The command responsibility doctrine in international criminal law and its applicability to civilian superiors
Nybondas, M.L.

Citation for published version (APA):
Nybondas-Maarschalkerweerd, M. L. (2009). The command responsibility doctrine in international criminal law and its applicability to civilian superiors
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The initial thought of writing a doctoral dissertation was introduced to me by Mr. Morten Bergsmo. Now that the project is near its end, I would like to express my gratitude to him for that and for his support over the years.

A part of the research was done when I was working at the T.M.C. Asser Institute. For the last two years, I have received the Hijmansbeurs, a scholarship for which I would like to thank the University of Amsterdam. I thank the T.M.C. Asser Institute for facilitating this project during that period and for taking care of the printing of this edition of the book. I would also like to thank Asser Press for agreeing to publish my book.

A number of people have, in different ways, contributed to my work on this book. I would like to mention and thank my former colleague and room-mate at the Asser Institute, Mr. Bert Barnhoorn, whom I have most frequently consulted on issues of public international law, office politics and life in general. I also thank my former colleague Ms. Sasha Radin for her comments on parts of my thesis and for her friendship. Mr. Bart-Jan van het Kaar and Ms. Karolien Pieters share my dissertation experience and have always kept their doors open for me. Thank you.

I would like to express my gratitude to Mr. Dick Blom, who cycled endless kilometres during the last few years in order to provide me with the books I needed. I am also very grateful for all the comments and the friendly advice I have received from the editor, Mr. Hans Thijssen.

I would like to thank Major General (ret) Cammaert and Colonel Van Harskamp for their willingness to contribute to this project, as well as the members of the Doctorate Commission, Professor Stolwijk, Professor Swart, Professor Van Sliedregt and Dr. Mettraux. I am particularly indebted to Professor Harmen van der Wilt and Professor Terry Gill. Mijn geachte promotoren: Thank you! Harmen, I admire your knowledge and your way of thinking. I thank you for always pointing me in the right direction and for giving me all the reasons to always trust your judgement. Terry, I appreciate all your support and the discussions we have had, not least the hypothetical and other examples of cases involving WWII bridges and American Secretaries. As you pointed out to me, we have known each other for more than a decade now, which is as special as it sounds.

I would like to express my gratitude to Ms. Chiseche Mibenge and Ms. Simone Eysink, both of whom I admire for their social intelligence, their realistic approach to life and their belief in possibilities rather than restrictions. Thank you for accepting this most demanding task of being my paranymphs.

I am thankful to my parents, who gave me a solid basis and always believe in me. I would also like to thank the rest of my family for their help and support.

I dedicate this book to Jeroen and Madeleine. From the first thought to the last letter, Jeroen was and is there for me. Madeleine, who entered into my life four years ago, has shown me that things have to be put into perspective and to be given the right priority, and that by taking a day by day approach to things instead of focusing on a distant goal, there is so much to enjoy along the way.

Voorburg, 19 October 2009

Maria Nybondas-Maarschalkerweerd