Curriculum Vitae

İlkay Altıntaş was born on October 27, 1977 in Aydın, Turkey. She received a BS degree in 1999 and a MS degree in 200, both in Computer Engineering from Middle East Technical University in Turkey. İlkay Altıntaş is currently the Director for the Scientific Workflow Automation Technologies Lab at the San Diego Supercomputer Center, UCSD where she also is the Deputy Coordinator for Research. She works on different aspects of scientific workflows in collaboration with various cross-disciplinary NSF, DOE and Moore Foundation projects. She is a co-initiator of and an active contributor to the open-source Kepler Scientific Workflow System, and the co-author of publications related to eScience at the intersection of scientific workflows, provenance, distributed computing, bioinformatics, observatory systems, conceptual data querying, and software modeling. İlkay lives in San Diego with her husband, son and cat.

A WORD is dead
When it is said,
Some say.

I say it just
Begins to live
That day.
