

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

Young adult homeownership pathways and intergenerational support

Homes, meanings and practices

Druță, O.

Publication date

2017

Document Version

Other version

License

Other

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Druță, O. (2017). Young adult homeownership pathways and intergenerational support: Homes, meanings and practices.

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

Related work on postsocialist capitalism

Title: Zombie socialism and the Rise of Neoliberalism in Postsocialist Central and Eastern Europe

Authors: Liviu Chelcea (University of Bucharest), Oana Druță (University of Amsterdam)

Status: Accepted for publication in Eurasian Geography and Economics, special issue The Post-Socialist City and Urban Theory.

By highlighting macro political and economic dimensions of postsocialist capitalism in a comparative perspective, the article provides a contextual base for the discussion of the role of families in the chapter included in this dissertation. The article focuses on the discourses of neo-liberalization in Central and Eastern European countries that have sustained a particularly harsh version of neoliberal capitalism in these countries. The example of housing is used to evidence the retreat of the state from different social policy domains, and how this retreat has been discursively supported by anti-socialist rhetoric.

Related work on European familialism

Title: Supported Home Ownership and Adult Independence in Milan: The Gilded Cage of Family Housing Gifts and Transfers

Authors: Lidia Manzo (Politecnico di Milano/ Maynooth University, Dublin), Oana Druță (University of Amsterdam), Richard Ronald (University of Amsterdam/ University of Birmingham)

Status: Submitted for review to an international peer reviewed journal

This article develops further a comparative understanding of familialism, by analyzing the housing pathways of young Italian adults, and the understandings of intergenerational support that underscore pathways into homeownership in a Southern European familialist context. The article considers in greater detail the conflicts between generations that intergenerational interdependence gives rise to.