Acknowledgements

My first thanks goes out to the foundation that funded my PhD research, the Stichting Agnosticisme and Meritocratie. I thank Peter Visser, Bart de Haas and Caroline Huyskes for the trust placed in me, for following my explorations into the concept of meritocracy with interest and restraint during memorable dinners, and for allowing me to follow my own path in this journey. A particular debt of gratitude is owed to my supervisors, Meindert Fennema and Marcel Maussen, for inspiring and guiding me with critical views along this path. I also owe much thanks to my interviewees. Their willingness to invest often more time requested helped me to come to grips with the contextual and historically embedded nature of flood management practices in the Netherlands and the United States. In particular, I thank Eric-Jan Kijkuit for his active support in setting up the Dutch interviews.

There are many others who directly or indirectly contributed to this dissertation. My university teachers Ton Dietz and Leo de Klerk encouraged me to continue working in academia after my studies, a choice I still enjoy every day. While I moved from the VU to the UvA to do my PhD research, several (ex-)colleagues generously provided feedback on my initial thoughts and writings. Dave Huitema, Joyeeta Gupta, Jeroen Aerts, Sander Meijerink, Dries Hegger and Maarten Wolsink, your welcoming attitude helped me to stay connected to the field of environmental science I temporarily left for my PhD. At a later stage, I found this connection in the research cluster 'Science, values and environmental governance'. Watched over by Eleftheria Vasileiadou, the cluster meetings offered a rare combination of open scientific criticism and sincere collegial support. Eleftheria, Arthur, Sandra, Eva, Arjen, Pita, Johanna, Daniel, Mieke and Matthijs, thank you for taking me on board in this group. In a similar vein, I much value the conversations I had with Galen, Mehmet and Roos about the upsides and downsides of flood insurance.

When I think back to the VU/IVM, room A5.03 immediately comes to mind. In this room, I came across some of the best roommates a starting researcher can hope for. Jason, Youbaraj and Fritz, I am lucky to still count among my friends. Although we do not see each other very often, I still have fond memories of our intense collaboration with Eefje and Sylvia, and I am very grateful for our lasting friendship. I also much appreciate the enduring contacts with many of my other former colleagues. Eric, Ralph, Hans, Laurens, Harro, James, Wouter, Mairon, Margo, Pieter, Judith, Katrien, Robbert, Frank, Frans van der Woerd and Nicolien: our conversations encouraged me to follow in your footsteps and helped shape the foundation of this research. A special thanks goes out to Constanze, not only for many comforting talks but also for handing me the brilliant idea of daughter-cover-design. And, a big thank you to Stijn Brouwer for convincing me to apply at KWR, where I continue my career with my new team with much enthusiasm.

At the UvA, I found a warm welcome amidst the PhDs and postdocs working at the department of Political Sciences. Thank you Erika, Eelco, Eefje, Emily, Loes, Maria, Remko, Harmen, Lars, Marijn, Marc, Daphne, Elmar, Matthijs, Benno, Jesse, Sjoerdje, Joep, Nanke, Beste, Mariken and Thijs for bringing many laughs during (just as many) drinks. Also, am grateful to have been part of the theoretical reading club run by Marcel, Annelien and David, through which I got acquainted with some very inspirational historical and contemporary political thinkers. A special thanks to David Laws for his assistance in setting up the US interviews. Joyeeta, although you were not involved in my PhD research, I am very proud to have you in my reading committee. Thank you for your enduring support to hold my ground as a mother in academia.

I would like to direct a special word of thanks to my two great paranymphs, Erika van Elsas and Eefje Cuppen. Eefje and Erika, you were not only my first roommates at the VU and the UvA, but also two of my dearest colleagues. I count myself lucky to have you by my side during my defense and wish you and your families all the luck in the years to come.

I cannot express enough thanks to my friends and family, who I will address in Dutch. Alex, Rianne, Eva, Jonna, en Eefje, onze etentjes zijn een stortplaats waar we zelf het hardst om lachen. Wij zijn samen nog niet oud geworden en ik hoop dat we altijd blijven. Heleen, jouw positieve steun en oprechte interesse hebben mij veel nieuwe inzichten opgeleverd: dank voor alle praatsessies!

Ik had erg gehoopt dat mijn opa de verdediging van dit proefschrift kon meemaken. Mijn opa bracht een leven lang leren in de praktijk, een les die ik nooit zal vergeten. Rob and Ada, jullie zijn altijd de stabiele factor geweest waarop wij konden steunen en zijn dat, ondanks alles, nu nog. Bouke, jij tilde gastvrijheid naar een nieuw niveau. Mijn tweedaagse oppepbeurt in Sydney maakte de laatste loodjes van dit proefschrift draagbaar en ik hoop dat je ook in Amsterdam altijd jezelf blijft. Lieve Sarah, van klein zusje tot grote steun en toeverlaat, heb ik nog steeds het idee dat we alles samen doorstaan. Dank voor je grenzeloze steun, waar nu ook Rayen en Omar van mogen genieten. Marty, ik kan me geen betere moeder bedenken: eerlijk maar altijd betrokken en zorgzaam, en met een heerlijk relativeringsvermogen. Tijdens het schrijven van mijn proefschrift heb je veel van mijn crisismomenten opgevangen, nu kan ik je eindelijk vertellen waar mijn proefschrift over gaat...

Lieve Marc, namens mij verontwaardigd, voor mij boos, en des te blijer als ik iets heb bereikt. Je versterkt me en op die versterking heb ik dit proefschrift afgerond. Je hebt veel opgevangen de afgelopen jaren, ik hoop dat we de balans weer kunnen herstellen. Julia en Lena, bedankt voor de vele lieve tekeningen, briefjes en knuffels die mij door de laatste periode heen hebben gesleept. Ik bewonder jullie liefde en razendsnelle leervermogen. Ik ben blij dat dit proefschrift af is, maar zou tegelijkertijd de tijd willen stilzetten. Jullie verdere leven begint maar in de tussentijd gaan we veel leuke dingen doen, jullie mogen zeggen wat!
