CONTENT

PREFACE

PART I: UNDERSTANDING RATIONAL BEHAVIOR

INTRODUCTION

CHAPTER I: RATIONAL CHOICE
1. Introduction
2. Rational choice theory: an outline
3. Utility, preference and welfare
4. Rationality and self-interest
5. “Das Adam Smith’s Problem”
6. Conclusions

CHAPTER II: INTENTIONAL ACTION AND SITUATIONAL LOGIC
1. Introduction
2. Internalist and externalist explanations of human action
3. Rational choice explanations and ‘folk psychology’
4. The failure of belief-desire explanations
5. Folk psychology and unobservables
6. The model of situational analysis
7. Intentional actions and situational logic
8. Conclusion

CHAPTER III: RISKY CHOICE
1. Introduction
2. Choice and risk
3. Choices and chances
4. Paradoxical choices
5. Expected utility theory: an evaluation
6. Non-expected utility theories
7. Conclusion
CHAPTER IV: STRATEGIC CHOICE

1. Introduction: game theory  97
2. How to play games  99
3. Which games to play  101
4. Solutions to games  104
5. Game theory: some conclusions  113

CHAPTER V: INDETERMINATE RANKINGS

1. Introduction  121
2. Indeterminate rankings  122
3. Aspect-orderings and meta-ranking  127
4. Conclusion  131

CHAPTER VI: SOCIAL CHOICE

1. Introduction  133
2. From welfare economics to social choice  135
3. Some aspects of utilitarian ethics  137
4. The utilitarian welfare function  139
5. The Paretian welfare function  142
6. Rights and liberties  147
7. Conclusions  150

PART II : THE UNINTENDED CONSEQUENCES OF HUMAN ACTIONS

INTRODUCTION  155

CHAPTER VII: THE INVISIBLE HAND

1. Introduction  161
2. Invisible hand explanations  164
3. Conclusion  168

CHAPTER VIII: THE MICROFOUNDATION DEBATE

1. Introduction  171
2. Two micro-macro relations  173
3. The transformation of economic science  180
4. The microfoundations of equilibrium theory  185
5. Game theory to the rescue?  188
6. General equilibrium theory as political theory 188
7. The supervenience relation 189
8. Supervenience and explanation 192
9. Conclusion 194

CHAPTER IX: MICRO-INSTITUTIONAL THEORIES

1. Introduction 197
2. Transaction costs and externalities 199
3. The property right school 206
4. Transaction costs theory 209
5. Firms and markets 214
6. Selection and design 216
7. The neo-institutional theory 220
8. The new institutional theory 222
9. Conclusions 225

CHAPTER X: INSTITUTIONS AND ACTIONS

1. Introduction 231
2. Institutional individualism 232
3. Definition and functions of institutions 236
4. Constitutive and regulative rules 239
5. A bargaining approach of institutions 240
6. Social rules and rational action 243
7. Conclusion 246

CHAPTER XI: TRANSCENDENTAL REALISM

1. Introduction 249
2. Transcendental realism 251
3. Critical realism 256
4. Transcendental realism versus empirical realism 260
5. Conclusion 266

CHAPTER XII: STRUCTURATION THEORY

1. Introduction 269
2. Two sociologies 270
3. Giddens’ structuration theory 273
4. The duality of action and structure 278
5. Comments on Giddens’ structuration theory 282
6. Structuration theory and empirical research 285
7. Conclusion 286
CHAPTER XIII: HUMAN AGENCY AND SOCIAL STRUCTURE

1. Introduction 291
2. Concepts of structures 292
3. Dualism and dualities 297
4. Emergent properties and reconstitutive downward causation 301
5. Conclusion 305

CHAPTER XIV: RATIONAL CHOICE THEORY: AN INSTITUTIONAL APPROACH

1. Introduction 309
2. The great transformation 310
3. Personal and social choice: a different approach 313
4. The dynamics of institutional individualism 317
5. Conclusion 320

PART III : HOW TO CHOOSE

INTRODUCTION 325

CHAPTER XV: THE AUTHORITY OF MORAL NORMS

1. Introduction 329
2. Philosophy and science 331
3. Moral skepticism 333
4. Moral objectivism 336
5. Moral imperatives 339
6. Conclusion 345

CHAPTER XVI: A PROPER CHOICE

1. Introduction 349
2. The value of preferences 351
3. Valuations and the naturalistic fallacy 356
4. Symbolic utility 362
5. Conclusion 366
CHAPTER XVII: ARE JUSTIFYING REASONS MOTIVATING?
1. Introduction 369
2. Internal and external reasons 371
3. The subjective motivational set 376
4. Motivated desires and motivating reasons 378
5. Counter-preferential choice 383
6. Conclusion 388

CHAPTER XVIII: IS THERE SUCH A THING LIKE A MORAL PREFERENCE?
1. Introduction 391
2. Conflicting values and multiple rankings 392
3. Intentions and consequences 395
4. Utilitarian consequentialism and moral considerations 398
5. A moral preference as a meta-preference 403
6. Conclusion 406

CHAPTER XIX: COMMITMENT
1. Introduction 409
2. Inclusive and exclusive accounts of well-being 410
3. Other-goal choice and identity 413
4. Other-goal choice and integrity 418
5. Consequential evaluation and responsible choice 420
6. Conclusion 423

CHAPTER XX: RATIONAL AND MORAL ACTION
1. Introduction 425
2. The autonomous agent 427
3. Collective intentions 428
4. Justified choices 432
5. Conclusion: a non-instrumental theory of rational choice 436
PART IV: WELL-BEING AND DISTRIBUTIVE JUSTICE

INTRODUCTION 441

CHAPTER XXI: SOCIAL WELFARE AND EQUAL CONCERN
1. Introduction 447
2. Harsanyi’s social welfare function 448
3. Extended preferences 452
4. The impartial observer theorem 455
5. The problem of inequality 460
6. Harsanyi and his critics 465
7. Conclusion 470

CHAPTER XXII: FAIRNESS AND PRIMARY GOODS
1. Introduction 473
2. Kantian constructivism 475
3. The original position 477
4. Justice as fairness 480
5. The problem of stability 484
6. Rawls and his critics 486
7. Rawls and utilitarianism 492
8. Conclusion 499

CHAPTER XXIII: MUTUAL ADVANTAGE
1. Introduction: morals by agreement 503
2. Hobbesian contractualism 507
3. The initial bargaining position 508
4. The market as a morally free zone 511
5. Bargaining and justice 513
6. Constrained maximization 516
7. Gauthier and his critics 519
8. The Archimedean point 525
9. Conclusion 529