  1.1 Structure of information ........................................... 3
  1.2 Dynamics ................................................................. 12
  1.3 A summary and a choice .............................................. 17
  1.4 Outline of the dissertation ......................................... 19

2 Truth-preserving inference and observation ..................... 23
  2.1 The Restaurant example .............................................. 23
  2.2 Modal truth-preserving inference .................................. 24
  2.3 Implicit and explicit information ................................... 30
  2.4 Inference ................................................................. 37
  2.5 Observation .............................................................. 47
  2.6 Back to the Restaurant ................................................ 50
  2.7 Remarks ................................................................. 52

3 The dynamics of awareness ........................................... 55
  3.1 Awareness Logic ....................................................... 55
  3.2 Other options for explicit information ............................ 57
  3.3 Operations on awareness models .................................... 60
  3.4 The actions in action ................................................... 62
  3.5 A complete dynamic logic ............................................ 63
  3.6 From single to multi-agent scenarios ............................... 69
  3.7 Remarks ................................................................. 76

4 Awareness, implicit and explicit knowledge ....................... 79
  4.1 Twelve Angry Men .................................................... 79
  4.2 Awareness, implicit and explicit information ...................... 81
  4.3 The static framework ................................................ 83
  4.4 Dynamics of information ............................................ 102
  4.5 Remarks ................................................................. 110
Table of Contents

5 Dynamics of implicit and explicit beliefs 113
5.1 Approaches for representing beliefs 114
5.2 Representing non-omniscient beliefs 117
5.3 Belief revision 124
5.4 Belief-based inference 130
5.5 An example in motion 143
5.6 Remarks 146

6 Connections with other forms of reasoning 151
6.1 Deductive reasoning 152
6.2 Default reasoning 152
6.3 Abductive reasoning 156
6.4 Belief bases in belief revision 160
6.5 Dealing with contradictions 162

7 Connections with other fields 165
7.1 Linguistics 165
7.2 Cognitive Science 172
7.3 Game Theory 176

8 Conclusions 179
8.1 Summary of the chapters 179
8.2 Further work 183
