977): 305–18.
- Bear, Laura. 'Doubt, Conflict, Mediation: The Anthropology of Modern Time'. Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute 20, no.1 (2014): 3–30.
- Beck, Ulrich. 'The Terrorist Threat: World Risk Society Revisited'. Theory, Culture & Society 19, no. 4 (2002): 39–55.
- Becker, Carmen. Learning to Be Authentic: Religious Practices of German and Dutch Muslims following the Salafiyya in Forums and Chat Rooms. Nijmegen: Radboud University, 2013.
- Beerli, Monique J. 'Saving the Saviors: Security Practices and Professional Struggles in the Humanitarian Space'. PhD diss., Sciences-Po, Paris & Geneva, 2017.
- Benzakour, Mohammed. Abou Jahjah, Nieuwlichter of Oplichter? De demonisering van een politieke rebel. Amsterdam: L.J. Veen, 2004.
- Benzine, Rachid. Les nouveaux penseurs de l'islam. Paris: Albin Michel, 2004.
- Berbers, Anna, Willem Joris, Jan Boesman, Leen D'Haenens, Joyce Koeman and Baldwin van Gorp. 'The News Framing of the "Syria Fighters" in Flanders and the Netherlands'. Ethnicities 16, no. 6 (2016): 798–818.
- Bernand, Marie, and Gerard Troupeau. 'Kiyās'. In Encyclopaedia of Islam, Second Edition, edited by P. Bearman, Th. Bianquis, C. E. Bosworth, E. van Donzel and W. P. Heinrichs. Brill Online, 2012.
- Bertaux, Daniel. 'From the Life-History Approach to the Transformation of Sociological Practice'. In Biography and Society: The Life-History Approach in the Social Sciences, edited by Daniel Bertaux. London: Sage, 1981.
- Bigo, Didier. 'Digital Surveillance and Everyday Democracy'. In The Routledge International Handbook of Criminology and Human Rights, edited by Leanne Weber, Elaine Fishwick and Marinella Marmo, 125–35. London: Routledge, 2016.
- Bigo, Didier. 'Globalized (In)Security: The Field and the Ban-Opticon'. In Terror, Insecurity and Liberty: Illiberal Practices of Liberal Regimes after 9/11, edited by Didier Bigo and Anastassia Tsoukala. Abingdon: Routledge, 2008.
- Bigo, Didier. 'The (In)Securitization Practices of the Three Universes of EU Border Control: Military/Navy – Border Guards/Police – Database Analysts'. Security Dialogue 45, no. 3 (2014): 209–25.
- Bigo, Didier. 'International Political Sociology: Rethinking the International through Field(S) of Power'. In International Political Sociology: Transversal Lines, edited by Tugba Basaran, Didier Bigo, Emmanuel-Pierre Guittet and R. B. J. Walker, 24–48. London: Routledge, 2016.

- Bigo, Didier. Polices en réseaux: L'expérience européenne. Paris: Presses de Sciences Politiques, 1996.
- Bigo, Didier. 'Security and Immigration: Toward a Critique of the Governmentality of Unease'. Millennium 27, no. 1 (2002): 63–92.
- Bigo, Didier, and Anastassia Tsoukala, eds., Terror, Insecurity and Liberty: Illiberal Practices of Liberal Regimes after 9/11. Abingdon: Routledge, 2008.
- Bigo, Didier, and Daniel Hermant. 'La relation terroriste'. Études Polémologiques 47, no. 3 (1988).
- Bigo, Didier, and Daniel Hermant. 'La relation terroriste: Cadre sociologique pour une approche comparatiste'. Études Polémologiques 47, no. 3 (1988): 13–79.
- Bigo, Didier, and Laurent Bonelli. 'Critique de la raison criminologique'. Cultures et Conflits, 94–95–96 (2014): 7–26.
- Bigo, Didier, Evelien Brouwer, Sergio Carrera, Elspeth Guild, Emmanuel-Pierre Guittet, Julien Jeandesboz, Francesco Ragazzi and Amandine Scherrer. The EU Counter-Terrorism Policy Responses to the Attacks in Paris: Towards an EU Security and Liberty Agenda. Brussels: Centre for European Policy Studies, 2015.
- Bigo, Didier, Laurent Bonelli and Thomas Deltombe. Au nom du 11 Septembre. . . Les démocraties à l'épreuve de l'antiterrorisme. Paris: La Découverte, 2008.
- Bigo, Didier, Sergio Carrera, Elspeth Guild and R. B. J. Walker. Europe's 21st Century Challenge: Delivering Liberty. Farnham: Ashgate, 2013.
- Birt, Yahya. 'Promoting Virulent Envy? Reconsidering the UK's Terrorist Prevention Strategy'. The RUSI Journal 154, no. 4 (2009): 52–58.
- Bisman, Cynthia. 'Personal Information and the Professional Relationship: Issues of Trust, Privacy and Welfare'. In Private and Confidential? Handling Personal Information in Social and Health Services, edited by Chris Clark and Janice McGhee. Bristol: Policy Press, 2008.
- Björge, Tore. Racist and Right-Wing Violence in Scandinavia: Patterns, Perpetrators, and Responses. Oslo: Tano Aschehoug, 1997.
- Björge, Tore, and John Horgan. Leaving Terrorism Behind: Individual and Collective Disengagement. London: Routledge, 2009.
- Blaise, Pierre, and Vincent de Coorebyter. 'L'Islam et l'état Belge'. Res Publica 35, no. 1 (1993): 223–37.
- Blommaert, Jan, and Albert Martens. Van Blok tot Bouwsteen. Berchem: EPO, 1999.
- Blommaert, Jan, and Jef Verschueren. Debating Diversity: Analysing the Discourse of Tolerance. London: Routledge, 1998.
- Blommaert, Jan, and Jef Verschueren. Het Belgische Migrantendebat: De pragmatiek van de Abnormalisering. Antwerp: IPrA Research Center, 1992.
- Boccagni, Paolo. Migration and the Search for Home: Mapping Domestic Space in Migrants' Everyday Lives. New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2017.
- Boender, Welmoet. Imam in Nederland: Rol, Gezag en Binding in Een Geseculariseerde Samenleving. Amsterdam: Bert Bakker, 2007.
- Bogaers, L. C. J. J. 'Politieke en religieuze radicalisering'. In Geschiedenis van de Provincie Utrecht II, edited by Cornelis Dekker. Utrecht: Utrecht Historische Reeks, 1997.
- Bonditti, Philippe, and Christian Olsson. 'War, Violence and Security Knowledge: Between Theoretical Practices and Practical Theories'. In International Political Sociology: Transversal Lines, edited by Tugba Basaran, Didier Bigo, Emmanuel-Pierre Guittet and R. B. J. Walker, 228–53. London: Routledge, 2016.
- Bonelli, Laurent. 'The Control of the Enemy Within? Police Intelligence in the French Suburbs (banlieues) and Its Relevance for Globalization'. In Controlling Frontiers: Free Movement into and within Europe, 193–208. London: Ashgate, 2005.

- Bonelli, Laurent, and Fabien Carrié. Radicalité engagée, radicalités révoltées: Un enquête sur les mineurs suivis par la protection judiciaire de la jeunesse. Paris: Ministère de la Justice, 2018.
- Booth, Ken. 'Security and Emancipation'. Review of International Studies 17, no. 4 (1991): 313–26.
- Borgers, Matthias J., and Elies van Sliedregt. 'The Meaning of the Precautionary Principle for the Assessment of Criminal Measures in the Fight against Terrorism'. Erasmus Law Review 2, no. 2 (2009): 171–95.
- Borum, Randy. Psychology of Terrorism. Tampa, FL: University of South Florida, 2004.
- Bossong, Raphael. 'The Action Plan on Combating Terrorism: A Flawed Instrument of EU Security Governance'. JCMS: Journal of Common Market Studies 46, no. 1 (2008): 27–48.
- Bourdieu, Pierre. La distinction: Critique sociale du jugement. Paris: Les Éditions de Minuit, 1979.
- Bourdieu, Pierre. Outline of a Theory of Practice. Cambridge Studies in Social Anthropology Series 16. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1977.
- Bourdieu, Pierre, and Terry Eagleton. 'Doxa and Common Life'. New Left Review I, no. 191 (1992): 111–21.
- Boyer, Dominic. 'Thinking through the Anthropology of Experts'. Anthropology in Action 15, no. 2 (2008): 38–46.
- Bracke, Sarah. 'Transformations of the Secular and the "Muslim Question": Revisiting the Historical Coincidence of Depillarization and the Institutionalization of Islam in the Netherlands'. Journal of Muslims in Europe 2, no. 2 (2013): 208–26.
- Brems, Eva, Jogchum Vrielink and Saïla Ouald Chaib. 'Uncovering French and Belgian Face Covering Bans'. Journal of Law, Religion & State 2, no. 1 (2013): 69–99.
- Brisard, Jean-Charles, and Kevin Jackson. 'The Islamic State's External Operations and the French-Belgian Nexus'. CTC Sentinel 9, no. 11 (2016): 8–15.
- Brown, Katherine E., and Tania Saeed. 'Radicalization and Counter-Radicalization at British Universities: Muslim Encounters and Alternatives'. Ethnic and Racial Studies 38, no. 11 (2016): 1952–68.
- Brown, Wendy. Regulating Aversion: Tolerance in the Age of Identity and Empire. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 2006.
- Brubaker, Rogers. 'Categories of Analysis and Categories of Practice: A Note on the Study of Muslims in European Countries of Immigration'. Ethnic and Racial Studies 36, no. 1 (2013): 1–8.
- Buckser, Andrew, and Steven Glazier, eds., The Anthropology of Religious Conversion. Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield, 2003.
- Buijs, Frank J., Froukje Demant and Atef Hamdy. Strijders van Eigen Bodem: Radicale en Democratische Moslims in Nederland. Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press, 2006.
- Bulley, Dan. '"Foreign" Terror? London Bombings, Resistance and the Failing State'. The British Journal of Politics & International Relations 10, no. 3 (2008): 379–94.
- Bunyan, Tony. Statewatching the New Europe: A Handbook on the European State. London: Statewatch, 1993.
- Bunyan, Tony. 'Trevi, Europol and the European State'. In Statewatching the New Europe: A Handbook on the European State, edited by Tony Bunyan. London: Statewatch, 1993.
- Butler, Judith. Precarious Life: The Powers of Mourning and Violence. London and New York: Verso, 2004.
- c.a.s.e. collective. 'Critical Approaches to Security in Europe: A Networked Manifesto'. Security Dialogue 37, no. 4 (2006): 443–87.

- Callon, Michel. 'Some Elements of a Sociology of Translation: Domestication of the Scallops and the Fishermen of St. Brieuc Bay'. In Technoscience: The Politics of Intervention, edited by Kristin Asdal, Brita Brenna and Ingunn Moser. Oslo: Unipub, 2007 [1986].
- Callon, Michel, and Bruno Latour. La science telle qu'elle se fait: Anthologie de la sociologie des sciences de langue anglaise. Paris: La Découverte, 1991.
- Camus, Albert. Resistance, Rebellion, and Death: Essays. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 2012.
- Carvalho, Claudia. "'Okhti" Online – Spanish Muslim Women Engaging Online Jihad – A Facebook Case Study'. Online: Heidelberg Journal of Religions on the Internet 6, (2014): 24–42.
- Casewit, Daoud. 'Hijra as History and Metaphor: A Survey of Qur'anic and Hadith Sources'. The Muslim World 88, no. 2 (1998): 105–28.
- Cesari, Jocelyne. Muslims in the West after 9/11: Religion, Politics, and Law. Oxon and New York: Routledge, 2010.
- Cesari, Jocelyne. 'The Securitisation of Islam in Europe: The Changing Landscape of European Liberty and Security'. CEPS Challenge Research Paper, no. 15 (2009).
- Cherney, Adrian, and Jason Hartley. 'Community Engagement to Tackle Terrorism and Violent Extremism: Challenges, Tensions and Pitfalls'. Policing and Society: An International Journal of Research and Policy 27, no. 7 (2015): 1–14.
- Chesney, Robert M. 'Beyond Conspiracy: Anticipatory Prosecution and the Challenge of Unaffiliated Terrorism'. Southern California Law Review 80, no. 3 (2007): 425–502.
- Chesney, Robert M. 'The Sleeper Scenario: Terrorism-Support Laws and the Demands of Prevention'. Harvard Journal on Legislation 42, no. 1 (2005): 1–90.
- Choudhury, Tufyal. Impact of Counter-Terrorism on Communities: UK Background Report. London: Institute for Strategic Dialogue, 2012.
- Choudhury, Tufyal. 'The Radicalisation of Citizenship Deprivation'. Critical Social Policy 37, no. 2 (2017): 225–44.
- Cohen, Robin. Migration and Its Enemies: Global Capital, Migrant Labour and the Nation-State. Burlington, VT: Ashgate, 2006.
- Cohen, Stanley. Visions of Social Control: Crime, Punishment and Classification. Cambridge: Polity Press, 1985.
- Collier, Stephen J., and Andrew Lakoff. 'On Regimes of Living'. In Global Assemblages, edited by Aihwa Ong and Stephen J. Collier, 22–39. Oxford: Blackwell, 2008.
- Cook, David. Understanding Jihad. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 2005.
- Cooke, Phoebe. 'Newham Imams Oppose "Divisive" Counter-Terrorism Strategy'. Newham Recorder, January 2016.
- Coolsaet, Rik. "'All Radicalisation Is Local": The Genesis and Drawbacks of an Elusive Concept'. Egmont Papers 84, June (2016/b): 1–48.
- Coolsaet, Rik. 'Anticipating the Post-Daesh Landscape'. Egmont Papers 97, October (2017): 1–50.
- Coolsaet, Rik. 'Facing the Fourth Foreign Fighters Wave: What Drives Europeans to Syria, and to Islamic State? Insights from the Belgian Case'. Egmont Papers 81, March (2016/a): 1–52.
- Coolsaet, Rik. 'Het islamitisch terrorisme: Percepties wieden en kweedvijvers dreggen'. Justitiële Verkenningen 31, no. 2 (2005): 9–27.
- Coolsaet, Rik. 'Wat drijft de Syriëstrijder?' Samenleving en Politiek 22, no. 2–15 (2015): 4–13.
- Coppock, Vicki, and Mark McGovern. "'Dangerous Minds"? Deconstructing Counter-Terrorism Discourse, Radicalisation and the "Psychological Vulnerability" of Muslim Children and Young People in Britain'. Children & Society 28, no. 3 (2014): 242–56.

- Côté-Boucher, Karine, Federica Infantino and Mark B. Salter. 'Border Security as Practice: An Agenda for Research'. Security Dialogue 45, no. 3 (2014): 195–208.
- Craight, Nic, and Emma Hill. 'Re-Locating the Ethnographic Field: From "Being There" to "Being There"'. Anthropological Journal for European Cultures 24, no. 1 (2015): 42–62.
- Crawford, Adam. Crime Prevention Policies in Comparative Perspective. Cullompton: Willan, 2009.
- Crawford, Adam. The Local Governance of Crime: Appeals to Community and Partnerships. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1999.
- Crawford, Adam. 'Plural Policing in the UK: Policing beyond the Police'. In Handbook of Policing, edited by Tim Newburn. Cullompton: Willan, 2008.
- Crawley, Sara. 'Autoethnography as Feminist Self-Interview'. In The Sage Handbook of Interview Research, 2nd edn, edited by Jaber F. Gubrium, James A. Holstein, Amir B. Marvasti and Karyn D. McKinney, 143–60. Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage, 2012.
- Crenshaw, Martha. 'The Causes of Terrorism'. Comparative Politics 13, no. 4 (1981): 379–99.
- Crenshaw, Martha. 'The Psychology of Terrorism: An Agenda for the 21st Century'. Political Psychology 21, no. 2 (2000): 405–20.
- Crepaz, Markus. Trust beyond Borders: Immigration, the Welfare State, and Identity in Modern Societies. Ann Arbor, MI: University of Michigan Press, 2008.
- Croft, Stuart. 'Constructing Ontological Insecurity: The Insecuritization of Britain's Muslims'. Contemporary Security Policy 33, no. 2 (2012): 219–35.
- Croft, Stuart. Securitizing Islam: Identity and the Search for Security. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2012.
- Cronin, Audrey Kurth. How Terrorism Ends: Understanding the Decline and Demise of Terrorist Campaigns. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 2009.
- Cusson, Maurice. L'art de la sécurité: Ce que l'histoire de la criminologie nous enseigne. Lausanne: Presses Polytechniques et Universitaires Romandes, 2011.
- Dabashi, Hamid. Brown Skin, White Masks. New York: Pluto Press, 2011.
- Dassetto, Felice. Facettes de l'islam Belge. Louvain-la-Neuve: Academia-Bruylant, 1997.
- Dassetto, Felice, and Albert Bastenier. L'islam transplanté: Vie et organisation des minorités musulmanes de Belgique. Antwerpen: EPO, 1984.
- Dassetto, Felice, and Albert Bastenier. Medias u Akbar. Louvain-la-Neuve: CIACO, 1987.
- Davidson, Naomi. Only Muslim: Embodying Islam in Twentieth-Century France. Ithaca, NY, and London: Cornell University Press, 2012.
- Davila Gordillo, Diana, and Francesco Ragazzi. 'The Radicalisation Awareness Network: Producing the EU Counter-Radicalisation Discourse'. In Constitutionalising the Security Union: Effectiveness, Rule of Law and Rights in Countering Terrorism and Crime, edited by Sergio Carrera and Valsamis Mitsilegas. Brussels: Centre for European Policy Studies, 2017.
- Dawson, Lorne, and Amarnath Amarasingam. 'Talking to Foreign Fighters: Insights into Motivations for Hijrah to Syria and Iraq'. Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 40, no. 30 (2017): 191–210.
- de Certeau, Michel. The Practice of Everyday Life. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 2013.
- De Goede, Marieke. 'The Politics of Preemption and the War on Terror in Europe'. European Journal of International Relations 14, no. 1 (2008): 161–85.
- De Goede, Marieke. Speculative Security: The Politics of Pursuing Terrorist Monies. Minneapolis, MN: University of Minnesota Press, 2012.
- De Goede, Marieke, and Stephanie Simon. 'Governing Future Radicals in Europe'. Antipode 45, no. 2 (2013): 315–35.

- De Goede, Marieke, Stephanie Simon and Marijn Hoijtink. 'Performing Preemption'. Security Dialogue 45, no. 5 (2014): 411–22.
- De Graaf, Beatrice. Evaluating Counterterrorism Performance: A Comparative Study. London and New York: Routledge, 2011.
- De Graaf, Beatrice. 'Religion bites: Religieuze orthodoxie op de nationale veiligheidsagenda'. Tijdschrift voor Religie, Recht en Beleid 2, no. 2 (2011): 62–80.
- De Graaf, Beatrice, and Alex P. Schmid, eds., Terrorists on Trial: A Performative Perspective. Leiden: Leiden University Press, 2016.
- De Graaf, Beatrice, and Marieke de Goede. 'Sentencing Risk: Temporality and Precaution in Terrorism Trials'. International Political Sociology 7, no. 3 (2013): 313–31.
- De Koning, Martijn. 'How Should I Live as a "True" Muslim? Regimes of Living among Dutch Muslims in the Salafi Movement'. Etnofoor 25, no. 2 (2013): 53–72.
- De Koning, Martijn. 'The Other Political Islam: Understanding Salafi Politics'. In Whatever Happened to the Islamists: Salafis, Heavy Metal Muslims and the Lure of Consumerist Islam, edited by Olivier Roy and Amel Boubekeur, 153–78. London and New York: Hurst, 2012.
- De Koning, Martijn. "'You Need to Present a Counter-Message" – The Racialisation of Dutch Muslims and Anti-Islamophobia Initiatives'. Journal of Muslims in Europe 5, no. 2 (2016): 170–89.
- De Koning, Martijn. Zoeken Naar Een 'Zuivere' Islam: Geloofsbeleving en Identiteitsvorming van Jonge Marokkaans-Nederlandse Moslims. Amsterdam: Bert Bakker, 2008.
- De Koning, Martijn, Carmen Becker, Ineke Roex and Pim Aarns. Eilanden in een zee van ongelof: Het verzet van de activistische da'wa-netwerken in België, Nederland en Duitsland. Nijmegen and Amsterdam: IMES Report Series, Radboud University, 2014.
- De Koning, Martijn, Joas Wagemakers and Carmen Becker. Salafisme: Utopische Idealen in Een Weerbarstige Praktijk. Almere: Parthenon, 2014.
- De Ruyver, Brice, Marleen Easton, Jannie Noppe, Paul Ponsaers and Antoinette Verhage. Preventie van radicalisering in België [Onderzoeksrapport]. Antwerp: Maklu, 2011.
- De Waele, Maarten, Hans Moors, Aart Garssen and Jannie Noppe, eds., Aanpak van gewelddadige radicalisering. Antwerpen/Apeldoorn: Maklu, 2017.
- De Witte, Ludo. Wie is er bang van Moslims? Aantekeningen over Abou Jahjah, ethnocentrisme en islamofobie. Leuven: Van Halewyck, 2004.
- De Zwart, Frank. 'The Dilemma of Recognition: Administrative Categories and Cultural Diversity'. Theory and Society 34, no. 2 (2005): 137–69.
- De Zwart, Frank. 'Pitfalls of Top-Down Identity Designation: Ethno-Statistics in the Netherlands'. Comparative European Politics 10, no. 3 (2012): 301–18.
- De Zwart, Frank, and Caelesta Poppelaars. 'Redistribution and Ethnic Diversity in the Netherlands: Accommodation, Denial and Replacement'. Acta Sociologica 50, no. 4 (2007): 387–99.
- Dean, Mitchell. Governing Societies: Political Perspectives on Domestic and International Rule. Berkshire: Open University Press, 2007.
- Dean, Mitchell. Governmentality: Power and Rule in Modern Society. London: Sage, 1999.
- Death, Carl. 'Counter-Conducts: A Foucauldian Analytics of Protest'. Social Movement Studies 9, no. 3 (2010): 235–51.
- Decker, Scott H., and David C. Pyrooz. 'How 100 Years of Gang Research Can Inform the Study of Terrorism, Radicalization and Extremism'. Perspectives on Terrorism 9, no. 1 (2015): 104–12.
- Della Porta, Donatella. Clandestine Political Violence. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2013.

- Della Porta, Donatella. Social Movements, Political Violence and the State: A Comparative Analysis of Italy and Germany. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1995.
- DeLuca, Kevin. 'Articulation Theory: A Discursive Grounding for Rhetorical Practice'. Philosophy & Rhetoric 32, no. 4 (1999): 334–48.
- Demant, Froukje, Marieke Slootman, Frank Buijs and Jean Tillie. Teruggang en uittrede: Processen van deradicalisering ontleed. Amsterdam: IMES, 2008.
- den Boer, Monica. 'Wake-Up Call for the Lowlands: Dutch Counterterrorism from a Comparative Perspective'. Cambridge Review of International Affairs 20, no. 2 (2007): 285–302.
- Denhardt, Janet Vinzant, and Lane Crothers. Street-Level Leadership: Discretion and Legitimacy in Front-Line Public Service. Washington, DC: Georgetown University Press, 1998.
- Donzelot, Jacques. La police des familles. Paris: Éditions des Minuit, 1977.
- Donzelot, Jacques. The Policing of Families. New York: Pantheon Books, 1979.
- Douglas, Mary. Purity and Danger: An Analysis of Concepts of Pollution and Taboo. New York: Routledge, 2002 [1966].
- Dreyfus, Hubert L., ed., Michel Foucault: Beyond Structuralism and Hermeneutics. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 1982.
- Durkheim, Émile. The Division of Labor in Society. New York: Free Press, 1997.
- Durodie, Bill. 'Securitising Education to Prevent Terrorism or Losing Direction?' British Journal of Educational Studies 64, no. 1 (2015): 21–35.
- Duyvendak, Jan Willem. The Politics of Home: Belonging and Nostalgia in Europe and the United States. Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, 2011.
- Duyvendak, Jan Willem, and Peter Scholten. 'Beyond the Dutch "Multicultural Model": The Coproduction of Integration Policy Frames in the Netherlands'. Journal of International Migration and Integration 12, no. 3 (2011): 331–48.
- Edmunds, June. 'The "New" Barbarians: Governmentality, Securitization and Islam in Western Europe'. Contemporary Islam 6, no. 1 (2012): 67–84.
- Emmelkamp, Paul, Jan Henk Kamphuis and A. Reinders. Radicalisering van Jongeren: Een Literatuurstudie Naar de Ontvankelijkheid voor Radicalisering. Amsterdam: Psychology Research Institute, Universiteit van Amsterdam, 2005.
- Engelen, D. 'Mars door de tijd van een institutie: Een beknopte geschiedenis van de AIVD'. In Inlichtingen & Veiligheidsdiensten, edited by Beatrice de Graaf, E. R. Muller and J. A. Van Reijn. Brussels: Wolters Kluwer, 2010.
- Ericson, Richard V. 'British Criminology: A New Subject or Old Politics'. Canadian Journal of Criminology and Corrections 16 (1974): 352–60.
- Ericson, Richard V. Crime in an Insecure World. Cambridge: Polity Press, 2007.
- Ericson, Richard V., and Aaron Doyle. 'Catastrophe Risk, Insurance and Terrorism'. Economy and Society 33, no. 2 (2004): 135–73.
- Eroukhmanoff, Clara. 'The Remote Securitisation of Islam in the US Post-9/11: Euphemisation, Metaphors and the "Logic of Expected Consequences" in Counter-Radicalisation Discourse'. Critical Studies on Terrorism 8, no. 2 (2015): 246–65.
- Evans, Tony, and John Harris. 'Street-Level Bureaucracy, Social Work and the (Exaggerated) Death of Discretion'. The British Journal of Social Work 34, no. 6 (2004): 871–95.
- Fadil, Nadia. "'Are We All Secular/ized Yet?'" Reflections on David Goldberg's "Are We All Post-Racial Yet?" Ethnic and Racial Studies 39, no. 13 (2016): 2261–68.
- Fadil, Nadia. 'Breaking the Taboo of Multiculturalism: The Belgian Left and Islam'. In Thinking through Islamophobia: Global Perspectives, edited by Abdoolkarim Vakil and Salman Sayyid. New York: Columbia University Press, 2010.

- Fadil, Nadia. 'Brussels as a Landscape of Fear'. In Islamist Movements of Europe, edited by Frank Peter and Raphael Ortega. London: I.B. Tauris, 2014.
- Fadil, Nadia. 'Not-/Unveiling as an Ethical Practice' (Report). Feminist Review 98, no. 1 (2011): 83–109.
- Fadil, Nadia. 'Submitting to God, Submitting to the Self: Secular and Religious Trajectories of Second Generation Maghrebi in Belgium'. PhD diss., KU Leuven, 2008.
- Fadil, Nadia, Farid El Asri and Sarah Bracke. 'Islam in Belgium: Mapping an Emerging Interdisciplinary Field of Study'. In The Oxford Handbook of European Islam, edited by Jocelyne Cesari. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2015.
- Fanon, Frantz. Black Skin, White Masks. New York: Grove Press, 1967 [1952].
- Feddes, Allard R., Lars Nickolson and Bertjan Doosje. Triggerfactoren in het Radicaliseringsproces. Amsterdam: Expertise-unit Sociale Stabiliteit, Universiteit van Amsterdam, 2015.
- Feeley, Malcolm M., and Jonathan Simon. 'The New Penology: Notes on the Emerging Strategy of Corrections and Its Implications'. Criminology 30, no. 4 (1992): 449–74.
- Fekete, Liz. 'Anti-Muslim Racism and the European Security State'. Race & Class 46, no. 1 (2004): 3–29.
- Feldman, Greg. The Migration Apparatus: Security, Labor, and Policymaking in the European Union. Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press, 2011.
- Ferguson, Neil, and Eve Binks. 'Understanding Radicalization and Engagement in Terrorism through Religious Conversion Motifs'. Journal of Strategic Security 8, no. 1 (2015): 16–26.
- Fermin, Alfons. Nederlandse politieke partijen over minderhedenbeleid, 1977–1995. Amsterdam: Thesis Publishers, 1997.
- Fernando, Mayanthi. The Republic Unsettled: Muslim French and the Contradictions of Secularism. Durham, NC: Duke University Press, 2014.
- Foner, Nancy. 'Is Islam in Western Europe like Race in the United States'. Sociological Forum 30, no. 4 (2015): 885–99.
- Foucault, Michel. The Archaeology of Knowledge. New York: Pantheon Books, 1972.
- Foucault, Michel. Discipline & Punish: The Birth of the Prison. New York: Vintage Books, 1975.
- Foucault, Michel. 'Governmentality'. In The Foucault Effect: Studies in Governmentality, edited by Graham Burchell. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 1991.
- Foucault, Michel. 'Lecture Two: 14 January 1976'. In Power/Knowledge: Selected Interviews and Other Writings, 1972–1977, edited by Colin Gordon. New York: Pantheon Books, 1980.
- Foucault, Michel. Security, Territory, Population: Lectures at the Collège de France, 1977–78. London: Palgrave Macmillan, 2007.
- Foucault, Michel. 'The Subject and Power'. Critical Inquiry 8, no. 4 (1982): 777–95.
- Foucault, Michel. 'Truth and Power'. In Power/Knowledge: Selected Interviews and Other Writings, 1972–1977, edited by Colin Gordon, 126–28. New York: Pantheon Books, 1980.
- Franklin, Sarah, and Susan McKinnon. 'New Directions in Kinship Study: A Core Concept Revisited'. Current Anthropology 41, no. 2 (2000): 275–79.
- Franz, Barbara. 'Europe's Muslim Youth: An Inquiry into the Politics of Discrimination, Relative Deprivation, and Identity Formation'. Mediterranean Quarterly 28, no. 1 (2007): 89–112.
- Fraser, Nancy. 'From Redistribution to Recognition'. New Left Review I, no. 212 (1995): 68–93.

- Frissen, Thomas, and Leen d'Haenens. 'Legitimizing the Caliphate and Its Politics: Moral Disengagement Rhetoric in ISIL's Dabiq'. In Authoritarian and Populist Influences in the New Media, edited by Sai Felicia Krishna-Hensel. Abingdon: Routledge, 2017.
- Funke, Manfred. 'Extremismus und offene Gesellschaft, Anmerkungen zur Gefährdung und Selbstgefährdung des demokratischen Rechtsstaates'. In Extremismus im demokratischen Rechtsstaat, edited by M. Funke, 15–46. Düsseldorf: Droste, 1978.
- Furet, François. Terrorisme et démocratie. Paris: Fayard, 1985.
- Garland, David. 'Les contradictions de la "société punitive": Le cas britannique'. Actes de la Recherche en Sciences Sociales 124, no. 1 (1994): 49–67.
- Garland, David. The Culture of Control: Crime and Social Order in Contemporary Society. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2001.
- Geelhoed, Fiore. Purification and Resistance: Glocal Meanings of Islamic Fundamentalism in the Netherlands. Rotterdam: Erasmus Universiteit Rotterdam, 2011.
- Gell, Alfred. The Anthropology of Time: Cultural Constructions of Temporal Maps and Images. Oxford and Providence: Berg, 1992.
- Geschiere, Peter. The Perils of Belonging: Autochthony, Citizenship, and Exclusion in Africa and Europe. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 2009.
- Geschiere, Peter. 'Witchcraft and the State: Cameroon and South Africa Ambiguities of "Reality" and "Superstition"'. Past and Present 199, no. 3 (2008): 313–35.
- Geschiere, Peter. Witchcraft, Intimacy, and Trust: Africa in Comparison. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 2013.
- Gielen, Amy-Jane. Radicalisering en Identiteit: Radicale Rechtse en Moslimjongeren Vergeleken. Amsterdam: Aksant, 2008.
- Gignard, Alain. 'The Islamist Networks in Belgium'. In Jihadi Terrorism and the Radicalisation Challenge in Europe, edited by Rik Coolsaet. Aldershot and Burlington, VT: Ashgate, 2008.
- Girard, René. La violence et le sacré. Paris: Hachette, 1982.
- Githens-Mazer, Jonathan. 'Rethinking the Causal Concept of Islamic Radicalisation'. Political Concepts: Committee of Concepts and Methods Working Paper Series 42 (2010). Available at www.concepts-methods.org/Files/WorkingPaper/PC%2042%20Githens-Mazer.pdf.
- Githens-Mazer, Jonathan. 'The Rhetoric and Reality: Radicalization and Political Discourse'. International Political Science Review 33, no. 5 (2012): 556–67.
- Githens-Mazer, Jonathan, and Robert Lambert. 'Why Conventional Wisdom on Radicalization Fails: The Persistence of a Failed Discourse'. International Affairs 86, no. 4 (2010): 889–901.
- Glück, Zoltan, and Setha Low. 'A Sociospatial Framework for the Anthropology of Security'. Anthropological Theory 17, no. 3 (2017): 281–96.
- Goldberg, David Theo. 'Militarizing Race'. Social Text 34, no. 4 (2016): 19–40.
- Goldson, Barry. "'Children in Need" or "Young Offenders"? Hardening Ideology, Organizational Change and New Challenges for Social Work with Children in Trouble'. Child & Family Social Work 5, no. 3 (2000): 255–65.
- Goldson, Barry. "'Unsafe, Unjust and Harmful to Wider Society": Grounds for Raising the Minimum Age of Criminal Responsibility in England and Wales'. Youth Justice 13, no. 2 (2013): 111–30.
- Gooren, Henri. 'Reassessing Conventional Approaches to Conversion: Toward a New Synthesis'. Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion 46, no. 3 (2007): 337–53.
- Green, Nicola, and Nils Zurawski. 'Surveillance and Ethnography: Researching Surveillance as Everyday Life'. Surveillance & Society 13, no. 1 (2015): 27–43.

- Griffel, Frank. 'What Do We Mean by Salafi? Connecting Muhammad Abduh with Egypt's Nur Party in Islam's Contemporary Intellectual History'. Die Welt des Islams 55, no. 2 (2015): 186–220.
- Grillo, Ralph. 'Backlash against Diversity? Identity and Cultural Politics in European Cities'. COMPAS Working Papers 14. Oxford: Centre of Migration Policy and Society, 2005.
- Groeninck, Mieke. 'Reforming the Self, Unveiling the World: Islamic Religious Knowledge Transmission for Women in Brussels' Mosques and Institutes from a Moroccan Background'. PhD diss., KU Leuven, 2017.
- Grusin, Richard A. 'Premediation'. Criticism 46, no. 1 (2004): 17–39.
- Grusin, Richard A. Premediation: Affect and Mediality after 9/11. New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2010.
- Guittet, Emmanuel-Pierre. Antiterrorisme clandestin, antiterrorisme officiel. Outremont: Athéna Editions, 2010.
- Gurr, Ted Robert. Handbook of Political Conflict: Theory and Research. New York: Free Press, 1980.
- Gurr, Ted Robert. Why Men Rebel. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1970.
- Gürses, Seda, Arun Kundnani and Joris van Hoboken. 'Crypto and Empire: The Contradictions of Counter-Surveillance Advocacy'. Media Culture & Society 38, no. 4 (2016): 576–90.
- Gusterson, Hugh, and Catherine Besteman. The Insecure American: How We Got Here and What We Should Do about It. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 2010.
- Hafez, Mohammed, and Chreighton Mullins. 'The Radicalization Puzzle: A Theoretical Synthesis of Empirical Approaches to Homegrown Extremism'. Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 38, no. 11 (2015): 958–75.
- Hage, Ghassan. 'A Not So Multi-Sited Ethnography of a Not So Imagined Community'. Anthropological Theory 5, no. 4 (2005): 463–75.
- Hage, Ghassan. 'Waiting Out the Crisis: On Stuckedness and Governmentality'. In Waiting, edited by G. Hage. Carlton: Melbourne University Press, 2009.
- Hage, Ghassan. White Nation: Fantasies of White Supremacy in a Multicultural Society. New York: Routledge, 2000.
- Hajer, Maarten A. The Politics of Environmental Discourse: Ecological Modernization and the Policy Process. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1997.
- Hajjat, Abdellali, and Marwan Mohammed. Islamophobie: Comment les élites françaises fabriquent le 'problème musulman'. Paris: La Découverte, 2013.
- Hall, Stuart. 'Race, Articulation and Societies Structured in Dominance'. In Black British Cultural Studies: A Reader, edited by Houston A. Baker Jr, Manthia Diawara and Ruth H. Lindeborg. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 1996.
- Hallaq, Wael B. The Origins and Evolution of Islamic Law. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2005.
- Hamm, Mark. The Spectacular Few: Prisoner Radicalization and the Evolving Terrorist Threat. New York: New University Press, 2013.
- Harcourt, Bernard E. Against Prediction: Profiling, Policing, and Punishing in an Actuarial Age. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 2008.
- Harris, Shane. The Watchers: The Rise of America's Surveillance State. New York: Penguin Books, 2010.
- Hasso, Frances. Consuming Desires: Family Crisis and the State in the Middle East. Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press, 2011.
- Hayes, Chris. A Colony in a Nation. New York: W. W. Norton & Company, 2017.

- Haykel, Bernard. 'On the Nature of Salafi Thought and Action.' In Global Salafism: Islam's New Religious Movement, edited by R. Meijer. London: Hurst, 2009.
- Heath-Kelly, Charlotte. 'Algorithmic Autoimmunity in the NHS: Radicalisation and the Clinic.' Security Dialogue 48, no. 1 (2016): 29–45.
- Heath-Kelly, Charlotte. 'Can We Laugh Yet? Reading Post-9/11 Counterterrorism Policy as Magical Realism and Opening a Third-Space of Resistance.' European Journal on Criminal Policy and Research 18, no. 4 (2012a): 343–60.
- Heath-Kelly, Charlotte. 'Counter-Terrorism and the Counterfactual: Producing the "Radicalisation" Discourse and the UK PREVENT Strategy.' The British Journal of Politics & International Relations 15, no. 3 (2012b): 394–415.
- Heath-Kelly, Charlotte. 'Reinventing Prevention or Exposing the Gap? False Positives in UK Terrorism Governance and the Quest for Pre-Emption.' Critical Studies on Terrorism 5, no. 1 (2012c): 69–87.
- Hibou, Béatrice, ed., La privatisation des États. Paris: Karthala, 1999.
- Hickman, Mary J., Lyn Thomas, Henri C. Nickels and Sara Silvestri. 'Social Cohesion and the Notion of "Suspect Communities": A Study of the Experiences and Impacts of Being "Suspect" for Irish Communities and Muslim Communities in Britain.' Critical Studies on Terrorism 5, no. 1 (2012): 89–106.
- Hillyard, Paddy. Suspect Community. London: Pluto Press, 1993.
- Hondius, Dieke. 'Black Dutch Voices: Reports from a Country that Leaves Racism Unchallenged.' In Dutch Racism, edited by Philomena Essed and Isabel Hoving, 273–93. Amsterdam: Rodopi, 2014.
- Honwana, Alcinda. The Time of Youth: Work, Social Change, and Politics in Africa. Sterling, VA: Kumarian Press, 2012.
- Horgan, John. 'Deradicalization or Disengagement? A Process in Need of Clarity and a Counterterrorism Initiative in Need of Evaluation.' Perspectives on Terrorism 2, no. 4 (2008).
- Horgan, John. The Psychology of Terrorism. London and New York: Routledge, 2014.
- Houellebecq, Michel. Submission. New York: Picador, 2015.
- Hoyle, Carolyn, Alexandra Bradford and Ross Frenett. Becoming Mulan? Female Western Migrants to ISIS. London: Institute for Strategic Dialogue, 2015.
- Huey, Laura. No Sandwiches Here: Representations of Women in Dabiq and Inspire Magazines, TSAS Working Paper Series. Vancouver: Canadian Network for Research on Terrorism, Security and Society, 2015.
- Husband, Charles, and Yunis Alam. Social Cohesion and Counter-Terrorism. Bristol: The Policy Press, 2011.
- Huysmans, Jef. 'Security! What Do You Mean? From Concept to Thick Signifier.' European Journal of International Relations 4, no. 2 (1998): 226–55.
- Ignatiev, Noel. How the Irish Became White. New York: Routledge, 2008.
- Infantino, Federica. 'La frontière au guichet.' Champ Pénal/Penal Field 7 (2010). Available at <http://journals.openedition.org/champpenal/7864> (accessed 8 March 2018).
- Jackson, Richard. 'An Analysis of EU Counterterrorism Discourse Post-September 11.' Cambridge Review of International Affairs 20, no. 2 (2007): 233–47.
- Jackson, Richard. Writing the War on Terrorism: Language, Politics and Counter-Terrorism. Manchester: Manchester University Press, 2005.
- Jacobs, Dirk. 'Arab European League (AEL): The Rapid Rise of a Radical Immigrant Movement.' Journal of Muslim Minority Affairs 25, no. 1 (2005): 97–115.
- Jacquemet, Marco. 'Crosstalk 2.0: Asylum and Communication Breakdown.' Text and Talk 31, no. 4 (2011): 475–98.

- James, William. The Varieties of Religious Experience: A Study in Human Nature. New York: New American Library, 1958 [1902].
- Jarvis, Lee, and Michael Lister. 'Disconnected Citizenship? The Impacts of Anti-Terrorism Policy on Citizenship in the UK'. Political Studies 61, no. 3 (2013): 656–75.
- Jeandesboz, Julien. 'Beyond the Tartar Steppe: EUROSUR and the Ethics of European Border Control Practices'. In Europe under Threat? Security, Migration and Integration, edited by J. Peter Burgess and Serge Gutwirth. Brussels: VUB Press, 2011.
- Jouili, Jeanette S. Pious Practices and Secular Constraints: Women in the Islamic Revival in Europe. Stanford, CA: Stanford University Press, 2015.
- Jouili, Jeanette S., and Schirin Amir-Moazami. 'Knowledge, Empowerment and Religious Authority among Pious Muslim Women in France and Germany'. The Muslim World 96, no. 4 (2006): 617–42.
- Juntunen, Tapio, and Ari-Elmeri Hyvönen. 'Resilience, Security and the Politics of Processes'. Resilience: International Policies, Practices and Discourses 2, no. 3 (2014): 195–209.
- Kalir, Barak. 'The Development of a Migratory Disposition: Explaining a "New Emigration"'. International Migration 43, no. 4 (2005): 167–96.
- Kanmaz, Meryem, and Mohamed El Battiui. Moskeeën, Imams en Islamleerkrachten in België. Brussel: Koning Boudewijnstichting, 2004.
- Kapoor, Nisha. Deport, Deprive and Extradite: 21st Century State Extremism. London and New York: Verso, 2018.
- Kassim Allo, Awol. 'The "Show" in the "Show Trial": Contextualizing the Politicization of the Courtroom'. Barry Law Review 15, no. 1 (2010): 41–72.
- Kassimeris, George, and Leonie Jackson. 'British Muslims and the Discourses of Dysfunction: Community Cohesion and Counterterrorism in the West Midlands'. Critical Studies on Terrorism 5, no. 2 (2012): 179–96.
- Kennedy, James, and Markha Valenta. 'Religious Pluralism and the Dutch State: Reflections on the Future of Article 23'. In Geloven in Het Publieke Domein: Verkenningen Van Een Dubbele Transformatie, edited by W. B. H. J. van de Donk, A. P. Jonkers, G. J. Kronjee and R. J. J. M. Plum. Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press, 2006.
- Kessler, Oliver, ed., 'Forum: International Law and International Political Sociology'. International Political Sociology 3, no. 4 (2010): 303–21.
- Kessler, Oliver. 'Is Risk Changing the Politics of Legal Argumentation?'. Leiden Journal of International Law 21, no. 4 (2008): 863–84.
- Kessler, Oliver, and Wouter Werner. 'Extrajudicial Killing as Risk Management'. Security Dialogue 39, no. 2–3 (2008): 289–308.
- Khosrokhavar, Farhad. L'islam des jeunes. Paris: Flammarion, 1997.
- Kifer, Misty, Craig Hemmens and Mary K. Stohr. 'The Goals of Corrections: Perspectives from the Line'. Criminal Justice Review 28, no. 1 (2003): 47–69.
- Kirchheimer, Otto. Political Justice: The Use of Legal Procedure for Political Ends. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1961.
- Kiwan, Nadia. Identities, Discourses and Experiences: Young People of North African Origin in France. Manchester: Manchester University Press, 2009.
- Klausen, Jytte. 'Tweeting the Jihad: Social Media Networks of Western Foreign Fighters in Syria and Iraq'. Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 38, no. 1 (2015): 1–22.
- Klijn, Annemieke, and Jeroen Winkel. 'Münster, Amsterdam en de Wederopers'. Groniek 23, no. 2 (1978): 12–16.
- Kolly, Maryam. 'Introduire du possible dans les métiers impossibles?' In Gestes spéculatifs, edited by Isabelle Stengers and Didier Debaise, 222–23. Paris: Les Presses du Réel, 2015.

- Koopmans, Ruud. 'Religious Fundamentalism and Hostility against Out-Groups: A Comparison of Muslims and Christians in Western Europe'. Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies 41, no. 1 (2015): 33–57.
- Krasmann, Susanne. 'Law's Knowledge: On the Susceptibility and Resistance of Legal Practices to Security Matters'. Theoretical Criminology 16, no. 4 (2012): 379–94.
- Krause, Keith, and Michael Williams. 'Broadening the Agenda of Security Studies: Politics and Methods'. Mershon International Studies Review 40, no. 2 (1996): 229–54.
- Kroes, Rob. Conflict en Radicalisme. Meppel: Boom, 1971.
- Kundnani, Arun. The Muslims Are Coming! Islamophobia, Extremism, and the Domestic War on Terror. London and New York: Verso, 2014.
- Kundnani, Arun. 'Radicalisation: The Journey of a Concept'. Race & Class 54, no. 2 (2012): 3–25.
- Kundnani, Arun. Spooked! How Not to Prevent Violent Extremism. London: Institute of Race Relations, 2009.
- Kundnani, Arun, and Ben Hayes. The Globalisation of Countering Violent Extremism Policies: Undermining Human Rights, Instrumentalising Civil Society. Amsterdam: Societal Security Network, 2018.
- Laclau, Ernesto, and Chantal Mouffe. Hegemony and Socialist Strategy: Towards a Radical Democratic Politics. London: Verso, 1985.
- LaFree, Gary, and Erin Miller. 'Desistance from Terrorism: What Can We Learn from Criminology?' Dynamics of Asymmetric Conflict 1, no. 3 (2008): 203–30.
- Lakoff, Andrew, and Stephen J. Collier. 'Ethics and the Anthropology of Modern Reason'. Anthropological Theory 4, no. 4 (2004): 419–34.
- Lambert, Robert. Countering Al-Qaeda in London: Police and Muslims in Partnership. London: Hurst, 2011.
- Larkin, Brian. 'Techniques of Inattention: The Mediality of Loudspeakers in Nigeria'. Anthropological Quarterly 87, no. 4 (2014): 989–1015.
- Lassman, Peter, and Ronald Speirs, eds., Weber: Political Writings. Cambridge and New York: Cambridge University Press, 1994.
- Laster, Kathy, and Edna Erez. 'Sisters in Terrorism? Exploding Stereotypes'. Women & Criminal Justice 25, no. 1–2 (2015): 83–99.
- Latour, Bruno. Reassembling the Social: An Introduction to Actor-Network-Theory. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2007.
- Laurence, Jonathan. 'The Corporatist Antecedent of Contemporary State–Islam Relations'. European Political Science 8, no. 3 (2009): 301–15.
- Lauzière, Henri. 'The Construction of Salafiyya: Reconsidering Salafism from the Perspective of Conceptual History'. International Journal of Middle Eastern Studies 42, no. 3 (2010): 369–89.
- Lauzière, Henri. The Making of Salafism: Islamic Reform in the Twentieth Century. New York: Columbia University Press, 2015.
- Lawlor, Leonard. 'Contestation'. In The Cambridge Foucault Lexicon, edited by L. Lawlor and J. Nale. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2014.
- Le Cour Grandmaison, Olivier. De l'indigénat. Paris: La Découverte/Zones, 2010.
- Lechkar, Iman. 'Striving and Stumbling in the Name of Allah: Neo-Sunnis and Neo-Shi'ites in a Belgian Context'. PhD diss., KU Leuven, 2012.
- Lefebvre, Henri. The Production of Space. Oxford: Wiley Blackwell, 1992 [1974].
- Lefebvre, Henri. La révolution urbaine. Paris: Gallimard, 1970.
- Leman, Johan. 'Van radicalisering tot jihadisering: Een antropologische kijk'. In De Lokroep van IS: Syriëstrijders en (De)radicalisering, edited by Patrick Loobuyck, 41–59. Kalmthout: Pelckmans, 2015.

- Leman, Johan, and Renaerts Monique. 'Dialogues at Different Institutional Levels among Authorities and Muslims in Belgium'. In Muslims in the Margin: Political Responses to the Presence of Islam in Western Europe, edited by W. A. R. Shadid and P. S. van Koningsveld, 164–81. Kampen: Klement, 1996.
- Lentin, Alana. 'Post-Race, Post Politics: The Paradoxical Rise of Culture after Multiculturalism'. Ethnic and Racial Studies 37, no. 8 (2012): 1268–85.
- Lentin, Alana, and Gavan Titley. The Crisis of Multiculturalism: Racism in a Neoliberal Age. London: Zed Books, 2011.
- Leveau, Rémy. 'Réflexions sur le non-passage au terrorisme dans l'immigration maghrébine'. Études Polémologiques: Terrorisme, Pouvoirs Publics et Sociétés 49, no. 1 (1989): 141–56.
- Lévi-Strauss, Claude. Introduction to the Work of Marcel Mauss. London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1987.
- Lindekilde, Lasse. 'Value for Money? Problems of Impact Assessment of Counter-Radicalization Policies on End Target Groups: The Case of Denmark'. European Journal on Criminal Policy and Research 18, no. 4 (2012): 385–402.
- Lipsky, Michael. Street-Level Bureaucracy: Dilemmas of the Individual in Public Services. New York: Russell Sage Foundation, 1980.
- Lofland, John, and Rodney Stark. 'Becoming a World-Saver: A Theory of Conversion to a Deviant Perspective'. American Sociological Review 30, no. 6 (1965): 862–75.
- Loobuyck, Patrick. 'Introduction'. In De Lokroep van IS: Syriëstrijders en (De)radicalisering, edited by Patrick Loobuyck. Kalmthout: Pelckmans, 2015.
- Luhmann, Niklas. Trust and Power: Two Works. Chichester and New York: John Wiley & Sons, 1979.
- Maatschappelijke Ontwikkeling, Raad voor, ed., Polarisatie: Essays Over Oorzaken en Gevolgen van Verscherpte Tegenstellingen. Amsterdam: BV Uitgeverij SWP, 2009.
- MacIntyre, Alisdair. After Virtue. Notre Dame, IN: University of Notre Dame Press, 1981.
- Mahmood, Saba. Politics of Piety: The Islamic Revival and the Feminist Subject. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 2005.
- Mahmood, Saba. 'Secularism, Hermeneutics, and Empire: The Politics of Islamic Reformation'. Public Culture 18, no. 2 (2006): 323–47.
- Malkki, Leena. How Terrorist Campaigns End: The Campaigns of the Rode Jeugd in the Netherlands and the Symbionese Liberation Army in the United States. Helsinki: University of Helsinki, 2010.
- Mamdani, Mahmood. Good Muslim, Bad Muslim: America, the Cold War, and the Roots of Terror. New York: Pantheon Books, 2004.
- Mandel, David R. 'Radicalization: What Does It Mean?' In Home-Grown Terrorism: Understanding and Addressing the Root Causes of Radicalisation among Groups with an Immigrant Heritage in Europe, edited by T. Pick, A. Speckhard and B. Jacuh. Amsterdam: IOS Press, 2010.
- Mann, Michael. The Sources of Social Power. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1986.
- Marinetto, Michael. 'Who Wants to Be an Active Citizen? The Politics and Practice of Community Involvement'. Sociology 37, no. 1 (2003): 103–20.
- Martin, Thomas. 'Governing an Unknowable Future: The Politics of Britain's Prevent Policy†'. Critical Studies on Terrorism 7, no. 1 (2014): 62–78.
- Marzouki, Nadia. 'De l'endiguement à l'engagement: Le discours des think tanks américains sur l'islam depuis 2001'. Archives des Sciences Sociales des Religions 155 (2011): 21–38.

- Massey, Doreen. 'Politics and Space/Time'. In Place, Space and the Politics of Identity, edited by Michael Keith and Steve Pile. London and New York: Routledge, 1993.
- Massumi, Brian. 'Potential Politics and the Primacy of Pre-Emption'. Theory and Event 10, no. 2 (2007).
- Masud, Muhammad K. 'Ikhtilaf al-Fuqaha: Diversity in Fiqh as a Social Construction'. In Wanted: Equality and Justice in the Muslim Family, edited by Z. Anwar. Selangor: Musawah, 2009.
- Mauger, Gérard. 'Sur la "radicalisation islamiste"'. Savoir/Agir 37, no. 3 (2013): 91–99.
- Maussen, Marcel, Veit Bader and Annelies Moors. Colonial and Post-Colonial Governance of Islam Continuities and Ruptures. Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press, 2011.
- Mavelli, Luca. 'Between Normalisation and Exception: The Securitisation of Islam and the Construction of the Secular Subject'. Millennium 41, no. 2 (2012): 159–81.
- McCulloch, Jude, and Sharon Pickering. 'Pre-Crime and Counter-Terrorism: Imagining Future Crime in the "War on Terror"'. British Journal of Criminology 49, no. 5 (2009): 628–45.
- Medvetz, Thomas. Think Tanks in America. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 2008.
- Meeus, Wim. 'Why Do Young People become Jihadists? A Theoretical Account on Radical Identity Development'. European Journal of Developmental Psychology 12, no. 3 (2015): 275–81.
- Meijer, Roel. Global Salafism: Islam's New Religious Movement. London: Hurst, 2009.
- Meinhof, Ulrike. Textes des prisonniers de la 'Fraction armée rouge' et dernières lettres d'Ulrike Meinhof, Cahiers libres no. 337. Paris: La Découverte, 1977.
- Mepschen, Paul, Jan Willem Duyvendak and Evelien Tonkens. 'Sexual Politics, Orientalism and Multicultural Citizenship in the Netherlands'. Sociology 44, no. 5 (2010): 962–79.
- Merton, Robert K., Vanessa Merton and Elinor Barber. 'Client Ambivalence in Professional Relationships: The Problem of Seeking Help from Strangers'. In New Directions in Helping, Vol. 2, edited by Bella M. DePaulo, 13–44. New York: Academic Press, 1983.
- Meyers, Marcia, and Susan Vorsanger. 'Street-Level Bureaucrats and the Implementation of Public Policy'. In Handbook of Public Administration: Concise Paperback Edition, edited by Guy B. Peters and Jon Pierre. Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage, 2007.
- Miah, Shamim. 'Prevent'ing Education: Anti-Muslim Racism and the War on Terror in Schools'. In The State of Race, edited by Nisha Kapoor, Virinder S. Kalra and James Rhodes. Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, 2013.
- Miller, David, and Rizwaan Sabir. 'Counter-Terrorism as Counterinsurgency in the UK "War on Terror"'. In Counter-Terrorism and State Political Violence: The 'War on Terror' as Terror, edited by Scott Poynting and David Whyte. London: Routledge, 2013.
- Mills, Wright. The Sociological Imagination. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2000 [1959].
- Misztal, Barbara A. Trust in Modern Societies: The Search for the Bases of Social Order. Cambridge: Polity Press, 1996.
- Modood, Tariq. Multiculturalism. Cambridge: Polity Press, 2007.
- Moffette, David, and Shaira Vadasaria. 'Uninhibited Violence: Race and the Securitization of Immigration'. Critical Studies on Security 4, no. 3 (2016): 291–305.
- Moghaddam, Fathali M. 'De-Radicalization and the Staircase from Terrorism'. In The Faces of Terrorism: Multidisciplinary Perspectives, edited by David Canter, 277–92. Chichester: John Wiley & Sons, 2009.
- Moghaddam, Fathali M. From the Terrorists' Point of View: What They Experience and Why They Come to Destroy. Westport, CT: Praeger Security International, 2006.
- Moghaddam, Fathali M. 'The Psychological Citizen and the Two Concepts of Social Contract: A Preliminary Analysis'. Political Psychology 29, no. 6 (2008): 881–901.

- Moghaddam, Fathali M. 'The Staircase to Terrorism: A Psychological Exploration'. American Psychologist 60, no. 2 (2005): 161–69.
- Moghaddam, Fathali M., and A. J. Marsella, eds., Understanding Terrorism: Psychosocial Roots, Consequences and Intervention. Washington, DC: American Psychological Association, 2003.
- Möllering, Guido. 'The Nature of Trust: From Georg Simmel to a Theory of Expectation, Interpretation and Suspension'. Sociology 35, no. 2 (2001): 403–20.
- Moodie, Dunbar, and Vivienne Ndatshe. Going for Gold: Men, Mines and Migration. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 1994.
- Moors, Annelies. 'The Dutch and the Face-Veil: The Politics of Discomfort'. Social Anthropology 17, no. 4 (2009): 393–408.
- Moors, Annelies. 'Unregistered Islamic Marriages: Anxieties about Sexuality and Islam in the Netherlands'. In Applying Shari'a in the West: Facts, Fears and the Future of Islamic Rules on Family Relations in the West, edited by Maurits Berger, 141–64. Leiden: Leiden University Press, 2013.
- Moors, Hans, Lenke Balogh, Jaap van Donselaar and Bob de Graaff. Polarisatie en Radicalisering in Nederland: Een Verkenning van de Stand van Zaken in 2009. Tilburg: IVA, 2009.
- Moors, J. A., E. van den Reek Vermeulen and M. Siesling. Voedingsbodem voor Radicalisering Bij Kleine Etnische Groepen: Een Verkennend Onderzoek in de Somalisch, Pakistaanse, Koerdische en Molukse Gemeenschappen. Tilburg: IVA, 2009.
- Moosa, Ebrahim. Ghazali and the Poetics of Imagination. Chapel Hill, NC, and London: University of North Carolina Press, 2005.
- Morsi, Yasser. Radical Skin. Moderate Masks: De-Radicalising the Muslim and Racism in Post-Racial Societies. London and New York: Rowman & Littlefield International, 2017.
- Moskalenko, Sophia, and Clark McCauley. 'Measuring Political Mobilization: The Distinction between Activism and Radicalism'. Terrorism and Political Violence 21, no. 2 (2009): 239–60.
- Mueller, John. 'Six Rather Unusual Propositions about Terrorism'. Terrorism and Political Violence 17, no. 4 (2005): 487–505.
- Muncie, John. Youth and Crime. London: Sage, 2004.
- Murray, John. 'Policing Terrorism: A Threat to Community Policing or Just a Shift in Priorities?' Police Practice and Research 6, no. 4 (2005): 347–61.
- Mythen, Gabe, and Palash Kamruzzaman. 'Counter-Terrorism and Community Relations: Anticipatory Risk, Regulation and Justice'. In Regulation and Criminal Justice: Innovations in Policy and Research, edited by Hannah Quirk, Toby Seddon and Graham Smith. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2014.
- Mythen, Gabe, Sandra Walklate and Elizabeth-Jane Peatfield. 'Assembling and Deconstructing Radicalisation in PREVENT: A Case of Policy-Based Evidence Making?' Critical Social Policy 37, no. 2 (2017): 180–201.
- Mythen, Gabe, Sandra Walklate and Fatima Khan. '"I'm a Muslim, but I'm Not a Terrorist": Victimization, Risky Identities and the Performance of Safety'. British Journal of Criminology 49, no. 6 (2009): 736–54.
- Nacos, Brigitte L. 'The Portrayal of Female Terrorists in the Media: Similar Framing Patterns in the News Coverage of Women in Politics and in Terrorism'. Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 28, no. 5 (2005): 435–51.
- Nacos, Brigitte L. 'Young Western Women, Fandom and ISIS'. E-International Relations 5 (2015). Available at <https://www.e-ir.info/2015/05/05/young-western-women-fandom-and-isis/> (accessed 8 December 2015).

- Nacos, Brigitte L., and Oscar Torres-Reyna. Fueling Our Fears: Stereotyping, Media Coverage, and Public Opinion of Muslim Americans. Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield, 2007.
- Narotzky, Susana, and Niko Besnier. 'Crisis, Value, and Hope: Rethinking the Economy'. Current Anthropology 55, no. 9 (2014): S4–S16.
- Navaro-Yashin, Yael. The Make-Believe Space: Affective Geography in a Postwar Polity. Durham, NC, and London: Duke University Press, 2012.
- Navest, Aysha, Martijn de Koning and Annelies Moors. 'Chatting about Marriage with Female Migrants to Syria'. Anthropology Today 32, no. 2 (2016): 22–25.
- Neely, Brooke, and Michelle Samura. 'Social Geographies of Race: Connecting Race and Space'. Ethnic and Racial Studies 34, no. 11 (2011): 1933–52.
- Neumann, Peter R. 'The Trouble with Radicalization'. International Affairs 89, no. 4 (2013): 873–93.
- Neumann, Peter R., B. Rogers, R. Alonso and L. Martinez. 'Recruitment and Mobilisation for the Islamist Militant Movement in Europe'. ICSR 251, no. 1 (2007): 153–68.
- Nisa, Eva F. 'Marriage and Divorce for the Sake of Religion: The Marital Life of Cadari in Indonesia'. In Asian Journal of Social Science 39, no. 6 (2011): 797–820.
- O'Rourke, Jacqueline. Representing Jihad: The Appearing and Disappearing Radical. London: Zed Books, 2012.
- O'Toole, Therese, Daniel Nilsson DeHanas and Tariq Modood. 'Balancing Tolerance, Security and Muslim Engagement in the United Kingdom: The Impact of the "Prevent" Agenda'. Critical Studies on Terrorism 5, no. 3 (2012): 373–89.
- O'Toole, Therese, Nassar Meer, Daniel Nilsson DeHanas, Stephen Jones and Tariq Modood. 'Governing through Prevent? Regulation and Contested Practice in State–Muslim Engagement'. Sociology 5, no. 1 (2015): 160–77.
- Ollman, Bertell. Alienation: Marx's Conception of Man in a Capitalist Society. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1977.
- Omi, Michael, and Howard Winant. Racial Formation in the United States: From the 1960s to the 1980s. Abingdon: Routledge, 1986.
- Ong, Aihwa. Neoliberalism as Exception: Mutations in Citizenship and Sovereignty. Durham, NC, and London: Duke University Press, 2006.
- Opitz, Sven, and Ute Tellmann. 'Katastrophale Szenarien – Gegenwärtige Zukunft in Recht und Ökonomie'. Leviathan Sonderhefte, 25 (2010): Sichtbarkeitsregime. Überwachung, Sicherheit und Privatheit im 21. Jahrhundert, S. 27–52.
- Oubrou, Tareq. Coran: Clés de lecture. Paris: Fondation pour l'innovation politique, 2015.
- Owe, Julie Ræstad. 'Runaway Jihadi Bride: Media Framing of Western Female Foreign Fighters to ISIS'. MA diss., University of Oslo, 2017.
- Özyürek, Esra. 'Convert Alert: German Muslims and Turkish Christians as Threats to Security in the New Europe'. Comparative Studies in Society and History 5, no. 1 (2009): 91–116.
- Panafit, Laurent. Quand le droit écrit l'islam: L'intégration juridique de l'islam en Belgique. Bruxelles: Bruylant, 1999.
- Pantazis, Christina, and Simon Pemberton. 'From the "Old" to the "New" Suspect Community: Examining the Impacts of Recent UK Counter-Terrorist Legislation'. The British Journal of Criminology 49, no. 5 (2009): 646–66.
- Pape, Robert A. Dying to Win: The Strategic Logic of Suicide Terrorism. New York: Random House, 2006.
- Parvez, Z. Fareen. 'Debating the Burqa in France: The Antipolitics of Islamic Revival'. Qualitative Sociology 34, no. 2 (2011): 287–312.

- Paulle, Bowen, and Barak Kalir. 'The Integration Matrix Reloaded: From Ethnic Fixations to Established versus Outsiders Dynamics in the Netherlands'. Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies 40, no. 9 (2014): 1354–74.
- Paxton, Robert O., and Julie Hessler. L'Europe au XXe siècle, translated by Evelyn Werth. Paris: Tallandier, 2011.
- Perešin, Anita. 'Fatal Attraction: Western Muslimas and ISIS'. Perspectives on Terrorism 9, no. 3 (2015): 21–38.
- Perešin, Anita, and Alberto Cervone. 'The Western Muhajirat of ISIS'. Studies in Conflict and Terrorism 38, no. 7 (2015): 1–15.
- Peteet, Julie. 'Icons and Militants: Mothering in the Danger Zone'. Signs 23, no. 1 (1997): 103–29.
- Peter, Frank. 'Political Rationalities, Counter-Terrorism and Policies on Islam in the United Kingdom and France'. In The Social Life of Anti-Terrorism Laws: The War on Terror and the Classifications of the 'Dangerous Other', edited by Julia M. Eckert, 79–108. Bielefeld: transcript Verlag, 2008.
- Pine, Frances. 'Migration as Hope: Space, Time, and Imagining the Future'. Current Anthropology 55, S9 (2014): S95–S104.
- Pisoiu, Daniela. 'Coming to Believe "Truths" about Islamist Radicalization in Europe'. Terrorism and Political Violence 25, no. 2 (2013): 246–63.
- Ponsaers, Paul, Brice De Ruyver, Marleen Easton, Antoinette Verhage, Jannie Noppe, Jo Hellinckx and Maarten Vandeveld. Onderzoeksrapport polarisering en radicalisering: een integrale preventieve aanpak. Brussel: Governance of Security, 2010.
- Portis, Larry. 'La sociologie consensuelle et le terrorisme: De la propagande par le fait à Unabomber'. L'Homme et la Société 123–24 (1997): 57–74.
- Prins, Baukje. Voorbij de onschuld: Het debat over de multiculturele samenleving. Amsterdam: Van Gennep, 2000.
- Ragazzi, Francesco. 'Countering Terrorism and Radicalisation: Securitising Social Policy?'. Critical Social Policy 37, no. 2 (2017): 163–79.
- Ragazzi, Francesco. 'La lutte contre la radicalisation ou deux formes de la pensée magique'. Mouvements 88, no. 4 (2016): 151–58.
- Ragazzi, Francesco. 'Policed Multiculturalism? The Impact of Counter-Terrorism and Counter-Radicalization and the "End" of Multiculturalism'. In Counter-Radicalisation: Critical Perspectives, edited by Christopher Baker-Beall, Charlotte Heath-Kelly and Lee Jarvis. Oxon and New York: Routledge, 2015.
- Ragazzi, Francesco. 'Suspect Community or Suspect Category? The Impact of Counter-Terrorism as "Policed Multiculturalism"'. Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies 42, no. 5 (2016): 724–41.
- Ramadan, Tariq. Être musulman européen: Études des sources islamiques à la lumière du contexte européen. Lyon: Tawhid, 1999.
- Rambo, Lewis R. Understanding Religious Conversion. New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, 1993.
- Ramirez, Debbie A. Sasha Cohen O'Connell and Rabia Zafar. Developing Partnerships between Law Enforcement and American Muslim, Arab, and Sikh Communities: A Promising Practices Guide. Boston, MA: Northeastern University, 2004.
- Rana, Junaid. 'The Racial Infrastructure of the Terror-Industrial Complex'. Social Text 34, no. 4 (2016): 111–38.
- Ranstorp, Magnus. Understanding Violent Radicalisation. London and New York: Routledge, 2010.
- Rath, Jan. Minoriserende de Sociale Constructie van 'Etnische Minderheden'. Amsterdam: Sua, 1991.

- Reddy, Maureen T. 'Invisibility/Hypervisibility: The Paradox of Normative Whiteness.' Transformations: The Journal of Inclusive Scholarship and Pedagogy 9, no. 2 (1998): 55–64.
- Renaerts, Monique. 'L'histoire de l'islam en Belgique et la problématique de sa reconnaissance.' Cahiers de l'Institut de philologie et d'histoire orientales 3 (1999): 49–61.
- Renard, Thomas, and Rik Coolsaet. 'From the Kingdom to the Caliphate and Back: Returnees in Belgium.' In 'Returnees: Who Are They, Why Are They (Not) Coming Back and How Should We Deal with Them? Assessing Policies on Returning Foreign Terrorist Fighters in Belgium, Germany and the Netherlands.' Egmont Papers 101 (2018): 19–40.
- Requate, Jörg, and Philipp Zessin. 'Comment sortir du "terrorisme"? La violence politique et les conditions de sa disparition en France et en République Fédérale d'Allemagne 1970–1990.' European Review of History—Revue Européenne d'Histoire 14, no. 3 (2007): 423–45.
- Reynolds, Sean, and Mohammed Hafez. 'Social Network Analysis of German Foreign Fighters in Syria.' Terrorism and Political Violence (2017): 1–26. Published online at <https://doi.org/10.1080/09546553.2016.1272456> (accessed May 2018).
- Rietjens, Paul. 'België, de EU en het jihadi-terrorisme.' Studia Diplomatica, VX (2007), Supplement 1.
- Rights Watch UK. Preventing Education? Human Rights and UK Counter-Terrorism Policy in Schools. London: RWUK, 2016.
- Rights Watch UK. 'Radicalisation and De-Radicalisation.' Perspectives on Radicalisation and Political Violence: Papers from the First International Conference on Radicalisation and Political Violence. London: RWUK, 2008.
- Robert, Dominique. 'Actuarial Justice.' In Encyclopedia of Prisons and Correctional Facilities, edited by M. Bosworth, 11–14. Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage, 2005.
- Roberts, David, and Minelle Mahtani. 'Neoliberalizing Race, Racing Neoliberalism: Placing "Race" in Neoliberal Discourses.' Antipode 42, no. 2 (2010): 248–57.
- Robinson, Cedric. Black Marxism: The Making of the Black Radical Tradition. Chapel Hill, NC: University of North Carolina Press, 2000 [1983].
- Roediger, David. The Wages of Whiteness: Race and the Making of the American Working Class. New York: Verso, 2007.
- Roex, Ineke. Leven als de profeet in Nederland: Over de Salafi-beweging en democratie. Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press, 2013.
- Roex, Ineke, Sjeff van Stiphout and Jean Tillie. Salafisme in Nederland: Aard, Omvang en Dreiging. Amsterdam: IMES, Universiteit van Amsterdam, 2010.
- Romein, Jan. Machten van dezen tijd. Amsterdam: Wereldbibliotheek, 1932.
- Rommelspacher, Birgit. 'Der Hass hat uns geeint': Junge Rechtsextreme und ihr Ausstieg aus der Szene. Frankfurt am Main: Campus Verlag, 2006.
- Rose, Nikolas S. 'The Death of the Social? Re-Figuring the Territory of Government.' International Journal of Human Resource Management 25, no. 3 (1996): 327–56.
- Rose, Nikolas S. Powers of Freedom: Reframing Political Thought. Cambridge and New York: Cambridge University Press, 1999.
- Rothstein, M. A. 'Privacy and Confidentiality.' In Routledge Handbook of Medical Law and Ethics, edited by Y. Joly and B. M. Knoppers. Oxon and New York: Routledge, 2014.
- Roy, Olivier. 'Euro-islam: De jihad van binnenuit?' Justitiële Verkenningen 31, no. 2 (2005): 28–46.
- Roy, Olivier. L'islam mondialisé. Paris: Seuil, 2002.
- Roy, Olivier. La sainte ignorance: Le temps de la religion sans culture. Paris: Seuil, 2008.

- Sageman, Marc. Leaderless Jihad: Terror Networks in the Twenty-First Century. Philadelphia, PA: University of Pennsylvania Press, 2008.
- Sageman, Marc. Understanding Terror Networks. Philadelphia, PA: University of Pennsylvania Press, 2004.
- Saghaye-Biria, Hakimeh. 'American Muslims as Radicals? A Critical Discourse Analysis of the US Congressional Hearing on "The Extent of Radicalization in the American Muslim Community and that Community's Response"'. Discourse & Society 23, no. 5 (2012): 508–24.
- Said, Edward W. Orientalism: Western Conceptions of the Orient. London: Penguin, 1995 [1978].
- Salazar, Noel. 'Imagining Mobility at the "End of the World"'. History and Anthropology, 24, no. 2 (2013): 233–52.
- Salazar, Noel. 'Key Figures of Mobility: An Introduction'. Social Anthropology 25, no. 1 (2017): 5–12.
- Saltman, Erin Marie, and Melanie Smith. Till Martyrdom Do Us Part: Gender and the ISIS Phenomenon. London: Institute for Strategic Dialogue, 2015.
- Saltzburg, Stephen A. 'Privileges and Professionals: Lawyers and Psychiatrists'. Virginia Law Review 66, no. 3 (1980): 597–651.
- Sayyid, Bobby S. A Fundamental Fear: Eurocentrism and the Emergence of Islamism. London: Zed Books, 1997.
- Schiffauer, Werner. 'Vom Exil-zum Diaspora-Islam: Muslimische Identitäten in Europa'. Soziale Welt 55, no. 4 (2004): 347–68.
- Schiffauer, Werner. 'Vor Dem Gesetz: Der staatliche umgang mit dem legalistischen Islamismus'. In Subjektbildung: Interdisziplinäre Analysen Der Migrationsgesellschaft, edited by Paul Mecheril. Bielefeld: transcript Verlag, 2014.
- Schinkel, Willem. Denken in een Tijd van Sociale Hypochondrie: Aanzet tot een Theorie Voorbij de Maatschappij. Kampen: Klement, 2007.
- Schinkel, Willem, and Marguerite van den Berg. 'Polariserend en moraliserend: Burgerschap in de inburgering'. In Polarisatie: Essays Over Oorzaken en Gevolgen van Verscherpte Tegenstellingen, edited by Raad voor Maatschappelijke Ontwikkeling. Amsterdam: BV Uitgeverij SWP, 2009.
- Schmid, Alex P. 'Radicalisation, De-Radicalisation, Counter-Radicalisation: A Conceptual Discussion and Literature Review'. International Centre for Counter-Terrorism. The Hague: ICCT, 2013.
- Schöck, Cornelia. 'Belief and Unbelief in Classical Sunni Theology'. In Encyclopaedia of Islam, THREE, edited by K. Fleet, G. Krämer, D. Matringe, J. Nawas and E. Rowson. Brill Online, 2007.
- Scholten, Peter. Framing Immigrant Integration: Dutch Research-Policy Dialogues in Comparative Perspective. Amsterdam: Amsterdam University Press, 2011.
- Sedgwick, Mark. 'The Concept of Radicalization as a Source of Confusion'. Terrorism and Political Violence 22, no. 4 (2010): 479–94.
- Seligman, Adam B. The Problem of Trust. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1997.
- Sharma, Aradhana, and Akhil Gupta, eds., The Anthropology of the State: A Reader. Malden, MA, and Oxford: Blackwell, 2006.
- Sharma, Sanjay, and Jasbinder Nijjar. 'The Racialized Surveillant Assemblage: Islam and the Fear of Terrorism'. Popular Communication 16, no. 1 (2018): 72–85.
- Shearing, Clifford. 'Punishment and the Changing Face of the Governance'. Punishment & Society 3, no. 2 (2001): 203–20.

- Shepard, Todd. The Invention of Decolonization: The Algerian War and the Remaking of France, 2nd edn. Ithaca, NY, and London: Cornell University Press, 2008.
- Siebers, Hans. 'The Impact of Migrant-Hostile Discourse in the Media and Politics on Racioethnic Closure in Career Development in the Netherlands'. International Sociology 25, no. 4 (2010): 475–500.
- Silke, Andrew, and Katherine Brown. "Radicalisation": The Transformation of Modern Understanding of Terrorist Origins, Psychology and Motivation'. In State, Society, and National Security: Challenges and Opportunities in the 21st Century, edited by Shashi Jayakumar, 129–50. Singapore: World Scientific Publishing, 2016.
- Silverstein, Paul A. Algeria in France. Bloomington, IN: Indiana University Press, 2004.
- Silverstein, Paul A. 'The New Barbarians: Piracy and Terrorism on the North African Frontier'. CR: The New Centennial Review 5, no. 1 (2005): 179–212.
- Simmel, Georg. The Philosophy of Money. London: Routledge, 1990.
- Simmel, Georg. 'The Stranger'. In Georg Simmel on Individuality and Social Forms, edited by M. Janowitz. Chicago, IL: University of Chicago Press, 1972 [1908].
- Simon, Jonathan. 'Choosing Our Wars, Transforming Governance: Crime, Cancer, Terror'. In Risk and the War on Terror, edited by Louise Amoore and Marieke de Goede. London: Routledge, 2008.
- Slootman, Marieke, and Jean Tillie. 'Processen van radicalisering: Waarom sommige Amsterdamse moslims radicaal worden'. Instituut voor Migratie- en Etnische Studies. Amsterdam: IMES, 2006.
- Snouck Hurgronje, Christiaan. Nederland en de Islâm: Vier voordrachten, gehouden in de Nederlandsch-Indische Bestuursacademie. Leiden: E. J. Brill, 1911.
- Soja, Edward. Seeking Spatial Justice. Minneapolis, MN, and London: University of Minnesota Press, 2010.
- Somers, Bart, Bart De Wever, Hans Bonte and Jan Creemers. Beheersen van Moslimradicalisering: Handreiking voor Beleid en Praktijk. Mechelen, Antwerp, Vilvoorde and Maaseik, 2013.
- Spalek, Basia. 'Community Policing, Trust, and Muslim Communities in Relation to "New Terrorism"'. Politics & Policy 38, no. 4 (2010): 789–815.
- Spalek, Basia, and Laura Zahra McDonald. 'Terrorism and Counterterrorism: Spotlight on Strategies and Approaches'. Arches Quarterly 5, no. 9 (2012): 20–28.
- Spalek, Basia, and Robert Lambert. 'Muslim Communities, Counter-Terrorism and Counter-Radicalisation: A Critically Reflective Approach to Engagement'. International Journal of Law, Crime and Justice 36, no. 4 (2008): 257–70.
- Spengler, Oswald. The Decline of the West. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1991 [1918].
- Spivak, Gayatri. 'Can the Subaltern Speak?' In Marxism and the Interpretation of Culture, edited by C. Nelson and L. Grossberg, 271–313. Urbana, IL: University of Illinois Press, 1988.
- Sprinzak, Ehud. 'The Process of Delegitimation: Towards a Linkage Theory of Political Terrorism'. Terrorism and Political Violence 3, no. 1 (1991): 50–68.
- Spruyt, Mark. Wat het Vlaams Blok verzwijgt. Leuven: Van Halewyck, 2000.
- Stampnitzky, Lisa. 'Disciplining an Unruly Field: Terrorism Experts and Theories of Scientific/Intellectual Production'. Qualitative Sociology 34, no. 1 (2010): 1–19.
- Stampnitzky, Lisa. Disciplining Terror: How Experts Invented 'Terrorism'. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2013.
- Stampnitzky, Lisa. 'Experts, États et théories des champs: Sociologie de l'expertise en matière de terrorisme'. Critique Internationale 59, no. 2 (2013): 89–104.

- Stephens, Sharon, ed., Children and the Politics of Culture. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1995.
- Stern, Jessica. Terror in the Name of God: Why Religious Militants Kill. New York: Harper Collins, 2004.
- Sunier, Thijs. 'Domesticating Islam: Exploring Academic Knowledge Production on Islam and Muslims in European Societies'. Ethnic and Racial Studies 37, no. 6 (2014): 1138–55.
- Sztompka, Piotr. Trust: A Sociological Theory. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2000.
- Taguieff, Pierre-André. 'The New Cultural Racism in France'. Telos 83 (1990): 109–22.
- Tebble, Adam James. 'Exclusion for Democracy'. Political Theory 34, no. 4 (2006): 463–87.
- Thomas, Paul. 'Divorced but Still Co-Habiting? Britain's Prevent/Community Cohesion Policy Tension'. British Politics 9, no. 4 (2014): 472–93.
- Thomas, Paul. Responding to the Threat of Violent Extremism: Failing to Prevent. London: Bloomsbury Academic, 2012.
- Tilly, Charles. 'Review of Why Men Rebel by Ted Robert Gurr'. Journal of Social History 4, no. 4 (1971): 416–20.
- Traverso, Enzo. The End of Jewish Modernity. London: Pluto Press, 2016.
- Travisano, Richard. 'Alternation and Conversion as Qualitatively Different Transformations'. In Social Psychology through Symbolic Interaction, edited by Gregory Stone and Harvey Faberman. Waltham, MA: Ginn-Blaisdell, 1970.
- Trouillot, Michel-Rolph. 'The Anthropology of the State in the Age of Globalization: Close Encounters of the Deceptive Kind'. Current Anthropology 42, no. 1 (2001): 125–38.
- Tsoukala, Anastassia. 'Security, Risk and Human Rights: A Vanishing Relationship?' CEPS Special Report. Brussels: CEPS, 2008.
- Uitermark, Justus. 'Integration and Control: The Governing of Urban Marginality in Western Europe'. International Journal of Urban and Regional Research 38, no. 4 (2014): 1418–36.
- van den Berg, Marguerite, and Willem Schinkel. "'Women from the Catacombs of the City": Gender Notions in Dutch Culturist Discourse'. Innovation: The European Journal of Social Science Research 22, no. 4 (2009): 393–410.
- Van der Woude, Maartje. 'Brede benadering terrorismebestrijding'. Openbaar Bestuur 11, no. 19 (2009): 2–5.
- Van der Woude, Maartje. 'De erfenis van tien jaar strafrechtelijke terrorismebestrijding in Nederland'. Strafblad 10, no. 1 (2012): 9–18.
- Van der Woude, Maartje. 'Dutch Counterterrorism: An Exceptional Body of Legislation or Just an Inevitable Product of the Culture of Control?' In The State of Exception and Militant Democracy in a Time of Terror, edited by A. Ellian and G. Molier, 69–95. Dordrecht: Republic of Letters Publishing, 2012.
- Van der Woude, Maartje. Wetgeving in een veiligheidscultuur: Totstandkoming van antiterrorismewetgeving in Nederland gezien vanuit maatschappelijke en (rechts) politieke context. Den Haag: Boom Juridische Uitgevers, 2010.
- van Ewijk, Edith. 'Between Local Governments and Communities: Knowledge Exchange and Mutual Learning in Dutch-Moroccan and Dutch-Turkish Municipal Partnership'. PhD diss., University of Amsterdam, 2013.
- Van Gemert, Frank. 'Radicaliseren de criminele Marokkaanse jongeren van weleer? Sociaalecontroletheorie toegepast op twee case studies'. Proces 2 (2006): 44–52.
- Van Ginderachter, Maarten. 'Trou de mémoire: De droom van Groot-Nederland'. In Het geheugen van de Lage Landen, edited by Jo Tollebeek and Henk te Velde. Rekkem: Ons Erfdeel, 2009.

- Van Ginkel, Bibi. 'Prosecuting Foreign Terrorist Fighters: What Role for the Military?' ICCT Policy Brief. The Hague: ICCT, 2016.
- Van Ginkel, Bibi, and Simon Minks. 'Addressing the Challenge of Returnees: Threat Perceptions, Policies, and Practices in the Netherlands'. In 'Returnees: Who Are They, Why Are They (Not) Coming Back and How Should We Deal with Them? Assessing Policies on Returning Foreign Terrorist Fighters in Belgium, Germany and the Netherlands'. Egmont Papers 101, February (2018): 55–70.
- Van Hear, Nicholas. 'Reconsidering Migration and Class'. International Migration Review 48, S1 (2014): S100–S121.
- van Hoesel, P. H. M., F. L. Leeuw and J. Mevissen. Beleidsonderzoek in Nederland: Kennis Voor Beleid; Ontwikkeling van Een Professie. Assen: Van Gorcum, 2005.
- van Leeuwen, Marianne. Confronting Terrorism: European Experiences, Threat Perceptions and Policies. The Hague: Kluwer Law International, 2003.
- Van San, Marion. 'Onze kinderen zijn geen terroristen': families van Belgische en Nederlandse Syriëgangers over het vertrek van hun geliefden'. Tijdschrift voor Criminologie 57, no. 3 (2015): 300–14.
- Van San, Marion, Stijn Sieckelink and Micha de Winter. Idealen op drift: Een pedagogische kijk op radicaliserende jongeren. Den Haag: Boom, 2010.
- Van San, Marion. 'Striving in the Way of God: Justifying Jihad by Young Belgian and Dutch Muslims'. Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 38, no. 5 (2015): 328–42.
- Vasta, Ellie. 'From Ethnic Minorities to Ethnic Majority Policy: Multiculturalism and the Shift to Assimilationism in the Netherlands'. Ethnic and Racial Studies 30, no. 5 (2007): 713–40.
- Veldhuis, Tinka M. Prisoner Radicalization and Terrorism Detention Policy: Institutionalized Fear or Evidence-Based Policy Making? London: Routledge, 2016.
- Veldhuis, Tinka, and Edwin Bakker. 'Causale factoren van radicalisering en hun onderlinge samenhang'. Vrede en Veiligheid 36, no. 4 (2007): 447–70.
- Veldhuis, Tinka, and Siegwart Lindenberg. 'Limits of Tolerance under Pressure: A Case Study of Dutch Terrorist Detention Policy'. Critical Studies on Terrorism 5, no. 3 (2012): 425–43.
- Vermeulen, Floris. 'Suspect Communities—Targeting Violent Extremism at the Local Level: Policies of Engagement in Amsterdam, Berlin, and London'. Terrorism and Political Violence 26, no. 2 (2014): 286–306.
- Vermeulen, Floris, and Frank Bovenkerk. Engaging with Violent Islamic Extremism: Local Policies in Western European Cities. The Hague: Eleven International Publishing, 2012.
- Verskin, Alan. Islamic Law and the Crisis of the Reconquista: The Debate on the Status of Muslim Communities in Christendom. Leiden and Boston, MA: Brill, 2015.
- Visser, Marian, and Jeroen Slot. Extremisme en Radicalisering in het Amsterdamse Voortgezet Onderwijs. Amsterdam: Gemeente, 2005.
- Viswanathan, Gauri. Outside the Fold: Conversion, Modernity and Belief. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1998.
- Vliegthart, Rens. Framing Immigration and Integration: Facts, Parliament, Media and Anti-Immigrant Party Support in the Netherlands. Amsterdam: Vrije Universiteit, 2007.
- Vroon, Vanessa E. Sisters in Islam: Women's Conversion and the Politics of Belonging: A Dutch Case Study. PhD diss., University of Amsterdam, 2014.
- Wæver, Ole. 'Securitization and Desecuritization'. In On Security, edited by Ronnie D. Lipschutz, 46–87. New York and Chichester: Columbia University Press, 1995.
- Warren, Mark. Democracy and Association. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 2001.

- Weber, Linda R., and Allison I. Carter. The Social Construction of Trust. New York: Kluwer/Plenum, 2003.
- Weber, Max. Economy and Society: An Outline of Interpretive Sociology. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 1978 [1922].
- Weggemans, Daan, and Beatrice de Graaf. Na de vrijlating: Een exploratieve studie naar recidive en re-integratie van jihadistische ex-gedetineerden. Amsterdam: Reed Business, 2015.
- Weggemans, Daan, Edwin Bakker and Peter Grol. 'Who Are They and Why Do They Go? The Radicalization and Preparatory Processes of Dutch Jihadist Foreign Fighters.' Perspectives on Terrorism 8, no. 4 (2014): 100–110.
- Weggemans, Daan, Ruud Peters, Edwin Bakker and Roel de Bont. Destination Syria: An Exploratory Study into the Daily Lives of Dutch 'Syria Travellers'. Leiden: Leiden University, Institute of Security and Global Affairs, 2016.
- Weil, Patrick. 'Le statut des musulmans en Algérie coloniale: Une nationalité française dénature.' EUI Working Papers HEC 3 (2003): 1–15.
- Weimann, Gabriel. 'The Theater of Terror: Effects of Press Coverage.' Journal of Communication 33, no. 1 (1983): 38–45.
- Werner, Wouter. 'The Use of Law in International Political Sociology.' International Political Sociology 4, no. 3 (2010): 304–7.
- Whitaker, Reg. 'A Faustian Bargain? America and the Dream of Total Information Awareness.' In The New Politics of Surveillance and Visibility, edited by Kevin D. Haggerty and Richard V. Ericson, 141–70. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2006.
- Whyte, Zachary. 'Enter the Myopticon: Uncertain Surveillance in the Danish Asylum System.' Anthropology Today 27, no. 3 (2011): 18–21.
- Wijsen, Frans. 'Indonesian Muslim or World Citizen? Religious Identity in the Dutch Integration Discourse.' In Making Religion: Theory and Practice in the Discursive Study of Religion, edited by Frans Wijsen and Kocku von Stuckrad. Leiden and Boston, MA: Brill, 2016.
- Wiktorowicz, Quintan. 'Anatomy of the Salafi Movement.' Studies in Conflict & Terrorism 29, no. 3 (2006): 207–39.
- Wimmer, Andreas, and Nina Glick-Schiller. 'Methodological Nationalism, the Social Sciences, and the Study of Migration: An Essay in Historical Epistemology.' The International Migration Review 37, no. 3 (2003): 576–610.
- Wolf, Eric. Pathways of Power: Building an Anthropology of the Modern World. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 2001.
- Wood, David Murakami, and Steve Wright. 'Before and After Snowden.' Surveillance and Society 13, no. 2 (2015): 132–38.
- Wright, J. 'Priestly Silence: A Study of the Ministerial Experience of Confidentiality'. PhD diss., Princeton University, 2000.
- Yancy, George. Black Bodies, White Gazes: The Continuing Significance of Race. Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield, 2008.
- Yanow, Dvora, and Marleen van der Haar. 'People Out of Place: Allochthony and Autochthony in the Netherlands' Identity Discourse—Metaphors and Categories in Action.' Journal of International Relations and Development 16, no. 2 (2013): 227–61.
- Ye'or, Bat. Islam and Dhimmitude: Where Civilizations Collide. Madison, NJ: Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, 2001.
- Young, Kate, Carol Wolkowitz and Roslyn McCullagh. Of Marriage and the Market: Women's Subordination in International Perspective. London: CSE Books, 1981.
- Young, Robert. White Mythologies. New York: Routledge, 2004 [1991].

- Yuval-Davis, Nira. Gender and Nation. London: Sage, 1997.
- Zakaria, Rafia. 'Women and Islamic Militancy'. Dissent 62, no. 1 (2015): 118–25.
- Zedner, Lucia. 'Citizenship Deprivation, Security and Human Rights'. European Journal of Migration and Law 18, no. 2 (2016): 222–42.
- Zedner, Lucia. 'Pre-Crime and Post-Criminology?' Theoretical Criminology 11, no. 2 (2007): 261–81.
- Zemni, Sami. 'The Shaping of Islam and Islamophobia in Belgium'. Race & Class 53, no. 1 (2011): 28–44.
- Zieleniec, Andrzej. Space and Social Theory. London: Sage, 2008.
- Zizek, Slavoj. 'Tolerance as an Ideological Category'. Critical Inquiry 34, no. 4 (2008): 660–82.