

UvA-DARE (Digital Academic Repository)

The archaeology of Vlooienburg

Materiality and daily life in multicultural Amsterdam, 1600-1800

Stolk, M.

Publication date

2022

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Stolk, M. (2022). The archaeology of Vlooienburg: Materiality and daily life in multicultural Amsterdam, 1600-1800. [Thesis, fully internal, Universiteit van Amsterdam].

General rights

It is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), other than for strictly personal, individual use, unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

Disclaimer/Complaints regulations

If you believe that digital publication of certain material infringes any of your rights or (privacy) interests, please let the Library know, stating your reasons. In case of a legitimate complaint, the Library will make the material inaccessible and/or remove it from the website. Please Ask the Library: <https://uba.uva.nl/en/contact>, or a letter to: Library of the University of Amsterdam, Secretariat, Singel 425, 1012 WP Amsterdam, The Netherlands. You will be contacted as soon as possible.

the archaeology of

VLOOIENBURG

Materiality and Daily Life in Multicultural Amsterdam, 1600-1800

Marijn Stolk

Cover design: Marijn Stolk & Loes Opgenhaffen
Cover photos: Fragment of a cup from Coimbra, Portugal (top) and Dutch faience plate with Hebrew inscription (bottom). Photos by Ron Tousain, courtesy of Monuments and Archaeology, City of Amsterdam.

Printing: Gildeprint, Enschede.
ISBN: 978-94-6419-655-9

Copyright: © Marijn Stolk, Amsterdam 2022

All rights reserved. No part of this dissertation may be reprinted or reproduced or utilised in any form or by any electronic, mechanical, or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, without prior permission in writing from the author.

For this dissertation, the author has tried to identify all copyright holders of photographs and photos of art. Should you nevertheless come across photos of a work which you are the copyright owner and you have not given permission for a photo to be published, please contact the author.

The Archaeology of Vlooienburg
Materiality and Daily Life in Multicultural Amsterdam, 1600-1800

ACADEMISCH PROEFSCHRIFT

ter verkrijging van de graad van doctor aan de Universiteit van Amsterdam op gezag van de Rector Magnificus prof. dr. ir. P.P.C.C. Verbeek ten overstaan van een door het College voor Promoties ingestelde commissie, in het openbaar te verdedigen in de Aula der Universiteit op woensdag 21 december 2022, te 14.00 uur door Marijn Stolk

geboren te Hoorn

Promotiecommissie

Promotor: Prof. dr. J. Symonds University of Amsterdam

Copromotor: Dr. A.A.A. Verhoeven University of Amsterdam

Overige leden: Prof. Dr. W.M.H. Hupperetz University of Amsterdam
Prof. Dr. I.E. Zwiep University of Amsterdam
Prof. Dr. J.A.C. Vroom Leiden University
Dr. J.R. Hilditch University of Amsterdam
Dr. T.M. Casimiro NOVA University Lisbon

Faculteit der Geesteswetenschappen

The research for this doctoral thesis received financial assistance from the Dutch Research Council (NWO).

The publication of this doctoral thesis received financial assistance from Stichting Doumaleen and Stichting Nederlands Museum voor Anthropologie en Praehistorie (SNAMP).

Contents

Acknowledgements.....	xi
1. INTRODUCTION	1
1.1 Diaspora and Identity Project	1
1.2 Aims, Research Questions and Structure.....	2
Aims and Research Questions	2
Thesis Structure	4
1.3 Theoretical and Methodological Framework	6
Matters of Material Culture.....	6
Assemblage, Entanglement and Assemblage of Practice	8
Identity and Materiality on a Household Level.....	9
1.4 Methods.....	14
Cesspits as Sources of Study	14
Data Selection and Dataset.....	16
Ceramic Analysis and Database	20
2. VLOOIENBURG
History and Archaeology	23
2.1 The Vlooienburg Neighbourhood	24
A New District in de River Amstel	24
Vlooienburg's Inhabitants.....	28
2.2 The Excavation of Vlooienburg	30
2.3 The Archaeological Finds	33
An Overview of the Household Ceramics	33
Dutch Redwares.....	35
Dutch Majolica and Faience.....	40
Asian Porcelain.....	40
Other Wares.....	45
Between Trade and Tradition	47

Other Find Categories	48
Clay Pipes	48
Botanical Remains.....	49
Animal Remains	50
Textile Finds	51
2.4 Conclusion	52
3. CUSTOMS AND CULTURAL PRACTICE
Identifying Immigrant Identities at Vlooienburg.....	53
3.1 Introduction	53
Identifying Migrant Identities	54
3.2 Portuguese Pots, Plates and People	58
Portuguese Faience	59
Portuguese Fine and Coarse wares.....	66
Terminology Issues and Function Recognition	66
Fine Wares and Special Fabrics	72
Coarse wares	78
Discussion	82
3.3 Archaeological (in)Visibility: Small Migrants Communities	84
Search for Scandinavians	84
The small black community of Amsterdam	90
3.4 Conclusion	93
4. KOSHER SEALS AND A KIDDUSH CUP
Jewish Practice and Identity at Vlooienburg.....	97
4.1 Introduction	98
4.2 Jewish Heritage in Amsterdam	100
The Start of a Jewish Community in Amsterdam.....	100
Synagogues and Cemeteries	103
4.3 An Archaeological Study of Judaism in Amsterdam.....	108
The Study of Jewish Material Culture	108
The Jewish Piety of Pots and Plates	109

Separated Dishes at Vlooienburg	112
Hebrew Texts on Faience Plates	113
Six Pointed Stars on Faience Plates	115
Crockery Sets: Fashion or Religious Practice?	118
4.3.2 Meaningful metal finds	122
Shabbat Lamps and a Menorah Lamp	123
A Funeral Medal.....	126
A Gilded Kiddush Cup?	128
Kosher Seals and Food Habits.....	132
4.4 Conclusion: The (in)Visibility of Jewishness.....	137

5. RATTLES, TOYS AND MINIATURE ARTEFACTS

Children at Vlooienburg	141
5.1 Introduction	142
5.2 Rattles, Teats and Breast Glasses.....	143
5.3 Toys and Gaming Pieces.....	147
5.4 Miniature Artefacts.....	152
5.5 Conclusion	160

6. BÚCAROS AND BANDHANI

Mesoamerican Cups and an Indian Cloth at Vlooienburg.....	161
6.1 Introduction	162
New World Products and Consumer Preferences	162
New World Goods at Vlooienburg.....	165
6.2 Mesoamerican Ceramics from Vlooienburg	168
Púcaros, Búcaros and Bucarophagy.....	169
Búcaros de Indias at Vlooienburg	172
Mexican influences among Amsterdam’s ceramics.....	178
Discussion	183
6.3 Bandhani: An Indian cloth at Vlooienburg	185
6.3.1 Textiles at Vlooienburg	185
6.3.2 A bandhani cloth at Vlooienburg	189
6.3.3 Discussion	192
6.4 Conclusion	194

7. Conclusion	197
7.1 Materiality of Daily Life in Multicultural Amsterdam	198
Average Household Assemblages at Vlooienburg	198
Identifying Migrant Identities	199
From Household Waste to Hanukkah	201
Material Expressions of Identity	203
7.2 Methodological and Theoretical Remarks	204
Reassembling Material Assemblages.....	204
Considerations on Ceramic Analyses	205
7.3 Suggestions for Future Research	206
Material Driven Research	206
Demand Driven Research	206
 Summary	 208
Samenvatting	215
 List of Figures.....	 223
List of Tables.....	234
 Abbreviations	 235
Glossary.....	236
 Bibliography	 238
 Appendixes.....	 269
Appendix 1. Ceramic overviews per cesspit	270
Appendix 2. Portuguese faience in Amsterdam	327
Appendix 3. Dutch skippers at Portuguese harbours	328
Appendix 4. Portuguese faience in the Netherlands	332
Appendix 5. Portuguese fine and coarse wares in Amsterdam....	339
Appendix 6. Danish Jydepotter in Amsterdam	351

Acknowledgements

This dissertation is the result of PhD research, which – as a part of the NWO funded ‘Diaspora and Identity Project’ - was intended to focus on household goods, personal items and the materiality of everyday life in Vlooienburg, Amsterdam (1600-1800). It represents the study of the material remains of one of the first multi-ethnic districts of Amsterdam. Central to this research is the investigation of a significant amount of archaeological finds from the site of Vlooienburg which was excavated in the early 1980s by the archaeological services of the City of Amsterdam.

During my PhD research and the process of writing my dissertation, I have had help and support from many colleagues and friends who have been of great support in many ways and to whom I owe thanks. First and foremost I would like to thank my supervisors, James Symonds and Arno Verhoeven for their guidance and feedback throughout this project and for their trust in me to fulfil this research. Equivalently I would like to thank those who directly contributed to the Diaspora and Identity research - in alphabetical order - Jan Bakker, Hans Bonke, Jerzy Gawronski, Ranjith Jayasena, Henk van Haaster and Maarten Hell.

It goes without saying that this project would not have been possible without the immense efforts of the Bureau of Monuments and Archaeology (MenA) whose logistic achievements made it possible for me to access thousands of finds, a wealth of archaeological data, and GIS information. Therefore I would like to express my gratitude to - in alphabetical order - Jan Dirk Bindt, Arno van den Brand, Fred Draaijer, Ranjith Jayasena, Ronald Klein, Peter Kranendonk, Jort Maas, Thijs Terhorst, Ron Tousain, Jørgen Veerkamp, Bart Vissers, Eddie de Vlugt and Sander IJzerman. I would also want to thank all of the volunteers who supported the work of the City of Amsterdam and the ArcheoHotspot at the Allard Pierson Museum, and spent so much time and effort in reconstructing vessels from a multitude of sherds.

I owe much gratitude to Tania Casimiro of NOVA University Lisbon, who inspired me to invest time in investigating the Portuguese ceramics in Vlooienburg. I am likewise grateful to Jette Linaa of Aarhus University for her help with the study of ceramics of Danish origin. And I would like to thank Tirtsah Levie Bernfeld for her expertise regarding Portuguese and Jewish material culture and probate inventories. Thanks go out to Rob Snijders for kindly sharing his knowledge about Jewish Amsterdam and to Luc Megens of the Dutch Heritage Agency of the Netherlands for his time and effort to provide me with XRF-analysis of some of the ceramic finds. And a special thanks goes to Bianca du Mortier, Suzan Meijer, Martine Teunissen, Thea Teunissen, Mrinalini Luthra and Mandira Luthra for their enthusiasm and help with the identification and study of the textile finds. I also thank the members of the Medieval and Later Pottery Research Group on Facebook for their suggestions in the search for parallels of ceramic finds and I would like to thank the (former) ACASA students who have been involved in and contributed to the ceramic analysis (in alphabetical order) Louis Bruijn, Lotte van Hasselt, Stella Landskroon, Sofia Lovegrove, Morgan Schelvis and Kristijna Wilkens.

The Jewish Historical Museum played a significant role in offering specialist advice on many aspects of the research project and were of great importance in presenting the Diaspora and Identity project to a broader audience through the exhibition: “Waterlooplein – de buurt binnenstebuiten”. Special thanks for this go to Hetty Berg, Julie-Marthe Cohen, Kirsten van Kempen, Martine Stroo and Titia Zoeter as well as to their colleagues who contributed in the background. I also want to thank the local Amsterdam TV channel AT5 for their collaboration in the creation of a documentary about the Vlooienburg research project: “Vlooienburg, de geschiedenis van een Joodse wijk”, with special thanks to Mark Pier and Alexander Oey. I also would like to thank the Stichting Doumaleen and Stichting Nederlands Museum voor Anthropologie en Praehistorie (SNAMP) for their contribution to the printing costs of this dissertation.

Since good work rarely happens without the support of great company, I would very much like to thank my fellow PhD colleagues – who became friends - from the legendary room 3.14, where many laughs and tears were shared; (in alphabetical order) Susanne Borowski, Jelke Bosma, Nadica Denić Aniek van den Eersten, Caterina Fossi, Sal Hagen, Pamela Jordan, Anna Jørgensen, Suzanne Luger, Dieuwertje Luitse, Anna Meens,

Lindsay Morehouse, Eva Mos, Nour Munawar, Loes Opgenhaffen, Eva Sancho Rodriguez, Jori Snels, Koen Vacano and Anne Versloot. Likewise I would like to thank Martina Revello Lami of Leiden University and Caroline Jeffra of the University of Amsterdam for their support and advice.

Finally, I would like to express my gratitude to my parents for introducing me to archaeology and raising me with an inquiring mind. I am grateful that my family and friends supported me and believed in me throughout the process of research and writing. And as last, but most certainly not as least, I would like to thank my dearest husband Tijmen Moesker, for his endless love, help and support during this journey and of course my little daughter Lieke for being my ray of sunshine.